MESSAGE FROM THE SECRETARY OF STATE

The Honorable

The Legislature of the State of Washington
Olympia, Washington
Mr. President:

Section 1, of Senate Bill No. 6076, the remainder of which has been designated Chapter 203, Laws of 1989.

PARTIAL VETO MESSAGE ON SENATE BILL NO. 6076

May 3, 1989

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to section 1, Senate Bill No. 6076, entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to motorcycle public awareness."

Section 2 of this bill increases the examination and endorsement fees which fund the motorcycle safety education account. Section 3 contains an emergency clause making the increase effective immediately. Note the appropriation is not contained in this bill. I am supportive of this program and its intent to increase public safety for motorcyclists.

In 1983, a motorcycle safety education advisory committee was statutorily created to assist the Director of Licensing in the development of a motorcycle operator training program. In 1987, these statutes were revised to rename the committee as a board and to provide for selection criteria for members and a list of priorities for an education training program. The new board created in section 1 of this bill appears to be duplicative of the existing board and incompatible in a number of areas. If the legislature desires a different composition of members or a different size board, then future legislation could make these changes in the existing board or abolish the existing board and create a new board.

Mandating new boards and commissions should be done only after careful consideration of their need. I have instructed the Director of Licensing to ensure the intent of Senate Bill No. 6076 is carried out by the department.

With the exception of section 1, Senate Bill No. 6076 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,
BOOTH GARDNER, Governor

HOLD.

MOTION

On motion of Senator Newhouse, the rules were suspended and Senate Bill No. 6150 was advanced to second reading and placed on the second reading calendar.

SECOND READING

Senator Moore spoke to the confirmation of Thomas P. Keefe as a member of the Gambling Commission.

SECOND READING

SENATE BILL NO. 6150, by Senator Johnson

Changing dates for initial application of supplemental rates for pension systems.

The bill was read the second time.

MOTION

On motion of Senator Newhouse, the rules were suspended, Senate Bill No. 6150 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third and the bill was placed on final passage.

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Rasmussen: "Senator Johnson, you have on line 23, 'January 1, 1989,' making it retro-active?"

Senator Johnson: "No, that's when the new COLA's--Engrossed Substitute House Bill No. 1322--puts the COLA's into effect. So, this would line up Senate Bill No. 5418, the pension funding bill, with the COLA's bill."

Senator Rasmussen: "Thank you. You're sure you're right?"

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Smitherman: "Senator Johnson, in reading line 7, you have referenced to a rate established in Section 6 of this act, and I'm looking for a Section 6 of this act. Now, does that mean you are referring to another measure--Section 6? I'm trying to understand that."

Senator Johnson: "Will you state that again?"

Senator Smitherman: "As you begin reading the document, say if you began on line 6 and you read down to line 7 where it says, 'Employer contribution rates established in Section 6 of this act.' I'm wondering where Section 6 is. There's no Section 6 to this, so it obviously is referencing to something else. What is something else?"

Senator Johnson: "I do not know."

Senator Smitherman: "Could it be the bill that this is amending? Would it work that way? That's probably it. We'll assume it's to the bill that this is amending and that should clear it up."

Senator Johnson: "Good enough for me. Just vote 'yes.'"

The President declared the question before the Senate to be the roll call on the final passage of Senate Bill No. 6150.

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll on the final passage of Senate Bill No. 6150 and the bill passed the Senate by the following vote: Yeas, 40; absent, 1; excused, 8.

Voting yea: Senators Amondson, Anderson, Bailey, Barr, Bauer, Bender, Benitz, Bluechel, Cantu, Craswell, Hansen, Johnson, Kreidler, Lee, Madsen, Matson, McCaslin, Metcalf, Moore, Murray, Newhouse, Owen, Patterson, Pullen, Rasmussen, Rinehart, Saling, Sellar, Smith, Smitherman, Stratton, Sutherland, Talmadge, Thorsness, Vognild, von Reichbauer, Warnke, West, Williams, Wojahn - 40.

Absent: Senator Conner - 1.

Excused: Senators DeJarnatt, Fleming, Gaspard, Hayner, McDonald, McMullen, Nelson, Niemi - 8.

SENATE BILL NO. 6150, having received the constitutional majority, was declared passed. There being no objection, the title of the bill was ordered to stand as the title of the act.

MOTION

Senator Craswell moved that the following amendment by Senators Craswell and Bailey be adopted:

Strike everything after the enacting clause and insert the following:

NEW SECTION, Sec. 1. The legislature recognizes the importance of permanency and continuity to children and of fairness to parents in the provision of child welfare services.

The legislature intends to create a citizen review board system that will function in an advisory capacity to the judiciary, the department, and the legislature. The purpose of the citizen review board system is to:

(1) Provide periodic review of cases involving substitute care of children in a manner that complies with case review requirements and time lines imposed by federal laws pertaining to child welfare services;

(2) Improve the quality of case review provided to children in substitute care and their families; and

(3) Provide a means for community involvement in monitoring cases of children in substitute care.

In order to accomplish the foregoing purposes, the citizen review board system shall not be subject to the procedures and standards usually applicable to judicial and administrative hearings, except as otherwise specifically provided in this chapter and RCW 13.34.130, 13.34.145, and 26.44.115. Nothing in this chapter and RCW 13.34.130, 13.34.145, and 26.44.115 shall limit the ability of the department to utilize court review hearings and administrative reviews to meet the periodic review requirements imposed by federal law.

NEW SECTION, Sec. 2. Periodic case review of all children in substitute care shall be provided in at least one class 1 or higher county, in accordance with this act.

The administrator for the courts shall coordinate and assist in the administration of the local citizen review board pilot program created by this act.

NEW SECTION, Sec. 3. Unless the context requires otherwise, the definitions in this section apply throughout this chapter.

(6) "Department" means the department of social and health services.

(7) "Mature child" means a child who is able to understand and participate in the decision-making process without excessive anxiety or fear. A child twelve years old or over shall be rebuttably presumed to be a mature child.

(8) "Parent" or "parents" means the biological or adoptive parents of a child unless the legal rights of that person have been terminated by judicial proceedings.

(9) "Placement episode" means the period of time that begins with the date the child was removed from the home of the parent or legal custodian for the purposes of placement in substitute care and continues until the child returns home or an adoption decree or guardianship order is entered.

(10) "Records" means any information in written form, pictures, photographs, charts, graphs, recordings, or documents pertaining to a case.

(11) "Resides" or "residence," when used in reference to the residence of a child, means the place where the child is actually living and not the legal residence or domicile of the parent or guardian.

(12) "Substitute care" means an out-of-home placement of a child for purposes related to the provision of child welfare services in accordance with chapter 74.13 RCW where the child is in the care, custody, and control of the department pursuant to a proceeding under chapter 13.34 RCW or pursuant to the written consent of the child's parent or parents or custodian.

(a) State laws, policies, and practices affecting permanence and appropriate care for children in the custody of the department and other agencies;

(b) Whether the boards are effective in bringing about permanence and appropriate care for children in the custody of the department and other agencies; and

(c) Whether adequate resources are available to permit the department to make reasonable efforts to keep families together.

(9) Adopt rules regarding:

(3) No person who has had a child of his or her own, or one under his or her control, placed in substitute care within the last two years may serve on any board.

(4) All board members must be of good character and must demonstrate the understanding, ability, and judgment necessary to carry out the duties under this chapter.

(5) All board members shall serve a term of two years, except that if a vacancy occurs, a successor shall be appointed to serve the unexpired term. The terms of the initial members shall be staggered. Members shall be limited to two terms unless there are insufficient volunteers to replace them.

NEW SECTION, Sec. 11. (1) Whenever a member of a board has a potential conflict of interest in a case being reviewed, the member shall declare to the board the nature of the potential conflict prior to participating in the case review. The declaration of the member shall be recorded in the official records of the board and disclosed to all parties participating in the review. If, in the judgment of the majority of the local board, the potential conflict of interest may prevent the member from fairly and objectively reviewing the case, the board may remove the member from participation in the review.

(2) The board shall keep accurate records, including a verbatim record of board reviews, and retain these records.

(3) The board may hold joint or separate reviews for groups of siblings.

(5) Members of the board shall be held immune from suit and not be held liable in any civil action for recommendations made or activities performed under this chapter.

NEW SECTION, Sec. 12. (1) This section shall apply to cases where a child has been placed in substitute care pursuant to written parental consent and a dependency petition has not been filed under chapter 13.34 RCW. If a dependency petition is subsequently filed and the child's placement in substitute care continues pursuant to a court order entered in a proceeding under chapter 13.34 RCW, the provisions set forth in section 13 of this act shall apply.

(2) Within thirty days following commencement of the placement episode, the department shall send a copy of the written parental consent to the juvenile court with jurisdiction over the geographical area in which the child resides.

(3) Within forty-five days following commencement of the placement episode, the court shall assign the child's case to a board and forward to the board a copy of the written parental consent to placement.

(4) The board shall review the case plan for each child in substitute care whose case is assigned to the board by the court. The review shall take place at times set by the board. The first review shall occur within ninety days following commencement of the placement episode. The second review shall occur within six months following commencement of the placement episode. The next review shall occur within one year following commencement of the placement episode unless the child is no longer in substitute care or unless a guardianship order or adoption decree is entered.

(5) The board shall prepare written findings and recommendations with respect to:

(a) Whether reasonable efforts were made before the placement to prevent or eliminate the need for removal of the child from the home;

(b) Whether reasonable efforts have been made subsequent to the placement to make it possible for the child to be returned home;

(c) Whether the child has been placed in the least-restrictive setting appropriate to the child's needs, including whether consideration has been given to placement with the child's relatives;

(d) Whether there is a continuing need for and whether the placement is appropriate;

(e) Whether there has been compliance with the case plan;

(f) Whether progress has been made toward alleviating the need for placement;

(g) A likely date by which the child may be returned home or other permanent plan of care may be implemented; and

(h) Other problems, solutions, or alternatives the board determines should be explored.

(6) Within ten working days following the review, the board shall send a copy of its findings and recommendations to the child's parents and their attorneys, the child's custodians and their attorneys, mature children and their attorneys, and the department and other child placement agencies directly responsible for supervising the child's placement. If the child is an Indian as defined in the Indian child welfare act, 25 U.S.C. 1901 et seq., a copy of the board's findings and recommendations shall also be sent to the child's Indian tribe.

(7) If the department is unable or unwilling to implement the board recommendations, the department shall submit to the board, within ten working days after receipt of the findings and recommendations, an implementation report setting forth the reasons why the department is unable or unwilling to implement the board's recommendations. The report will also set forth the case plan which the department intends to implement.

(8) The court shall not review the findings and recommendations of the board in cases where the child has been placed in substitute care with signed parental consent unless a dependency petition has been filed and the child has been taken into custody under RCW 13.34.050.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 13. (1) This section shall apply to cases where a child has been placed in substitute care pursuant to a proceeding under chapter 13.34 RCW.

(2) Within forty-five days following commencement of the placement episode, the court shall assign the child's case to a board and forward to the board a copy of the dependency petition and any shelter care or dependency disposition orders which have been entered in the case by the court.

(3) The board shall review the case plan for each child whose case is assigned to the board by the court. The review shall take place at times set by the board. The first review shall occur within ninety days following commencement of the placement episode. The second review shall occur within six months following commencement of the placement episode. The next review shall occur within one year after commencement of the placement episode. Within eighteen months following commencement of the placement episode, a permanency planning hearing shall be held before the court in accordance with RCW 13.34.145. Thereafter, a board review or a court review hearing pursuant to RCW 13.34.130(4) shall take place at least once every six months until the child is no longer within the jurisdiction of the court or no longer in substitute care or until a guardianship order or adoption decree is entered. A court review hearing must occur at least once a year as provided in RCW 13.34.130. The board shall review any case where a petition to terminate parental rights has been denied, and such review shall occur as soon as practical but no later than forty-five days after the denial.

(4) The board shall prepare written findings and recommendations with respect to:

(a) Whether reasonable efforts were made before the placement to prevent or eliminate the need for removal of the child from the home, including whether consideration was given to removing the alleged offender, rather than the child, from the home;

(b) Whether reasonable efforts have been made subsequent to the placement to make it possible for the child to be returned home;

(c) Whether the child has been placed in the least-restrictive setting appropriate to the child's needs, including whether consideration has been given to placement with the child's relatives;

(d) Whether there is a continuing need for placement and whether the placement is appropriate;

(e) Whether there has been compliance with the case plan;

(f) Whether progress has been made toward alleviating the need for placement;

(g) A likely date by which the child may be returned home or other permanent plan of care may be implemented; and

(h) Other problems, solutions, or alternatives the board determines should be explored.

(5) Within ten working days following the review, the board shall send a copy of its findings and recommendations to the parents and their attorneys, the child's custodians and their attorneys, mature children and their attorneys, other attorneys or guardians ad litem appointed by the court to represent children, the department and other child placement agencies directly responsible for supervising the child's placement, and any prosecuting attorney or attorney general actively involved in the case. If the child is an Indian as defined in the Indian child welfare act, 25 U.S.C. Sec. 1901 et seq., a copy of the board's findings and recommendations shall also be sent to the child's Indian tribe.

(6) If the department is unable or unwilling to implement the board recommendations, the department shall submit to the board, within ten working days after receipt of the findings and recommendations, an implementation report setting forth the reasons why the department is unable or unwilling to implement the board's recommendations. The report will also set forth the case plan which the department intends to implement.

(7) Within forty-five days following the review, the board shall either:

(a) Schedule the case for further review by the board;

(b) File with the court a motion for a review hearing;

(c) Submit to the court the board's findings and recommendations, the department's implementation reports, if any, and a proposed amended court order agreed to by the parties to the action, if any.

(8) Upon receipt of the board's written findings and recommendations, the department's implementation report, if any, and the proposed amended court order, if any, the court shall either:

(a) Approve the recommendations; or

(b) Upon its own motion, schedule a review hearing.

(9) The findings and recommendations of the board and the department's implementation report, if any, shall become part of the department's case file and the court file pertaining to the child.

(10) Nothing in this section shall limit or otherwise modify the rights of any party to a dependency proceeding to request and receive a court review hearing pursuant to the provisions of chapter 13.34 RCW or applicable court rules.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 14. In addition to reviewing individual cases of children in substitute care, boards may make recommendations to the court and the department concerning substitute care services, policies, procedures, and laws.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 15. The administrator for the courts may apply for and receive funds from federal, local, and private sources for carrying out the purposes of this chapter.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 16. For cases which are subject to the foster care citizen review board pilot project under section 2 of this act, a court review hearing shall occur no later than eighteen months following commencement of the child's placement episode. Thereafter, court review hearings shall occur at least once every year until the child is no longer within the jurisdiction of the court or the child returns home or a guardianship order or adoption decree is entered. The court may review the case more frequently upon the court's own motion or upon the request of any party to the proceeding or the citizen review board assigned to the child's case.

Sec. 17. Section 4, chapter 188, Laws of 1984 as amended by section 2, chapter 189, Laws of 1988, section 2, chapter 190, Laws of 1988, and by section 1, chapter 194, Laws of 1988 and RCW 13.34.130 are each reenacted and amended to read as follows:

If, after a fact-finding hearing pursuant to RCW 13.34.110, as now or hereafter amended, it has been proven by a preponderance of the evidence that the child is dependent within the meaning of RCW 13.34.030(2); after consideration of the predisposition report prepared pursuant to RCW 13.34.110 and after a disposition hearing has been held pursuant to RCW 13.34.110, the court shall enter an order of disposition pursuant to this section.

(1) The court shall order one of the following dispositions of the case:

(a) Order a disposition other than removal of the child from his or her home, which shall provide a program designed to alleviate the immediate danger to the child, to mitigate or cure any damage the child has already suffered, and to aid the parents so that the child will not be endangered in the future. In selecting a program, the court should choose those services that least interfere with family autonomy, provided that the services are adequate to protect the child.

(b) Order that the child be removed from his or her home and ordered into the custody, control, and care of a relative or the department of social and health services or a licensed child placing agency for placement in a foster family home or group care facility licensed pursuant to chapter 74.15 RCW or in a home not required to be licensed pursuant to chapter 74.15 RCW. Unless there is reasonable cause to believe that the safety or welfare of the child would be jeopardized or that efforts to reunite the parent and child will be hindered, such child shall be placed with a grandparent, brother, sister, stepbrother, stepsister, uncle, aunt, or first cousin with whom the child has a relationship and is comfortable, and who is willing and available to care for the child. An order for out-of-home placement may be made only if the court finds that reasonable efforts have been made to prevent or eliminate the need for removal of the child from the child's home and to make it possible for the child to return home and that:

(i) There is no parent or guardian available to care for such child;

(ii) The child is unwilling to reside in the custody of the child's parent, guardian, or legal custodian;

(iii) The parent, guardian, or legal custodian is not willing to take custody of the child;

(iv) A manifest danger exists that the child will suffer serious abuse or neglect if the child is not removed from the home and an order under RCW 26.44.063 would not protect the child from danger; or

(v) The extent of the child's disability is such that the parent, guardian, or legal custodian is unable to provide the necessary care for the child and the parent, guardian, or legal custodian has determined that the child would benefit from placement outside of the home.

(2) Whenever a child is ordered removed from the child's home, the agency charged with his or her care shall provide the court with a specific plan as to where the child will be placed, what steps will be taken to return the child home, and what actions the agency will take to maintain parent-child ties. All aspects of the plan shall include the goal of achieving permanence for the child.

(a) The agency plan shall specify what services the parents will be offered in order to enable them to resume custody, what requirements the parents must meet in order to resume custody, and a time limit for each service plan and parental requirement.

(b) The agency shall be required to encourage the maximum parent-child contact possible, including regular visitation and participation by the parents in the care of the child while the child is in placement.

(c) A child shall be placed as close to the child's home as possible, preferably in the child's own neighborhood, unless the court finds that placement at a greater distance is necessary to promote the child's or parents' well-being.

(d) The agency charged with supervising a child in placement shall provide all reasonable services that are available within the agency, or within the community, or those services which the department of social and health services has existing contracts to purchase. It shall report to the court if it is unable to provide such services.

(3) If there is insufficient information at the time of the disposition hearing upon which to base a determination regarding the suitability of a proposed placement with a relative, the child shall remain in foster care and the court shall direct the supervising agency to conduct necessary background investigations as provided in chapter 74.15 RCW and report the results of such investigation to the court within thirty days. However, if such relative appears otherwise suitable and competent to provide care and treatment, the criminal history background check need not be completed before placement, but as soon as possible after placement. Any placements with relatives, pursuant to this section, shall be contingent upon cooperation by the relative with the agency case plan and compliance with court orders related to the care and supervision of the child including, but not limited to, court orders regarding parent-child contacts and any other conditions imposed by the court. Noncompliance with the case plan or court order shall be grounds for removal of the child from the relative's home, subject to review by the court.

(4) The status of all children found to be dependent shall be reviewed by the court at least every six months from the beginning date of the placement episode or the date dependency is established, whichever is first, at a hearing in which it shall be determined whether court supervision should continue. The review shall include findings regarding the agency and parental completion of disposition plan requirements, and if necessary, revised permanency time limits.

(a) A child shall not be returned home at the review hearing unless the court finds that a reason for removal as set forth in this section no longer exists. The parents, guardian, or legal custodian shall report to the court the efforts they have made to correct the conditions which led to removal. If a child is returned, casework supervision shall continue for a period of six months, at which time there shall be a hearing on the need for continued intervention.

(b) If the child is not returned home, the court shall establish in writing:

(i) Whether reasonable services have been provided to or offered to the parties to facilitate reunion;

(ii) ~~(The extent to which)~~ Whether the child has been placed in the least-restrictive setting appropriate to the child's needs, including whether consideration has been given to placement with the child's relatives;

(iii) Whether there is a continuing need for placement and whether the placement is appropriate;

(iv) Whether there has been compliance with the case plan by the child, the child's parents, and the agency supervising the placement;

(v) Whether progress has been made toward correcting the problems that necessitated the child's placement in out-of-home care;

(vi) Whether the parents have visited the child and any reasons why visitation has not occurred or has been infrequent;

~~((iii)) Whether the agency is satisfied with the cooperation given to it by the parents;~~

~~((iv))~~ (vii) Whether additional services are needed to facilitate the return of the child to the child's parents; if so, the court shall order that reasonable services be offered; and

~~((v))~~ When return of the child can be expected)) (viii) The projected date by which the child will be returned home or other permanent plan of care will be implemented.

(c) The court at the review hearing may order that a petition seeking termination of the parent and child relationship be filed.

Sec. 18. Section 3, chapter 194, Laws of 1988 and RCW 13.34.145 are each amended to read as follows:

~~((A dependency may only be maintained for a maximum period of two years, at which time the court shall:))~~

(1) In all cases where a child has been placed in substitute care for at least fifteen months, a permanency planning hearing shall be held before the court no later than eighteen months following commencement of the placement episode.

(2) At the permanency planning hearing, the court shall enter findings as required by RCW 13.34.130(4). In addition the court shall: (a) Approve a permanent plan of care which can include one of the following: Adoption, guardianship, or placement of the child in the home of the child's parent; ~~((a))~~ (b) require filing of a petition for termination of parental rights; or ~~((c))~~ (c) dismiss the dependency, unless the court finds, based on clear, cogent, and convincing evidence, that it is in the best interest of the child to continue the dependency beyond ~~((two years))~~ eighteen months, based on a permanent plan of care. Extensions may only be granted in increments of ~~((six))~~ twelve months or less ~~((unless a juvenile court guardianship is in effect)).~~

NEW SECTION. Sec. 19. Sections 1 through 16 of this act shall expire June 30, 1991."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Vognild: "Senator Craswell, this amendment caught me a little bit by surprise, and I'm trying to read it very quickly. Are there any changes in this amendment from the original bill with the exception of the appropriation?"

Senator Craswell: "Senator Vognild, I don't think there is any change at all. It still sets up the same program for citizen review boards. I've gone over it. I don't see any change at all except the gearing down to fit the present appropriation in the budget. It will allow us to continue the Snohomish County pilot program which is doing so well up in Snohomish County and probably pick up one or two other counties."

Senator Vognild: "Thank you."

The President declared the question before the Senate to be the adoption of the striking amendment by Senators Craswell and Bailey to Second Substitute Senate Bill No. 5065.

The motion by Senator Craswell carried and the amendment was adopted.

MOTIONS

On motion of Senator Nelson, the following title amendment was adopted:

On page 1, line 1 of the title, after "children," strike the remainder of the title and insert "amending RCW 13.34.145; reenacting and amending RCW 13.34.130; creating new sections; and providing an expiration date."

MOTION

On motion of Senator Nelson, the rules were suspended, Engrossed Second Substitute Senate Bill No. 5065 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third and the bill was placed on final passage.

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Niemi: "Senator Craswell, I'm still not clear about the differences in this bill and the original bill. As I understand it, the appropriation is cut down, is that correct?"

Senator Craswell: "The appropriation in the budget is five hundred thousand. When we passed the bill out, it was based on a one point five million dollar program."

Senator Niemi: "But, is this a pilot program bill or does this set up a state wide citizen review board system for foster care services?"

Senator Craswell: "No, if you see the language in new Section 2 on page 2, it says that you will provide periodic case review of all children in substitute care in at least one Class 1 or higher county in accordance with the act. The money, the five hundred thousand, will actually allow, depending on which county we go to, but will allow two or three, possibly even four county programs. It comes under the jurisdiction of the State Supreme Court and the court administrator to approve the projects and do the funding. The original bill established the program in seven counties, but this obviously will not cover the seven counties that we'd looked at before. Our main hope is to keep it going in Snohomish County and perhaps one other county."

Senator Niemi: "Thank you."

MOTION

On motion of Senator Anderson, Senators Pullen and Thorsness were excused.

The President declared the question before the Senate to be the roll call on the final passage of Engrossed Second Substitute Senate Bill No. 5065.

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll on the final passage of Engrossed Second Substitute Senate Bill No. 5065 and the bill passed the Senate by the following vote: Yeas, 36; nays, 6; excused, 7.

Voting yea: Senators Amondson, Anderson, Bailey, Barr, Bauer, Bender, Benitz, Bluechel, Cantu, Conner, Craswell, Gaspard, Hansen, Hayner, Johnson, Lee, Matson, McCaslin, McDonald, Metcalf, Nelson, Newhouse, Owen, Patterson, Rasmussen, Saling, Sellar, Smith, Smitherman, Stratton, Sutherland, Vognild, von Reichbauer, Warnke, West, Wojahn - 36.

Voting nay: Senators Kreidler, Madsen, Moore, Murray, Niemi, Rinehart - 6.

Excused: Senators DeJarnatt, Fleming, McMullen, Pullen, Talmadge, Thorsness, Williams - 7.

ENGROSSED SECOND SUBSTITUTE SENATE BILL NO. 5065, having received the constitutional majority, was declared passed. There being no objection, the title of the bill was ordered to stand as the title of the act.

STATEMENT FOR THE JOURNAL

May 7, 1989

Mary Wiley
Journal Clerk

Due to my presence at the bill-signing ceremony on Engrossed Second Substitute House Bill No. 1793, I missed the vote on Engrossed Second Substitute Senate Bill No. 5065. I would have voted 'nay' on the bill.

SENATOR PHIL TALMADGE, 34th District

There being no objection, the President returned the Senate to the sixth order of business.

SECOND READING

SUBSTITUTE HOUSE BILL NO. 1788, by Committee on Appropriations (originally sponsored by Representatives Wang, Brough, Ebersole, Walker, Walk, Tate, R. Fisher, Winsley, Locke, Dorn, R. Meyers, Dellwo, Pruitt, Belcher, Crane, Rasmussen and Schoon) (by request of Department of Community Development)

Pertaining to the Puyallup tribe of Indians' land claims.

The bill was read the second time.

MOTION

Senator von Reichbauer moved that the following amendment by Senators von Reichbauer, McDonald and Gaspard be adopted:

Strike everything after the enacting clause and insert the following:

NEW SECTION. Sec. 1. The governor is empowered to execute the appropriate documents to relinquish the state's claims to title of the current riverbed of the Puyallup river within the 1873 survey area to the United States in trust for the tribe subject to the provisions on existing rights of way, discharges, easements, flood control, and fishing rights as set forth in the settlement agreement.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 2. A new section is added to chapter 35.43 RCW to read as follows:

(1) The settlement of Indian land and other claims against public and private property owners is declared to be in the interest of public health and safety, orderly government, environmental protection, economic development, and the social well-being of the citizens of this state, and to specifically benefit the properties released from those claims.

It is the purpose of this act to encourage the settlement of such Indian land and other claims lawsuits by permitting the establishment and use of local improvement districts to finance all or a portion of the settlement costs of such lawsuits.

(2) A local improvement district may be established by a local government legislative authority to finance all or part of the settlement costs in an Indian land and other claims settlement related to public and private property located within the local government. The settlement of an Indian land claim lawsuit shall be deemed to be an improvement that may be financed in whole or in part through use of a local improvement district.

Except as expressly provided in this section, all matters relating to the establishment and operation of such a local improvement district, the levying and collection of special assessments, the issuance of local improvement district bonds and other obligations, and all related matters, shall be subject to the provisions of chapters 35.43 through 35.54 RCW. The resolution or petition initiating the creation of a local improvement district used to finance all or a portion of an Indian land and other claims settlement shall describe the general nature of the Indian land and other claims and the proposed settlement. The value of a contribution by any person, municipal corporation, political subdivision, or the state of money, real property, or personal property to the settlement of Indian land and other claims shall be credited to any assessment for a local improvement district under this section.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 3. A new section is added to chapter 36.32 RCW to read as follows:

(1) The settlement of Indian land and other claims against public and private property owners is declared to be in the interest of public health and safety, orderly government, environmental protection, economic development, and the social well-being of the citizens of this state, and to specifically benefit the properties released from those claims.

It is the purpose of this act to encourage the settlement of such Indian land and other claims lawsuits by permitting the establishment and use of local improvement districts to finance all or a portion of the settlement costs of such lawsuits.

(2) A local improvement district may be established by a county legislative authority to finance all or part of the settlement costs in an Indian land and other claims settlement related to public and private property located within the incorporated or unincorporated areas of the county. The settlement of an Indian land and other claims lawsuit shall be deemed to be an improvement that may be financed in whole or in part through use of a local improvement district.

(3) Except as expressly provided in this section, all matters relating to the establishment and operation of such a local improvement district, the levying and collection of special assessments, the issuance of local improvement district bonds and other obligations, and all related matters, shall be subject to the provisions of chapter 36.94 RCW concerning the use of local improvement districts to finance sewer or water facilities. The requirements of chapter 36.94 RCW concerning the preparation of a general plan and formation of a review committee shall not apply to a local improvement district used to finance all or a portion of Indian land and other claims settlements. The resolution or petition that initiates the creation of a local improvement district used to finance all or a portion of an Indian land and other claims settlement shall describe the general nature of the Indian land and other claims and the proposed settlement. The value of a contribution by any person, municipal corporation, political subdivision, or the state of money, real property, or personal property to the settlement of Indian land and other claims shall be credited to any assessment for a local improvement district under this section.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 4. If any provision of this act or its application to any person or circumstance is held invalid, the remainder of the act or the application of the provision to other persons or circumstances is not affected."

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Smitherman: "Senator Rasmussen, I understand that you have some language in the budget proviso that specifically deals with the possibility of there being suits brought against property owners and such and that you provided for the Attorney General, in effect, to act on behalf of the property owners. This amendment seems to indicate that the people are going to need to form an LID, so that costs and so on are taken care of. Is that the way you read this and what's your feeling about the amendment?"

Senator Rasmussen: "My understanding and I've been assured by Senator McDonald and Senator Gaspard, that there is the provision for the Attorney General to defend any home owner who had suits brought against them because of this land settlement. The attorneys have said the individual may sue and if they so desire, then the Attorney General would represent those individuals, because the state is paying this large amount of money in to settle the claim. I doubt that it will be used. I doubt there will be any suits, but it's good protection and it is in the Omnibus Budget."

Senator Smitherman: "But, I guess my question had more to do with whether or not this was an appropriate instrument then, if this does the same thing as your particular budget--"

Senator Rasmussen: "Oh, it's a different subject."

Senator Smitherman: "Thank you, Senator."

Further Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Bender: "Senator von Reichbauer, with regards to this settlement. As you well know, part of that package deals with the revenue package in the transportation funding source. If that revenue package doesn't pass and we're unable to get any type of a tax increase, in terms of the gas tax through, there's some null and void language in the budget that doesn't take care of that settlement, regarding to the transportation section. What impact would that have on the total settlement?"

Senator von Reichbauer: "Senator Bender and members of the Senate, over the course of the last few days that we've discussed the troubles with the Transportation Budget we've been working with Representative George Walk, the chairman of the House Transportation Committee on language that would be appropriate to make sure that that null and void issue is taken care of. I understand that Senator Johnson has been working on that issue and he would like to respond to the change."

Senator Bender: "Well, let me just respond to that because several of us have been meeting regarding what happens if we can't get a revenue package through this body and that money is not in that no-tax increase budget in the Department of Transportation."

Senator von Reichbauer: "Mr. President, I'd like to yield to Senator Johnson who has been working with the Pierce County delegation on that specific issue."

REMARKS BY SENATOR JOHNSON

Senator Johnson: "Mr. President, in working with the members of the House, the two striking amendments that they have prepared over there—two versions—both of them do not have the null and void language in it. Our Transportation Budget has it in, but when it goes over there, they intend to put a striking amendment on it."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator McCaslin: "Senator Johnson, on your first section we discussed the 1873 survey, but then the new sections discussed LIDs by local governments on Indian land claims. Would those other sections pertain to any county in the state of Washington, and any Indian claims on land, so that any government or county government in the state could form an LID without a referendum?"

Senator Johnson: "I don't know the answer to that Senator McCaslin. I would guess if it's a broad statute, it would then apply to everybody in the state."

Senator McCaslin: "I assume that this amendment then would allow any--any--county in the state of Washington to, by resolution, form an LID to pay for Indian land claims."

Senator Johnson: "Let me explain the basic reason for the LID. When we come down to the end of the settlement and additional funds are needed that are unexpected, then the property owners in that area along with the county, will form an LID to tax themselves to help pay off the rest of the claim."

Senator McCaslin: "I understand that and I understand that the thrust of the bill is for your problem in Pierce County, but as I read it, unless somebody can help me on it, it pertains to any county in the state of Washington."

The President declared the question before the Senate to be the adoption of the amendment by Senators von Reichbauer, McDonald and Gaspard.

The motion by Senator von Reichbauer carried and the amendment was adopted.

MOTIONS

On motion of Senator von Reichbauer, the following title amendment was adopted:

On page 1, line 2 of the title, after "settlement;" strike the remainder of the title and insert "adding a new section to chapter 35.43 RCW; adding a new section to chapter 36.32 RCW; and creating a new section."

On motion of Senator von Reichbauer, the rules were suspended, Substitute House Bill No. 1788, as amended by the Senate, was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third and the bill was placed on final passage.

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Rasmussen: "Senator Nelson, in the first section of the new section, it says, 'The Governor is empowered to execute the appropriate documents to relinquish the state's claim to title current riverbed of the Puyallup River within the 1873 survey.' Is it your contention that the balance of the bill does not make clear that this only relates to the Puyallup River--the Puyallup Indian Tribe settlement?"

Senator Nelson: "Senator Rasmussen, that's absolutely correct. You're now adding new chapters in 3543 on LIDs. The first section is a non-codified chapter. It kind of gives nice glowing words, but it does not get codified in our statutes."

Senator Rasmussen: "Thank you."

Further debate ensued.

MOTION

On motion of Senator Newhouse, further consideration of Substitute House Bill No. 1788, as amended by the Senate, was deferred.

MOTION

At 4:27 p.m. on motion of Senator Newhouse, the Senate was declared to be at ease.

The Senate was called to order at 5:16 p.m. by President Pritchard.

NOTICE FOR RECONSIDERATION

Having voted on the prevailing side, Senator Vognild served notice for reconsideration of the vote by which Engrossed Second Substitute Senate Bill No. 5065 passed the Senate earlier today.

There being no objection, the President advanced the Senate to the seventh order of business.

There being no objection, the Senate resumed consideration of Substitute House Bill No. 1788, as amended by the Senate, deferred on third reading earlier today.

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll on the final passage of Substitute House Bill No. 1788, as amended by the Senate, and the bill passed the Senate by the following vote: Yeas, 35; nays, 10; excused, 4.

MOTION

Senator Patterson moved that the following amendment be adopted:

Strike everything after the enacting clause and insert the following:

NEW SECTION. Sec. 1. PURPOSE OF STATE AND LOCAL TRANSPORTATION FUNDING PROGRAM. (1) The legislature finds that a new comprehensive funding program is required to maintain the state's commitment to the growing mobility needs of its citizens and commerce. The transportation funding program is intended to satisfy the following state policies and objectives:

(a) State-wide system: Provide for preservation of the existing state-wide system and improvements for current and expected capacity needs in rural, established urban, and growing suburban areas throughout the state;

(b) Local flexibility: Provide for necessary state highway improvements, as well as providing local governments with the option to use new funding sources for projects meeting local and regional needs;

(c) Multimodal: Provide a source of funds that may be used for multimodal transportation purposes;

(d) Program compatibility: Implement transportation facilities and services that are consistent with adopted land use and transportation plans and coordinated with recently authorized programs such as the act authorizing creation of transportation benefit districts and the Local Transportation Act of 1988;

(e) Interjurisdictional cooperation: Encourage transportation planning and projects that are multi-jurisdictional in their conception, development, and benefit, recognizing that mobility problems do not respect jurisdictional boundaries;

(f) Public and private sector: Use a state, local, and private sector partnership that equitably shares the burden of meeting transportation needs.

(2) The legislature further recognizes that the revenues currently available to the state and to counties, cities, and transit authorities for highway, road, and street construction and preservation fall far short of the identified need. The 1988 Washington Road Jurisdiction Study identified a state-wide funding shortfall of between $14.6 and $19.9 billion to bring existing roads to acceptable standards. The gap between identified transportation needs and available revenues continues to increase. A comprehensive transportation funding program is required to meet the current and anticipated future needs of this state.

(3) The legislature further recognizes the desirability of making certain changes in the collection and distribution of motor vehicle excise taxes with the following objectives: Simplifying administration and collection of the taxes including adoption of a predictable depreciation schedule for vehicles; simplifying the allocation of the taxes among various recipients; and the dedication of a portion of motor vehicle excise taxes for transportation purposes.

(4) The legislature, therefore, declares a need for the three-part funding program embodied in this act: (a) State-wide funding for highways, roads, and streets in urban and rural areas; (b) local option funding authority, available immediately, for the construction and preservation of roads, streets, and transit improvements and facilities; and (c) the creation of a multimodal transportation fund that is funded by the dedication of a portion of motor vehicle excise tax. This funding program is intended, through the targeting of certain new revenues, to produce a significant increase in the overall capacity of the state, county, and city transportation systems to satisfy and efficiently accommodate the movement of people and goods.

(5) This section is null and void unless sections 101 through 114, 201 through 206, 301 through 333, and 401 through 412 of ESSB 5338 are enacted into law by June 30, 1989.

PART I: STATE-WIDE PROGRAM

Sec. 101. STATE-WIDE MOTOR VEHICLE FUEL TAXES. Section 6, chapter 317, Laws of 1977 ex. sess. as last amended by section 27, chapter 49, Laws of 1983 1st ex. sess. and RCW 82.36.025 are each amended to read as follows:

The motor vehicle fuel tax rate shall be computed as the sum of the tax rate provided in subsection (1) of this section and the additional tax rates provided in subsections (2) through ~~((4))~~ (6) of this section.

(1) ~~((Except as required in subsection (5) of this section;))~~ ~~A~~ motor vehicle fuel tax rate of ~~((fifteen))~~ seventeen cents per gallon shall apply to the sale, distribution, or use of motor vehicle fuel ~~((from July 1, 1983, through June 30, 1984, and a motor vehicle fuel tax rate of seventeen cents per gallon shall apply thereafter)).~~

(2) An additional motor vehicle fuel tax rate of one-third cent per gallon shall apply to the sale, distribution, or use of motor vehicle fuel, and the proceeds from this additional tax rate, reduced by an amount equal to the sum of the payments under RCW 46.68.090 ~~((1) and (2))~~ ((1) (a) and (b)) multiplied by the additional tax rate prescribed by this subsection divided by the motor vehicle fuel tax rate provided in this section, shall be deposited in the rural arterial trust account in the motor vehicle fund for expenditures under RCW 36.79.020.

(3) An additional motor vehicle fuel tax rate of one-third cent per gallon shall apply to the sale, distribution, or use of motor vehicle fuel, and the proceeds from this additional tax rate, reduced by an amount equal to the sum of the payments under RCW 46.68.090 ~~((1) and (2))~~ ((1) (a) and (b)) multiplied by the additional tax rate prescribed by this subsection divided by the motor vehicle fuel tax rate provided in this section, shall be deposited in the urban arterial trust account in the motor vehicle fund.

(4) An additional motor vehicle ~~((fuel))~~ fuel tax rate of one-third cent per gallon shall be applied to the sale, distribution, or use of motor vehicle fuel, and the proceeds from this additional tax rate, reduced by an amount equal to the sum of the payments under RCW 46.68.090 ~~((1) and (2))~~ (1) (a) and (b) multiplied by the additional tax rate prescribed by this subsection divided by the motor vehicle fuel tax rate provided in this section, shall be deposited in the motor vehicle fund to be expended for highway purposes of the state as defined in RCW 46.68.130.

(5) ~~((a) Before the start of each fiscal year, the department of licensing shall estimate the total aggregate motor vehicle fuel tax revenues and the total of all other revenues that will accrue to the motor vehicle fund during the fiscal year. The estimated total of all other state revenues to accrue to the motor vehicle fund during the fiscal year shall include those revenues (other than the aggregate motor vehicle fuel tax revenues) which the department of transportation with the concurrence of the office of financial management determines will accrue during the fiscal year, assuming that collections of such revenues for the fiscal year shall be at the same level as during the fiscal year just ended, adjusted however for historic variations in collections according to yearly periods and for projected trends, but shall not include the proceeds of the sale of bonds, reimbursements to the motor vehicle fund for services performed by the department of transportation for others, moneys derived from nonfuel tax sources that are deposited directly in the several accounts within the motor vehicle fund, interest deposited directly in the several accounts within the motor vehicle fund, nor federal funds. The estimated total aggregate motor vehicle fuel tax revenues for the fiscal year shall include those revenues that the department of licensing determines will accrue during the fiscal year, assuming the sale, distribution, and use of motor vehicle fuel and special fuel within the state for the fiscal year will be at the same volume as during the fiscal year last ended, adjusted however for the historic variations in sales, distribution, and use according to yearly periods and for projected trends.~~

~~((b) If the estimated aggregate motor fuel tax revenues plus all other state revenues that will accrue to the motor vehicle fund during a fiscal year as computed in (a) of this subsection exceed the motor vehicle fund revenue limit in the fiscal year as computed in (c) of this subsection, the rate of motor fuel tax provided in subsection (1) of this section shall be reduced by one-half cent increments for the fiscal year only, commencing at the beginning of the fiscal year, as may be necessary to reduce the estimated total revenues for the fiscal year to within the motor vehicle fund revenue limit.~~

~~((c) The motor vehicle fund revenue limit for any fiscal year shall be the previous fiscal year's motor vehicle fund revenue limit multiplied by the average state personal income ratio for the three calendar years immediately preceding the beginning of the fiscal year for which the limit is being computed. For purposes of computing the motor vehicle fund revenue limit for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1981, the phrase "the previous fiscal year's motor vehicle fund revenue limit" means the motor vehicle fund revenue collected in the fiscal year ending June 30, 1979, multiplied by the average state personal income ratio for the calendar years 1976, 1977, and 1978.~~

~~((6) The legislative transportation committee shall study and analyze each biennium the financial condition of the motor vehicle fund and accounts thereof with particular emphasis on RCW 82.36.010 and 82.36.025.) An additional motor vehicle fuel tax rate of five cents per gallon applies to the sale, distribution, or use of motor vehicle fuel. The proceeds from the additional tax rate under this subsection, reduced by an amount equal to the sum of the payments under RCW 46.68.090 (1) (a) and (b) multiplied by the additional tax rate prescribed by this subsection divided by the motor fuel tax rate provided in this section, shall be deposited in the motor vehicle fund and shall be distributed by the state treasurer according to section 106 of this act.~~

The 1989 amendments to this section are null and void unless sections 101 through 114, 201 through 206, 301 through 333, and 401 through 412 of ESSB 5338 are enacted into law by June 30, 1989.

Sec. 102. DISTRIBUTION OF STATE-WIDE TAXES. Section 46.68.090, chapter 12, Laws of 1961 as last amended by section 21, chapter 49, Laws of 1983 1st ex. sess. and RCW 46.68.090 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) All moneys that have accrued or may accrue to the motor vehicle fund from the motor vehicle fuel tax and special fuel tax shall be first expended for the following purposes:

~~((1))~~ (a) For payment of refunds of motor vehicle fuel tax and special fuel tax that has been paid and is refundable as provided by law;

~~((2))~~ (b) For payment of amounts to be expended pursuant to appropriations for the administrative expenses of the offices of state treasurer, state auditor, and the department of licensing of the state of Washington in the administration of the motor vehicle fuel tax and the special fuel tax, which sums shall be distributed monthly;

(2) The amount accruing to the motor vehicle fund by virtue of the motor vehicle fuel tax and the special fuel tax and remaining after payments, distributions, and expenditures as provided in ~~((subsections (1), (2), (3), (4), and (5)-of))~~ this section shall, for the purposes of this chapter, be referred to as the "net tax amount."

(3) The 1989 amendments to this section are null and void unless sections 101 through 114, 201 through 206, 301 through 333, and 401 through 412 of ESSB 5338 are enacted into law by June 30, 1989.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 103. STUDY OF STATE-WIDE FUEL TAX DISTRIBUTIONS TO LOCAL GOVERNMENTS. A study shall be undertaken under the direction of the legislative transportation committee to assess the state-wide fuel tax distributions to local governments. The study shall include, but not be limited to, evaluation of alternative distribution methods, such as minimum allocations to each local government, assessment of distribution criteria employed by other states, and recommendations for equitable revenue distributions to local governments. The study findings shall be reported by December 15, 1989.

This section is null and void unless sections 101 through 114, 201 through 206, 301 through 333, and 401 through 412 of ESSB 5338 are enacted into law by June 30, 1989.

Sec. 104. REPORTS BY DISTRIBUTORS. Section 82.36.030, chapter 15, Laws of 1961 as amended by section 2, chapter 174, Laws of 1987 and RCW 82.36.030 are each amended to read as follows:

Every distributor shall on or before the twenty-fifth day of each calendar month file, on forms furnished by the director, a statement signed by the distributor or his authorized agent showing the total number of gallons of motor vehicle fuel sold, distributed, or used by such distributor within this state during the preceding calendar month and, for all local jurisdictions within which an additional excise tax on motor vehicle fuel has been levied by that jurisdiction under section 201 of this act, showing the total number of gallons of motor vehicle fuel distributed and sold to dealers by the distributor for sale within the boundaries of the jurisdiction during the preceding calendar month.

If any distributor fails to file such report, the director shall proceed forthwith to determine from the best available sources, the amount of motor vehicle fuel sold, distributed, or used by such distributor for the unreported period, and said determination shall be presumed to be correct for that period until proved by competent evidence to be otherwise. The director shall immediately assess the excise tax in the amount so determined, adding thereto a penalty of ten percent for failure to report. Such penalty shall be cumulative of other penalties herein provided. All statements filed with the director, as required in this section, shall be public records.

If any distributor establishes by a fair preponderance of evidence that his or her failure to file a report by the due date was attributable to reasonable cause and was not intentional or willful, the department may waive the penalty imposed by this section.

The 1989 amendments to this section are null and void unless sections 101 through 114, 201 through 206, 301 through 333, and 401 through 412 of ESSB 5338 are enacted into law by June 30, 1989.

Sec. 105. Section 16, chapter 175, Laws of 1971 ex. sess. as last amended by section 1, chapter 23, Laws of 1988 and RCW 82.38.150 are each amended to read as follows:

For the purpose of determining the amount of ~~((his))~~ liability for the tax herein imposed each special fuel dealer and each special fuel user shall file tax reports with the department, on forms prescribed by the department. Special fuel dealers shall file the reports at the intervals as shown in the following schedule:

Estimated Yearly

Tax Liability
 $ 0 - $100
 $101 - 250
 $251 - 499
 $500 and over

Reporting Frequency

Yearly
 Semi-yearly Quarterly
 Monthly

Special fuel users whose estimated yearly tax liability is two hundred fifty dollars or less, shall file a report yearly, and special fuel users whose estimated yearly tax liability is more than two hundred fifty dollars, shall file reports quarterly.

The department shall establish the reporting frequency for each applicant at the time the special fuel license is issued. If it becomes apparent that any special fuel licensee is not reporting in accordance with the above schedule, the department shall change the licensee's reporting frequency by giving thirty days' notice to the licensee by mail to his address of record. A report shall be filed with the department even though no special fuel was used, or tax is due, for the reporting period. Each tax report shall contain a declaration by the person making the same, to the effect that the statements contained therein are true and are made under penalties of perjury, which declaration shall have the same force and effect as a verification of the report and (~~shall be~~) is in lieu of such verification. The report shall show such information as the department may reasonably require for the proper administration and enforcement of this chapter: PROVIDED, That if a special fuel dealer or special fuel user is also a special fuel supplier at a location where special fuel is delivered into the supply tank of a motor vehicle, and if separate storage is provided thereat from which special fuel is delivered or placed into fuel supply tanks of motor vehicles, the tax report to the department need not include inventory control data covering bulk storage from which wholesale distribution of special fuel is made. For all local jurisdictions within which an additional excise tax on special fuel has been levied by that jurisdiction under section 201 of this act, the report must show the quantities of special fuel distributed and sold by the reporting dealer or user within the jurisdiction's boundaries and the tax liability from its levy. The special fuel dealer or special fuel user shall file the report on or before the twenty-fifth day of the next succeeding calendar month following the period to which it relates.

Subject to the written approval of the department, tax reports may cover a period ending on a day other than the last day of the calendar month. Taxpayers granted approval to file reports in this manner will file such reports on or before the twenty-fifth day following the end of the reporting period. No change to this reporting period will be made without the written authorization of the department.

If the final filing date falls on a Saturday, Sunday, or legal holiday the next secular or business day shall be the final filing date. Such reports shall be considered filed or received on the date shown by the post office cancellation mark stamped upon an envelope containing such report properly addressed to the department, or on the date it was mailed if proof satisfactory to the department is available to establish the date it was mailed.

The department, if it deems it necessary in order to insure payment of the tax imposed by this chapter, or to facilitate the administration of this chapter, (~~shall have~~) has the authority to require the filing of reports and tax remittances at shorter intervals than one month if, in its opinion, an existing bond has become insufficient.

The department may permit any special fuel user whose sole use of special fuel is in motor vehicles or equipment exempt from tax as provided in RCW 82.38.075 and RCW 82.38.080 (1), (2), (3), (8), and (9), in lieu of the reports required in this section, to submit reports annually or as requested by the department, in such form as the department may require.

A special fuel user whose sole use of special fuel is for purposes other than the propulsion of motor vehicles upon the public highways of this state shall not be required to submit the reports required in this section.

The 1989 amendments to this section are null and void unless sections 101 through 114, 201 through 206, 301 through 333, and 401 through 412 of ESSB 5338 are enacted into law by June 30, 1989.

NEW SECTION, Sec. 106. DISTRIBUTION OF ADDITIONAL STATE-WIDE TAXES. A new section is added to chapter 46.68 RCW to read as follows:

All moneys that have accrued or may accrue to the motor vehicle fund from the motor vehicle fuel tax and special fuel tax imposed by RCW 82.36.025(5) shall be distributed monthly by the state treasurer in the following proportions:

(1) One and one-half cents shall be deposited in the motor vehicle fund and shall be expended for category C projects, as defined in RCW 47.05.030, subject to the conditions imposed by chapter 47.05 RCW.

(2) One and four-tenths cents shall be deposited in the transportation improvement account and expended in accordance with RCW 47.26.084.

(3) Six-tenths of one cent shall be deposited in the special category C account in the motor vehicle fund for special category C projects. Special category C projects are category C projects as defined in RCW 47.05.030(3) that, due to high cost only, will require bond financing to complete construction.

The following criteria, listed in order of priority, shall be used in determining which special category C projects have the highest priority:

- (a) Its accident experience; and
- (b) Its fatal accident experience; and
- (c) Its capacity to move people and goods safely and at reasonable speeds without undue congestion; and

(d) Continuity of development of the highway transportation network.

Moneys deposited in the special category C account in the motor vehicle fund may be used for payment of debt service on bonds the proceeds of which were used to finance special category C projects under this subsection.

(4) Two-tenths of one cent shall be deposited in the rural arterial trust account in the motor vehicle fund.

(5) Six-tenths of one cent shall be deposited in the county arterial preservation account. These funds shall be distributed by the county road administration board to counties in proportions corresponding to the number of arterial lane miles in the unincorporated area of each county and shall be used for improvements to sustain the structural, safety, and operational integrity of county arterials. The county road administration board shall adopt reasonable rules and develop policies to implement this program and to assure that the pavement management system is used.

(6) Four-tenths of one cent shall be allocated to cities and towns as provided in RCW 46.68.110.

(7) Three-tenths of one cent shall be allocated to counties as provided in RCW 46.68.120.

This section is null and void unless sections 101 through 114, 201 through 206, 301 through 333, and 401 through 412 of ESSB 5338 are enacted into law by June 30, 1989.

Sec. 107. Section 14, chapter 49, Laws of 1983 1st ex. sess. as amended by section 1, chapter 113, Laws of 1984 and RCW 36.79.140 are each amended to read as follows:

At the time the board reviews the six-year program of each county each even-numbered year, it shall consider and shall approve for inclusion in its recommended budget, as required by RCW 36.79.130, the portion of the rural arterial construction program scheduled to be performed during the biennial period beginning the following July 1st. Subject to the appropriations actually approved by the legislature, the board shall as soon as feasible approve rural arterial trust account funds to be spent during the ensuing biennium for preliminary proposals in priority sequence as established pursuant to RCW 36.79.090. Only those counties that during the preceding twelve months have spent all revenues collected for road purposes only for such purposes, including traffic law enforcement, as are allowed to the state by Article II, section 40 of the state Constitution are eligible to receive funds from the rural arterial trust account: PROVIDED HOWEVER, That counties of the seventh class are exempt from this eligibility restriction; AND PROVIDED FURTHER, That counties expending revenues collected for road purposes only on other governmental services after authorization from the voters of that county under RCW 84.55.050 are also exempt from this eligibility restriction. The board shall authorize rural arterial trust account funds for the construction project portion of a project previously authorized for a preliminary proposal in the sequence in which the preliminary proposal has been completed and the construction project is to be placed under contract. At such time the board may reserve rural arterial trust account funds for expenditure in future years as may be necessary for completion of preliminary proposals and construction projects to be commenced in the ensuing biennium.

The board may, within the constraints of available rural arterial trust funds, consider additional projects for authorization upon a clear and conclusive showing by the submitting county that the proposed project is of an emergent nature and that its need was unable to be anticipated at the time the six-year program of the county was developed. The proposed projects shall be evaluated on the basis of the priority rating factors specified in RCW 36.79.080.

The 1989 amendments to this section are null and void unless sections 101 through 114, 201 through 206, 301 through 333, and 401 through 412 of ESSB 5338 are enacted into law by June 30, 1989.

Sec. 108. Section 82.36.440, chapter 15, Laws of 1961 as amended by section 5, chapter 181, Laws of 1979 ex. sess. and RCW 82.36.440 are each amended to read as follows:

The tax (~~herein~~) levied in this chapter is in lieu of any excise, privilege, or occupational tax upon the business of manufacturing, selling, or distributing motor vehicle fuel, and no city, town, county, township or other subdivision or municipal corporation of the state shall levy or collect any excise tax upon or measured by the sale, receipt, distribution, or use of motor vehicle fuel(~~PROVIDED, That nothing in this section or chapter 82.36 RCW shall be construed to prohibit in any manner the imposition of a city tax upon motor vehicle fuel pursuant to RCW 82.39.010~~), except as provided in section 201 of this act.

The 1989 amendments to this section are null and void unless sections 101 through 114, 201 through 206, 301 through 333, and 401 through 412 of ESSB 5338 are enacted into law by June 30, 1989.

When a combination of vehicles has been lawfully licensed to a total gross weight of eighty thousand pounds and when a three or more axle single unit vehicle has been lawfully licensed to a total gross weight of forty thousand pounds pursuant to provisions of RCW 46.44-.041, a permit for additional gross weight may be issued by the department of transportation upon the payment of ~~((thirty-seven dollars and fifty))~~ forty-six dollars and eighty-eight cents per year for each one thousand pounds or fraction thereof of such additional gross weight: PROVIDED, That the tire limits specified in RCW 46.44.042 shall apply, and the gross weight on any single axle shall not exceed twenty thousand pounds, and the gross load on any group of axles shall not exceed the limits set forth in RCW 46.44.041: PROVIDED FURTHER, That within the tire limits of RCW 46.44.042, and notwithstanding RCW 46.44.041 and 46.44.091, a permit for an additional six thousand pounds may be purchased for the rear axles of a two-axle garbage truck or eight thousand pounds for the tandem axle of a three axle garbage truck at a rate not to exceed thirty-seven dollars and fifty cents per thousand. Such additional weight in the case of garbage trucks shall not be valid or permitted on any part of the federal interstate highway system.

The annual additional tonnage permits provided for in this section shall be issued upon such terms and conditions as may be prescribed by the department pursuant to general rules adopted by the transportation commission. Such permits shall entitle the permittee to carry such additional load in an amount and upon highways or sections of highways as may be determined by the department of transportation to be capable of withstanding increased gross load without undue injury to the highway: PROVIDED, That the permits (~~shall~~) are not (~~be~~) valid on any highway where the use of such permits would deprive this state of federal funds for highway purposes.

For those vehicles registered under chapter 46.87 RCW, the annual additional tonnage permits provided for in this section may be issued to coincide with the registration year of the base jurisdiction. For those vehicles registered under chapter 46.16 RCW and whose registration has staggered renewal dates, the annual additional tonnage permits may be issued to coincide with the expiration date of the registration. The permits may be purchased at any time, and if they are purchased for less than a full year, the fee shall be one-twelfth of the full fee multiplied by the number of months, including any fraction thereof, covered by the permit. When the department issues a duplicate permit to replace a lost or destroyed permit and where the department transfers a permit from one vehicle to another a fee of five dollars shall be charged for each duplicate issued or each transfer. The department of transportation shall issue permits on a temporary basis for periods not less than five days at one dollar per day for each two thousands pounds or fraction thereof.

The fees levied in RCW 46.44.0941 and this section shall not apply to any vehicles owned and operated by the state of Washington, any county within the state, or any city or town or metropolitan municipal corporation within the state, or by the federal government.

In the case of fleets prorating license fees under the provisions of chapter 46.87 RCW, the fees provided for in this section shall be computed by the department of transportation by applying the proportion of the Washington mileage of the fleet in question to the total mileage of the fleet as reported pursuant to chapter 46.87 RCW to the fees that would be required to purchase the additional weight allowance for all eligible vehicles or combinations of vehicles for which the extra weight allowance is requested.

The 1989 amendments to this section are null and void unless sections 101 through 114, 201 through 206, 301 through 333, and 401 through 412 of ESSB 5338 are enacted into law by June 30, 1989.

After July 1, 1981, that portion of each vehicle license fee in excess of $7.40 and that portion of each renewal license fee in excess of $3.40 shall be deposited in the state patrol highway account in the motor vehicle fund, hereby created. Vehicle license fees, renewal license fees, and all other funds in the state patrol highway account shall be for the sole use of the Washington state patrol for highway activities of the Washington state patrol, subject to proper appropriations and reappropriations therefor, for any fiscal biennium after June 30, 1981, and twenty-seven and three-tenths percent of the proceeds from $7.40 of each vehicle license fee and $3.40 of each renewal license fee shall be deposited each biennium in the Puget Sound ferry operations account to partially finance, together with other funds in the account, any budgeted state ferry system maintenance and operating deficit for that biennium. The deficit shall be calculated by subtracting from total costs the sum of all unappropriated funds available to the state ferry system, including revenues from tolls that are adjusted by the transportation commission. Any remaining amounts of vehicle license fees and renewal license fees that are not deposited in the Puget Sound ferry operations account shall be deposited in the motor vehicle fund.

The 1989 amendments to this section are null and void unless sections 101 through 114, 201 through 206, 301 through 333, and 401 through 412 of ESSB 5338 are enacted into law by June 30, 1989.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 201. LOCAL OPTION MOTOR VEHICLE AND SPECIAL FUEL TAX. (1) Subject to the conditions of this section, any county may levy, by approval of its legislative body and a majority of the registered voters of the county voting on the proposition at a general or special election, additional excise taxes equal to ten percent of the state-wide motor vehicle fuel tax rate under RCW 82.36.025 on each gallon of motor vehicle fuel as defined in RCW 82.36.010(2) and on special fuel as defined in RCW 82.38.020(5), per gallon or one hundred cubic feet of compressed natural gas measured at standard temperature and pressure sold within the boundaries of the county. An election held under this section must be held not more than twelve months before the date on which the proposed tax is to be levied. The ballot setting forth the proposition shall state the tax rate that is proposed. The county's authority to levy additional excise taxes under this section includes the incorporated and unincorporated areas of the county. The additional excise taxes are subject to the same exceptions and rights of refund as applicable to the other motor vehicle fuel and special fuel excise taxes levied under chapters 82.36 and 82.38 RCW.

(2) Every person subject to the tax shall pay, in addition to any other taxes provided by law, an additional excise tax to the director of licensing at the rate levied by a county exercising its authority under this section.

(3) The state treasurer shall distribute monthly to the levying county and cities contained therein the proceeds of the additional excise taxes collected under this section, after the deductions for payments and expenditures as provided in RCW 46.68.090 (1) (a) and (b) and under the conditions and limitations provided in section 206 of this act.

(4) The proceeds of the additional excise taxes levied under this section shall be used strictly for transportation purposes in accordance with section 205 of this act.

(5) This section is null and void unless sections 101 through 114, 201 through 206, 301 through 333, and 401 through 412 of ESSB 5338 are enacted into law by June 30, 1989.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 202. LOCAL OPTION VEHICLE LICENSE FEE. (1) The legislative authority of a county, upon the approval of a majority of the registered voters of the county voting on the proposition at a general or special election, may fix and impose an additional fee, not to exceed fifteen dollars per vehicle, for each vehicle that is subject to license fees under RCW 46.16.060 and is determined by the department of licensing to be registered within the boundaries of the county. An election held under this section must be held not more than twelve months before the date on which the proposed fee is to be imposed. The ballot setting forth the proposition shall state the fee that is proposed.

(2) The department of licensing shall administer and collect the fee. The department shall deduct a percentage amount, as provided by contract, not to exceed two percent of the taxes collected, for administration and collection expenses incurred by it. The remaining proceeds shall be remitted to the state treasurer for monthly distribution under section 206 of this act.

(3) The proceeds of this fee shall be used strictly for transportation purposes in accordance with section 205 of this act.

(4) A county imposing this fee shall delay the effective date at least six months to allow the department of licensing to implement administration and collection of the fee.

(5) This section is null and void unless sections 101 through 114, 201 through 206, 301 through 333, and 401 through 412 of ESSB 5338 are enacted into law by June 30, 1989.

Sec. 203. STATE PREEMPTS LICENSING FIELD. Section 46.08.010, chapter 12, Laws of 1961 and RCW 46.08.010 are each amended to read as follows:

The provisions of this title relating to the certificate of ownership, certificate of license registration, vehicle license, vehicle license plates and vehicle operator's license shall be exclusive and no political subdivision of the state of Washington shall require or issue any licenses or certificates for the same or a similar purpose except as provided in section 202 of this act, nor shall any city or town in this state impose a tax, license, or other fee upon vehicles operating exclusively between points outside of such city or town limits, and to points therein.

The 1989 amendments to this section are null and void unless sections 101 through 114, 201 through 206, 301 through 333, and 401 through 412 of ESSB 5338 are enacted into law by June 30, 1989.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 204. LOCAL OPTION COMMERCIAL PARKING TAX. (1) Subject to the conditions of this section, the governing body of a county or city, upon the approval of a majority of the registered voters of the county or city voting on the proposition at a general or special election, may fix and impose a parking tax on all persons engaged in a commercial parking business within its respective jurisdiction. An election held under this section must be held not more than twelve months before the date on which the proposed tax is to be levied. The ballot setting forth the proposition shall state the tax rate that is proposed. The jurisdiction of a county, for purposes of this section, includes only the unincorporated area of the county. The jurisdiction of a city includes only the area within its incorporated boundaries.

(2) "Commercial parking business" as used in this section, means the ownership, lease, operation, or management of a commercial parking lot in which fees are charged. "Commercial parking lot" means a covered or uncovered area with stalls for the purpose of parking motor vehicles.

(3) The rate of the tax may be based either upon gross proceeds or the number of vehicle stalls available for commercial parking use. The rates charged must be uniform for the same class or type of commercial parking business.

(4) The county or city levying the tax may provide for its payment on a monthly, quarterly, or annual basis. Each local government may develop by ordinance or resolution rules for administering the tax, including provisions for reporting by commercial parking businesses, collection, and enforcement.

(5) The proceeds of the commercial parking tax fixed and imposed under this section shall be used strictly for transportation purposes in accordance with section 205 of this act.

(6) This section is null and void unless sections 101 through 114, 201 through 206, 301 through 333, and 401 through 412 of ESSB 5338 are enacted into law by June 30, 1989.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 205. USE OF LOCAL OPTION REVENUES. (1) The proceeds collected pursuant to the exercise of the local option authority of sections 201, 202, and 204 of this act (hereafter called "local option transportation revenues") shall be used for transportation purposes only, including but not limited to the following: The operation and preservation of roads, streets, and other transportation improvements; new construction, reconstruction, and expansion of city streets, county roads, and state highways and other transportation improvements; development and implementation of public transportation and high-capacity transit improvements and programs; and planning, design, and acquisition of right of way and sites for such transportation purposes. The proceeds collected from excise taxes on the sale, distribution, or use of motor vehicle fuel and special fuel under section 201 of this act shall be used exclusively for "highway purposes" as that term is construed in Article II, section 40 of the state Constitution.

(2) The local option transportation revenues shall be expended for transportation uses consistent with the adopted transportation and land use plans of the jurisdiction expending the funds and consistent with any applicable and adopted regional transportation plan for metropolitan planning areas.

(3) Each local government with a population greater than eight thousand that levies or expends local option transportation funds, is also required to develop and adopt a specific transportation program that contains the following elements:

(a) The program shall identify the geographic boundaries of the entire area or areas within which local option transportation revenues will be levied and expended.

(b) The program shall be based on an adopted transportation plan for the geographic areas covered and shall identify the proposed operation and construction of transportation improvements and services in the designated plan area intended to be funded in whole or in part by local option transportation revenues and shall identify the annual costs applicable to the program.

(c) The program shall indicate how the local transportation plan is coordinated with applicable transportation plans for the region and for adjacent jurisdictions.

(d) The program shall include at least a six-year funding plan, updated annually, identifying the specific public and private sources and amounts of revenue necessary to fund the program. The program shall include a proposed schedule for construction of projects and expenditure of revenues. The funding plan shall consider the additional local tax revenue estimated to be generated by new development within the plan area if all or a portion of the additional revenue is proposed to be earmarked as future appropriations for transportation improvements in the program.

(4) Local governments with a population greater than eight thousand exercising the authority for local option transportation funds shall periodically review and update their transportation program to ensure that it is consistent with applicable local and regional transportation and land use plans and within the means of estimated public and private revenue available.

(5) In the case of expenditure for new or expanded transportation facilities, improvements, and services, priorities in the use of local option transportation revenues shall be identified in the transportation program and expenditures shall be made based upon the following criteria, which are stated in descending order of weight to be attributed:

(a) First, the project serves a multijurisdictional function;

(b) Second, it is necessitated by existing or reasonably foreseeable congestion;

(c) Third, it has the greatest person-carrying capacity;

(d) Fourth, it is partially funded by other government funds, such as from the state transportation improvement board, or by private sector contributions, such as those from the Local Transportation Act, chapter 39.92 RCW; and

(e) Fifth, it meets such other criteria as the local government determines is appropriate.

(6) It is the intent of the legislature that as a condition of levying, receiving, and expending local option transportation revenues, no local government agency use the revenues to replace, divert, or loan any revenues currently being used for transportation purposes to nontransportation purposes. The association of Washington cities and the Washington state association of counties, in consultation with the legislative transportation committee, shall study the issue of nondiversion and make recommendations to the legislative transportation committee for language implementing the intent of this section by December 1, 1989.

(7) Local governments are encouraged to enter into interlocal agreements to jointly develop and adopt with other local governments the transportation programs required by this section for the purpose of accomplishing regional transportation planning and development.

(8) Local governments may use all or a part of the local option transportation revenues for the amortization of local government general obligation and revenue bonds issued for transportation purposes consistent with the requirements of this section.

(9) This section is null and void unless sections 101 through 114, 201 through 206, 301 through 333, and 401 through 412 of ESSB 5338 are enacted into law by June 30, 1989.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 206. DISTRIBUTION OF LOCAL OPTION TAXES. County population for purposes of this section is equal to one and one-half of the unincorporated population of the county. In calculating the distributions, the state treasurer shall use the population estimates prepared by the state office of financial management and shall further calculate the distribution based on information supplied by the departments of licensing and revenue, as appropriate.

This section is null and void unless sections 101 through 114, 201 through 206, 301 through 333, and 401 through 412 of ESSB 5338 are enacted into law by June 30, 1989.

The 1989 amendments to this section are null and void unless sections 101 through 114, 201 through 206, 301 through 333, and 401 through 412 of ESSB 5338 are enacted into law by June 30, 1989.

If the taxpayer is successful on appeal, the department shall refund the excess tax in the manner provided in RCW 82.44.120.

This section is null and void unless sections 101 through 114, 201 through 206, 301 through 333, and 401 through 412 of ESSB 5338 are enacted into law by June 30, 1989.

Sec. 306. Section 82.44.110, chapter 15, Laws of 1961 as last amended by section 7, chapter 9, Laws of 1987 1st ex. sess. and RCW 82.44.110 are each amended to read as follows:

Sec. 307. Section 82.44.120, chapter 15, Laws of 1961 as last amended by section 2, chapter 68, Laws of 1989 and RCW 82.44.120 are each amended to read as follows:

Whenever any person has paid a motor vehicle license fee, and together therewith has paid an excise tax imposed under the provisions of this chapter, and the director of licensing determines that the payor is entitled to a refund of the entire amount of the license fee as provided by law, then ~~(he)~~ the payor shall also be entitled to a refund of the entire excise tax collected under the provisions of this chapter. In case the director determines that any person is entitled to a refund of only a part of the license fee so paid, the payor shall be entitled to a refund of the difference, if any, between the excise tax collected and that which should have been collected ~~((and the state treasurer shall determine the amount of such refund by reference to the applicable excise tax schedule prepared by the department of revenue in cooperation with the department of licensing))~~.

In case no claim is to be made for the refund of the license fee or any part thereof but claim is made by any person that he has paid an erroneously excessive amount of excise tax, the department ~~((of licensing))~~ shall determine in the manner generally provided in this chapter the amount of such excess, if any, that has been paid and shall certify to the state treasurer that such person is entitled to a refund in such amount.

In any case where due to error, a person has been required to pay an excise tax pursuant to this chapter and a vehicle license fee pursuant to Title 46 RCW which amounts to an overpayment of ten dollars or more, such person shall be entitled to a refund of the entire amount of such overpayment, regardless of whether or not a refund of the overpayment has been requested. Conversely, if due to error, the department or its agents has failed to collect the full amount of the license fee and excise tax due, which underpayment is in the amount of ten dollars or more, the department shall charge and collect such additional amount as will constitute full payment of the tax.

If the department approves the claim it shall notify the state treasurer to that effect, and the treasurer shall make such approved refunds and the other refunds herein provided for from the general fund and shall mail or deliver the same to the person entitled thereto.

Any person making any false statement under which he or she obtains any amount of refund to which he or she is not entitled under the provisions of this section is guilty of a gross misdemeanor.

The 1989 amendments to this section are null and void unless sections 101 through 114, 201 through 206, 301 through 333, and 401 through 412 of ESSB 5338 are enacted into law by June 30, 1989.

The product of this computation shall be the amount of excise taxes from motor vehicle owners residing within such municipality or portion thereof. Where the municipality ~~((levying a tax))~~ receiving tax revenues under RCW 35.58.273 is located in more than one county, the above computation shall be made by county, and the combined products shall provide the total amount of motor vehicle excise taxes from motor vehicle owners residing in the municipality as a whole. Population figures required for these computations shall be supplied to the director by the office of financial management, who shall adjust the fraction annually.

(2) On the first day of the months of January, April, July, and October of each year, the state treasurer based upon information provided by the department ~~((of licensing))~~ shall ~~((make the following apportionment and distribution of))~~ deposit into the rail development account created in RCW 47.78.010 from motor vehicle excise taxes deposited in the general fund ~~((except taxes collected under RCW 82.44.020(6)).~~

~~(b) Thirty-five percent of the sum specified in subsection (2) of this section to be paid to cities and towns shall be apportioned to cities and towns under RCW 82.14.210:~~

~~(4) When so apportioned, the amount payable to each such city and town shall be transmitted to the city treasurer thereof, and shall be utilized by such city or town for the purposes of police and fire protection and the preservation of the public health therein, and not otherwise. In case it be adjudged that revenue derived from the excise tax imposed by this chapter cannot lawfully be apportioned or distributed to cities or towns, all moneys directed by this section to be apportioned and distributed to cities and towns shall be credited and transferred to the state general fund:~~

~~(5)) On the first day of the months of January, April, July, and October of each year, the state treasurer, based upon information provided by the department ~~((of licensing)), shall ((remitt)) distribute motor vehicle excise tax revenues ~~((imposed and collected under)) deposited in the general fund under RCW 82.44.110(7) according to RCW 35.58.273 ~~((as follows)) with the following additional limitations:~~~~~~~~

~~(b) ~~((in no event may the amount remitted in a single calendar quarter exceed the amount collected on behalf of the municipality under RCW 35.58.273 during the calendar quarter next preceding the immediately preceding quarter)) For distributions under this subsection, beginning with the fiscal year ending June 30, 1991, and for each fiscal year through the fiscal year ending June 30, 1996, total distributions for that fiscal year shall be the amount distributed in the fiscal year ending June 30, 1990, multiplied by the quotient resulting from dividing the consumer price index for the calendar year preceding the date of adjustment by the consumer price index for the calendar year ending December 31, 1988. The distributions in any fiscal year shall be adjusted to reflect the dissolution of existing systems, the formation of systems newly eligible, or the consolidation of systems, when one or more of those systems is newly eligible. When municipalities are eligible for amounts greater than any fiscal year total, the distributions shall be prorated among systems based on their respective proportion of the total distributions. The consumer price index used in the computation is the United States city average for all urban consumers published by the bureau of labor statistics.~~~~

Any municipality that has not submitted the report by April 1 shall cease to be eligible to receive ~~((motor vehicle excise taxes)) a distribution under subsection ~~((5)) (3) of this section until the report is received by the director of licensing. If a municipality has received more or less money under subsection ~~((5)) (3) of this section for the period covered by the report than it is entitled to receive by reason of its locally-generated ~~((collected)) tax revenues, the director of licensing shall, during the next ensuing quarter that the municipality is eligible to receive ~~((motor vehicle excise tax funds)) a distribution under subsection (3) of this section, increase or decrease the amount to be remitted in an amount equal to the difference between the locally-generated budgeted tax revenues and the locally-generated ~~((collected)) tax revenues. In no event may the amount remitted for a calendar year exceed the amount ~~((collected on behalf of)) authorized for the municipality under RCW 35.58.273 during that same calendar year. At the time of the next fiscal audit of each municipality, the state auditor shall verify the accuracy of the report submitted and notify the director of licensing of any discrepancies.~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~

~~((7) The motor vehicle excise taxes imposed under RCW 35.58.273 and required to be remitted under this section shall be remitted without legislative appropriation:~~

(6) Any municipality (~~levying and collecting a tax~~) receiving revenues under RCW 35.58-.273 which does not have an operating, public transit system or a contract for public transportation services in effect within one year from the initial effective date of the tax shall return to the state treasurer all motor vehicle excise taxes received under subsection ~~((5))~~ (3) of this section.

(7) The 1989 amendments to this section are null and void unless sections 101 through 114, 201 through 206, 301 through 333, and 401 through 412 of ESSB 5338 are enacted into law by June 30, 1989.

NEW SECTION, Sec. 309. A new section is added to chapter 82.44 RCW to read as follows:

(1) When distributions are made under RCW 82.44.150, the state treasurer shall apportion and distribute the motor vehicle excise taxes deposited into the general fund under RCW 82.44.110(4) to the cities and towns ratably on the basis of population as last determined by the office of financial management except as provided in subsection (2) of this section. When so apportioned, the amount payable to each such city and town shall be transmitted to the city treasurer thereof, and shall be used by the city or town for the purposes of police and fire protection and the preservation of the public health in the city or town, and not otherwise. If it is adjudged that revenue derived from the excise tax imposed by this chapter cannot lawfully be apportioned or distributed to cities or towns, all moneys directed by this section to be apportioned and distributed to cities and towns shall be credited and transferred to the state general fund.

(2) Beginning with the fiscal year ending June 30, 1991, and for each fiscal year through the fiscal year ending June 30, 1996, the amount of distributions for that fiscal year under this section shall be the amount distributed to cities and towns in the fiscal year ending June 30, 1990, under RCW 82.44.150, for the purposes of police and fire protection and the preservation of the public health, multiplied by the quotient resulting from dividing the consumer price index for the calendar year preceding the date of adjustment by the consumer price index for the calendar year ending December 31, 1988. The consumer price index used in the computation shall be the United States city average for all urban consumers published by the bureau of labor statistics. Any excess funds shall be deposited into the transportation fund under section 312 of this act.

(3) This section is null and void unless sections 101 through 114, 201 through 206, 301 through 333, and 401 through 412 of ESSB 5338 are enacted into law by June 30, 1989.

Sec. 310. Section 82.44.160, chapter 15, Laws of 1961 as last amended by section 7, chapter 54, Laws of 1974 ex. sess. and RCW 82.44.160 are each amended to read as follows:

Before distributing moneys to the cities and towns from the general fund, as provided in ~~((RCW 82.44.156))~~ section 309 of this act, and from the municipal sales and use tax equalization account, as provided in RCW 82.14.210, the state treasurer shall, on the first day of July of each year, make an annual deduction therefrom of a sum equal to one-half of the biennial appropriation made pursuant to this section, which amount shall be at least seven cents per capita of the population of all cities or towns as legally certified on that date, determined as provided in ~~((said section))~~ RCW 82.44.150, which sum shall be apportioned and transmitted to the municipal research council, herein created. Sixty-five percent of the annual deduction shall be from the distribution to cities and towns under section 309 of this act, and thirty-five percent of the annual deduction shall be from the distribution to the municipal sales and use tax equalization account under RCW 82.14.210. The municipal research council may contract with and allocate moneys to any state agency, educational institution, or private consulting firm, which in its judgment is qualified to carry on a municipal research and service program. Moneys may be utilized to match federal funds available for technical research and service programs to cities and towns. Sec. 314. Section 21, chapter 49, Laws of 1982 1st ex. sess. as last amended by section 82, chapter 57, Laws of 1985 and RCW 82.14.200 are each amended to read as follows:

There is created in the state treasury a special account to be known as the "county sales and use tax equalization account." Into this account shall be placed a portion of all motor vehicle excise tax receipts as provided in RCW ~~((82-44-156(2)))~~ 82.44.110~~(6)~~. Funds in this account shall be allocated by the state treasurer according to the following procedure:

(1) Prior to April 1st of each year the director of revenue shall inform the state treasurer of the total and the per capita levels of revenues for the unincorporated area of each county and the state-wide weighted average per capita level of revenues for the unincorporated areas of all counties imposing the sales and use tax authorized under RCW 82.14.030(1) for the previous calendar year.

(2) At such times as distributions are made under RCW 82.44.150, as now or hereafter amended, the state treasurer shall apportion to each county imposing the sales and use tax under RCW 82.14.030(1) at the maximum rate and receiving less than one hundred fifty thousand dollars from the tax for the previous calendar year, an amount from the county sales and use tax equalization account sufficient, when added to the amount of revenues received the previous calendar year by the county, to equal one hundred fifty thousand dollars.

The department of revenue shall establish a governmental price index as provided in this subsection. The base year for the index shall be the end of the third quarter of 1982. Prior to November 1, 1983, and prior to each November 1st thereafter, the department of revenue shall establish another index figure for the third quarter of that year. The department of revenue may use the implicit price deflators for state and local government purchases of goods and services calculated by the United States department of commerce to establish the governmental price index. Beginning on January 1, 1984, and each January 1st thereafter, the one hundred fifty thousand dollar base figure in this subsection shall be adjusted in direct proportion to the percentage change in the governmental price index from 1982 until the year before the adjustment. Distributions made under this subsection for 1984 and thereafter shall use this adjusted base amount figure.

(3) Subsequent to the distributions under subsection (2) of this section and at such times as distributions are made under RCW 82.44.150, as now or hereafter amended, the state treasurer shall apportion to each county imposing the sales and use tax under RCW 82.14.030(1) at the maximum rate and receiving less than seventy percent of the state-wide weighted average per capita level of revenues for the unincorporated areas of all counties as determined by the department of revenue under subsection (1) of this section, an amount from the county sales and use tax equalization account sufficient, when added to the per capita level of revenues for the unincorporated area received the previous calendar year by the county, to equal seventy percent of the state-wide weighted average per capita level of revenues for the unincorporated areas of all counties determined under subsection (1) of this section, subject to reduction under subsections (6) and (7) of this section. When computing distributions under this section, any distribution under subsection (2) of this section shall be considered revenues received from the tax imposed under RCW 82.14.030(1) for the previous calendar year.

(4) Subsequent to the distributions under subsection (3) of this section and at such times as distributions are made under RCW 82.44.150, as now or hereafter amended, the state treasurer shall apportion to each county imposing the sales and use tax under RCW 82.14.030(2) at the maximum rate and receiving a distribution under subsection (2) of this section, a third distribution from the county sales and use tax equalization account. The distribution to each qualifying county shall be equal to the distribution to the county under subsection (2) of this section, subject to the reduction under subsections (6) and (7) of this section. To qualify for the total distribution under this subsection, the county must impose the tax under RCW 82.14.030(2) for the entire calendar year. Counties imposing the tax for less than the full year shall qualify for prorated allocations under this subsection proportionate to the number of months of the year during which the tax is imposed.

(5) Subsequent to the distributions under subsection (4) of this section and at such times as distributions are made under RCW 82.44.150, as now or hereafter amended, the state treasurer shall apportion to each county imposing the sales and use tax under RCW 82.14.030(2) at the maximum rate and receiving a distribution under subsection (3) of this section, a fourth distribution from the county sales and use tax equalization account. The distribution to each qualifying county shall be equal to the distribution to the county under subsection (3) of this section, subject to the reduction under subsections (6) and (7) of this section. To qualify for the distributions under this subsection, the county must impose the tax under RCW 82.14.030(2) for the entire calendar year. Counties imposing the tax for less than the full year shall qualify for prorated allocations under this subsection proportionate to the number of months of the year during which the tax is imposed.

(6) Revenues distributed under this section in any calendar year shall not exceed an amount equal to seventy percent of the state-wide weighted average per capita level of revenues for the unincorporated areas of all counties during the previous calendar year. If distributions under subsections (3) through (5) of this section cannot be made because of this limitation, then distributions under subsections (3) through (5) of this section shall be reduced ratably among the qualifying counties.

(7) If inadequate revenues exist in the county sales and use tax equalization account to make the distributions under subsections (3) through (5) of this section, then the distributions under subsections (3) through (5) of this section shall be reduced ratably among the qualifying counties. At such time during the year as additional funds accrue to the county sales and use tax equalization account, additional distributions shall be made under subsections (3) through (5) of this section to the counties.

(8) If the level of revenues in the county sales and use tax equalization account exceeds the amount necessary to make the distributions under subsections (2) through (5) of this section, then the additional revenues shall be credited and transferred to the state general fund.

(9) All earnings of investments of balances in the county sales and use tax equalization account shall be credited to the general fund.

The 1989 amendments to this section are null and void unless sections 101 through 114, 201 through 206, 301 through 333, and 401 through 412 of ESSB 5338 are enacted into law by June 30, 1989.

Sec. 315. Section 22, chapter 49, Laws of 1982 1st ex. sess. as last amended by section 83, chapter 57, Laws of 1985 and RCW 82.14.210 are each amended to read as follows:

There is created in the state treasury a special account to be known as the "municipal sales and use tax equalization account." Into this account shall be placed such revenues as are provided under RCW (~~(82-44-150(3)(b))~~) 82.44.110(5). Funds in this account shall be allocated by the state treasurer according to the following procedure:

(1) Prior to April 1st of each year the director of revenue shall inform the state treasurer of the total and the per capita levels of revenues for each city and the state-wide weighted average per capita level of revenues for all cities imposing the sales and use tax authorized under RCW 82.14.030(1) for the previous calendar year.

(2) At such times as distributions are made under RCW 82.44.150, as now or hereafter amended, the state treasurer shall apportion to each city not imposing the sales and use tax under RCW 82.14.030(2) an amount from the municipal sales and use tax equalization account equal to the amount distributed to the city under (~~RCW 82-44-150(3)(a))~~ section 309 of this act multiplied by thirty-five sixty-fifths.

(3) Subsequent to the distributions under subsection (2) of this section, and at such times as distributions are made under RCW 82.44.150, as now or hereafter amended, the state treasurer shall apportion to each city imposing the sales and use tax under RCW 82.14.030(1) at the maximum rate and receiving less than seventy percent of the state-wide weighted average per capita level of revenues for all cities as determined by the department of revenue under subsection (1) of this section, an amount from the municipal sales and use tax equalization account sufficient, when added to the per capita level of revenues received the previous calendar year by the city, to equal seventy percent of the state-wide weighted average per capita level of revenues for all cities determined under subsection (1) of this section, subject to reduction under subsection (5) of this section.

(4) Subsequent to the distributions under subsection (3) of this section, and at such times as distributions are made under RCW 82.44.150, as now or hereafter amended, the state treasurer shall apportion to each city imposing the sales and use tax under RCW 82.14.030(2) at the maximum rate and receiving a distribution under subsection (3) of this section, a third distribution from the municipal sales and use tax equalization account. The distribution to each qualifying city shall be equal to the distribution to the city under subsection (3) of this section, subject to the reduction under subsection (5) of this section. To qualify for the distributions under this subsection, the city must impose the tax under RCW 82.14.030(2) for the entire calendar year.

Cities imposing the tax for less than the full year shall qualify for prorated allocations under this subsection proportionate to the number of months of the year during which the tax is imposed.

(5) If inadequate revenues exist in the municipal sales and use tax equalization account to make the distributions under subsection (3) or (4) of this section, then the distributions under subsection (3) or (4) of this section shall be reduced ratably among the qualifying cities. At such time during the year as additional funds accrue to the municipal sales and use tax equalization account, additional distributions shall be made under subsections (3) and (4) of this section to the cities.

(6) If the level of revenues in the municipal sales and use tax equalization account exceeds the amount necessary to make the distributions under subsections (2) through (4) of this section, then the additional revenues shall be apportioned among the several cities within the state ratably on the basis of population as last determined by the office of financial management: PROVIDED, That no such distribution shall be made to those cities receiving a distribution under subsection (2) of this section.

(7) For a city or town initially incorporated on or after January 1, 1983, at the time distributions are made under subsection (3) of this section, the state treasurer shall place into a separate designated account for such city or town a pro rata amount of the revenues received under RCW ~~((82.44.156(3)(b)))~~ 82.44.110(5) equal to the city's or town's population multiplied by the amount of equalization funds to which the city or town would be entitled if its per capita yield the previous calendar year were zero. Such account shall take effect on January 1st of the first full calendar year during which the city or town imposes the taxes authorized by RCW 82.14.030(1) and shall cease to exist on December 31st of that year.

(8) All earnings of investments of balances in the municipal sales and use tax equalization account shall be credited to the general fund.

At the time that sales and use tax distributions are made pursuant to RCW 82.14.060, the revenues in such designated account shall be added to the city's or town's sales and use tax distributions so as to provide to such city or town an amount which reflects what such jurisdiction's entitlement from the municipal sales and use tax equalization account would have been if the actual distributions of sales and use tax revenues to such city or town had been received the previous full calendar year. Any excess revenues remaining in such designated account upon its expiration shall be apportioned according to subsection (6) of this section. If the department of revenue determines during the year that any funds in the designated account are not necessary for the purposes of distribution under this subsection, the department may deposit those funds in the municipal sales and use tax equalization account to be apportioned according to subsection (6) of this section.

The 1989 amendments to this section are null and void unless sections 101 through 114, 201 through 206, 301 through 333, and 401 through 412 of ESSB 5338 are enacted into law by June 30, 1989.

The 1989 amendments to this section are null and void unless sections 101 through 114, 201 through 206, 301 through 333, and 401 through 412 of ESSB 5338 are enacted into law by June 30, 1989.

Sec. 408. Section 5, chapter 344, Laws of 1981 as amended by section 25, chapter 15, Laws of 1983 and RCW 47.60.326 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) In order to maintain an adequate, fair, and economically sound schedule of charges for the transportation of passengers, vehicles, and commodities on the Washington state ferries, ~~((including the Hood Canal bridge.))~~ the department of transportation each year shall conduct a full review of such charges.

(2) Prior to February 1st of each odd-numbered year the department shall transmit to the transportation commission a report of its review together with its recommendations for the revision of a schedule of charges for the ensuing biennium. The commission on or before July 1st of that year shall adopt as a rule, in the manner provided by the Washington administrative procedure act, a schedule of charges for the Washington state ferries for the ensuing biennium commencing July 1st. The schedule may initially be adopted as an emergency rule if necessary to take effect on, or as near as possible to, July 1st.

(3) The department in making its review and formulating recommendations and the commission in adopting a schedule of charges may consider any of the following factors:

- (a) The amount of subsidy available to the ferry system for maintenance and operation;
- (b) The time and distance of ferry runs;

(c) The maintenance and operation costs for ferry runs with a proper adjustment for higher costs of operating outmoded or less efficient equipment;

(d) The efficient distribution of traffic between cross-sound routes;

(e) The desirability of reasonable commutation rates for persons using the ferry system to commute daily to work;

(f) The effect of proposed fares in increasing walk-on and vehicular passenger use;

(g) The effect of proposed fares in promoting all types of ferry use during nonpeak periods;

(h) Such other factors as prudent managers of a major ferry system would consider.

(4) If at any time during the biennium it appears that projected toll revenues from the ferry system, together with the appropriation from the Puget Sound ferry operations account and any other operating subsidy available to the Washington state ferries, will be less than the projected total cost of maintenance and operation of the Washington state ferries for the biennium, the department shall forthwith undertake a review of its schedule of charges to ascertain whether or not the schedule of charges should be revised. The department shall, upon completion of its review report, submit its recommendation to the transportation commission which may in its sound discretion revise the schedule of charges as required to meet necessary maintenance and operation expenditures of the ferry system for the biennium or may defer action until the regular annual review and revision of ferry charges as provided in subsection (2) of this section.

(5) The provisions of RCW 47.60.330 relating to public participation shall apply to the process of revising ferry tolls under this section.

To the extent that all revenues from the Washington state ferry system (~~and the Hood Canal bridge~~) available therefor are insufficient to provide for the payment of principal and interest on the bonds authorized and issued under RCW 47.60.400 through 47.60.470 and for sinking fund requirements established with respect thereto and for payment into such reserves as the department has established with respect to the securing of the bonds, there is imposed a first and prior charge against the Puget Sound capital construction account of the motor vehicle fund created by RCW 47.60.505 and, to the extent required, against all revenues required by RCW 46.68.100 to be deposited in the Puget Sound capital construction account.

To the extent that the revenues from the Washington state ferry system (~~and the Hood Canal bridge~~) available therefor are insufficient to meet required payments of principal and interest on bonds, sinking fund requirements, and payments into reserves, the department shall use moneys in the Puget Sound capital construction account for such purpose. (~~Any moneys from the Puget Sound capital construction account used by the department to pay the obligations shall be repaid by the department to the motor vehicle fund from tolls of the Washington state ferry system and the Hood Canal bridge, and tolls shall be continued for any required additional length of time necessary for this purpose.~~)

The 1989 amendments to this section are null and void unless sections 101 through 114, 201 through 206, 301 through 333, and 401 through 412 of ESSB 5338 are enacted into law by June 30, 1989.

Subject to the provisions of RCW 47.60.326 the commission shall maintain and revise from time to time as necessary a schedule of tolls and charges on said ferry system and, if necessary to comply with bond covenants, on the Hood Canal bridge which together with any moneys in the Puget Sound ferry operations account appropriated for maintenance and operation and all moneys in the Puget Sound capital construction account available for debt service will produce net revenue available for debt service, in each fiscal year, in an amount at least equal to minimum annual debt service requirements as hereinafter provided. Minimum annual debt service requirements as used in this section shall include required payments of principal and interest, sinking fund requirements, and payments into reserves on all outstanding revenue bonds authorized by RCW 47.60.400 through 47.60.470.

The provisions of law relating to the revision of tolls and charges to meet minimum annual debt service requirements from net revenues as required by this section shall be binding upon the commission but shall not be deemed to constitute a contract to that effect for the benefit of the holders of such bonds.

A report to the legislature shall be issued by December 1, 1989.

(2) "Seller" means every person, including the state and its departments and institutions, making sales at retail or retail sales to a buyer or consumer, whether as agent, broker, or principal, except "seller" does not mean the state and its departments and institutions when making sales to the state and its departments and institutions((:)).

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Talmadge: "Senator McDonald, I understand that there are probably as many as a dozen victims of crime who are presently at or will exceed the present cap that's placed in this legislation. If someone were in that particular state—they had come close to the present cap that's provided for in this bill—and the bill passes and is signed by the Governor and that person is receiving medical care paid for by the Department of Labor and Industries, is it your intent that that individual be cut off from any further payment or medical care for that individual?"

Senator McDonald: "My understanding, Senator Talmadge, is there's only a small handful of people that have exceeded the one hundred fifty thousand dollars. I think at the particular time that we do have one that exceeds that amount, that is time for us to go back and look at the system, look at those particular cases and if they warrant, yes we can indeed make modifications at that time. But, I think that it calls for the fact that we need to have a limit on it. It is one that is recommended at forty-five thousand dollars, as you well know, from the Governor's office and we have more than tripled that, so I think it's a reasonable compromise and if that answers your question--"

Senator Talmadge: "Sounded like a lot of engineer talk to me, Senator, but I guess the answer is, 'yes,' that those individuals would be cut off if they were on life support or in a semi-comatose state. The state is not going to pay for any more medical care of any kind and those individuals are, in fact, cut off from any further payments for their medical services."

Senator McDonald: "Well, Senator Talmadge, sometimes us engineers learn a few things about talking from you lawyers."

Further debate ensued.

The President declared the question before the Senate to be the roll call on the final passage of Engrossed Substitute House Bill No. 1737, as amended by the Senate.

ENGROSSED SUBSTITUTE SENATE BILL NO. 5897, by Committee on Health Care and Corrections (originally sponsored by Senators West, Kreidler and McDonald)

Regarding alcohol and drug treatment.

MOTION

On motion of Senator West, the rules were suspended and Engrossed Substitute Senate Bill No. 5897 was returned to second reading and read the second time.

MOTION

On motion of Senator West, the following amendment by Senator McDonald was adopted:

Strike everything after the enacting clause and insert the following:

NEW SECTION. Sec. 1. The legislature recognizes that alcoholism and drug addiction are treatable diseases and that most persons with this illness can recover. For this reason, this chapter provides a range of substance abuse treatment services. In addition, the legislature recognizes that when these diseases have progressed to the stage where a person's alcoholism or drug addiction has resulted in physiological or organic damage or cognitive impairment, shelter services may be appropriate. The legislature further recognizes that distinguishing alcoholics and drug addicts from persons incapacitated due to physical disability or mental illness is necessary in order to provide an incentive for alcoholics and drug addicts to seek appropriate treatment and in order to avoid use of programs that are not oriented toward their conditions.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 2. A new section is added to chapter 74.50 RCW to read as follows:

A person is eligible for shelter services under this chapter only if he or she:

(1) Meets the financial eligibility requirements contained in RCW 74.04.005;

(2) Is incapacitated from gainful employment due to a condition contained in subsection (3) of this section, which incapacity will likely continue for a minimum of sixty days; and

(3) (a) Suffers from active addiction to alcohol or drugs manifested by physiological or organic damage resulting in functional limitation, based on documented evidence from a physician, psychologist, or alcohol or drug treatment professional who is determined by the department to be qualified to make this finding; or

(b) Suffers from active addiction to alcohol or drugs to the extent that impairment of the applicant's cognitive ability will not dissipate with sobriety or detoxification, based on documented evidence from a physician, psychologist, or alcohol or drug treatment professional who is determined by the department to be qualified to make this finding.

Sec. 3. Section 7, chapter 406, Laws of 1987 as amended by section 4, chapter 163, Laws of 1988 and RCW 74.50.060 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) The department shall establish a shelter assistance program to ~~((ensure the availability of))~~ provide, within available funds, shelter for persons eligible under this chapter. "Shelter," "shelter support," or "shelter assistance" means a facility under contract to the department providing room and board in a supervised living arrangement, normally in a group or dormitory setting, to eligible recipients under this chapter. This may include supervised domiciliary facilities operated under the auspices of public or private agencies. No facility under contract to the department shall allow the consumption of alcoholic beverages on the premises. The department may contract with counties and cities for such shelter services. To the extent possible, the department shall not displace existing emergency shelter beds for use as shelter under this chapter. In areas of the state in which it is not feasible to develop shelters, due to low numbers of people needing shelter services, or in which sufficient numbers of shelter beds are not available, the department may provide shelter through an intensive protective payee((s)) program, unless the department grants an exception on an individual basis for less intense supervision.

(2) Persons continuously eligible for the general assistance—unemployable program since July 25, 1987, who transfer to the program established by this chapter, have the option to continue their present living situation, but only through a protective payee.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 4. A new section is added to chapter 74.50 RCW to read as follows:

(1) A person shall not be eligible for treatment services under this chapter unless he or she:

(a) Meets the financial eligibility requirements contained in RCW 74.04.005; and

(b) Is incapacitated from gainful employment, which incapacity will likely continue for a minimum of sixty days.

(2) First priority for receipt of treatment services shall be given to pregnant women and parents of young children.

(3) In order to rationally allocate treatment services, the department may establish by rule caseload ceilings and additional eligibility criteria, including the setting of priorities among classes of persons for the receipt of treatment services. Any such rules shall be consistent with any conditions or limitations contained in any appropriations for treatment services.

Sec. 5. Section 6, chapter 406, Laws of 1987 as amended by section 3, chapter 163, Laws of 1988 and RCW 74.50.050 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) The department shall establish a treatment program to provide, within available funds, alcohol and drug treatment services for indigent persons eligible under this chapter ~~((who are incapacitated from gainful employment due to drug or alcohol abuse or addiction))~~. The treatment services may include but are not limited to:

(a) Intensive inpatient treatment services;

(b) Recovery house treatment;

(c) Outpatient treatment and counseling, including assistance in obtaining employment, and including a living allowance while undergoing outpatient treatment. The living allowance may not be used to provide shelter to clients in a dormitory setting that does not require sobriety as a condition of residence. The living allowance shall be administered on the clients' behalf by the outpatient treatment facility or other social service agency designated by the department. The department is authorized to pay the facility a fee for administering this allowance.

~~((2))~~ ~~((Every effort will be made to serve all of those requesting treatment. If a waiting list develops, those persons awaiting treatment may be provided shelter services and shall have the option of receiving such shelter services through a protective payee. The department shall promulgate regulations which determine the amount of cash which may be disbursed by the protective payee to the recipient. A recipient who fails to appear for the scheduled treatment shall not be eligible for such waiting period benefits for a period of one year.~~

~~((3))~~ No individual may receive treatment services under this section for more than six months in any two-year period: PROVIDED, That the department may approve additional treatment and/or living allowance as an exception.

~~((4))~~ (3) The department may require an applicant or recipient selecting treatment to complete inpatient and recovery house treatment when, in the judgment of a designated assessment center, such treatment is necessary prior to providing the outpatient program.

Sec. 6. Section 2, chapter 3, Laws of 1989 (uncodified) is amended to read as follows:

~~((Within available funds, the department may provide to eligible persons services for assessment, inpatient and outpatient treatment, and shelter, in order to control expenditures or to comply with conditions or limitations placed on appropriations, the department may establish caseload ceilings and client eligibility standards for any of these services. The eligibility standards may provide for limiting eligibility for any service to that class or classes of applicants that the department determines constitute the highest priority for services under this chapter. The department's determination of priority shall be based on the department's estimate of the potential benefit to applicants and the likelihood that the service will reduce future demands for state assistance. The department may provide such a priority classification system for any or all services provided under this chapter. Any caseload ceiling or priority classification system adopted by the department shall be consistent with any appropriation condition or limitation prescribing or dealing with such a ceiling or system))~~ The department by rule may establish procedures for the administration of the services provided by this chapter. Any rules shall be consistent with any conditions or limitations on appropriations provided for these services. If funds provided for any ((of these)) service(s) under this chapter have been fully expended, the department shall immediately discontinue that service.

NEW SECTION, Sec. 7. A new section is added to chapter 74.50 RCW to read as follows:

The department of social and health services shall:

(1) Collect and maintain relevant demographic data regarding persons receiving or awaiting treatment services under this chapter;

(2) Collect and maintain utilization data on inpatient treatment, outpatient treatment, shelter services, and medical services;

(3) Monitor contracted service providers to ensure conformance with the omnibus appropriations act and the treatment priorities established in this chapter;

(4) Report the results of the data collection and monitoring provided for in this section to appropriate committees of the legislature on or before December 1, 1989, and December 1, 1990.

NEW SECTION, Sec. 8. The following acts or parts of acts are each repealed:

(1) Section 1, chapter 3, Laws of 1989 (uncodified); and

(2) Section 3, chapter 406, Laws of 1987 and RCW 74.50.020.

NEW SECTION, Sec. 9. If any provision of this act or its application to any person or circumstance is held invalid, the remainder of the act or the application of the provision to other persons or circumstances is not affected.

NEW SECTION, Sec. 10. This act is necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health, or safety, or support of the state government and its existing public institutions, and shall take effect July 1, 1989."

MOTION

On motion of Senator West, the rules were suspended, Engrossed Senate Bill No. 6152 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third and the bill was placed on final passage.

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Talmadge: "Senator West, the one question I had related to the section relating to health data and charity care--I guess in particular the definition of 'charity care.' As you know, we're collecting data now that relates to what hospitals are actually doing in the way of charitable activities, but also what hospitals are doing in the way of bad debt, which frequently can be related to their level of charitable endeavor. Would this bill permit continuation of the collection of data with respect to both pure charity care and also bad debt that might, in fact, be a disguised form of charitable care?"

Senator West: "Senator Talmadge, I believe that it will."

Senator Talmadge: "Thank you."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Kreidler: "Senator West, one of the real concerns that I've had is that discounts could be negotiated by large health purchasers. Are there going to be any constraints now at all on large health purchasers discounts that they might negotiate with hospitals? Currently, there has been the Hospital Rate Commission that's limited their discounts. Will there be any constraints now at all with the newly constituted new Department of Health and how the Hospital Commission continues to exist in the watered down form?"

Senator West: "Senator Kreidler, there will be no statutory constraints to discounting. There will be data collection and publication of rates that hospitals are charging amongst the various users."

Senator Kreidler: "Thank you, Senator West."

Further debate ensued.

MOTION

On motion of Senator Anderson, Senator Matson was excused.

The President declared the question before the Senate to be the roll call on the final passage of Engrossed Senate Bill No. 6152.

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll on the final passage of Engrossed Senate Bill No. 6152 and the bill passed the Senate by the following vote: Yeas, 39; nays, 5; excused, 5.

THIRD READING

ENGROSSED SENATE BILL NO. 6106, by Senator McDonald

Relating to social and health services.

MOTION

On motion of Senator Newhouse, the rules were suspended and Engrossed Senate Bill No. 6106 was returned to second reading and read the second time.

MOTION

On motion of Senator Hayner, the following amendment by Senators McDonald and Hayner was adopted:

Strike everything after the enacting clause and insert the following:

NEW SECTION. Sec. 1. LEGISLATIVE INTENT. (1) The legislature finds that Washington state and the nation as a whole have a high rate of infant illness and death compared with other industrialized nations. This is especially true for minority and low-income populations. Premature and low weight births have been directly linked to infant illness and death. The availability of adequate maternity care throughout the course of pregnancy has been identified as a major factor in reducing infant illness and death. Further, the investment in preventive health care programs, such as maternity care, contributes to the growth of a healthy and productive society, and is a sound approach to health care cost containment. The legislature further finds that access to maternity care for low-income women in the state of Washington has declined significantly in recent years and has reached a crisis level.

(2) It is the purpose of this chapter to provide, consistent with appropriated funds, maternity care necessary to ensure healthy birth outcomes for low-income families. To this end, a maternity care access system is established based on the following principles:

(a) The family is the fundamental unit in our society and should be supported through public policy.

(b) Access to maternity care for eligible persons should be made readily available in an expeditious manner through a single service entry point.

(c) Unnecessary barriers to maternity care for eligible persons should be removed.

(d) Access to preventive and other health care services should be available for low-income children.

(e) Each woman should be encouraged to and assisted in making her own informed decisions about her maternity care.

(f) Unnecessary barriers to the provision of maternity care by qualified health professionals should be removed.

(g) The system should be sensitive to cultural differences among eligible persons.

(h) To the extent possible, decisions about the scope, content, and delivery of services should be made at the local level involving a broad representation of community interests.

(i) The maternity care access system should be evaluated at appropriate intervals to determine effectiveness and need for modification.

(j) Maternity care services should be delivered in a cost-effective manner.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 2. DEFINITIONS. Unless the context clearly requires otherwise, the definitions in this section apply throughout sections 1 through 5, 7, and 8 of this act and RCW 74.09.510.

(1) "County authority" means the board of county commissioners, county council, or county executive having the authority to participate in the program created by this act or its designee. Two or more county authorities may enter into joint agreements to fulfill the requirements of this act.

(2) "Department" means the department of social and health services.

(3) "Eligible person" means a woman in need of maternity care or a child, who is eligible for medical assistance pursuant to this chapter.

(4) "Health care provider" means physician, nurse practitioner, registered nurse, midwife, and nursing assistants-registered.

(5) "High-risk eligible person" means an eligible person determined by the department to need special assistance in applying for and obtaining maternity care, including in the following order of priority, pregnant women who are drug or alcohol addicted or affected, pregnant and parenting adolescents, pregnant minority women who live in poverty, pregnant homeless women, and other eligible persons who need special assistance in gaining access to the maternity care system.

(6) "Maternity care services" means inpatient and outpatient medical care, case management, and support services necessary during prenatal, delivery, and postpartum periods.

(7) "Support services" should include a nursing assessment and followup, health and child-birth education, psychological assessment and counseling, outreach services, nutritional assessment and counseling, needed vitamin and nonprescriptive drugs, transportation, and child care. Support services may include alcohol and substance abuse treatment for pregnant women who are addicted or at risk of being addicted to alcohol or drugs to the extent funds are made available for that purpose by Engrossed Second Substitute House Bill No. 1793, if enacted.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 3. HEALTH CARE PROVIDER AVAILABILITY AND LIABILITY INSURANCE.

(1) The legislature finds that a major factor contributing to the decline in the number of health care providers providing maternity care to low-income women is the below cost reimbursement to those providers for services delivered. Consequently, it is the legislature's intent that the reimbursement levels to health care providers be increased to the extent allowed by the funds appropriated for that purpose.

(2) The sum of fourteen million three hundred ten thousand dollars, or as much thereof as may be necessary, of which seven million seven hundred ten thousand dollars shall be from federal funds, is appropriated from the state general fund for the biennium ending June 30, 1991, to the department of social and health services, medical assistance program, to increase reimbursement levels to health care providers for the delivery of maternity services.

(3) An additional barrier to the provision of maternity care to low-income women by health care providers is the lack of affordable liability insurance for health care providers. To help remedy this problem, the department may, within available funds, develop a program that addresses maternity care health care provider's liability insurance problems.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 4. MATERNITY CARE ACCESS PROGRAM. In an effort to provide for healthy births, the department shall, within funds appropriated for this purpose and subject to limitations placed on those funds, develop a maternity care access program as follows:

(1) Provide maternity care services to low-income pregnant women and health care services to children eligible solely pursuant to RCW 74.09.510(6) to the maximum extent allowable under the medical assistance program, Title XIX of the federal social security act.

The sum of forty-seven million five hundred thirty-one thousand dollars, or as much thereof as may be necessary, of which twenty-five million five hundred seventy thousand dollars shall be from federal funds, is appropriated from the state general fund for the biennium ending June 30, 1991, to the department of social and health services, medical assistance program, for medical assistance for categorically needy pregnant women and children under one year of age whose household income does not exceed one hundred eighty-five percent of the federal poverty level, whose resources do not exceed reasonable standards established by the department, and whose coverage qualifies for federal financial participation under Title XIX of the federal social security act.

The sum of nine million five hundred thirty thousand dollars, or as much thereof as may be necessary, of which five million one hundred ten thousand dollars shall be from federal funds, is appropriated from the state general fund for the biennium ending June 30, 1991, to the department of social and health services, medical assistance program, for medical assistance for children under eight years of age whose family income does not exceed one hundred percent of the federal poverty level, whose resources do not exceed reasonable standards established by the department, and whose coverage qualifies for federal financial participation under Title XIX of the federal social security act:

(2) Provide that if a woman enters the maternity care access program and later decides to terminate her pregnancy, then she shall qualify for further services through the family planning program at the bureau of parent and child health services in the department;

(3) Provide maternity care services to low-income women with household incomes at or below one hundred eighty-five percent of the federal poverty level as determined annually by the federal department of health and human services;

(4) By January 1, 1990, have the following procedures in place to improve access to maternity care services and eligibility determinations for pregnant women applying for maternity care services under the medical assistance program, Title XIX of the federal social security act:

(a) Use of a shortened and simplified application form;

(b) Outstationing department staff, at the department's discretion, to make eligibility determinations;

(c) Establishing local plans at the county and regional level, coordinated by the department;

(d) Conducting an interview for the purpose of determining medical assistance eligibility within five working days of the date of an application by a pregnant woman and making an eligibility determination within fifteen working days of the date of application by a pregnant woman;

(5) Establish a maternity care case management system that shall assist only high-risk eligible persons with obtaining medical assistance benefits and receiving maternity care services, including transportation and child care services.

The sum of eight million eight hundred forty-one thousand dollars, or as much thereof as may be necessary, of which four million seven hundred forty-one thousand dollars shall be from federal funds, is appropriated from the state general fund for the biennium ending June 30, 1991, to the department of social and health services, medical assistance program, for the purpose of establishing a maternity care case management system as prescribed in this act.

The sum of ten million one hundred fifty-three thousand dollars, or as much thereof as may be necessary, of which five million three hundred thirty-six thousand dollars shall be from federal funds, is appropriated from the state general fund for the biennium ending June 30, 1991, to the department of social and health services, children and family services program, for the purpose of establishing a maternity care support service system as prescribed in this act.

(6) Implement a broad-based public education program, in cooperation with local health departments and other agencies providing maternity care, that stresses the importance of obtaining maternity care early during pregnancy. Special emphasis shall be directed toward high-risk eligible persons;

(7) Develop and maintain linkages with existing maternity care providers and assist in the recruitment of additional maternity care providers;

(8) Work with local communities to develop maternity care clinics in areas in need of access to prenatal or maternity care, or if such clinics already exist, work to enhance existing services; and

(9) Study the desirability and feasibility of implementing the presumptive eligibility provisions set forth in section 9407 of the federal omnibus budget reconciliation act of 1986 and report to the appropriate committees of the legislature by December 1, 1989.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 5. ALTERNATIVE MATERNITY CARE SERVICE DELIVERY SYSTEM. (1) Within funds appropriated for this purpose, the department shall establish an alternative maternity care service delivery system, if it determines that a county or group of counties is a maternity care distressed area. A maternity care distressed area shall be defined by the department, in rule, as a county or group of counties where eligible persons are unable to obtain adequate maternity care. The department shall include the following factors in its determination:

(a) Higher than average percentage of eligible persons in the distressed area who receive late or no prenatal care;

(b) Higher than average percentage of eligible persons in the distressed area who go out of the area to receive maternity care;

(c) Lower than average percentage of obstetrical care providers in the distressed area who provide care to eligible persons;

(d) Higher than average percentage of infants born to eligible persons per obstetrical care provider in the distressed area; and

(e) Higher than average percentage of infants that are of low birth weight, five and one-half pounds or two thousand five hundred grams, born to eligible persons in the distressed area.

(2) If the department determines that a maternity care distressed area exists, it shall notify the relevant county authority. The county authority shall, within one hundred twenty days, submit a brief report to the department recommending remedial action. The report shall be prepared in consultation with the department and its local community service offices, the local public health offices, community health clinics, health care providers, hospitals, the business community, labor representatives, and low-income advocates in the distressed area. A county authority may contract with a local nonprofit entity to develop the report. If the county authority is unwilling or unable to develop the report, it shall notify the department within thirty days, and the department shall develop the report for the distressed area.

(3) The department shall review the report and use it, to the extent possible, in developing strategies to improve maternity care access in the distressed area. The department may contract with or directly employ qualified maternity care health providers to provide maternity care services, if access to such providers in the distressed area is not possible by other means. In such cases, the department is authorized to pay that portion of the health care providers' malpractice liability insurance that represents the percentage of maternity care provided to eligible persons by that provider through increased medical assistance payments.

Sec. 6. Section 4, chapter 30, Laws of 1967 ex. sess. as last amended by section 2, chapter 87, Laws of 1989 and RCW 74.09.510 are each amended to read as follows:

Medical assistance may be provided in accordance with eligibility requirements established by the department of social and health services, as defined in the social security Title XIX state plan for mandatory categorically needy persons and: (1) Individuals who would be eligible for cash assistance except for their institutional status; (2) individuals who are under twenty-one years of age, who would be eligible for aid to families with dependent children, but do not qualify as dependent children and who are in (a) foster care, (b) subsidized adoption, (c) an intermediate care facility or an intermediate care facility for the mentally retarded, or (d) inpatient psychiatric facilities; (3) the aged, blind, and disabled who: (a) Receive only a state supplement, or (b) would not be eligible for cash assistance if they were not institutionalized; (4) individuals who would be eligible for but choose not to receive cash assistance; (5) ~~((pregnant women who would be eligible for aid to families with dependent children if the child had been born and was living with the mother during the month of the payment, and the pregnancy has been medically verified; (6)))~~ individuals who are enrolled in managed health care systems, who have otherwise lost eligibility for medical assistance, but who have not completed a current six-month enrollment in a managed health care system, and who are eligible for federal financial participation under Title XIX of the social security act; (6) children and pregnant women allowed by federal statute for whom funding is appropriated; (7) other individuals eligible for medical services under RCW 74.09.035 and 74.09.700 for whom federal financial participation is available under Title XIX of the social security act.

The sum of one million eight hundred five thousand dollars, or as much thereof as may be necessary, of which nine hundred twenty-six thousand dollars shall be from federal funds, is appropriated from the state general fund for the biennium ending June 30, 1991, to the department of social and health services, community services administration program, for administration and claims processing activities associated with the medical assistance eligibility expansions prescribed in this act, and for prenatal case management and support services claims processing.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 7. EVALUATION. The department, within funds appropriated for this purpose, shall contract with an independent nonprofit entity to evaluate the effectiveness of the maternity care access program set forth in sections 1 through 5 of this act and RCW 74.09.510 based on the principles set forth in section 1 of this act.

The evaluation shall also address:

- (1) Characteristics of women receiving services, including health risk factors;
- (2) Services utilized by eligible women;
- (3) Birth outcomes of women receiving services;
- (4) Birth outcomes of women receiving services, by type of practitioner;
- (5) Services utilized by eligible infants; and
- (6) Referrals to other existing programs for services.

The department shall submit an evaluation report to the appropriate committees of the legislature by December 1, 1990.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 8. PROHIBITION OF ENTITLEMENT. The legislature reserves the right to amend or repeal all or any part of this act at any time and there shall be no vested private right of any kind against such amendment or repeal. All rights, privileges, or immunities conferred by this act or any acts done pursuant thereto shall exist subject to the power of the legislature to amend or repeal this act at any time.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 9. Section headings as used in this act do not constitute any part of the law.

On page 9, after line 32, insert "Prior to imposing the tax under this section, the county legislative authority shall provide by ordinance a procedure under which the electorate may petition to refer the imposition of the tax to the voters, unless the county charter or county ordinances provide for such a procedure."

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Bender: "Senator Nelson, in our discussion with regards to this issue, I thought it was the consensus of those of us talking about this piece of legislation, that we agreed that there be a referendum on the MVET, but not necessarily an employer tax with the HOV. That was my assumption--the agreement that we had worked out between three or four of us. We had discussions on this issue about two or three weeks ago. Am I correct?"

Senator Nelson: "Senator Bender, if you refer to Section 17 of Substitute House Bill No. 1825, I believe that you will note here that this part deals with the MVET and it does have now the referendum procedure, whereas in the head tax we did not have that."

Senator Bender: "I understand that Senator, but our discussions together--Senator Patterson, yourself, and mine--we agreed to leave the HOV, the employer tax, alone with regard to the referendum issue, but agreed that we would have a referendum on the MVET aspect of it."

Senator Nelson: "I was simply responding here in this amendment to those who wished to have a vote on it. I think you're right. I don't frankly believe we need to have any of these mandatory referrals to the voters in the double A and A counties, but this was an amendment that was requested to be run."

Senator Bender: "OK, so this was not part of the agreement before? That's what I wanted to get straight."

Senator Nelson: "That's right."

Senator Bender: "Thank you."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Cantu: "Senator Nelson, I'm a little bit confused. Maybe you could help unravel one thing for me anyway. The amendment on page 26, line 11, that was under the list of technical amendments, I believe those sections dealt with the employer tax and I think if it's the same tax we're talking about, my question is the amendment said the rate of tax shall be approved by the voters. Then it continues about not imposing it if they've imposed the excise tax. This amendment we're considering now, on page 9, after line 32, has a referendum. Am I reading these two amendments correct? That one amendment would require the rate to be approved by the voters, but the other amendment says that once that rate has been approved, they can pull it off?"

Senator Nelson: "Senator Cantu, the amendment that you referred to as a technical amendment on page 26, line 11, refers to the high capacity transportation system, not the HOV. These amendments that we're addressing now deal strictly with the HOV provision and we are requiring that a referendum procedure be required or be in place before you can impose the head tax."

Senator Cantu: "So, we're really talking two different--"

Senator Nelson: "That is correct."

Senator Cantu: "Thank you."

The President declared the question before the Senate to be the adoption of the amendment by Senator Nelson on page 9, after line 32, to Engrossed Substitute House Bill No. 1825.

The motion by Senator Nelson failed and the amendment was not adopted on a rising vote.

MOTION

On motion of Senator Nelson, further consideration of Engrossed Substitute House Bill No. 1825 was deferred.

MOTION

At 8:30 p.m., on motion of Senator Nelson, the Senate was declared to be at ease.

The Senate was called to order at 9:27 p.m. by President Pritchard.

There being no objection, the President returned the Senate to the fourth order of business.

MOTION

Senator Hansen moved that the following amendments be considered simultaneously and be adopted:

On page 4, line 24, add a new subsection to read as follows:

"(5) Any rail rights of way acquired with state money will be for present or future rail purposes and can only be used for other purposes with the consent of the Washington state department of transportation and the consent of the underlying fee title holder or reversionary rights holder, or compensation has been made to the underlying fee title holder or reversionary rights holder."

On page 7, line 23, after "(4)" insert "If rail lines or rail rights of way are used by county rail districts, port districts, state agencies or other public agencies for the purposes of rail operations and are later abandoned, the rail lines rights of way cannot be used for any other purposes without the consent of the underlying fee title holder or reversionary rights holder, or compensation has been made to the underlying fee title holder or reversionary rights holder."

Renumber the remaining subsections accordingly.

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Bailey: "Senator Hansen, in Snohomish County, we have abandoned railroad property that we are developing into a trail program. It runs from Snohomish up through Arlington. It looks to me that in your amendment that we would have to have agreement from the Department of Transportation for Snohomish County or citizens from Snohomish County to acquire and develop property. Is that correct?"

Senator Hansen: "Senator, I believe that this is land rail services that were acquired after this bill is passed. It isn't where a railroad company owned or had reversionary rights and had a rail system in there. All they have to do now, if the railroad had title to that property, then you're right, but if there's anybody that had rail cross their property if it was put in with free title, then there is a reversionary right that they agreed to allow the rail there--as long as it was used for a rail."

"Now, when it quits being used for a rail, they have reversionary rights on that. Now I couldn't tell you whether there's any reversionary rights on that or whether the right-of-way was condemned or purchased at the time it went into effect. All this amendment is talking about is anything that we acquire from here on out with the Department of Transportation--with state money. Then, if they acquire that, they acquire it for a transportation corridor, and if they elect not to have it and they see there's a shorter way or if they don't want that right-of-way anymore and they went back and were given the right-of-way by the landowner to put it across there, then it would revert back to him, because it wasn't being used for a transportation corridor."

Senator Bailey: "I'm still not clear, Senator Hansen. In this case, would you have any idea whether this trail, this purpose and this trail would be under this amendment?"

Senator Hansen: "No, it would not be under this amendment. See, this is from here forward, not what went behind. What I was saying was this one that you're talking about, if there is a reversionary right on that road, they will be able to have the reversionary rights. That's already law, so that part is already in statute. If the railroad didn't have title to that property and they were there on an easement, then the easement holder would have title to the property. I have no idea who owns the right-of-way up there or anything about it. That's a court decision to be made. All this depends on the land acquired from here on out for a transportation corridor."

Senator Bailey: "Thank you."

Further debate ensued.

Senator Bluechel demanded a roll call and the demand was sustained.

The President declared the question before the Senate to be the roll call on the adoption of the amendments by Senator Hansen on page 4, line 24, and page 7, line 23, to Engrossed Substitute House Bill No. 1825.

Public school building construction: 1989 (90-2-001)

The appropriation in this section is subject to the following conditions and limitations:

(1) A maximum of $1,050,000 may be spent for state administration of school construction funding.

(2) $66,136,000 is provided solely for modernization projects previously approved by the state board of education.

(3) The appropriation in this section includes proceeds of the issuance of bonds authorized for deposit in the common school construction fund by chapter 3, Laws of 1987 1st ex. sess., and ten million dollars in additional state bonds authorized by chapter ____, Laws of 1989 (HB 1484). Of the proceeds of bonds authorized by chapter ____, Laws of 1989 (HB 1484), $8,000,000, or as much thereof as may be necessary, shall be compensation to the common school construction fund for the sale of timber from common school trust lands sold to the parks and recreation commission pursuant to RCW 43.51.270, and authorized for sale by the legislature prior to January 1, 1989.

(4) The state board shall review current rules and administrative procedures, and shall amend or revise these rules and procedures to address the following concerns:

(a) The discrepancy between the forecasted enrollments used for determining state funding for school construction, and the state-wide growth trends predicted by the office of financial management;

(b) The infrequency of cooperative use of surplus space available in neighboring districts;

(c) The creation of new construction needs by school districts by selling or demolishing schools, or by redesignating grade space or administrative use of school buildings;

(d) The incentive to condemn useable schools to secure state funding, rather than awaiting uncertain support for modernization;

(e) Greater needs for replacement of decaying schools caused by deferral of modernization, at a higher long-term cost to the state and local districts;

(f) The potential of district boundary changes for the purpose of achieving more efficient use of facilities; and

(g) The potential of the state to recover its share of the value of sold school buildings that were built with state matching moneys.

Prior to September 15, 1989, the state board of education shall report to the capital facilities and financing committee of the house of representatives and the ways and means committee of the senate on the actions taken or rules adopted by the board to address these concerns.

NEW SECTION, Sec. 709. FOR THE SUPERINTENDENT OF PUBLIC INSTRUCTIONSchool housing emergencies

The appropriation in this section is subject to the following conditions and limitations:

(1) This appropriation is provided solely to provide portable classrooms for school districts that have experienced an unanticipated school housing emergency. Portable classrooms provided under this section shall be leased by the superintendent of public instruction to school districts, and the lease payments shall be deposited into the common school construction fund. School districts may qualify for assistance under this section only as a result of events barring students from occupying a school or a portion of a school, and portables shall not be provided under this section to address needs attributable to enrollment growth. The superintendent of public instruction shall provide assistance to a school district under this section only if satisfied that the district has considered other available options and that portable classrooms are the most feasible solution to school housing needs.

(2) Districts receiving assistance under this section shall submit a plan to replace or reopen their closed facilities prior to the end of the lease period, and shall certify that resources are available to meet all terms of the lease.

(3) For the purposes of this section, the term "lease" includes a lease with option to purchase.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 904. FOR THE ARTS COMMISSION—ART WORK ALLOWANCE POOLING

The appropriations in this act are subject to the following conditions and limitations: One-half of one percent of moneys appropriated in this act are provided solely for the purposes of RCW 28A.58.055, 28B.10.027, and 43.17.200.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 905. The amounts shown under the headings "Prior Biennia," "Future Biennia," and "Total" in this act are for informational purposes only and do not constitute legislative approval of these amounts.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 906. "Reappropriations" in this act are appropriations and, unless the context clearly provides otherwise, are subject to the relevant conditions and limitations applicable to appropriations. Reappropriations shall be limited to the unexpended balances remaining June 30, 1989, in the current appropriation for each project.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 907. To carry out the provisions of this act, the governor may assign responsibility for planning, engineering, construction, and other related activities to any appropriate agency.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 908. In order to provide for consistent and comparable asbestos survey data, and to ensure that the chain-of-evidence requirements for asbestos samples and survey data are met in regard to pending asbestos manufacturer litigation:

(1) No state agency shall expend new funds appropriated in the 1989-91 biennium for asbestos surveys prior to approval by the department of general administration of the agency's asbestos survey policies and procedures. At the completion of each survey, state agencies shall submit the findings to the department in a format to be determined by the department.

(2) The department of general administration shall distribute to all state agencies chain-of-evidence requirements, as developed by the department and the office of the attorney general. State agencies expending appropriated funds for asbestos survey and abatement projects shall make every effort to conform with chain-of-evidence requirements.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 909. (1) The office of financial management shall coordinate the efforts of the department of natural resources, the department of social and health services, and the department of general administration to inventory and record all lands and other capital assets acquired or dedicated for the care of blind or deaf or otherwise disabled youth, for juvenile offenders, and for persons who are mentally ill or developmentally disabled. The inventory shall be completed by December 15, 1989.

(2) The legislature intends to contract with an independent consultant to identify strategies for more aggressive management of these lands and facilities to maximize the funds acquired through the use of these lands.

(3) No land or other capital assets described in this section may be sold, given, traded, or encumbered by a new or renewed agreement for any period of time beyond June 30, 1991, unless such agreement is specifically authorized by the legislature.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 910. As part of the annual six-year update to the State Facilities and Capital Plan, agencies shall provide information on lease development and lease purchase projects to the office of financial management.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 911. If any federal moneys appropriated by this act for capital projects are not received by the state, the department or agency to which the moneys were appropriated may replace the federal moneys with any moneys available from private or local sources. No replacement may occur under this section without the prior approval of the director of financial management in consultation with the committees on ways and means of the senate and house of representatives.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 912. Any appropriation in this act that involves appropriated and non-appropriated funds shall comply with RCW 43.88.150. The office of financial management shall report to the legislature by January 1990 all instances where compliance with RCW 43.88.150 has delayed or precluded the completion of any capital project included in this act.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 913. Notwithstanding any other provisions of law, for the 1989-91 biennium, transfers of reimbursement by the state treasurer to the general fund from the community college capital projects account for debt service payments made under the provisions of Title 28B RCW shall occur only after such debt service payment has been made and only to the extent that funds are actually available in the account. Any unpaid reimbursements shall be a continuing obligation against the community college capital projects account until paid. The state board for community college education need not accumulate any specific balance in the community college capital projects account in anticipation of transfers to reimburse the general fund.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 914. State agencies, departments, and institutions moving into new or existing office space or other facilities shall, if practical and feasible, make use of the agencies' existing furnishings and equipment and shall minimize purchases of new furnishings and equipment.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 915. State agencies, departments, and institutions receiving appropriations under this act for unanticipated or emergency repairs shall submit to the fiscal committees of the legislature by January 2, 1990, a description of each expenditure made from the appropriation during the prior eighteen months.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 916. Any capital improvements or capital project involving construction or major expansion of a state office facility, including district headquarters, detachment offices, and off-campus faculty offices, shall be reviewed by the department of general administration for possible consolidation and compliance with state office standards prior to allotment of funds. The intent of the requirement imposed by this section is to eliminate duplication and reduce total office space requirements where feasible, while ensuring proper service to the public.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 917. The governor, through the director of financial management, may authorize a transfer of appropriation authority provided for a capital project which is in excess of the amount required for the completion of such project to another capital project for which the appropriation is insufficient. No such transfer shall be used to expand the capacity of any facility beyond that intended by the legislature in making the appropriation. Such transfers may be effected only between capital appropriations to a specific department, commission, agency, or institution of higher education and only between capital projects which are funded from the same fund or account.

For the purposes of this section, the governor may find that an amount is in excess of the amount required for the completion of a project only if (1) the project as defined in the notes to the budget document is substantially complete and there are funds remaining or (2) bids have been let on a project and it appears to a substantial certainty that the project as defined in the notes to the budget document can be completed within the biennium for less than the amount appropriated herein.

For the purposes of this section, the legislature intends that each project be defined as proposed to the legislature in the governor's budget document, unless it clearly appears from the legislative history that the legislature intended to define the scope of a project in a different way.

A report of any transfer effected under this section shall be filed with the legislative fiscal committees of the senate and house of representatives by the director of financial management within thirty days of the date the transfer is effected.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 918. (1) The legislature finds:

(a) Estimates of capital project costs are prepared in a manner to ensure sufficient funds are available for the completion of projects.

(b) Actual project costs are influenced by variations in cost factors, changing unit price levels, available inventories, inflation rates, gross construction volume at the time of project bid, and other factors that cannot be predicted at the time of estimating capital project costs.

(c) Due to funding limitations, necessary capital projects are deferred to ensuing biennia.

(d) The deferral of capital projects results in increased project costs due to the effects of inflation and increased deterioration of facilities.

(e) No statutory authority currently exists to allow project cost savings to be used to implement necessary capital projects that were deferred to ensuing biennia due to lack of funds.

(2) There is hereby authorized a capital projects cost control incentive program for the 1989-91 biennium.

(3) Appropriations not required by an agency to complete capital projects authorized in this act, may be expended to implement, in priority sequence, those capital projects of the agency listed in the Governor's Six-Year Capital and Facility Plan for the 1991-93 Biennium, as that list exists in the Governor's final 1990 update of the six-year plan. Expenditures under this section are subject to the following conditions:

(a) No expenditure may be made without the prior allotment approval of the office of financial management.

(b) The office of financial management shall notify the senate ways and means and the house capital facilities and financing committees prior to authorizing any project for implementation under this section.

(c) No project may be authorized under this section by the office of financial management unless sufficient funds are available to complete a project's design phase, construction phase, or both.

(d) Appropriations in this act for a capital project shall not be expended under this section unless:

(i) All contracts associated with the performance of the project have been completed and accepted by the state of Washington;

(ii) The statutory thirty-day lien period for each project has expired;

(iii) All claims of lien against project contracts have been satisfied;

(iv) There are no outstanding claims against the state of Washington by any contracted party to the project construction contract; and

(v) Any and all negotiated settlements or settlements arising from the findings of an arbitration board or court of jurisdiction have been satisfied.

NEW SECTION, Sec. 919. The department of information services will act as lead agency in coordinating video telecommunications services for state agencies. As lead agency, the department shall develop standards and common specifications for leased and purchased telecommunications equipment and assist state agencies in developing a video telecommunications expenditure plan. No agency may spend any portion of any appropriation in this act for new video telecommunication equipment, new video telecommunication transmission, or new video telecommunication programming, or for expanding current video telecommunication systems without first complying with chapter 43.105 RCW, including but not limited to RCW 43.105.041(2), and without first submitting a video telecommunications expenditure plan, in accordance with the policies of the department of information services, for review and assessment by the department of information services under RCW 43.105.052. Prior to any such expenditure by a public school, a video telecommunications expenditure plan shall be approved by the superintendent of public instruction. The office of the superintendent of public instruction shall submit the plans to the department of information services in a form prescribed by the department. The office of the superintendent of public instruction shall coordinate the use of video telecommunications in public schools by providing educational information to local school districts and shall assist local school districts and educational service districts in telecommunications planning and curriculum development. Prior to any such expenditure by a public institution of postsecondary education, a telecommunications expenditure plan shall be approved by the higher education coordinating board. The higher education coordinating board shall coordinate the use of video telecommunications for instruction and instructional support in postsecondary education, including the review and approval of instructional telecommunications course offerings.

NEW SECTION, Sec. 920. To ensure that major construction projects are carried out in accordance with legislative and executive intent, capital projects for renovation or additional space contained in this act that exceed two million five hundred thousand dollars for which a program document is not completed prior to September 1, 1988, shall not expend funds for planning and construction until the office of financial management has reviewed the agency's programmatic document and approved continuation of the project. The program document shall include but not be limited to projected workload, site conditions, user requirements, current space available, and an overall budget and cost estimate breakdown.

NEW SECTION, Sec. 921. The appropriations contained in this act are maximum expenditure authorizations. Pursuant to RCW 43.88.037, moneys disbursed from the treasury on the basis of a formalized loan agreement with another governmental entity shall be treated as a loan and are to be recorded as loans receivable and not as expenditures for accounting purposes. To the extent that moneys are disbursed on a loan basis, the corresponding appropriation shall be reduced by the amount of loan moneys disbursed from the treasury during the 1989-91 biennium.

NEW SECTION, Sec. 922. If any provision of this act or its application to any person or circumstance is held invalid, the remainder of the act or the application of the provision to other persons or circumstances is not affected.

NEW SECTION, Sec. 923. This act is necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health, or safety, or support of the state government and its existing public institutions, and shall take effect immediately."

On page 1, line 1 of the title, after "capital budget," strike the remainder of the title and insert "making appropriations and authorizing expenditures for capital improvements; authorizing certain projects; and declaring an emergency."

Signed by Senators Cantu, Vognild, Sellar; Representatives H. Sommers, Braddock, Prince.

General Fund Appropriation—State	$	168,222,000
General Fund Appropriation—Federal	$	91,552,000
General Fund Appropriation—Local	$	3,360,000
Total Appropriation	$	263,134,000

The appropriations in this subsection are subject to the following conditions and limitations:

(a) A maximum of $33,012,000 of the general fund—state appropriation and $16,057,000 of the general fund—federal appropriation are provided for approved regional network plans through contracts negotiated with the secretary of social and health services.

(i) It is the intent of the legislature to implement mental health reform on a multi-year schedule. Dramatic escalation of costs for new programs would impair the state's ability to proceed with subsequent expansion. The contracts shall contain a fiscal plan that will ensure that the increased cost of maintaining fiscal year 1991 programs in fiscal year 1992 will not unduly exceed the rate of inflation. Of the amounts provided in this subsection, a maximum of $500,000 from the general fund—state appropriation may be used for planning and technical assistance grants to counties or regions wishing to form networks. The amounts in this subsection include moneys needed to implement the federal omnibus budget and reconciliation act of 1987 ("OBRA"). First priority for necessary mental health services shall be given to individuals transferred from nursing homes because of OBRA. Such services shall be consistent with an individual's discharge plan and shall include residential services, if needed. Assumptions regarding the number of transfers from the nursing homes shall be incorporated into each contract and shall be consistent with the state-wide plan. The department shall coordinate OBRA transfers consistent with the provisions of each contract. The secretary shall negotiate contracts with networks from areas comprising no more than two-thirds of the state's population. Contracts shall be negotiated in at least two competitive rounds. The first round of contracts shall be effective no later than January 1, 1990. The last round of contracts shall be effective no later than March 1, 1990.

(ii) The department shall continue contracting directly for the Kitsap mental health services residential care alternative project until such time as Kitsap county becomes or joins a regional support network. The reimbursement rate per available bed-day shall not exceed $206 in fiscal year 1990 and $210 in fiscal year 1991. During the contract period, all eligible involuntary treatment referrals for Kitsap county residents shall be made to the project. No involuntary referrals shall be made to western state hospital unless the Kitsap residential treatment facility is filled to capacity and the mental health division and the Kitsap county mental health coordinator concur with the referral. Priority for referral to western state hospital shall be given to individuals under ninety-day or one hundred eighty-day commitments and individuals who have exhausted all community placement options.

(iii) The department may continue to contract directly with Chartley house until King county joins or becomes a regional support network.

(b) $2,000,000 of the general fund—state appropriation is provided solely for a mental health housing reserve. The secretary of social and health services shall transfer funds from the reserve to the state hospitals in any quarter in which hospital census exceeds the December 1988 forecast adjusted to eliminate the bed contract assumption. Any amount remaining after March 1991 may be used for one-time grants. In making grants, the secretary shall give priority to proposals that facilitate network development, demonstrate integration with other mental health services, and are designed to reduce involuntary treatment.

(c) $5,500,000 of the general fund—state appropriation is provided solely for increases for involuntary treatment act administration, including costs associated with involuntary medication hearings.

(d) $2,200,000 of the general fund—state appropriation is provided solely for information system requirements associated with chapter 205, Laws of 1989.

(c) For each nonhigh school district with an enrollment of more than fifty annual average full time equivalent students and less than one hundred eighty students, an additional one-half of a classified staff unit.

(4) Fringe benefit allocations shall be calculated at a rate of 19.80 percent in the 1989-90 school year and 19.85 percent in the 1990-91 school year of certificated salary allocations provided under subsection (2) of this section, and a rate of 17.32 percent in the 1989-90 school year and 17.37 percent in the 1990-91 school year of classified salary allocations provided under subsection (3) of this section.

(5) Insurance benefit allocations shall be calculated at the rates specified in section 505 of this act, based on:

(a) The number of certificated staff units determined in subsection (2) of this section; and

(b) The number of classified staff units determined in subsection (3) of this section multiplied by 1.152. This factor is intended to adjust allocations so that, for the purposes of distributing insurance benefits, full time equivalent classified employees may be calculated on the basis of 1440 hours of work per year, with no individual employee counted as more than one full time equivalent.

(6)(a) For nonemployee related costs associated with each certificated staff unit allocated under subsection (2) (a), (b), and (d) through (h) of this section, there shall be provided a maximum of $6,355 per certificated staff unit in the 1989-90 school year and a maximum of $6,654 per certificated staff unit in the 1990-91 school year.

(b) For nonemployee related costs associated with each certificated staff unit allocated under subsection (2)(c) of this section, there shall be provided a maximum of $12,110 per certificated staff unit in the 1989-90 school year and a maximum of $12,679 per certificated staff unit in the 1990-91 school year.

(7) Allocations for substitute costs for classroom teachers shall be distributed at a maximum rate of $290 per year for allocated classroom teachers. Solely for the purposes of this subsection, allocated classroom teachers shall be equal to the number of certificated instructional staff units allocated under subsection (2) of this section, multiplied by the ratio between the number of actual basic education certificated teachers and the number of actual basic education certificated instructional staff reported state-wide for the 1987-88 school year.

(8) The superintendent may distribute a maximum of $9,925,000 outside the basic education formula during fiscal years 1990 and 1991 as follows:

(a) For fire protection for school districts located in a fire protection district as now or hereafter established pursuant to chapter 52.04 RCW, a maximum of $358,000 may be expended in fiscal year 1990 and a maximum of $375,000 in fiscal year 1991.

(b) For summer vocational programs at skills centers, a maximum of $1,321,000 may be expended in fiscal year 1990 and a maximum of $1,599,000 may be expended in fiscal year 1991.

(c) A maximum of $272,000 may be expended for school district emergencies.

(d) A maximum of $6,000,000 is provided solely for the purchase of new and replacement equipment for use in approved vocational-secondary and skill center programs. These moneys shall be allocated to school districts during the 1989-90 school year on the basis of full time equivalent enrollment in vocational programs.

(9) For the purposes of RCW 84.52.0531, the increase per full time equivalent student in state basic education appropriations provided under this act, including appropriations for salary and benefits increases, is 6.07 percent from the 1988-89 school year to the 1989-90 school year, and 5.74 percent from the 1989-90 school year to the 1990-91 school year.

(10) (a) The superintendent of public instruction shall revise personnel reporting systems to include information on grade level assignments of basic education certificated instructional staff, by grade level groupings of K-3, 4-6, and 7-12. The superintendent of public instruction shall collect such information from school districts beginning in the 1989-90 school year. School districts may submit supplemental information on changes in staffing levels after the initial personnel report for each school year. Staffing ratios calculated under this subsection may recognize additional staff reported, prorated by the number of months of employment during the academic year.

(b) For each school year, the funding provided under subsection (2)(a) of this section shall be based on a ratio of fifty-one certificated instructional staff per thousand students in kindergarten through grade three only if the district documents an actual ratio of at least fifty-one full time basic education certificated instructional staff per thousand full time equivalent students at those grade levels. For any school district documenting a lower ratio, the funding provided under this section shall be based on the district's actual K-3 ratio achieved in that school year, or the statutory minimum ratio established under RCW 28A.41.140(2)(c), if greater.

(c) School districts that had a ratio of fifty-one basic education certificated instructional staff per thousand students in kindergarten through grade three in the 1988-89 school year shall expend additional funding generated by the increase in staffing ratios provided in this section solely to improve staffing ratios in kindergarten through grade twelve.

(1) The following calculations determine the salaries used in the general fund allocations for certificated instructional, certificated administrative, and classified staff units under section 502 of this act:

(a) Salary allocations for certificated instructional staff units shall be determined for each district by multiplying the district's certificated instructional derived base salary shown on LEAP Document 12 by the district's average staff mix factor for basic education certificated instructional staff in that school year, computed using LEAP Document 1.

(b) Salary allocations for certificated administrative staff units and classified staff units shall be determined for each district by the district's certificated administrative and classified salary allocation amounts shown on LEAP Document 12.

(2)(a) Districts shall certify to the superintendent of public instruction such information as may be necessary regarding the years of service and educational experience of basic education certificated instructional employees for the purposes of calculating certificated instructional staff salary allocations pursuant to this section. Any change in information previously certified, on the basis of years of experience or educational credits, shall be reported and certified to the superintendent of public instruction at the time such change takes place.

(b) For the purposes of this section, "basic education certificated instructional staff" is defined as provided in RCW 28A.41.110.

(c) "LEAP Document 1" means the computerized tabulation establishing staff mix factors for basic education certificated instructional staff according to education and years of experience, as developed by the legislative evaluation and accountability program committee on August 18, 1987, at 13:26 hours.

(d) "LEAP Document 1R" means the computerized tabulation establishing staff mix factors for basic education certificated instructional staff according to education and years of experience, as developed on May 7, 1989, at 11:00 hours.

(3) $7,492,000 is provided solely to increase allocations for certificated administrative staff units provided under section 502 of this act, pursuant to this subsection. For the 1989-90 and 1990-91 school years, the allocation for each certificated administrative staff unit shall be increased by 2.5 percent of the 1988-89 state-wide average certificated administrative salary shown on LEAP Document 12, multiplied by incremental fringe benefits.

For the 1989-90 and 1990-91 school years, the allocation for each classified staff unit shall be increased by 4.0 percent of the 1988-89 state-wide average classified salary shown on LEAP Document 12, multiplied by incremental fringe benefits. For the 1990-91 school year, the allocation for each classified staff unit shall be further increased by an additional 3.12 percent of the 1988-89 state-wide average classified salary shown on LEAP Document 12, multiplied by incremental fringe benefits.

(5) $160,733,000 is provided solely to increase allocations for certificated instructional staff units provided under section 502 of this act, pursuant to this subsection:

(a) For any district with a derived base salary of $17,600 on LEAP Document 12, the allocation for each certificated instructional staff unit in the 1989-90 school year shall be increased by the difference between:

(i) The district's salary allocation per certificated instructional staff unit computed under subsection (1)(a) of this section, adjusted for incremental fringe benefits; and

(ii) The district's 1989-90 average certificated instructional staff allocation salary as determined by placing the district's actual full time equivalent basic education certificated instructional staff on the state-wide salary allocation schedule established in subsection (6) of this section, adjusted for incremental fringe benefits.

(b) For any district with a derived base salary greater than $17,600 on LEAP Document 12, the allocation for each certificated instructional staff unit in the 1989-90 school year shall be increased by 4.0 percent of the district's salary allocation per certificated instructional staff unit computed under subsection (1)(a) of this section, adjusted for incremental fringe benefits.

The compounded increase for each district shall be 7.12 percent, compounded by the percentage difference between the district's average staff mix factor for actual 1990-91 full time equivalent basic education certificated instructional employees computed using LEAP Document 1R and such factor for the same 1990-91 employees computed using LEAP Document 1.

School districts shall annually submit documentation to the superintendent of public instruction on any increases in average administrative salaries that exceed the increase provided in this section, pursuant to instructions issued by the superintendent. The superintendent of public instruction shall forward such data and documentation to the appropriations committee of the house of representatives and the ways and means committee of the senate. MESSAGE FROM THE SECRETARY OF STATE

The Honorable
President of the Senate
The Legislature of the State of Washington
Olympia, Washington
Mr. President:

We respectfully transmit for your consideration the following bill which has been partially vetoed by the Governor, together with the official veto message of the Governor setting forth his objections to the sections or items of the bill as required by Article III, section 12, of the Washington State Constitution.

Section 3, of Senate Bill No. 5172, the remainder of which has been designated Chapter 268, Laws of 1989.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and affixed the seal of the state of Washington at Olympia, this eighth day of May, 1989.

(Seal)

RALPH MUNRO, Secretary of State

PARTIAL VETO MESSAGE ON SENATE BILL NO. 5172

May 5, 1989

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to section 3, Senate Bill No. 5172, entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to energy conservation."

Sections 1 and 2 of this bill will allow the implementation of the 1988 voter-approved Constitutional Amendment, HJR 4223 which extends the conservation authority to add equipment to the prior authorization for structures. Section 4 makes the bill effective immediately. This legislation was requested by the State Energy Office and was supported by my office.

Section 3 is an amendment which authorizes financial assistance for the planting of trees that will cast shade on residential structures in the summer. Shade trees are aesthetically pleasing and have some energy benefits. However, the inclusion of shade trees in this bill arguably goes beyond the public understanding of conservation under the constitutional amendment permitting loans for "... materials and equipment for conservation ...".

I would be favorably inclined to review this issue if, after further public discussion, shade trees or other energy conservation methods are shown to be and generally recognized as cost effective.

With the exception of section 3, Senate Bill No. 5172 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,
Booth Gardner, Governor

There being no objection, the President returned the Senate to the fourth order of business.

MESSAGE FROM THE HOUSE

May 8, 1989

Mr. President:

The House has passed REENGROSSED SENATE BILL NO. 6106 with the following amendments:

Strike everything after the enacting clause and insert the following:

NEW SECTION. Sec. 1. This act may be known and cited as the "maternity care access act of 1989."

NEW SECTION. Sec. 2. (1) The legislature finds that Washington state and the nation as a whole have a high rate of infant illness and death compared with other industrialized nations. This is especially true for minority and low-income populations. Premature and low weight births have been directly linked to infant illness and death. The availability of adequate maternity care throughout the course of pregnancy has been identified as a major factor in reducing infant illness and death. Further, the investment in preventive health care programs, such as maternity care, contributes to the growth of a healthy and productive society and is a sound approach to health care cost containment. The legislature further finds that access to maternity care for low-income women in the state of Washington has declined significantly in recent years and has reached a crisis level.

(2) It is the purpose of this chapter to provide, consistent with appropriated funds, maternity care necessary to ensure healthy birth outcomes for low-income families. To this end, a maternity care access system is established based on the following principles:

(a) The family is the fundamental unit in our society and should be supported through public policy.

(b) Access to maternity care for eligible persons should be made readily available in an expeditious manner through a single service entry point.

(c) Unnecessary barriers to maternity care for eligible persons should be removed.

(d) Access to preventive and other health care services should be available for low-income children.

(e) Each woman should be encouraged to and assisted in making her own informed decisions about her maternity care.

(f) Unnecessary barriers to the provision of maternity care by qualified health professionals should be removed.

(g) The system should be sensitive to cultural differences among eligible persons.

(h) To the extent possible, decisions about the scope, content, and delivery of services should be made at the local level involving a broad representation of community interests.

(i) The maternity care access system should be evaluated at appropriate intervals to determine effectiveness and need for modification.

(j) Maternity care services should be delivered in a cost-effective manner.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 3. The legislature reserves the right to amend or repeal all or any part of this chapter at any time and there shall be no vested private right of any kind against such amendment or repeal. All rights, privileges, or immunities conferred by this chapter or any acts done pursuant thereto shall exist subject to the power of the legislature to amend or repeal this chapter at any time.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 4. Unless the context clearly requires otherwise, the definitions in this section apply throughout sections 1 through 8 of this act:

(1) "At-risk eligible person" means an eligible person determined by the department to need special assistance in applying for and obtaining maternity care, including pregnant women who are substance abusers, pregnant and parenting adolescents, pregnant minority women, and other eligible persons who need special assistance in gaining access to the maternity care system.

(2) "County authority" means the board of county commissioners, county council, or county executive having the authority to participate in the maternity care access program or its designee. Two or more county authorities may enter into joint agreements to fulfill the requirements of this chapter.

(3) "Department" means the department of social and health services.

(4) "Eligible person" means a woman in need of maternity care or a child, who is eligible for medical assistance pursuant to chapter 74.09 RCW or the prenatal care program administered by the department.

(5) "Maternity care services" means inpatient and outpatient medical care, case management, and support services necessary during prenatal, delivery, and postpartum periods.

(6) "Support services" means, at least, public health nursing assessment and follow-up, health and childbirth education, psychological assessment and counseling, outreach services, nutritional assessment and counseling, needed vitamin and nonprescriptive drugs, transportation, and child care. (4) Establish a maternity care case management system that shall assist at-risk eligible persons with obtaining medical assistance benefits and receiving maternity care services, including transportation and child care services;

(5) Within available resources, establish appropriate reimbursement levels for maternity care providers;

(6) Implement a broad-based public education program that stresses the importance of obtaining maternity care early during pregnancy; and

(7) Study the desirability and feasibility of implementing the presumptive eligibility provisions set forth in section 9407 of the federal omnibus budget reconciliation act of 1986 and report to the appropriate committees of the legislature by December 1, 1989.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 6. (1) The department shall establish an alternative maternity care service delivery system, if it determines that a county or a group of counties is a maternity care distressed area. A maternity care distressed area shall be defined by the department, in rule, as a county or a group of counties where eligible women are unable to obtain adequate maternity care. The department shall include the following factors in its determination:

(3) The department shall review the report and use it, to the extent possible, in developing strategies to improve maternity care access in the distressed area. The department may contract with or directly employ qualified maternity care health providers to provide maternity care services, if access to such providers in the distressed area is not possible by other means. In such cases, the department is authorized to pay that portion of the health care providers' malpractice liability insurance that represents the percentage of maternity care provided to eligible persons by that provider through increased medical assistance payments.

NEW SECTION, Sec. 7. To the extent that federal matching funds are available, the department or the department of health if one is created shall establish, in consultation with the health science programs of the state's colleges and universities, and community health clinics, a loan repayment program that will encourage maternity care providers to practice in medically underserved areas in exchange for repayment of part or all of their health education loans.

SECOND READING

Fisher, Appelwick, Pruitt, Cooper, H. Myers, Valle, Leonard, Nutley, Spanel, Raiter, G. Fisher, Sprenkle, Morris and Rector

Providing for maternity care for low-income families.

The bill was read the second time.

MOTION

Senator Smith moved that the following amendment by Senators Smith and Niemi be adopted:

Strike everything after the enacting clause and insert the following:

NEW SECTION. Sec. 1. This act may be known and cited as the "maternity care access act of 1989."

NEW SECTION. Sec. 2. (1) The legislature finds that Washington state and the nation as a whole have a high rate of infant illness and death compared with other industrialized nations. This is especially true for minority and low-income populations. Premature and low weight births have been directly linked to infant illness and death. The availability of adequate maternity care throughout the course of pregnancy has been identified as a major factor in reducing infant illness and death. Further, the investment in preventive health care programs, such as maternity care, contributes to the growth of a healthy and productive society and is a sound approach to health care cost containment. The legislature further finds that access to maternity care for low-income women in the state of Washington has declined significantly in recent years and has reached a crisis level.

(2) It is the purpose of this chapter to provide, consistent with appropriated funds, maternity care necessary to ensure healthy birth outcomes for low-income families. To this end, a maternity care access system is established based on the following principles:

(a) The family is the fundamental unit in our society and should be supported through public policy.

(b) Access to maternity care for eligible persons to ensure healthy birth outcomes should be made readily available in an expeditious manner through a single service entry point.

(c) Unnecessary barriers to maternity care for eligible persons should be removed.

(d) Access to preventive and other health care services should be available for low-income children.

(e) Each woman should be encouraged to and assisted in making her own informed decisions about her maternity care.

(f) Unnecessary barriers to the provision of maternity care by qualified health professionals should be removed.

(g) The system should be sensitive to cultural differences among eligible persons.

(h) To the extent possible, decisions about the scope, content, and delivery of services should be made at the local level involving a broad representation of community interests.

(i) The maternity care access system should be evaluated at appropriate intervals to determine effectiveness and need for modification.

(j) Maternity care services should be delivered in a cost-effective manner.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 3. The legislature reserves the right to amend or repeal all or any part of this chapter at any time and there shall be no vested private right of any kind against such amendment or repeal. All rights, privileges, or immunities conferred by this chapter or any acts done pursuant thereto shall exist subject to the power of the legislature to amend or repeal this chapter at any time.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 4. Unless the context clearly requires otherwise, the definitions in this section apply throughout sections 1 through 8 of this act:

(1) "At-risk eligible person" means an eligible person determined by the department to need special assistance in applying for and obtaining maternity care, including pregnant women who are substance abusers, pregnant and parenting adolescents, pregnant minority women, and other eligible persons who need special assistance in gaining access to the maternity care system.

(2) "County authority" means the board of county commissioners, county council, or county executive having the authority to participate in the maternity care access program or its designee. Two or more county authorities may enter into joint agreements to fulfill the requirements of this chapter.

(3) "Department" means the department of social and health services.

(4) "Eligible person" means a woman in need of maternity care or a child, who is eligible for medical assistance pursuant to chapter 74.09 RCW or the prenatal care program administered by the department.

(5) "Maternity care services" means inpatient and outpatient medical care, case management, and support services necessary during prenatal, delivery, and postpartum periods.

(6) "Support services" means, at least, public health nursing assessment and follow-up, health and childbirth education, psychological assessment and counseling, outreach services, nutritional assessment and counseling, needed vitamin and nonprescriptive drugs, transportation, and child care. Support services may include alcohol and substance abuse treatment for pregnant women who are addicted or at risk of being addicted to alcohol or drugs to the extent funds are made available for that purpose by Engrossed Second Substitute House Bill No. 1793, if enacted.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 5. The department shall, consistent with the state budget act, develop a maternity care access program designed to ensure healthy birth outcomes as follows:

(1) Provide maternity care services to low-income pregnant women and health care services to children in poverty to the maximum extent allowable under the medical assistance program, Title XIX of the federal social security act;

(2) Provide maternity care services to low-income women who are not eligible to receive such services under the medical assistance program, Title XIX of the federal social security act;

(3) By January 1, 1990, have the following procedures in place to improve access to maternity care services and eligibility determinations for pregnant women applying for maternity care services under the medical assistance program, Title XIX of the federal social security act:

- (a) Use of a shortened and simplified application form;
- (b) Outstationing department staff to make eligibility determinations;
- (c) Establishing local plans at the county and regional level, coordinated by the department; and
- (d) Conducting an interview for the purpose of determining medical assistance eligibility within five working days of the date of an application by a pregnant woman and making an eligibility determination within fifteen working days of the date of application by a pregnant woman;
- (4) Establish a maternity care case management system that shall assist at-risk eligible persons with obtaining medical assistance benefits and receiving maternity care services, including transportation and child care services;
- (5) Within available resources, establish appropriate reimbursement levels for maternity care providers;
- (6) Implement a broad-based public education program that stresses the importance of obtaining maternity care early during pregnancy;
- (7) Study the desirability and feasibility of implementing the presumptive eligibility provisions set forth in section 9407 of the federal omnibus budget reconciliation act of 1986 and report to the appropriate committees of the legislature by December 1, 1989; and
- (8) Refer persons eligible for maternity care services under the program established by this section to persons, agencies, or organizations with maternity care service practices that primarily emphasize healthy birth outcomes.

NEW SECTION, Sec. 6. (1) The department shall establish an alternative maternity care service delivery system, if it determines that a county or a group of counties is a maternity care distressed area. A maternity care distressed area shall be defined by the department, in rule, as a county or a group of counties where eligible women are unable to obtain adequate maternity care. The department shall include the following factors in its determination:

- (a) Higher than average percentage of eligible persons in the distressed area who receive late or no prenatal care;
 - (b) Higher than average percentage of eligible persons in the distressed area who go out of the area to receive maternity care;
 - (c) Lower than average percentage of obstetrical care providers in the distressed area who provide care to eligible persons;
 - (d) Higher than average percentage of infants born to eligible persons per obstetrical care provider in the distressed area; and
 - (e) Higher than average percentage of infants that are of low birth weight, five and one-half pounds or two thousand five hundred grams, born to eligible persons in the distressed area.
- (2) If the department determines that a maternity care distressed area exists, it shall notify the relevant county authority. The county authority shall, within one hundred twenty days, submit a brief report to the department recommending remedial action. The report shall be prepared in consultation with the department and its local community service offices, the local public health officer, community health clinics, health care providers, hospitals, the business community, labor representatives, and low-income advocates in the distressed area. A county authority may contract with a local nonprofit entity to develop the report. If the county authority is unwilling or unable to develop the report, it shall notify the department within thirty days, and the department shall develop the report for the distressed area.

(3) The department shall review the report and use it, to the extent possible, in developing strategies to improve maternity care access in the distressed area. The department may contract with or directly employ qualified maternity care health providers to provide maternity care services, if access to such providers in the distressed area is not possible by other means. In such cases, the department is authorized to pay that portion of the health care providers' malpractice liability insurance that represents the percentage of maternity care provided to eligible persons by that provider through increased medical assistance payments.

NEW SECTION, Sec. 7. To the extent that federal matching funds are available, the department or the department of health if one is created shall establish, in consultation with the health science programs of the state's colleges and universities, and community health clinics, a loan repayment program that will encourage maternity care providers to practice in medically underserved areas in exchange for repayment of part or all of their health education loans.

Sec. 8, Section 4, chapter 30, Laws of 1967 ex. sess. as last amended by section 2, chapter 87, Laws of 1989 and RCW 74.09.510 are each amended to read as follows:

Medical assistance may be provided in accordance with eligibility requirements established by the department of social and health services, as defined in the social security Title XIX state plan for mandatory categorically needy persons and: (1) Individuals who would be eligible for cash assistance except for their institutional status; (2) individuals who are under

Senator Lee moved that the following amendment by Senators Lee and Anderson be adopted:

Strike everything after the enacting clause and insert the following:

NEW SECTION. Sec. 1. The legislature finds that the demands of the workplace and of families need to be balanced to promote family stability and economic security. Changes in workplace leave policies are desirable to accommodate changes in the work force such as rising numbers of dual-career couples and working single parents. In addition, given the mobility of American society, many people no longer have available community or family support networks and therefore need additional flexibility in the workplace. The legislature declares it to be in the public interest to provide reasonable family leave upon the birth or adoption of a child and to care for a child under eighteen years old with a terminal health condition.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 2. Unless the context clearly requires otherwise, the definitions in this section apply throughout this chapter.

- (1) "Child" means a biological or adopted child, or a stepchild, living with the employee.
- (2) "Department" means the department of labor and industries.
- (3) "Employee" means a person other than an independent contractor employed by an employer on a continuous basis for the previous fifty-two weeks for at least thirty-five hours per week.
- (4) "Employer" means: (a) Any person, firm, corporation, partnership, business trust, legal representative, or other business entity which engages in any business, industry, profession, or activity in this state and includes any unit of local government including, but not limited to, a county, city, town, municipal corporation, quasi-municipal corporation, or political subdivision, which (i) employed a daily average of one hundred or more employees during the last calendar quarter at the place where the employee requesting leave reports for work, or (ii) employed a daily average of one hundred or more employees during the last calendar quarter within a twenty mile radius of the place where the employee requesting leave reports for work, where the employer maintains a central hiring location and customarily transfers employees among workplaces; and (b) the state, state institutions, and state agencies.

(5) "Family leave" means leave from employment to care for a newborn or newly adopted child under the age of six or a child under eighteen years old with a terminal health condition, as provided in section 3 of this act.

(6) "Health care provider" means a person licensed as a physician under chapter 18.71 RCW or an osteopath under chapter 18.57 RCW.

(7) "Parent" means a biological or adoptive parent, or a stepparent.

(8) "Reduced leave schedule" means leave scheduled for fewer than an employee's usual number of hours or days per workweek.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 3. (1) An employee is entitled to twelve workweeks of family leave during any twenty-four month period to: (a) Care for a newborn child or adopted child of the employee who is under the age of six at the time of placement for adoption, or, (b) care for a child under eighteen years old of the employee who has a terminal health condition and is expected to die within the period of the requested leave to which the employee is entitled. Leave under subsection (1)(a) of this section shall be completed within twelve months after the birth or placement for adoption, as applicable. An employee is entitled to leave under subsection (1)(b) of this section only once for any given child.

(2) Family leave may be taken on a reduced leave schedule subject to the approval of the employer.

(3) The leave required by this section may be unpaid. If an employer provides paid family leave for fewer than twelve workweeks, the additional workweeks of leave added to attain the twelve-workweek total may be unpaid. An employer may require an employee to first use up the employee's total accumulation of leave to which the employee is otherwise entitled before going on family leave; however, except as provided in subsection (4) of this section, nothing in this section requires more than twelve total workweeks of leave. An employer is not required to allow an employee to use the employee's other leave in place of the leave provided under this chapter.

(4) The leave required by this section is in addition to any leave for sickness or temporary disability because of pregnancy or childbirth.

(5) An employer may limit or deny family leave to either: (a) Up to ten percent of the employer's workforce in the state designated as key personnel by the employer. Any designation made under this section shall take effect thirty days after it is issued and may be changed no more than once in any twelve-month period. An employer shall not designate key personnel on the basis of age or gender or for the purpose of evading the requirements of this chapter. No employee may be designated as key personnel after giving notice of intent to take leave pursuant to section 4 of this act. The designation shall be in writing and shall be displayed in a conspicuous place; or (b) if the employer does not designate key personnel, the highest paid ten percent of the employer's employees in the state.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 4. (1) An employee planning to take family leave under section 3(1)(a) of this act shall provide the employer with written notice at least thirty days in advance of the anticipated date of delivery or placement for adoption, stating the dates during which the employee intends to take family leave. The employee shall adhere to the dates stated in the notice unless:

- (a) The birth is premature;
- (b) The mother is incapacitated due to birth such that she is unable to care for the child;
- (c) The employee takes physical custody of the newly adopted child at an unanticipated time and is unable to give notice thirty days in advance; or
- (d) The employer and employee agree to alter the dates of family leave stated in the notice.

(2) In cases of premature birth, incapacity, or unanticipated placement for adoption referred to in subsection (1) of this section, the employee must give notice of revised dates of family leave as soon as possible but at least within one working day of the birth or placement for adoption or incapacitation of the mother.

(3) If family leave under section 3(1)(b) of this act is foreseeable, the employee shall provide the employer with written notice at least fourteen days in advance of the expected leave and shall make a reasonable effort to schedule the leave so as not to unduly disrupt the operations of the employer. If family leave under section 3(1)(b) of this act is not foreseeable fourteen or more days before the leave is to take place, the employee shall notify the employer of the expected leave as soon as possible, but at least within one working day of the beginning of the leave.

(4) If the employee fails to give the notice required by this section, the employer may reduce or increase the family leave required by this chapter by three weeks.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 5. (1) In the event of any dispute under this chapter regarding premature birth, incapacitation of the mother, maternity disability, or terminal condition of a child, an employer may require confirmation by a health care provider of: (a) The date of the birth; (b) the date on which incapacity because of childbirth or disability because of pregnancy or childbirth commenced or will probably commence, and its probable duration; or (c) for family leave under section 3(1)(b) of this act, the fact that the child has a terminal health condition and is expected to die within the period of the requested leave.

(2) An employer may require, at the employer's expense, that the employee obtain the opinion of a second health care provider selected by the employer concerning any information required under subsection (1) of this section. If the health care providers disagree on any factor which is determinative of the employee's eligibility for family leave, the two health care providers shall select a third health care provider, whose opinion, obtained at the employer's expense, shall be conclusive.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 6. If both parents of a child are employed by the same employer, they shall together be entitled to a total of twelve workweeks of family leave during any twenty-four month period, and leave need be granted to only one parent at a time.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 7. (1) Subject to subsection (2) of this section, an employee who exercises any right provided under section 3 of this act shall be entitled, upon return from leave or during any reduced leave schedule:

- (a) To the same position held by the employee when the leave commenced; or
- (b) To a position with equivalent benefits and pay at a workplace within twenty miles of the employee's workplace when leave commenced; or
- (c) If the employer's circumstances have so changed that the employee cannot be reinstated to the same position, or a position of equivalent pay and benefits, the employee shall be reinstated in any other position which is vacant and for which the employee is qualified.

(2) The entitlement under subsection (1) of this section is subject to bona fide changes in compensation or work duties, and does not apply if:

- (a) The employee's position is eliminated by a bona fide restructuring, or reduction-in-force;
- (b) The employee's workplace is permanently or temporarily shut down for at least thirty days;
- (c) The employee's workplace is moved to a location at least sixty miles from the location of the workplace when leave commenced;
- (d) An employee on family leave takes another job; or
- (e) The employee fails to provide timely notice of family leave as required under section 4 of this act, or fails to return on the established ending date of leave.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 8. (1) The taking of leave under this chapter shall not result in the loss of any benefit, including seniority or pension rights, accrued before the date on which the leave commenced.

(2) Nothing in this chapter shall be construed to require the employer to grant benefits, including seniority or pension rights, during any period of leave.

(3) All policies applied during the period of leave to the classification of employees to which the employee on leave belongs shall apply to the employee on leave.

(4) During any period of leave taken under section 3 of this act, if the employee is not eligible for any employer contribution to medical or dental benefits under an applicable collective bargaining agreement or employer policy during any period of leave, an employer shall allow the employee to continue, at his or her own expense, medical or dental insurance coverage, including any spouse and dependent coverage, in accordance with state or federal law. The premium to be paid by the employee shall not exceed one hundred two percent of the applicable premium for the leave period.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 9. The department of labor and industries shall administer the provisions of this chapter.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 10. (1) Except as provided in this chapter, the rights under this chapter are in addition to any other rights provided by law. The remedies under this chapter shall be exclusive.

(2) Nothing in this chapter shall be construed to discourage employers from adopting policies which provide greater leave rights to employees than those required by this chapter.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 11. (1) Nothing in this chapter shall be construed to diminish an employer's obligation to comply with any collective bargaining agreement or any employment benefit program or plan which provides greater leave rights to employees than the rights provided under this chapter.

(2) The rights provided to employees under this chapter may not be diminished by any collective bargaining agreement or any employment benefit program or plan entered into or renewed after the effective date of this section.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 12. (1) In the case of employees covered by an unexpired collective bargaining agreement that expires on or after September 1, 1989, or by an employee benefit program or plan with a stated year ending on or after September 1, 1989, the effective date of this chapter shall be the later of: (a) The first day following expiration of the collective bargaining agreement; or (b) the first day of the next plan year.

(2) Notwithstanding the provisions of sections 14 through 21 of this act, where this chapter has been incorporated into a collective bargaining agreement, the grievance procedures contained in the respective collective bargaining agreement shall be used to resolve complaints related to this chapter.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 13. No employer, employment agency, labor union, or other person shall discharge, expel, or otherwise discriminate against any person because he or she has opposed any practices forbidden by this chapter, or because he or she has filed a complaint, testified, or assisted in any proceeding under this chapter.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 14. (1) An employee who believes that his or her employer has violated any provision of this chapter may file a complaint with the department within ninety days of the alleged violation. The complaint shall contain the following:

(a) The name and address of the employee making the complaint;

(b) The name, address, and telephone number of the employer against whom the complaint is made;

(c) A statement of the specific facts which constitute the alleged violation, including the date(s) on which the alleged violation occurred.

(2) Upon receipt of a complaint, the department shall forward written notice of the complaint to the employer.

(3) The department may investigate any complaint it deems appropriate. If the department determines that a violation of this chapter has occurred, it may issue a notice of infraction.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 15. The department may issue a notice of infraction to an employer who violates this chapter. The employment standards supervisor shall direct that notices of infraction contain the following when issued:

(1) A statement that the notice represents a determination that the infraction has been committed by the employer named in the notice and that the determination shall be final unless contested;

(2) A statement that the infraction is a noncriminal offense for which imprisonment shall not be imposed as a sanction;

(3) A statement of the specific violation which necessitated issuance of the infraction;

(4) A statement of the penalty involved if the infraction is established;

(5) A statement informing the employer of the right to a hearing conducted pursuant to chapter 34.05 RCW if requested within twenty days of issuance of the infraction;

(6) A statement that at any hearing to contest the notice of infraction the state has the burden of proving, by a preponderance of the evidence, that the infraction was committed, and that the employer may subpoena witnesses including the agent that issued the notice of infraction;

(7) If a notice of infraction is personally served upon a supervisory or managerial employee of a firm or corporation, the department shall within seventy-two hours of service send a copy of the notice by certified mail to the employer;

(8) Constructive service may be made by certified mail directed to the employer named in the notice of infraction.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 16. (1) If an employer is a corporation or a partnership, the department need not serve the employer personally. In such a case, if no officer or partner of a violating employer is present, the department may issue a notice of infraction to any managerial employee.

(2) If the department serves a notice of infraction on a managerial employee, and not on an officer, or partner of the employer, the department shall mail by certified mail a copy of the notice of infraction to the employer. The department shall mail a second copy by ordinary mail.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 17. In any case in which the department shall issue an order against any political or civil subdivision of the state, or any agency, or instrumentality of the state or of the foregoing, or any officer or employee thereof, the department shall transmit a copy of such order to the governor of the state. The governor shall take such action to secure compliance with such order as the governor deems necessary.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 18. (1) If an employer desires to contest the notice of infraction issued, the employer shall file two copies of a notice of appeal with the department at the office designated on the notice of infraction, within twenty days of issuance of the infraction.

(2) The department shall conduct a hearing in accordance with chapter 34.05 RCW.

(3) Employers may appear before the administrative law judge through counsel, or may represent themselves. The department shall be represented by the attorney general.

(4) Admission of evidence is subject to RCW 34.05.452 and 34.05.446.

(5) The administrative law judge shall issue a proposed decision that includes findings of fact, conclusions of law, and if appropriate, any legal penalty. The proposed decision shall be served by certified mail or personally on the employer and the department. The employer or department may appeal to the director within thirty days after the date of issuance of the proposed decision. If none of the parties appeals within thirty days, the proposed decision may not be appealed either to the director or the courts.

(6) An appellant must file with the director an original and four copies of its notice of appeal. The notice of appeal must specify which findings and conclusions are erroneous. The appellant must attach to the notice the written arguments supporting its appeal.

The appellant must serve a copy of the notice of appeal and the arguments on the other parties. The respondent parties must file with the director their written arguments within thirty days after the date the notice of appeal and the arguments were served upon them.

(7) The director shall review the proposed decision in accordance with the administrative procedure act, chapter 34.05 RCW. The director may: Allow the parties to present oral arguments as well as the written arguments; require the parties to specify the portions of the record on which the parties rely; require the parties to submit additional information by affidavit or certificate; remand the matter to the administrative law judge for further proceedings; and require a departmental employee to prepare a summary of the record for the director to review. The director shall issue a final decision that can affirm, modify, or reverse the proposed decision.

(8) The director shall serve the final decision on all parties. Any aggrieved party may appeal the final decision to superior court pursuant to RCW 34.05.570 unless the final decision affirms an unappealed proposed decision. If no party appeals within the period set by RCW 34.05.570, the director's decision is conclusive and binding on all parties.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 19. An employer found to have committed an infraction under this chapter may be subject to a fine of up to two hundred dollars for the first infraction. An employer that continues to violate the statute may be subject to a fine of up to one thousand dollars for each infraction. An employer found to have failed to reinstate an employee as required under section 8 of this act may also be ordered to reinstate the employee, with or without back pay.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 20. The department shall develop and furnish to each employer a poster which describes an employer's obligations and an employee's rights under this chapter. The poster must include notice about any state law, rule, or regulation governing maternity disability leave and indicate that federal or local ordinances, laws, rules or regulations may also apply. The poster must also include a telephone number and an address of the department to enable employees to obtain more information regarding this chapter. Each employer must display this poster in a conspicuous place. Nothing in this section shall be construed to create a right to continued employment.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 21. (1) The department will cease to administer and enforce this act upon the effective date of any federal act it determines, with the consent of the legislative budget committee, to be substantially similar, in substance and enforcement, to this act. A federal act shall be considered substantially similar even where the duration of leave required or size of employer covered is different than that under this chapter.

(2) No employee shall have a private right of action for any alleged violation of this chapter.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 22. The legislature finds that employers often distinguish between biological parents, and adoptive parents and stepparents in their employee leave policies. Many employers who grant leave to their employees to care for a newborn child either have no policy or establish a more restrictive policy regarding whether an adoptive parent or stepparent can take similar leave. The legislature further finds that many employers establish different leave policies for men and women regarding the care of a newborn or newly placed child. The legislature recognizes that the bonding that occurs between a parent and child is important to the nurturing of that child, regardless of whether the parent is the child's biological parent and regardless of the gender of the parent. For these reasons, the legislature declares that it is the public policy of this state to require that employers who grant leave to their employees to care for a newborn child make the same leave available upon the same terms for adoptive parents and stepparents, men and women.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 23. A new section is added to chapter 49.12 RCW to read as follows:

(1) An employer must grant an adoptive parent or a stepparent, at the time of birth or initial placement for adoption of a child under the age of six, the same leave under the same terms as the employer grants to biological parents. As a term of leave, an employer may restrict leave to those living with the child at the time of birth or initial placement.

(2) An employer must grant the same leave upon the same terms for men as it does for women.

(3) The department shall administer and investigate violations of this section. Notices of infraction, penalties, and appeals shall be administered in the same manner as violations under RCW 49.12.285.

(4) For purposes of this section, "employer" includes all private and public employers listed in RCW 49.12.005(3).

(5) For purposes of this section, "leave" means any leave from employment granted to care for a newborn or a newly adopted child at the time of placement for adoption.

(6) Nothing in this section requires an employer to:

(a) Grant leave equivalent to maternity disability leave; or

(b) Establish a leave policy to care for a newborn or newly placed child if no such leave policy is in place for any of its employees.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 24. A new section is added to chapter 49.12 RCW to read as follows:

In the case of employees covered by an unexpired collective bargaining agreement that expires on or after September 1, 1989, or by an employee benefit program or plan with a stated year ending on or after September 1, 1989, the effective date of section 23 of this act shall be the later of: (1) The first day following expiration of the collective bargaining agreement; or (2) the first day of the next plan year.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 25. If any provision of this act or its application to any person or circumstance is held invalid, the remainder of the act or the application of the provision to other persons or circumstances is not affected.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 26. Sections 1 through 21 of this act shall constitute a new chapter in Title 49 RCW.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 27. This act shall take effect September 1, 1989.*

MOTION

Senator Lee moved that the following amendments to the amendment by Senators Lee and Anderson be considered simultaneously and be adopted:

On page 3, after line 15 of the striking amendment, insert the following:

"(9) "Terminal health condition" means a condition caused by injury, disease, or illness, that, within reasonable medical judgment, is incurable and will produce death within the period of leave to which the employee is entitled."

On page 3, line 26 of the striking amendment, after "condition" strike all material through "entitled" on line 29

On page 4, line 18 of the striking amendment, after "leave" insert "during any twenty-four month period"

On page 7 line 11 of the striking amendment, after "condition" strike "and is expected to die within the period of the requested leave"

On page 12, line 18 of the striking amendment, after "complaint" strike "it deems appropriate" and insert "filed within the required time frame"

On page 17, line 9 of the striking amendment, after "section" strike "8" and insert "7"

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Vognild: "Thank you, Mr. President. I believe the motion was made that all of these amendments related to the same thing and they were all necessary to implement the amendment on page 3, line 15, to the striking amendment. I'm sorry, I don't read it that way. I read them as rather different amendments. The amendment on page 4, line 18, deals with restricting twelve months leave to a twenty-four month period. It has nothing, that I can see, to do with terminally ill conditions. Yes, Senator Lee, I guess I make that as a question."

Senator Lee: "Mr. President, to answer Senator Vognild's inquiry. The reason that that was done was when we changed to a terminal health condition definition, we needed to go into that particular portion. When the bill was only for parental leave and didn't have any consideration for the terminal health conditions of a child, there wasn't any problem because a child is only born once or you only adopt a child once. We had, in other portions of the bill, wanted to be sure that the parent made the conscience decision as to when they were going to take this leave and took it once. We had missed this particular portion, so under that logic, it is one of the measures that is necessary to bring the entire bill so it's workable and including a terminal health condition portion within the bill."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Niemi: "Senator Lee, I am reading the last phrase in the amendment on page 3, line 15, which is a definition of terminal health conditions. The way I read it, if this child doesn't happen to die within the leave period, then there's no deal--that there's no guarantee that the job will be there. I know that this is a difficult thing to define, but I think there are a lot of problems with this language. Perhaps you would explain what will happen if that child doesn't die within this twelve week period."

Senator Lee: "I don't think I can explain that, because there are no two situations that are exactly alike. However, what I would say is that this measure is intended as an overall measure of minimum state law requirements between employers and employees and that the twelve week period--the ability for an employee to come and ask for such leave for that length of time--is going now to be guaranteed by state law."

"Any additional employment, whether or not the employment is paid are all things that can be in addition, either through a collective bargaining agreement or through a direct employee-employer agreement. We're going a long way, to guarantee by state law, that at least this period of time is available. Now, as to when, the uncertainty of knowing precisely what the human mechanism is going to do, is something we cannot solve with this particular measure. I think that we are saying, if we adopt this, that it is important that at least the amount of leave that is specified by state law shall be granted by every employer of a hundred or more employees."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Gaspard: "Senator Lee, I believe some clarification of the definition of terminal health condition as adopted through the amendment on page 3, line 15, needs some further clarification. Therefore, I'd like to ask you this question. Does the 'medical judgment' language in the definition relate to both the determination that one, the illness is incurable, and second that it will produce death within a certain time?"

Senator Lee: "Yes, Senator Gaspard. There's a two-step qualification. A terminal health condition can only be found if the medical judgment is such that the disease is incurable and that it will result in death during the time leave is taken. Now, under Section 5, this judgment is made by a health care provider in the case of a dispute. In all other cases, if the child's doctor says that the child has an incurable disease, which will result in death within the time of leave, the leave is available for the responsible adult. I cannot foresee a situation where, if the death does not result during the predicted time period, that the employee would be penalized."

The President declared the question before the Senate to be the roll call on the final passage of Engrossed Substitute House Bill No. 1581, as amended by the Senate.

ROLL CALL

THIRD READING

ENGROSSED SENATE BILL NO. 6095, by Senators Benitz, Saling, Bluechel, Cantu, Smitherman, Stratton, Gaspard, Patterson, Bauer, von Reichbauer, Hayner, Smith, Rasmussen, West, Thorsness, Bailey, Johnson and Nelson

Providing for branch campuses.

MOTION

On motion of Senator Saling, the rules were suspended and Senate Bill No. 6095 was returned to second reading and read the second time.

MOTIONS

On motion of Senator Saling, the following amendment by Senators Saling and Bauer was adopted:

Strike everything after the enacting clause and insert the following:

NEW SECTION. Sec. 1. The legislature finds that the benefits of higher education should be more widely available to the citizens of the state of Washington. The legislature also finds that a citizen's place of residence can restrict that citizen's access to educational opportunity at the upper division and graduate level.

Because most of the state-supported baccalaureate universities are located in areas removed from major metropolitan areas, the legislature finds that many of the state's citizens, especially those citizens residing in the central Puget Sound area, the Tri-Cities, Spokane, Vancouver, and Yakima, have insufficient and inequitable access to upper-division baccalaureate and graduate education.

This lack of sufficient educational opportunities in urban areas makes it difficult or impossible for place-bound individuals, who are unable to relocate, to complete a baccalaureate or graduate degree. It also exacerbates the difficulty financially needy students have in attending school, since many of those students need to work, and work is not always readily available in some communities where the baccalaureate institutions of higher education are located.

The lack of sufficient educational opportunities in metropolitan areas also affects the economy of the underserved communities. Businesses benefit from access to the research and teaching capabilities of institutions of higher education. The absence of these institutions from some of the state's major urban centers prevents beneficial interaction between businesses in these communities and the state's universities.

The Washington state master plan for higher education, adopted by the higher education coordinating board, recognizes the need to expand upper-division and graduate educational opportunities in the state's large urban centers. The board has also attempted to provide a means for helping to meet future educational demand through a system of branch campuses in the state's major urban areas.

The legislature endorses the assignment of responsibility to serve these urban centers that the board has made to various institutions of higher education. The legislature also endorses the creation of branch campuses for the University of Washington and Washington State University.

The legislature recognizes that, among their other responsibilities, the state's comprehensive community colleges share with the four-year universities and colleges the responsibility of providing the first two years of a baccalaureate education. It is the intent of the legislature that the four-year institutions and the community colleges work as cooperative partners to ensure the successful and efficient operation of the state's system of higher education. The legislature further intends that the four-year institutions work cooperatively with the community colleges to ensure that branch campuses are operated as models of a two plus two educational system.

NEW SECTION, Sec. 2. A new section is added to chapter 28B.80 RCW to read as follows:

It is the intent of the legislature that, at the same time additional capital or operating funds are approved for the purposes of sections 3 through 7 of this act, enrollment lids at existing baccalaureate institutions of higher education should be raised at the upper-division level insofar as doing so would increase participation rates in underserved areas.

NEW SECTION, Sec. 3. The University of Washington is responsible for ensuring the expansion of upper-division and graduate educational programs in the central Puget Sound area under rules or guidelines adopted by the higher education coordinating board. The University of Washington shall meet that responsibility through the operation of at least two branch campuses. One branch campus shall be located in the Tacoma area. Another branch campus shall be located in the Bothell-Woodinville area.

NEW SECTION, Sec. 4. Washington State University is responsible for providing upper-division and graduate level higher education programs to the citizens of the Tri-Cities area, under rules or guidelines adopted by the higher education coordinating board. Washington State University shall meet that responsibility through the operation of a branch campus in the Tri-Cities area. The branch campus shall replace and supersede the Tri-cities university center. All land, facilities, equipment, and personnel of the Tri-cities university center shall be transferred from the University of Washington to Washington State University.

NEW SECTION, Sec. 5. Washington State University is responsible for providing upper-division and graduate level higher education programs to the citizens of the southwest Washington area, under rules or guidelines adopted by the higher education coordinating board. Washington State University shall meet that responsibility through the operation of a branch campus in the southwest Washington area.

NEW SECTION, Sec. 6. Washington State University and Eastern Washington University are responsible for providing upper-division and graduate level programs to the citizens of the Spokane area, under rules or guidelines adopted by the higher education coordinating board. Washington State University shall meet its responsibility through the operation of a branch campus in the Spokane area. Eastern Washington University shall meet its responsibility through the operation of co-located programs and facilities in Spokane.

NEW SECTION, Sec. 7. Central Washington University is responsible for providing upper-division and graduate level higher education programs to the citizens of the Yakima area, under rules or guidelines adopted by the higher education coordinating board.

NEW SECTION, Sec. 8. A new section is added to chapter 28B.80 RCW to read as follows:

In rules and guidelines adopted for purposes of this act, the higher education coordinating board shall ensure a collaborative partnership between the community colleges and the four-year institutions. The partnership shall be one in which the community colleges prepare students for transfer to the upper-division programs of the branch campuses.

NEW SECTION, Sec. 9. A new section is added to chapter 28B.80 RCW to read as follows:

Before approving any institutional request to acquire facilities in an area assigned in sections 3 through 7 of this act, the higher education coordinating board shall ensure that creative and cost-effective methods of serving the needs of each assigned area are considered, including but not limited to:

(1) Exploring the possibility of time-sharing existing college or university facilities for instructional and administrative purposes;

(2) Using rented facilities; and

(3) Utilizing telecommunication technology.

NEW SECTION, Sec. 10. A new section is added to chapter 28B.10 RCW to read as follows:

(1) The Spokane intercollegiate research and technology institute is hereby created.

(2) The institute shall be operated and administered as a multi-institutional education and research center, housing appropriate programs conducted in Spokane under the authority of Washington State University, Eastern Washington University, and the community colleges of Spokane. Gonzaga University and Whitworth College may participate as full partners in any academic and research activities of the institute. Washington State University shall act as administrative and fiscal agent for the institute.

(3) The institute shall be operated and administered through a cooperative arrangement of the institutions of higher education participating in the institute.

(4) The institute shall house education and research programs specifically designed to meet the needs of the greater Spokane area.

(5) The coordination of programs and activities at the institute shall be subject to the authority of the Spokane joint center for higher education under RCW 28B.25.020.

(6) The establishment of any education or research programs at the institute and the lease, purchase, or construction of any site or facility for the institute shall be subject to the approval of the higher education coordinating board pursuant to RCW 28B.80.340.

Sec. 11. Section 98, chapter 370, Laws of 1985 and RCW 28B.25.020 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) The joint center for higher education shall coordinate all undergraduate and graduate degree programs, and all other seminars, courses, and programs of any type offered in the Spokane area by Washington State University and by Eastern Washington University outside of its Cheney campus. The joint center for higher education shall not coordinate the intercollegiate center for nursing.

(2) The joint center for higher education shall coordinate the following higher education activities in the Spokane area outside of the Eastern Washington University Cheney campus:

(a) Articulation between lower division and upper division programs;

(b) The participation of Washington State University in its joint engineering program with Gonzaga University and in its joint engineering management program with Eastern Washington University and Gonzaga University; ~~((and))~~

(c) All contractual negotiations between public and independent colleges and universities; and

(d) Programs offered through the intercollegiate research and technology institute created by section 10 of this act.

(3) The participating institutions in the joint center for higher education shall maintain jurisdiction over the content of the course offerings and the entitlement to degrees.

(4) Disputes regarding which programs are to be coordinated by the joint center for higher education shall be arbitrated by the ~~((council for postsecondary education))~~ higher education coordinating board or its successor agency. The decision of the arbitrating agency shall be binding.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 12. A new section is added to chapter 28B.80 RCW to read as follows:

Eligible students residing in the areas to be served by the branch campuses created by sections 3 through 7 of this act may participate in a demonstration project administered by the higher education coordinating board. The educational opportunity grant project will be designed to permit the students to complete their upper division coursework at any eligible accredited baccalaureate institution of higher education, as defined in RCW 28B.10.802(1) and as further identified by the board. Each participating student may receive up to two thousand five hundred dollars per academic year, not to exceed the student's demonstrated financial need, for that coursework.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 13. A new section is added to chapter 28B.80 RCW to read as follows:

In order to be eligible for the demonstration project outlined in section 12 of this act, students must be placebound residents of the state of Washington who are needy as defined in RCW 28B.10.802(3), and have completed the associate of arts degree or its equivalent.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 14. Authorization for the programs, increases, and facilities described in this act is subject to legislative appropriation.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 15. Sections 3 through 7 and 14 of this act are each added to Title 28B RCW.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 16. Section 13, chapter 72, Laws of 1983 1st ex. sess., section 1, chapter 408, Laws of 1985 and RCW 28B.30.510 are each repealed."

On motion of Senator Saling, the following title amendment was adopted:

On page 1, line 1 of the title, after "campuses;" strike the remainder of the title and insert "amending RCW 28B.25.020; adding new sections to Title 28B RCW; adding a new section to chapter 28B.10 RCW; adding new sections to chapter 28B.80 RCW; creating a new section; and repealing RCW 28B.30.510."

STATEMENT FOR THE JOURNAL

May 10, 1989

Mary Wiley
Journal Clerk

I would like to clarify my position on a vote taken today, May 10, 1989. I inadvertently voted 'yea' on Engrossed Senate Bill No. 6095 (Branch Campus Bill), when I intended to vote 'nay' on the measure.

I am opposed to Engrossed Senate Bill No. 6095 primarily because I feel we should be investing in improvements to our established community colleges that currently serve towns and cities around the state instead of adding new facilities like the proposed branch campuses.

Community Colleges have proven to be a great resource to the students who attend them and should be the foundation for any new community-based higher education programs.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 40. The department of transportation and the county road administration board shall, by December 31, 1989, jointly provide the legislative transportation committee a report describing the current financial status of county-operated ferry systems. The report shall include but not be limited to recommendations regarding the appropriate level of state support for these transportation services and whether there is sufficient justification to consider transferring responsibilities for operating these systems to the Washington state department of transportation.

Sec. 41. Section 46.68.110, chapter 12, Laws of 1961 as last amended by section 37, chapter 10, Laws of 1987 1st ex. sess. and RCW 46.68.110 are each amended to read as follows:

NEW SECTION, Sec. 43. The motor vehicle fund revenues are received at a relatively even flow throughout the year. Expenditures exceed the revenue during the accelerated summer and fall highway construction season, creating a negative cash balance during the heavy construction season. Negative cash balances also may result from the use of state funds to finance federal advance construction projects prior to conversion to federal funding. The legislature recognizes that the department of transportation may require interfund loans or other short-term financing to meet temporary seasonal cash requirements and additional cash requirements to fund federal advance construction projects.

NEW SECTION, Sec. 44. The legislature recognizes the economic importance to the state of attracting new industrial development, and that the availability of transportation services is a significant factor in attracting such industries. The transportation commission and the department of transportation may consider these unique circumstances in determining priorities for capital expenditures.

NEW SECTION, Sec. 45. In addition to such other appropriations as are made by this act, there is hereby appropriated to the department of transportation from legally available bond proceeds in the respective construction or building accounts such amounts as are necessary to pay the expenses incurred by the state finance committee in the issuance and sale of the subject bonds.

NEW SECTION, Sec. 46. As used in this act, "St Patrol Hiwy Acct" means the State Patrol Highway Account.

The amount transferred shall be reported to the legislative transportation committee.

NEW SECTION, Sec. 59. FOR THE DEPARTMENT OF TRANSPORTATION—TRANSFER

Motor Vehicle Fund—Highway Construction Stabilization Account Transfer: For transfer to the Motor Vehicle Fund $ 120,000,000

The appropriation transfer in this section is provided for expenditures pursuant to RCW 46.68.200.

NEW SECTION, Sec. 60. To the extent that the employer contributions for retirement, industrial insurance, and medical aid granted to state general government employees through enactment of the omnibus state appropriations act are less than amounts assumed in the operating programs in this appropriations act, such portion of the appropriations shall be withheld and assigned to a reserve status pursuant to RCW 43.88.110(2). Specific amounts shall be assigned to a reserve status with the concurrence of the office of financial management and the legislative transportation committee.

NEW SECTION, Sec. 61. The department of transportation is authorized to undertake federal advance construction projects under the provisions of 23 U.S.C. Sec. 115 in order to maintain progress in meeting approved highway construction and preservation objectives. The legislature recognizes that the use of state funds may be required to temporarily fund expenditures of the federal appropriations for the highway construction and preservation programs for federal advance construction projects prior to conversion to federal funding.

NEW SECTION, Sec. 62. To maximize the use of motor vehicle fund revenues, it is the intent of the legislature to encourage sharing of technology, information, and systems where appropriate between transportation agencies.

To facilitate this exchange, the Washington state department of transportation assistant secretary for finance and budget management; Washington state department of transportation chief, management information systems; the Washington state patrol support services bureau deputy chief; Washington state patrol manager of the computer services division; the department of licensing deputy director and department of licensing assistant director for information systems will meet quarterly to share plans, discuss progress of key projects and to coordinate activities for the common good. Minutes of these meetings will be distributed to the respective agency heads and the legislative transportation committee. Washington state department of transportation will provide staff support and meeting coordination.

NEW SECTION, Sec. 63. Agencies shall comply with the following requirements regarding information systems projects when directed to do so by specific appropriation proviso.

(1) The agency shall produce a feasibility study for each information systems project in accordance with published department of information services instructions. In addition to department of information services requirements such studies shall examine and evaluate the costs and benefits of maintaining status quo.

(2) The agency shall produce a project management plan for each project. The plan or plans shall address all factors critical to successful completion of each project. These plans shall include, but not be limited to, the following elements: A description of the problem or opportunity which the information systems project is intended to address; a statement of project objectives and assumptions; definition of phases, tasks, and activities to be accomplished and the estimated cost of each phase; a description of how the agency will facilitate responsibilities of oversight agencies; a description of key decision points in the project life cycle; a description of variance control measures; a definitive schedule that shows the elapsed time estimated to complete the project and when each task is to be started and completed; and a description of resource requirements to accomplish the activities within specified time, cost, and functionality constraints.

(3) A copy of each feasibility study and project management plan shall be provided to the department of information services, the office of financial management, and the legislative transportation committee. Authority to expend any funds for individual information systems projects shall be conditioned upon approval of the relevant feasibility study and project management plan by the department of information services and the office of financial management or the legislative transportation committee as appropriate.

(4) A project status report shall be submitted to the department of information services, the office of financial management, and the legislative transportation committee for each project prior to reaching key decision points identified in the relevant project management plan. Project status reports shall examine and evaluate project management, accomplishments, budget, action to address variances, risk management, cost and benefits analysis, and other aspects critical to completion of a project.

Work shall not commence on any task in a subsequent phase of a project until the status report for the preceding key decision point has been approved by the department of information services, the office of financial management, and the legislative transportation committee as appropriate.

(5) In those instances when a project review is requested in accordance with department of information services policies, the reviews shall examine and evaluate: System requirements specifications; scope; system architecture; change controls; documentation; user involvement; training; availability and capability of resources; programming languages and techniques; system inputs and outputs; plans for testing, conversion, implementation, and post-implementation; and other aspects critical to successful construction, integration, and implementation of automated systems. Copies of project review written reports shall be forwarded to the office of financial management and the legislative transportation committee by the agency.

(6) A written post-implementation review report shall be prepared by the agency for each information systems project in accordance with published department of information services instructions. In addition to the information requested pursuant to the department of information services instructions, post-implementation reports shall evaluate the degree to which a project accomplished its major objectives including, but not limited to, a comparison of original cost and benefit estimates to actual costs and benefits achieved. Copies of post-implementation review reports shall be provided to the department of information services, the office of financial management, and the legislative transportation committee.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 64. By July 1, 1990 the department of transportation shall take actions necessary to ensure that the safety requirements for work places in the state ferry system, whether within the navigable waters subject to the jurisdiction of the state of Washington or the United States, conform, at a minimum, with the employee safety and health regulations adopted by the department of labor and industries pursuant to chapter 49.17 RCW.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 65. (3) For the period from July 1, 1987, up to the actual implementation date of the 1987-89 biennial salary increase for employees under the jurisdiction of the state personnel board, no increases in the hourly wage rates of ferry employees, as ferry employee is defined in RCW 47.64.011(5), shall be included in the base hourly wage rates used for future salary increase calculations.

(4) The appropriation contained in this section provides for the compensation of ferry employees, including increases. The expenditures for compensation paid to ferry employees during the 1987-89 biennium shall not exceed $105,210,000 plus a dollar amount, as prescribed by the office of financial management, which is equal to any insurance benefit increase granted general government employees in excess of $167 a month annualized per eligible marine employee multiplied by the number of eligible marine employees for fiscal year 1989. For the purposes of this section, the expenditures for compensation paid to ferry employees shall be limited to salaries and wages and employee benefits as defined in the office of financial management's policies, regulations, and procedures named under objects of expenditure "A" and "L" (7.2.6.2). Of the $105,210,000 provided for compensation, plus the prescribed insurance benefit increase dollar amount:

(a) A maximum of $678,000 may be used to increase compensation costs, effective January 1, 1988;

(b) The prescribed insurance benefit increase dollar amount may be used to increase compensation costs, effective July 1, 1988;

(c) A maximum of $2,145,000 shall be used to maintain any 1987-88 compensation increase and may be used to increase compensation costs, effective January 1, 1989.

In no event may the June 30, 1988, hourly salary rate increase exceed any salary rate increase granted during the 1987-88 fiscal year.

In no event may the June 30, 1989, hourly salary rate increase exceed any salary rate increase granted during the 1988-89 fiscal year.

(5) To the extent that ferry employees by bargaining unit have absorbed the required offset of wage increases by the amount that the employer's contribution for employees' and dependents' insurance and health care plans exceeds that of other state general government employees in the 1985-87 biennium, employees will not be required to absorb a further offset except to the extent the differential between employer contributions for those employees and all other state general government employees increases during the 1987-89 biennium. If the differential increases or the 1985-87 offset by bargaining unit is insufficient to meet the required deduction, the amount available for compensation shall be reduced by bargaining unit by the amount of such increase or the 1985-87 shortage in the required offset.

(6) The department of transportation shall provide the legislative transportation committee with a monthly report concerning the status of this program.

(7) In the event that revenues available to the ferry system fund are not sufficient to support the expenditures necessary for the operation and maintenance of the state ferry system, the department may transfer funds from the Puget Sound ferry operations account to the ferry system fund.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 75. If any provision of this act or its application to any person or circumstance is held invalid, the remainder of the act or the application of the provision to other persons or circumstances is not affected.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 76. This act is necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health, or safety, or support of the state government and its existing public institutions, and shall take effect immediately.

REPORT OF FREE CONFERENCE COMMITTEE

RE: ESSB 5352

Relating to 1989-91 appropriations

May 7, 1989

Mr. President:

Mr. Speaker:

We of your Free Conference Committee have had the above same under consideration and we recommend that the bill be amended as proposed in the request for Free Conference and that the bill do pass as amended by the Free Conference Committee.

(See Report of Conference Committee and the request for powers of Free Conference on Engrossed Substitute Senate Bill No. 5352 read in on May 8, 1989.)

Signed by Senators McDonald, Hayner, Gaspard: Representatives Locke, Ebersole, Silver.

MOTION

On motion of Senator Newhouse, the Report of the Free Conference Committee on Engrossed Substitute Senate Bill No. 5352 was adopted.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Amondson: "Senator McDonald, Section 316 of the budget refers to the purchase of lands from the Common School Trust. Is it the budget conferees' intent, as embodied in Section 316, that the state will purchase property that is of unique recreational benefit to the people of Washington, such as Mt. Si, Cypress Island, and certain lands in the Yakima Canyon?"

Senator McDonald: "Yes, Senator Amondson, and your examples are good ones. The intent of Section 316 is to allow the state to purchase property that is of unique recreational benefit to the people of Washington. Section 316 is not specifically designed to take certain commercially harvestable timberlands previously set aside as wildlife habitats out of the stream of commerce. This language is not primarily intended to provide for the permanent set aside of land for the benefit of the spotted owl."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Lee: "Senator McDonald, the operating budget provides three hundred thousand dollars to the Department of Labor and Industries to implement Engrossed Substitute House Bill No. 1581 that the President has just signed--the Family Leave Bill. Is this entire amount necessary to fund this bill?"

Senator McDonald: "No, Senator Lee, given the significant changes made to this bill in the Senate, there has been a significant reduction in the enforcement responsibilities of the department. Therefore, the cost of implementing this act would be considerably less than three hundred thousand dollars. We will work with the Department of Labor and Industries to determine the true cost of enforcement."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Barr: "Senator McDonald, subsection (3), of Section 225, of this bill provides funds to the Department of Labor and Industries to implement House Bill No. 2222, regarding the regulation of agricultural chemicals. Since the budget also provides one point six million dollars to the Department of Agriculture for this purpose, is it necessary to expend these funds?"

Senator McDonald: "No, Senator Barr, thanks to your work, significant funds are provided to the Department of Agriculture to implement House Bill No. 2222. The section of House Bill No. 2222 that would have required these funds was removed, thus the funds appropriated to the Department of Labor and Industries for this purpose should not be expended."

Senator Barr: "Thank you, Senator McDonald."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Patterson: "Senator Rinehart, sorry we had to by-pass you Senator McDonald. In Section 16, page 110, dealing with financial aid for students, could you identify any problems that might exist with that appropriation?"

Senator Rinehart: "Thank you, Senator Patterson. The appropriation that's reflected in the Free Conference Committee Report for financial aid represents a twenty-eight percent figure for financial aid out of the increase in tuition. Current law requires that we identify twenty-four percent. Members will recall that in arguments opposing your legislation to take that percentage to thirty-five percent, and arguments which prevailed on this floor put us in the posture of not accepting the thirty-five percent language and, therefore, this budget reflects less than if we had adopted your language. It's a difference of two million dollars. This budget reflects twenty-eight percent which is nine point one million dollars. Had your legislation been approved and we had accepted that language on the floor of the Senate, it would have been eleven point six million dollars, rather than the nine point one million."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Talmadge: "Senator Murray, as a person who worked so very hard on the issue of family leave policy for the state of Washington, would it be your judgment that we will need the full three hundred thousand dollars to implement that particular program and engage in appropriate enforcement actions under House Bill No. 1581?"

Senator Murray: "Senator Talmadge, it may very well be that we do need that full amount. We haven't had this kind of policy in place before and I think that it could very well be needed."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Gaspard: "Senator McDonald, on the question-answer regarding House Bill No. 2222--the Pesticides Bill--I would like a further clarification, if I may. It's my understanding through that bill there was an increase in license fees that would raise approximately one point three million dollars. The answer that you gave to Senator Barr's question, I'd like you to expand upon that, whether those fees will still be collected and be deposited with the Department of Agriculture?"

Senator McDonald: "It is my understanding, Senator Gaspard, that they would indeed and this has no effect--the question and answer between myself and Senator Barr."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Moore: "Mr. President, I'm not sure whether I should address this question to Senator McDonald or Cantu, but it revolves around Section 218, on page 41. Subsection (6) speaks to the matter of two hundred and seventy-three thousand of the general fund to be appropriated solely for increased foster care support collections. However, in subsection (a), it says, 'A financial participation schedule for use in assessing natural or adoptive parents of minor children receiving out-of-home residential care that is provided or funded by the department as follows:' I have no particular problem with the rest of it. I just want it made clear if this entire section that we're addressing applies only to foster care?"

Senator McDonald: "It only does apply to foster care. There was a question as to the aggressiveness with which the department was asking for payment from parents who could clearly pay and who did have children in foster care and I think that this section does address that, but only that program."

Further debate ensued.

MOTION

On motion of Senator Moore, the remarks by him and Senator McDonald will be forwarded to the Secretary of the Department of Social and Health Services.

The President declared the question before the Senate to be the roll call on the final passage of Engrossed Substitute Senate Bill No. 5352, as amended by the Free Conference Committee.

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll on the final passage of Engrossed Substitute Senate Bill No. 5352, as amended by the Free Conference Committee, and the bill passed the Senate by the following vote: Yeas, 41; nays, 4; excused, 4.

Voting yeas: Senators Amondson, Anderson, Bailey, Barr, Bauer, Bender, Benitz, Bluechel, Cantu, Conner, Craswell, Gaspard, Hayner, Johnson, Kreidler, Lee, Matson, McDonald, Metcalf, Moore, Murray, Nelson, Newhouse, Niemi, Owen, Patterson, Pullen, Rasmussen, Rinehart, Saling, Sellar, Smith, Smitherman, Stratton, Talmadge, Thorsness, Vogndild, von Reichbauer, Warnke, West, Wojahn - 41.

Voting nays: Senators Hansen, Madsen, McCaslin, Sutherland - 4.

Excused: Senators DeJarnatt, Fleming, McMullen, Williams - 4.

The Legislature of the State of Washington
Olympia, Washington
Mr. President:

We respectfully transmit for your consideration the following bill which has been partially vetoed by the Governor, together with the official veto message of the Governor setting forth his objections to the sections or items of the bill as required by Article III, section 12, of the Washington State Constitution.

Sections 1 and 5, of Substitute Senate Bill No. 5293, the remainder of which has been designated Chapter 306, Laws of 1989.

PARTIAL VETO MESSAGE ON SUBSTITUTE SENATE BILL NO. 5293

May 11, 1989

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to sections 1 and 5, Substitute Senate Bill No. 5293 entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to higher education."

Section 1 reenacts RCW 28B.80.330, which requires the Higher Education Coordinating Board to perform planning duties including the preparation of a comprehensive master plan. The plan includes but is not limited to assessments of the state's higher education needs. These assessments may include "the needs of recent high school graduates and place-bound adults. The board should consider the needs of residents of all geographic areas, but its initial priorities should be applied to heavily populated areas underserved by public institutions." The board has already completed its assessment of upper division and graduate level courses and programs needed in heavily populated areas. It can now begin assessing the needs of place-bound students in those areas that are less populated, including Clallam and Jefferson counties.

Section 5 of this bill requires that the Superintendent of Public Instruction: (1) contract with the University of Washington's Early Entrance Program or Transition School; and, (2) allocate state and federal funds generated by the student directly to the University of Washington. Similar language achieving the same result is included in section 9 of Substitute House Bill No. 1444, which I have signed into law. To avoid confusion, I have vetoed section 5 of this bill.

With the exception of sections 1 and 5, Substitute Senate Bill No. 5293 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,
Booth Gardner, Governor

PARTIAL VETO MESSAGE ON SUBSTITUTE SENATE BILL NO. 5443

May 12, 1989

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to sections 5, 14, and 21, Substitute Senate Bill No. 5443 entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to programs administered by the department of licensing."

This bill makes various policy changes in vehicle and driver laws. Section 5 grants the Department of Licensing the authority to furnish lists of registered and legal owners of motor vehicles to "business enterprises for commercial purposes...".

Under the general policy set forth in the Public Disclosure Act, Initiative Measure No. 276, codified in RCW 42.17.260 (5), in order to protect the public's right to privacy and freedom from commercial intrusion, lists should not be provided for commercial purposes. This change in policy is not appropriate.

Section 14 grants the Director of the Department of Licensing, or the director's designee, the authority to issue criminal citations solely related to RCW 46.70.021 which requires dealers or manufacturers of vehicles to be licensed. Such specialized authority is inappropriate and unnecessary since criminal charges can be brought currently by taking the factual circumstances to a prosecutor. If the Legislature believes the grant of criminal citation authority is good policy for the Department of Licensing, it should consider a broad grant of authority for all its regulatory functions where criminal misdemeanor charges can be filed.

Section 21 establishes a study committee to develop recommendations regarding a system of driver's license issuance that provides increased security against fraud. It is not appropriate to delegate control over an executive department's contract decisions to a committee of the Legislature contingent on the committee's review of a study. I will direct the listed executive departments to cooperate in any legislative review of this issue.

With the exception of sections 5, 14, and 21, Substitute Senate Bill No. 5443 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,
Booth Gardner, Governor

PARTIAL VETO MESSAGE ON SECOND SUBSTITUTE SENATE BILL NO. 5375

May 12, 1989

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to section 3, Second Substitute Senate Bill No. 5375 entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to DNA identification."

Subsection 1 of section 3 creates an oversight committee to recommend specific rules and procedures for the collection, analysis, storage, expungement, and use of DNA identification data. The committee of twelve persons would be comprised of the Chief of the Washington State Patrol, three experts (forensic evidence, biomedical ethics, and civil liberties) and eight legislators appointed by the Legislature. I strongly support the purpose of this committee; however, the makeup of the committee is unbalanced.

I will appoint a committee to perform the functions set forth in section 3, including the report to the Legislature due November 1, 1989. Membership of the committee will include a more balanced group, from the fields of forensic evidence, biomedical ethics, civil liberties, medicine, the criminal justice system, and the Legislature.

Subsection 2 of section 3 requires the Washington State Patrol, in cooperation with the University of Washington School of Medicine, to develop a program for the proper administration and collection of blood samples. Although I am forced to veto this entire section, I will ask the Washington State Patrol to include this program within their plan for establishing a DNA identification system, as required by section 2.

I should bring to your attention that with the exception of section 6, the Washington State Patrol does not have specific authority to adopt rules for the DNA Identification System. I suggest the Legislature pass legislation giving the Washington State Patrol rule-making authority before the bill takes effect on July 1, 1990.

With the exception of section 3, Second Substitute Senate Bill No. 5375 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,
Booth Gardner, Governor

PARTIAL VETO MESSAGE ON SUBSTITUTE SENATE BILL NO. 5474

May 12, 1989

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to section 9, Substitute Senate Bill No. 5474 entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to interpreters in legal proceedings."

Section 9 requires the Office of the Administrator for the Courts to create a new statutory advisory committee for certification of interpreters. The committee would advise the office regarding procedures and standards for certification of foreign language interpreters in legal proceedings. The recommendations of this committee would affect the use and availability of interpreters for state agencies, boards and commissions, courts, counties, cities, towns, and other political subdivisions covered by the act.

Section 9 limits the membership of the committee to representatives of county prosecutors, public defenders, the Bar Association, judges, and groups representing non-English-speaking persons. By precluding state agency and city and town participation on the advisory committee, the procedures and standards adopted for this new program may not adequately address the special needs of these entities.

I have asked the Administrator for the Courts to administratively create an advisory group to perform these tasks and to have representatives of all affected groups included. I believe it to be in the best interests of the program to veto section 9 and thereby allow creation of such a group under the authority of the Administrator for the Courts.

With the exception of section 9, Substitute Senate Bill No. 5474 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,
Booth Gardner, Governor

*PARTIAL VETO MESSAGE ON SENATE BILL NO. 5233

May 13, 1989

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to section 3, Senate Bill No. 5233 entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to burglary."

This legislation creates a new crime of residential burglary for those incidents in which an individual enters a dwelling for the purposes of committing "a crime against persons or property therein". The existing crime of burglary in the second degree is retained for cases involving buildings other than dwellings.

Section 3 of this measure increases the seriousness level of second degree burglary from range II to range III and ranks the new crime of residential burglary at an even higher level, range IV. These rankings have significant fiscal impacts on both state and local governments that are not fully addressed. Although the Legislature included funds in the Omnibus Budget for the purposes of this act, they fall far short of meeting the Department of Correction's needs. In addition, no funds were provided to address the impacts on local jails.

I support the intent of this bill. Residential burglary is a particularly offensive crime that not only results in material loss, but shatters the sense of privacy people enjoy within their homes. Persons who invade homes in this manner must be punished.

However, attempting to address this issue has highlighted some of the inflexibility of the state's Sentencing Reform Act. Because of the sentencing structure created by the Act, little can be done in response to the problem of burglary other than to raise the seriousness level, as accomplished by section 3.

I am retaining the new definition of residential burglary created by this bill, and the instructions in section 1 requiring the Sentencing Guidelines Commission to consider residential burglary as a more serious offense than burglary in the second degree. Because the provisions of the bill do not take effect until July 1990, I believe this veto allows us to more fully consider the ramifications of this sentencing change.

The long-term financial impact on the state adult and juvenile systems will mandate significant additional commitment of both capital and operating funds. I am concerned that the full financial reality of passing this bill has not settled upon the Legislature. The Legislature should also consider the consistency of punishment level in this bill related to punishment for other criminal offenses.

Particular attention must also be paid to the effect these changes have on our local jail system. We can no longer continue to ignore the overcrowding and potentially dangerous conditions facing these facilities. At the same time the Legislature was enacting a measure extending eligibility for home detention programs to burglars, it was removing over fifty percent of the eligible inmates by the definition change included in this bill. The Sentencing Guidelines Commission is the proper place to consider these system-wide impacts.

I am asking the Sentencing Guidelines Commission to take up this issue for the purpose of recommending a resolution to the 1990 Legislature. The commission will review the relative rankings of these crimes, and will explore the possibility of reordering the sentencing grid in such a way as to allow courts greater flexibility in determining appropriate sanctions. In addition, the Commission will review the potential for changing sentencing practices associated with rank changes, and the relationship of deadly weapons enhancements to these two offenses.

With the exception of section 3, Senate Bill No. 5233 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,
Booth Gardner, Governor

*EDITOR'S NOTE: See further action of Senate Bill No. 5233 on May 19, 1989.

PARTIAL VETO MESSAGE ON SUBSTITUTE SENATE BILL NO. 5289

May 14, 1989

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to sections 2, 3, 5, 6, 7, and 8, Substitute Senate Bill No. 5289 entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to fisheries enhancement."

Our commitment to enhance salmon resources is an empty promise unless we are all willing to provide the financial resources necessary to fulfill it. I believe that the funding mechanism envisioned in this bill can work to supplement other state and federal funds if properly structured.

I am supportive of approaching fisheries enhancement by way of regional and volunteer cooperative groups. I believe, however, that the portions of this bill relating to the formation of these regional groups are so poorly drafted that they could lead to excessive administrative work and lack of accountability for the use of state funds.

As an alternative to sections 2 and 3, I am directing the Department of Fisheries to use its general rule-making authority to implement the intent of the bill in a manner that is workable and, more importantly, accountable. Criteria must be in place requiring recipients of funds to be incorporated as non-profit groups with the Secretary of State. Additionally, requirements for audits must be included.

Sections 5 and 6 fail to establish a clear relationship between the authority of the department and the regional groups. These sections could imply control by the groups. This interference with the decision-making prerogatives of the department is unacceptable to me.

Section 7 is vetoed because it requires legislative approval of each loan application. Decisions on applications for funding should be made by the Department of Fisheries without legislative approval. This veto does not mean that I am not supportive of loans for funding fisheries enhancement. In fact, the opposite is true. Because I am unable to partially veto this language, I must veto the entire section.

I am vetoing section 8 because it will require the department to tag smolt and compile data at great expense in order to document specific fish catch related to enhancement projects.

With the exception of sections 2, 3, 5, 6, 7, and 8, Substitute Senate Bill No. 5289 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,
Booth Gardner, Governor

PARTIAL VETO MESSAGE ON SUBSTITUTE SENATE BILL NO. 5566

May 14, 1989

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to section 7, 9, 10, and 11, Substitute Senate Bill No. 5566 entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to safe drinking water."

Section 7 amends RCW 70.119A.040, which was also amended by House Bill 1358, the Administrative Procedure Act revision bill. The amendment in this bill has the same intent as the amendment in House Bill 1358, but the language is conflicting. Since I have already signed House Bill 1358 into law, I am vetoing Section 7.

Section 9 amends RCW 43.20.050, which was also amended by House Bill 1857. Both bills amend the rule-making authority of the Board of Health with respect to drinking water systems. The only difference between the two amendments is that House Bill 1857 gives additional authority to the Board for regulating the sizing of pipes and storage facilities. This language is more explicit than the language in section 9 of Reengrossed Substitute Senate Bill 5566. Since I have already signed House Bill 1857 into law, I am vetoing section 9.

Sections 10 and 11 amend the Public Water Supply Systems - Certification and Regulation of Operators Act, and the Public Water System Coordination Act of 1977, respectively. Both sections amend the definition of a public water supply system to exclude water systems serving fewer than five single-family residences. The current language, and the definition of public water supply system in the Safe Drinking Water Act, exclude only water systems that serve a single-family residence.

The exclusions in sections 10 and 11 would exempt over 4,000 small water systems from regulation, leaving these households without protection of their drinking water. People whose homes connect with small water systems deserve, and expect, the same quality of water as people whose homes are connected to larger systems. It is appropriate for the state, in its role of protecting public health, to assist small water systems in complying with safe drinking water regulations.

With the exception of sections 7, 9, 10, and 11, Substitute Senate Bill No. 5566 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,
Booth Gardner, Governor

PARTIAL VETO MESSAGE ON SUBSTITUTE SENATE BILL NO. 5648

May 14, 1989

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to section 10, Substitute Senate Bill No. 5648 entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to creation of a federation of Washington ports."

Substitute Senate Bill No. 5648 amends existing port district enabling legislation to authorize the creation of a federation of Washington ports by the Washington Public Ports Association. The legislation establishes a temporary task force to examine options for cooperation between port districts and local associate development organizations. The legislation also directs the temporary task force to identify international air cargo trends and state air cargo capabilities and facilities, and to identify alternative policies to ensure state competitiveness in air cargo facilities.

Our ports have been and remain critically important to the state's role in the international economy. Efforts to increase cooperation among the port districts and between port districts and associate development organizations to enhance state and local economic development activities are necessary and important. New air cargo transport technologies and increased volumes of international air cargo traffic may require the development of new types of facilities, which would have major implications to the state economy.

I am in agreement with the Legislature's identification of this latter issue as one deserving state involvement to identify problems and opportunities affecting the state's economy. However, the Legislature has not funded the study of air cargo trends provided for in section 10 of this bill. If the state is to anticipate the problems and opportunities we face in the international economy, the Legislature must adequately fund the associated state agency activities. I am also concerned about the practicability of examining air cargo trends through a temporary task force intended to examine cooperation between port districts and associate development organizations.

For these reasons, I am vetoing section 10 of Substitute Senate Bill No. 5648.

However, an examination of the issues identified is valuable and timely. I will explore methods of conducting such an examination on the part of the state and with the cooperation of local government and the private sector.

With the exception of section 10, Substitute Senate Bill No. 5648 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,
Booth Gardner, Governor

PARTIAL VETO MESSAGE ON SECOND SUBSTITUTE SENATE BILL NO. 5658

May 13, 1989

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to section 17, Second Substitute Senate Bill No. 5658 entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to risk management and the state liability account."

Second Substitute Senate Bill No. 5658 represents a significant advance in the way in which the state handles its risk management program. I am pleased to see this legislation pass the Legislature and I anticipate that it will result in a more modern and efficient risk management program, as well as an improvement in safety for state employees and the general public. One subsection of this bill, however, is not acceptable.

Section 17 would require the Attorney General to submit a yearly report to the Legislature with information on each tort claim against the state. Much of the information that would be required would be useful to have on an annual basis, and I have no objection to most of this section. One of the subsections, however, is problematic, and in order to remove it from the bill I must veto the entire section.

Subsection 6 of section 17 would require the Attorney General to provide information on each and every settlement offer made on a tort claim. This would provide a road map to the state's negotiating strategy to claimant's attorneys and be a serious disadvantage to the state. While those who have legitimate tort claims against the state are entitled to reasonable compensation, the state also has an obligation to settle claims without unnecessary and unjustified costs to the taxpayers of the state.

Tort claimants deserve straightforward and honest action from the state and its representatives. They do not deserve an opportunity to be privy to the state's confidential negotiating strategy relative to litigation. The confidentiality of this information is emphasized elsewhere in the bill, and appropriately so. Subsection 6 of section 17 clearly conflicts with those provisions, and the legislative intent.

The Attorney General has expressed willingness to provide much of the information requested in section 17, so most of the desired data will be available to the Legislature despite the removal of this section.

With the exception of section 17, Second Substitute Senate Bill No. 5658 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,
Booth Gardner, Governor

PARTIAL VETO MESSAGE ON SUBSTITUTE SENATE BILL NO. 5889

May 13, 1989

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to section 2, Substitute Senate Bill No. 5889 entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to conservation of water."

This is an excellent program, modeled on successes in the area of energy conservation. I am not, however, convinced of the propriety of delegating a legislative function entirely to a committee. I am vetoing section 2 and recommending that the Joint Select Committee develop definitions of these terms for deliberation by the full Legislature. In the event the Legislature is unable to agree on definitions prior to the approval of the accompanying constitutional amendment, the common usage of these terms will be applied.

With the exception of section 2, Substitute Senate Bill No. 5889 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,
Booth Gardner, Governor

PARTIAL VETO MESSAGE ON SUBSTITUTE SENATE BILL NO. 5911

May 14, 1989

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to sections 10 and 11, Substitute Senate Bill No. 5911 entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to public lands."

Sections 2 and 3 of the bill provide for a set aside of timber on State Forest Board Lands for timber firms which meet certain criteria. The proposal is intended to increase the amount of timber which is processed within the state and to create additional jobs. Criticism has been brought to my attention regarding the implementation of this set-aside program. I am inclined to sign this into law in spite of misgivings about its ability to address the problem. The success of this program relies on the Department of Natural Resources and counties to faithfully pursue implementation.

This bill creates a Joint Select Committee on Domestic Timber Processing. I urge that Committee to with my office over the interim to monitor implementation. I would also urge the Committee to review the possibility of providing compensation to school trusts and counties for setting aside land for jobs as well as for conservation. If I am not satisfied with the program, then I believe we will be forced to go to Congress and work toward a federal solution.

Section 10 of the bill requires the Governor and the Commissioner of Public Lands to jointly report to legislative committees on responses to federal or judicial decisions which affect timber supply. This section is redundant and needless, since we have always made any responses available to the Legislature on a timely basis in the past. When requested, we have always testified before committees to report on our activities.

Section 11 requires the Governor and the Commissioner of Public Lands to jointly develop an official state response to Forest Service plans by August 1, 1989. Such a response must supersede any previous state response. The intent of this section is unclear and redundant. The state has already officially responded to the individual forest service management plans and these responses were made within the official public comment periods for each of the forests. We have already agreed to work with the Department of Natural Resources as well as relevant federal agencies during the next few months on this issue.

While I am vetoing these sections, I want to assure you that my office will continue to work closely with all state and federal agencies to address the problems of timber supply and we will continue to be available to report on those activities at your request.

I applaud the Legislature for the other sections of this bill, as well as other items in the budget which will enhance our state's ability to respond to the problems of timber firms, communities and employees. I think we are going in the right direction and am looking forward to continuing to work with you during the next few months.

With the exception of sections 10 and 11, Substitute Senate Bill No. 5911 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,
Booth Gardner, Governor

PARTIAL VETO MESSAGE ON SENATE BILL NO. 5926

May 13, 1989

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to sections 1 and 3, Senate Bill No. 5926 entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to low-level radioactive waste."

Section 1 would send a confusing message regarding State policy on the disposal of low-level radioactive waste. State policy on this issue, which is the same as the policy stated in the federal Low-Level Radioactive Waste Amendments Act of 1985, states that the responsibility for disposal of radioactive waste is a national obligation, to be shared by all states across the nation. I am committed to the time frame established in the federal act, providing that all states must belong to a regional compact by December 31, 1992, which relieves the three states which now have sites from having to accommodate all of the nation's low-level radioactive wastes. I also want to make it clear that Washington State is not dependent on the revenue generated from fees for the disposal of radioactive waste.

Section 3 is inappropriate because Washington is a partner in the Northwest Interstate Compact. While I do not condone unnecessary or extravagant travel, the imposition of travel restrictions on the members would be contrary to establishing mutual cooperation and respect with other states.

With the exception of sections 1 and 3, Senate Bill No. 5926 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,
Booth Gardner, Governor

MESSAGE FROM THE SECRETARY OF STATE

The Honorable
President of the Senate

PARTIAL VETO MESSAGE ON SUBSTITUTE SENATE BILL NO. 5776

May 8, 1989

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to section 1, Substitute Senate Bill No. 5776 entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to law enforcement training."

Section 1 of this measure requires the Department of Community Development (DCD) to establish an advisory committee to study the issue of untrained and uncertified city and town law enforcement personnel. The advisory committee would be chaired by the director of DCD, while technical assistance and staff support would be provided by the Criminal Justice Training Commission (CJTC).

I believe it is important that we ensure our citizens that their law enforcement officers are properly trained. However, evidence has not been provided that this issue is of such compelling public interest that a study, conducted by a new advisory committee, should be statutorily authorized. Furthermore, it is inappropriate to have the resources of one executive agency subject to the authority of another agency director.

Section 2 of this measure requires law enforcement personnel hired after January 1, 1990, to commence training within six months of employment. Current law allows a much greater time before training must be completed. I support this change and believe it will serve to enhance the professionalism of our public safety officers.

With the exception of section 1, Substitute Senate Bill No. 5776 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,
Booth Gardner, Governor

VETO MESSAGE ON SENATE BILL NO. 5916

May 11, 1989

To the Honorable, the Senate
 of the State of Washington
 Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval, Senate Bill No. 5916, entitled:
 "AN ACT Relating to the labeling of meat."

This bill allows retail meat dealers who repackaging and/or regrind meat into smaller units from previously USDA inspected packages to use the label of the larger unit of meat.

At least one county has exercised its discretion to adopt a program which prohibits repackaging or regrinding where the label still shows the original cut of meat. The county policy was adopted because there is the possibility of consumer deception and no practical way to inspect the reground product to verify from which part of the animal it was originally ground or whether it was reground from a mixture of various cuts of meat.

I see no compelling reason to pre-empt the ability of local jurisdictions to regulate reground meat to protect the labeling of consumer's interest.

For the reasons stated above, I am vetoing Senate Bill No. 5916 in its entirety.

Respectfully submitted,
 Booth Gardner, Governor

VETO MESSAGE ON SENATE BILL NO. 5121

May 12, 1989

To the Honorable, the Senate
 of the State of Washington
 Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval, Senate Bill No. 5121 entitled:
 "AN ACT Relating to drug awareness education."

This bill establishes a mobile substance abuse awareness program to be developed and staffed through the Office of the Superintendent of Public Instruction as a required component of its substance abuse initiatives.

Substance abuse in our schools represents an enormous threat to our children's welfare and safety. Effective substance abuse education programs in our schools are essential. These are most effectively designed and implemented by local communities familiar with the unique needs of their youth.

Rather than facilitating local problem solving, this bill would centralize the substance abuse awareness program at the state level. Further, no appropriations were included in the budget recently passed by the Legislature.

Last week, I signed into law Second Substitute House Bill No. 1793, an omnibus bill addressing many components of our society's substance abuse problem. The focus of the omnibus bill is to coordinate the response of law enforcement officials, human service providers, school officials and others involved in grappling with the effects of this problem. Second Substitute House Bill No. 1793 funds programs and establishes a framework for an integrated plan in this important area.

Although I support the bill's objective to deliver a substance abuse awareness program to rural communities, these communities are best able to design and coordinate programs specific to their needs.

For the reasons stated above, I am vetoing Senate Bill No. 5121 in its entirety.

Respectfully submitted,
Booth Gardner, Governor

VETO MESSAGE ON SUBSTITUTE SENATE BILL NO. 5221

May 13, 1989

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval, Substitute Senate Bill No. 5221 entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to the advance college payment program."

Substitute Senate Bill No. 5221 requires the Higher Education Coordinating Board to study the feasibility of instituting an advance college payment program in Washington state. The board was appropriated thirty thousand dollars to conduct the study and was to submit a report, including recommendations, to the Legislature by January 1, 1990.

It is clear that some of the elements to be considered in the study are very complex and go beyond the scope of higher education. In order for the critical elements of the study to be examined thoroughly and completely, the board would have to contract for the required expertise. Among the most significant questions to be answered are those that relate to the potential federal income tax consequences for investors and the state's potential liability in the event that the program is not actuarially sound. It is estimated that the cost of expertise would far exceed the thirty-thousand dollar appropriation and the study would require more time than allotted.

Although I am not opposed to studying the feasibility of such a program, I am certain that the Higher Education Coordinating Board cannot complete a complex study of this kind without sufficient time and resources. The potential risks for investors and the state in such programs need to be examined thoroughly. This legislation fails to provide the time and resources needed for the completion of a quality feasibility study.

For the reasons stated above, I have vetoed Substitute Senate Bill No. 5221 in its entirety.

Respectfully submitted,
Booth Gardner, Governor

MESSAGE FROM THE GOVERNOR

*PARTIAL VETO MESSAGE ON SENATE BILL NO. 5233

May 13, 1989

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to section 3, Senate Bill No. 5233 entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to burglary."

This legislation creates a new crime of residential burglary for those incidents in which an individual enters a dwelling for the purposes of committing "a crime against persons or property therein". The existing crime of burglary in the second degree is retained for cases involving buildings other than dwellings.

Section 3 of this measure increases the seriousness level of second degree burglary from range II to range III and ranks the new crime of residential burglary at an even higher level, range IV. These rankings have significant fiscal impacts on both state and local governments that are not fully addressed. Although the Legislature included funds in the Omnibus Budget for the purposes of this act, they fall far short of meeting the Department of Correction's needs. In addition, no funds were provided to address the impacts on local jails.

I support the intent of this bill. Residential burglary is a particularly offensive crime that not only results in material loss, but shatters the sense of privacy people enjoy within their homes. Persons who invade homes in this manner must be punished.

However, attempting to address this issue has highlighted some of the inflexibility of the state's Sentencing Reform Act. Because of the sentencing structure created by the Act, little can be done in response to the problem of burglary other than to raise the seriousness level, as accomplished by section 3.

I am retaining the new definition of residential burglary created by this bill, and the instructions in section 1 requiring the Sentencing Guidelines Commission to consider residential burglary as a more serious offense than burglary in the second degree. Because the provisions of the bill do not take effect until July 1990, I believe this veto allows us to more fully consider the ramifications of this sentencing change.

The long-term financial impact on the state adult and juvenile systems will mandate significant additional commitment of both capital and operating funds. I am concerned that the full financial reality of passing this bill has not settled upon the Legislature. The Legislature should also consider the consistency of punishment level in this bill related to punishment for other criminal offenses.

Particular attention must also be paid to the effect these changes have on our local jail system. We can no longer continue to ignore the overcrowding and potentially dangerous conditions facing these facilities. At the same time the Legislature was enacting a measure extending eligibility for home detention programs to burglars, it was removing over fifty percent of the eligible inmates by the definition change included in this bill. The Sentencing Guidelines Commission is the proper place to consider these system-wide impacts.

I am asking the Sentencing Guidelines Commission to take up this issue for the purpose of recommending a resolution to the 1990 Legislature. The commission will review the relative rankings of these crimes, and will explore the possibility of reordering the sentencing grid in such a way as to allow courts greater flexibility in determining appropriate sanctions. In addition, the Commission will review the potential for changing sentencing practices associated with rank changes, and the relationship of deadly weapons enhancements to these two offenses.

With the exception of section 3, Senate Bill No. 5233 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,
Booth Gardner, Governor

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator DeJarnatt: "Thank you, Mr President. I wish to speak on a point of personal privilege. I want to tell the members of the Senate how great it is to be back. I really appreciated your generous welcome today.

"I want to thank the President and the members on both sides of the aisle for your plants, your flowers and your many messages of encouragement. I particularly want to thank Chairman Patterson and Chairman McCaslin and Chairman Metcalf for their kindness in moving my bills out of committee. I think I passed more bills this session than I ever have before--and there may be a message there somewhere. I do appreciate the one committee that adopted the resolution that I would get well and it passed four to three. I think that was really very gratifying.

"I want to thank the members of the staff, the Secretary of the Senate and the Sergeant at Arms for their assistance to my wife during some difficult times. I want to thank Representative Charles Wolfe who is one of four physicians in the House. Those House doctors even make house calls for Senators and I appreciate that. I want to thank my staff for their carrying on in my absence. They probably did a better job than I could have. I particularly want to thank my wife, who has been a real angel of mercy through some very difficult times. We've been married almost forty-three years. You get married for better or for worse and she's had more than her share of worse, I tell you.

"When you go through something like this, you realize how precious life can be and I would like to say to all of you, if there is something you plan to do in your life, don't put it off. If there's something you wanted to say to an estranged son or daughter or parent or relative, say it, because as the bard said, 'We play our role upon this stage a very brief time and then the candle goes out,' so you have to take advantage of it.

"But this experience today and your welcome, it has been very, very gratifying and appreciated very much. Thank you very much."

MOTION

At 4:08 p.m., on motion of Senator Newhouse, the Senate adjourned until 10:00 a.m., Saturday, May 20, 1989.

JOEL PRITCHARD, President of the Senate.

GORDON A. GOLOB, Secretary of the Senate.

DEPARTMENT OF WILDLIFE
600 North Capitol Way
Olympia, Washington

April 6, 1989

Booth Gardner
Governor
State of Washington
Legislative Building
Olympia, Washington 98504

Dear Governor Gardner:

Please accept my resignation from the office of Director of the Department of Wildlife to which I was appointed on June 10, 1988. I request that this resignation be effective at the close of business, April 6, 1989.

Sincerely,
CURTIS G. SMITCH, Director

MESSAGE FROM THE GOVERNOR
GUBERNATORIAL APPOINTMENT

April 7, 1989

TO THE HONORABLE, THE SENATE OF THE STATE OF WASHINGTON

Ladies and Gentlemen:

I have the honor to submit the following appointment, subject to your confirmation.

Dr. Curtis G. Smitch, appointed April 7, 1989, for a term ending at the Governor's pleasure, as the Director of the Department of Wildlife.

Pertinent information regarding Dr. Smitch was forwarded to you following his previous appointment to the office of Director of the Department of Wildlife on June 10, 1988. A copy of the completed Senate standard questionnaire is enclosed.

When I first appointed Dr. Smitch as Director of the Department of Wildlife, I intended that his, like the chief officers of other executive departments, would continue to serve at the Governor's pleasure unless rejected by the Senate. Because Dr. Smitch was appointed as a permanent director, I transmitted notice of the appointment to the Secretary of the Senate. Some asserted that, because Dr. Smitch was appointed while the Senate was not in session, he served as a "temporary" director. A temporary director of Wildlife may not serve more than one year.

On April 6, 1989, Dr. Smitch submitted his resignation from the position to which he was appointed on June 10, 1988. I have consulted and been advised by the Wildlife Commission regarding the appointment of a Director of Wildlife which would follow if Dr. Smitch submitted his resignation. The Commission was unanimous in its support for the appointment of Dr. Smitch. On April 7, 1989, I appointed Dr. Smitch as the permanent Director of the Department of Wildlife. This appointment is made at a time when the Senate is in session. Accordingly, Dr. Smitch shall continue to serve at the pleasure of the Governor unless rejected by a majority vote of the full Senate.

Sincerely,
BOOTH GARDNER, Governor

Referred to Committee on Environment and Natural Resources.

There being no objection, the President advanced the Senate to the sixth order of business.

SECOND READING

SENATE BILL NO. 6161, by Senators Sellar and Vognild (by request of Governor Gardner)

Modifying transportation tax rates and distributions.

The bill was read the second time.

MOTION

On motion of Senator Nelson, the rules were suspended, Senate Bill No. 6161 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third and the bill was placed on final passage.

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Moore: "I have a couple questions and I'm not sure to whom to address them, but Senator Patterson or maybe Senator Bender could answer them. You know, the highway between Seattle and Tacoma, unless you have one of those ten thousand pound vehicles, is getting pretty rough for those of us that drive back and forth on it. I'm wondering what's going to happen in the next couple of years to restructuring, maybe resurfacing? Is there anything going on in this budget? Since I'm not a member of the committee, I'm really not privy to a lot of these things, but can somebody give me an idea of whether we're going to get some resurfacing done or not?"

Senator Patterson: "Senator Moore, that's interstate. There are dollars that are made available for the maintenance of the interstate system throughout the state of Washington and throughout the nation. Many times the federal government, in releasing the trust fund monies for interstate, hold it back for purposes other than transportation. I would hope that there might be some dollars, however, that would be a matter of money that the department does receive from the federal government, and if that is one of the projects that they have on line for maintenance or repair, there may be something, but I'm not aware of it right now."

Senator Moore: "Thank you, Senator. Thank you, Mr. President."

The President declared the question before the Senate to be the roll call on the final passage of Senate Bill No. 6161.

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll on the final passage of Senate Bill No. 6161, and the bill failed to pass the Senate by the following vote: Yeas, 15; nays, 26; absent, 2; excused, 6.

Voting nay: Senators Anderson, Bailey, Barr, Bauer, Benitz, Bluechel, Craswell, Gaspard, Hansen, Hayner, Madsen, Matson, McDonald, McMullen, Newhouse, Patterson, Rasmussen, Rinehart, Sellar, Smith, Sutherland, Thorsness, von Reichbauer, Warnke, West, Williams - 26.

Absent: Senators Conner, Niemi - 2.

APPENDIX A: BUSINESS CORPORATION ACT COMMENTS

COMMENTSCHAPTER 1. GENERAL PROVISIONS*Section 1.01 Short Title.

The short title provided by Proposed section 1.01 creates a convenient name for Washington's business corporation act.

See the Introduction for a general description of the development of the Proposed Act, including its substantial reliance on the provisions in the Revised Model Business Corporation Act, the purposes it is intended to serve, the principles under which the Revised Model Act was prepared, and the roles of Cross References and Comments.

Section 1.02 Reservation of Power to Amend or Repeal.

Provisions similar to Wash. Const. art. XII, section 1, and Proposed section 1.02 have their genesis in Trustees of Dartmouth College v. Woodward, 17 U.S. (4 Wheat) 518 (1819), which held that the United States Constitution prohibited the application of newly enacted statutes to existing corporations while suggesting the efficacy of a reservation of power similar to Proposed section 1.02. The purpose of Wash. Const. art. XII, section 1, and Proposed section 1.02 is to avoid any possible argument that a corporation has contractual or vested rights in any specific statutory provision and to ensure that the state may in the future modify its corporation statutes as it deems appropriate and require existing corporations to comply with the statutes as modified. See generally Seattle Trust & Savings Bank v. McCarthy, 94 Wash. 2d 605 (1980).

All articles of incorporation or certificates of authority granted under the Proposed Act are subject to the reservation of power set forth in Proposed section 1.02. Further, corporations "governed" by this Act--which include all corporations formed or qualified under earlier, general incorporation statutes that contain a reservation of power--are also subject to the reservation of power of Proposed section 1.02 and bound by subsequent amendments to the Act.

Section 1.20 Filing Requirements.

Proposed section 1.20 standardizes the filing requirements for all documents required or permitted by the Proposed Act to be filed with the secretary of state. In a few instances, other sections of the Act impose additional requirements which must also be complied with if the document in question is to be filed. Proposed section 1.20 relates only to documents which the Proposed Act expressly requires or permits to be filed with the secretary of state; it does not authorize or direct the secretary of state to accept or reject for filing other documents relating to corporations and does not treat documents required or permitted to be filed under other statutes.

The purposes of the filing requirements of chapter 1 are: (1) to simplify the filing requirements by the elimination of formal or technical requirements that serve little purpose, (2) to minimize the number of pieces of paper to be processed by the secretary of state, and (3) to eliminate all possible disputes between persons seeking to file documents and the secretary of state as to the legal efficacy of documents.

The requirements of Proposed section 1.20 may be summarized as follows: (1) To be eligible for filing, a document must be typed or printed and in the English language (except to the limited extent permitted by Proposed subsection 1.20(e)).

(2) To be filed a document must simply be executed by a corporate officer. Proposed subsection 1.21(f). No specific corporate officer is designated as the appropriate officer to sign though the signing officer must designate the office or the capacity in which the officer signs the document. Among the officers who are expressly authorized to sign a document is the chairperson of the board of directors, a choice that may be appropriate if the corporation has a board of directors but has not appointed officers. If a corporation has not been formed or has neither officers nor a board of directors, an incorporator may execute the document. Many organizations, like lenders or title companies, may desire that specific documents include acknowledgements, verifications, or seals; Proposed subsection 1.21(g) therefore provides that the addition of these forms of execution does not affect the eligibility of the document for filing.

(3) A document must be filed by the secretary of state if it contains the information required by the Proposed Act. The document may contain additional information or statements and their presence is not ground for the secretary of state to reject the document for filing. These documents must be accepted for filing even though the secretary of state believes that the language is illegal or unenforceable. In view of this very limited discretion granted to the secretary of state under this section, Proposed subsection 1.25(d) defines the secretary of state's role as "ministerial" and provides that no inference or presumption arises from the fact that the secretary of state accepted a document for filing. See the Comments to Proposed sections 1.25 and 1.30.

(4) Proposed subsection 1.20(i) requires that a document filed with the secretary of state must be accompanied by "one exact or conformed copy." The requirement in the old law and in many state statutes that "duplicate originals" (each being executed as an original document) be submitted has been eliminated. Under Proposed subsection 1.20(i) an "exact" copy is a reproduction of the executed original document by photographic or xerographic process; a "conformed" copy is a copy on which the existence of signatures is entered or noted on the copy. The substitution of exact or conformed copies for duplicate originals reflects advances in the art of office copying machines that permit the routine reproduction of exact copies of executed documents. However, a person submitting "duplicate originals" meets the requirement of this section since the secretary of state may treat the duplicate original as a "conformed copy." The reasons for requiring an exact or conformed copy of a filed document to accompany the signed original, and the processing of these documents by the secretary of state, are discussed in the Comment to Proposed section 1.25.

Section 1.21 Forms.

As described in the Comment to Proposed section 1.20, documents are entitled to filing under the Proposed Act if they meet the substantive and formal requirements of the Act; they may also contain additional information if the person submitting the document so elects. See the Comments to Proposed sections 1.20 and 1.25. Certain types of reports and requests for documents may be processed efficiently only if uniform forms are prescribed by the secretary of state. Certificates of existence, for example, should require specific information located at specific places on the form; similarly, processing of large-volume, largely routine filings is expedited if standardized forms are required. Also, the disclosure requirements of the annual report may be administered on a systematic basis if a standardized form is mandated.

Section 1.22 Filing, Service and Copying Fees.

Proposed section 1.22 establishes in a single section the filing fees for all documents that may be filed under the Proposed Act.

The catch-all in Proposed subsection 1.22(b)(3) will apply to any document for which a statute does not establish a specific filing fee plus any document that later amendments to the statute may authorize or direct be filed with the secretary of state without establishing a specific filing fee.

Proposed subsection 1.22(b)(4) states that no fee is applicable to filing the resignation of a registered agent if appointed without consent. This provision permits a person who is named as a registered agent without consent to eliminate any reference to the person in the records of the secretary of state without expense.

Proposed sections 5.04, 11.07, 15.07, 15.20, and 15.31 require the secretary of state to serve as agent for service of process on domestic and foreign corporations under the circumstances there specified. The fee for this service is set forth in Proposed subsection 1.22(c).

Proposed subsection 1.22(d) establishes standard fees for copying filed documents and certifying that copies are true copies.

Section 1.23 Effective Time and Date of Document.

Proposed subsection 1.23(a) provides that documents accepted for filing become effective at the close of business on the date of filing, or at another specified time on that date, unless a delayed effective date is selected under Proposed subsection 1.23(b). Proposed subsection 1.23(c) continues the rule stated in the old law: it treats a document as effective as of the date it is submitted for filing even though it may not be reviewed and accepted for filing until several days later.

The effective time provisions set forth in Proposed subsection 1.23(a) should provide counsel with sufficient flexibility to plan same-day transactions in which documents (e.g., articles of merger) are filed on the morning of the day the transaction is to become effective.

Proposed subsection 1.23(b) provides an alternative method of establishing the effective date of a document. The document itself may fix as its effective date any date within 90 days after the date it is filed; it may also fix the time it becomes effective on that date. If no time is specified, the document becomes effective as of the close of business on the specified date. The Proposed Act also allows the effective date fixed in a document to be corrected to a limited extent. See the Comment to Proposed section 1.24.

Proposed subsection 1.23(b) does not authorize the retroactive establishment of an effective date before the date of filing.

Section 1.24 Correcting Filed Document.

Proposed section 1.24 permits making corrections in filed documents without refiling the entire document or submitting formal articles of amendment. This correction procedure has two advantages: (1) filing articles of correction may be less expensive than refiling the document or filing articles of amendment, and (2) articles of correction do not alter the effective date of the underlying document being corrected. Indeed, under Proposed subsection 1.24(c), even the correction relates back to the original effective date of the document except as to persons relying on the original document and adversely affected by the correction. As to these persons, the effective date of articles of correction is the date such articles are filed.

A document may be corrected either because it contains an "incorrect statement" or because it was defectively executed (including defects in optional forms of execution that do not affect the eligibility of the original document for filing).

A provision in a document setting an effective date (Proposed section 1.23) may be corrected under this section, but the corrected effective date must comply with Proposed section 1.23 measured from the date of the original filing of the document being corrected, i.e., it cannot be before the date of filing of the document or more than 90 days thereafter.

Section 1.25 Filing Duty of Secretary of State.

Under Proposed section 1.25 the secretary of state is required to file a document if it "satisfies the requirements of section 1.20." This language should be contrasted with the old law (and many state statutes) that required the secretary of state to ascertain whether the document "conformed with law" before filing it. The purpose of this change is to limit the discretion of the secretary of state to a ministerial role in reviewing the contents of documents. If the document submitted is in the form prescribed and contains the information required by Proposed section 1.20 and the applicable provision of the Proposed Act, the secretary of state under Proposed section 1.25 must file it even though it contains additional provisions the secretary of state may feel are irrelevant or not authorized by the Proposed Act or by general principles. Consistently with this approach, Proposed subsection 1.25(d) states that the filing duty of the secretary of state is ministerial and provides that filing a document with the secretary of state does not affect the validity or invalidity of any provision contained in the document and does not create any presumption with respect to any provision. Persons adversely affected by provisions in a document may test their validity in a proceeding appropriate for that purpose. Similarly, the attorney general of the state may also question the validity of provisions of documents filed with the secretary of state in an independent suit brought for that purpose; in neither case should any presumption or inference be drawn about the validity of the provision from the fact that the secretary of state accepted the document for filing.

Proposed subsection 1.25(b) provides that when the secretary of state files a document, the secretary of state stamps or endorses it as filed, retains the signed original document for the secretary of state's records, and returns the exact or conformed copy (which must accompany the document under Proposed subsection 1.20(i)) to the corporation or its representative. This will establish that a document has been filed in the form of the copy. Consideration was given to dispensing with the document copy entirely and providing only for the return of a fee receipt or equivalent document. Several states currently follow this practice with respect to articles of incorporation and other documents. It was felt to be important, however, to continue a practice by which each corporation receives back from the secretary of state for its records a document that on its face shows that it is an exact or conformed copy of the document that was filed with the secretary of state. This copy is usually placed in the minute book and is available for informal inspection without requiring a person to examine the records of the secretary of state. Of course, a person desiring a certified copy of any filed document may obtain it from the office of the secretary of state by paying the fee prescribed in Proposed subsection 1.22(d).

Proposed subsection 1.25(b) provides that acceptance of articles of incorporation or other documents is evidenced merely by return of a copy endorsed as filed. The old law and the statutes of many states provided that acceptance by the secretary of state is evidenced by a "certificate" (e.g., of incorporation, of merger, or of amendment). This older practice was not retained in the Proposed Act because it was felt desirable to reduce the number of pieces of paper issued by the secretary of state.

Because of the simplification of formal filing requirements and the limited discretion granted to the secretary of state by the Proposed Act, it is probable that rejection of documents for filing will occur only rarely. Proposed subsection 1.25(c) provides that if the secretary of state does reject a document for filing the secretary of state must return it to the corporation or its representative together with a brief written explanation of the secretary of state's reason for rejection. This rejection may be the basis of judicial review under Proposed section 1.26.

Section 1.26 Judicial Review of Secretary of State's Refusal To File Document.

The Committee rejected the RMA approach, which would have defined the court to hear appeals from actions of the secretary of state, described the petition, and make some very general statements regarding the proceeding and appeal therefrom. The Committee believed that the only comprehensive way to deal with such judicial review was to invoke the Administrative Procedure Act and authorities thereunder. Hence, it substituted Proposed section 1.26 for RMA 1.26.

Section 1.27 Evidentiary Effect of Copy of Filed Document.

The secretary of state may be requested to certify that a specific document has been filed with the secretary of state upon payment of the fees specified in Proposed section 1.22. Proposed section 1.27 provides that the certificate is conclusive evidence only that the original document is on file. The limited effect of the certificate is consistent with the ministerial filing obligation imposed on the secretary of state under the Proposed Act.

Section 1.28 Certificate of Existence or Authorization.

Proposed section 1.28 establishes a procedure by which any person may obtain a conclusive certificate from the secretary of state that a particular domestic or foreign corporation is in existence or is authorized to transact business in the state. The secretary of state is to make the judgment whether or not the corporation is in existence or is authorized to transact business from public records only and is not expected to make a more extensive investigation. In appropriate cases, the secretary of state may issue a certificate subject to specified qualifications.

Proposed subsection 1.28(b)(5) refers only to fees or penalties imposed by the Proposed Act and collected by the secretary of state or collected by other agencies and reported to the secretary of state. Proposed subsection 1.28(b)(5) relates only to fees or penalties to the extent their nonpayment affects the existence or authorization to transact business of the corporation.

A certificate of existence or authorization that may be relied on as binding and conclusive is of material assistance to attorneys who may be required to give formal legal opinions in connection with corporate transactions.

Section 1.29 Penalty for Signing False Document.

Proposed section 1.29 makes it a criminal offense for any person to sign a document knowing it is false in any material respect with intent that the document be submitted for filing to the secretary of state.

Section 1.30 Powers.

Proposed section 1.30 is intended to grant the secretary of state the authority necessary for efficient performance of the filing and other duties imposed on the secretary of state by the title but is not intended to give the secretary of state general authority to establish public policy. The most important aspects of a modern corporation statute relate to the creation and maintenance of relationships among persons interested in or involved with a corporation; these relationships basically should be a matter of concern to the parties involved and not subject to regulation or interpretation by the secretary of state. Further, even in situations where it is claimed that the corporation has been formed or is being operated for purposes that may violate the public policies of the state, the secretary of state generally should not be the governmental official that determines the scope of public policy through administration of filing responsibilities under the title. Rather, the attorney general may seek to enjoin the illegal conduct or to dissolve involuntarily the offending corporation.

Section 1.40 Title Definitions.

Proposed section 1.40 collects in a single section definitions of terms used throughout the Proposed Act. Sections of the Act in a few instances contain specialized definitions applicable only to those sections.

Some of the definitions of Proposed section 1.40 are drawn directly from the old law and are reasonably self-explanatory. A number of definitions, however, are new or deserve further explanation.

"Conspicuous" is defined in Proposed subsection 1.40(3) basically as defined in section 1-201(10) of the UNIFORM COMMERCIAL CODE. Even though the definition indicates some of the methods by which a provision may be made attention-calling, the test is whether attention can reasonably be expected to be called to it.

"Corporation," "domestic corporation," and "foreign corporation" are defined in Proposed subsections 1.40(4) and (10). The word "corporation," when used alone, refers only to domestic corporations. In a few instances, the phrase "domestic corporation" has been used in order to contrast it with a foreign corporation.

The term "distribution" defined in Proposed subsection 1.40(6) is a fundamental element of the financial provisions of the old law as amended in 1984. Proposed section 6.40 sets forth a single, unitary test for the validity of any "distribution." Proposed subsection 1.40(6) in turn defines "distribution" to include all transfers of money or other property made by a corporation to any shareholder in respect of the corporation's shares, except mere changes in the unit of interest such as share dividends and share splits. Thus, a "distribution" includes the declaration or payment of a dividend, a purchase by a corporation of its own shares, a distribution of evidences of indebtedness or promissory notes of the corporation, and a distribution in voluntary or involuntary liquidation.

The term "indirect" in the definition of "distribution" is intended to include transactions like the repurchase of parent company shares by a subsidiary whose actions are controlled by the parent. It also is intended to include any other transaction in which the substance is clearly the same as a typical dividend or share repurchase, no matter how structured or labeled.

The term "entity," defined in Proposed subsection 1.40(9), appears in the definition of "person" in Proposed subsection 1.40(16) and is included to cover all types of artificial persons. See also the definitions of "governmental subdivision," in Proposed subsection 1.40(11), "state," in Proposed subsection 1.40(23), and "United States," in Proposed subsection 1.40(25).

Proposed subsection 1.40(17) defines the principal office of a corporation to be the office, within or without the state, where the principal executive office of the corporation is located. Many corporations maintain numerous offices, but there is usually one office, sometimes colloquially referred to as the home office, headquarters, or executive suite, where the principal corporate officers are located. The corporation must designate its principal office address in the annual report required by Proposed section 16.22. In case of doubt as to which corporate office is the principal office, the designation by the corporation in its annual report should be accepted as establishing the principal office of the corporation.

The definition of "shareholder" in Proposed subsection 1.40(22) includes a beneficial owner of shares named in a nominee certificate under Proposed section 7.23, but only to the extent of the rights granted the beneficial owner in the certificate—for example, the right to receive notice of, and vote at, a shareholders' meeting. Various substantive sections of the Proposed Act also permit holders of voting trust certificates or beneficial owners of shares (not subject to a nominee certificate under Proposed section 7.23) to exercise some of the rights of a "shareholder." See, for example, Proposed section 7.40 (derivative proceedings).

The term "secretary" is defined in Proposed subsection 1.40(20) since the Proposed Act does not require the corporation to maintain any specific or titled officers. See Proposed section 8.40. However, some corporate officer, however titled, must perform the functions described in this definition, and that officer is referred to as the "secretary" in various sections of the Act that impose a duty on that person.

The term "person" is defined in Proposed subsection 1.40(16) to include an individual or an entity. In the case of an individual the Proposed Act assumes that the person is competent to act in the matter under general state law independent of the corporation statute.

Proposed subsection 1.40(27) defines "voting group" for purposes of the Act as a matter of convenient reference. A "voting group" consists of all shares of one or more classes or series that under the articles of incorporation or the title are entitled to vote and be counted together collectively on a matter. Shares entitled to vote "generally" on a matter under the articles of incorporation or this title are for that purpose a single voting group. The word "generally" signifies all shares entitled to vote on the matter by the articles of incorporation or this title that do not expressly have the right to be counted or tabulated separately. "Voting groups" are thus the basic units of collective voting at a shareholders' meeting, and voting by voting groups may provide essential protection to one or more classes or series of shares against actions that are detrimental to the rights or interests of that class or series.

The determination of which shares form part of a single voting group must be made from the provisions of the articles of incorporation and of this title. In a few instances under the Proposed Act, the board of directors may establish the right to vote by voting groups. On most matters coming before shareholders' meetings, only a single voting group, consisting of a class of voting or common shares, will be involved, and action on such a matter is effective when approved by that voting group pursuant to Proposed section 7.25. See Proposed subsection 7.26(a). If a second class of shares is also entitled to vote on the matter, then a further determination must be made as to whether that class is to vote as a separate voting group or whether it is to vote along with the other voting shares as part of a single voting group.

Members of the board of directors are usually elected by the single voting group of shares entitled to vote generally; in some circumstances, however, some members of the board may be selected by one voting group and other members by one or more different voting groups. See Proposed section 8.03.

The definition of a voting group permits the establishment by statute of quorum and voting requirements for a variety of matters considered at shareholders' meetings in corporations with multiple classes of shares. See Proposed sections 7.25 and 7.26. Depending on the circumstances, two classes or series of shares may vote together collectively on a matter as a single voting group, they may be entitled to vote on the matter separately as two voting groups, or one or both of them may not be entitled to vote on the matter at all.

Proposed section 1.41 establishes rules for determining how notice may be given and when notice is effective for a variety of purposes under the Proposed Act.

Proposed subsection 1.41(c) provides that notice by a corporation to its shareholders is effective when mailed if correctly addressed with sufficient first-class postage. The correct address for this purpose is the address shown in the corporation's records. The effect of this section is to permit the corporation to compute the statutory time periods for notice of shareholders' meetings and other actions from the date the notice is mailed without regard to where its shareholders are located or the time it takes for the mail to reach them.

Written notice to shareholders by persons other than the corporation is effective as provided in Proposed subsection 1.41(e). Notice by the corporation to its shareholders that is not addressed to the record address of the shareholder, is effective when received under Proposed subsection 1.41(e).

Proposed subsection 1.41(d) provides that notice to a corporation may be addressed to the registered agent of the corporation at its registered office or to the corporation or its secretary at the principal office of the corporation as shown in its most recent public filing. An officer, director, or shareholder of a corporation will normally give written notice to the corporation by delivering or mailing a copy of that notice to the corporation or to the secretary of the corporation at its principal office. Such a notice is effective when it is received. Such notice may be given for a variety of purposes under this Act, e.g., giving notice of intent to dissent (Proposed section 13.21), notice of a demand to inspect books and records (Proposed section 16.02), and notices of resignation (Proposed sections 8.07 and 8.43). This method of giving notice to the corporation, however, is not exclusive, and an officer, director, or shareholder may give notice in other ways as well.

Persons who have no prior relationship with the corporation may give notice either to the registered agent of the corporation, or if they wish, to the corporation or its secretary at its principal office.

Proposed section 1.41 also contains a variety of general provisions dealing with notice. It recognizes, for example, that notice of a board of directors' meeting may be given orally if that is specifically authorized by the articles of incorporation or bylaws. It also deals with situations where notice may be sought to be given to persons for who no current address is available, or where personal notice is impractical. Notice delivered to the person's last known address is effective as described in Proposed subsection 1.41(e) even though never actually received by the person. Proposed subsection 1.41(b) also authorizes notice by publication in some circumstances, including radio, television, or other form of public wire or wireless communication.

Proposed subsection 1.41(g) recognizes that other sections of the Act prescribe specific notice requirements for particular situations—e.g., service of process on a corporation's registered agent under Proposed section 5.04—and that these specific requirements, rather than the general requirements of Proposed section 1.41, control. Finally, the second sentence of Proposed subsection 1.41(g) permits a corporation's articles of incorporation or bylaws to prescribe the corporation's own notice requirements, if they are not inconsistent with the general requirements of this section or specific requirements of other sections of the Act.

The rules set forth in Proposed section 1.41 permit many other sections of the Proposed Act to be phrased simply in terms of giving or delivering notice without repeating details with respect to how notice should be given and when it is effective in various circumstances.

INCORPORATION*Section 2.01 Incorporators.

Incorporators under the Proposed Act have only five functions: (1) to sign the articles of incorporation; (2) to deliver the articles of incorporation for filing to the secretary of state; (3) pursuant to Proposed section 2.05, to call an organizational meeting if initial directors are not named in the articles of incorporation; (4) pursuant to Proposed section 10.05, to adopt amendments to the corporation's articles of incorporation if no shares have been issued and if initial directors were not named in the articles of incorporation and have not been elected; and (5) pursuant to Proposed section 14.01, to dissolve the corporation if no shares have been issued or no business commenced and if initial directors were not named in the articles of incorporation and have not been elected.

Section 2.02 Articles of Incorporation.

Proposed subsection 2.02(a) sets forth the minimum mandatory requirements for all articles of incorporation. If the corporation is to have a board of directors (an option it need not accept, under Proposed section 8.01), either the articles of incorporation or the bylaws must state the number of directors or specify how the number is to be determined Proposed subsection 2.02(b). A corporation formed with articles of incorporation that only state these minimum requirements will have the broadest powers and least restrictions on activities permitted by the Proposed Act. The Proposed Act thus permits the creation of a "standard" corporation by a simple, one-page document.

Proposed subsections 2.02(c) and (d) list numerous situations in which the statute prescribes rules that will govern the corporation unless the articles of incorporation, or either the articles of incorporation or the bylaws, provide otherwise. The Committee felt that these provisions would provide counsel with ready check-lists for planning incorporations, and thereby would facilitate practice in the state. Such provisions derive their significance only to the extent of the rules prescribed by the statute elsewhere. They are not intended to add to or detract from the substance of the basic rules cited therein.

Section 2.03 Effect of Filing of Articles of Incorporation.

The proposed provision makes no change of substance in the current law apart from extending a possible later effective date from a maximum of 30 days to a maximum of 90 days.

2.04 Liability for Preincorporation Transactions.

The combined effect of Proposed sections 2.03 and 2.04 is to abolish in Washington the de facto corporation doctrine and the corporation-by-estoppel (or "loose" estoppel) doctrine. The ABA Committee Comment (REVISED MODEL BUSINESS CORPORATION ACT, Official Text 44-46 (1984)) concludes from a review of recent cases that the principal equitable consideration running through recent applications of de facto and estoppel doctrines relates to the desire to protect persons who acted with the good faith belief that a corporation existed. Once the equity of that ground is acknowledged, as it is expressly in Proposed section 2.04, there is no reason not to impose liability on parties who fail to take advantage of the simple and inexpensive process of incorporation.

The last clause of Proposed section 2.04 has the effect of preserving in Washington the common law promoter doctrine only in situations in which both the party acting on behalf of the "corporation" and the third party know that the corporation is not in existence. Thus, situations involving a contract on behalf of a corporation to be formed (where both parties know of that fact) will continue to be governed by the principles discussed in Goodman v. Darden, Doman & Stafford Assoc., 100 Wash.2d 476 (1983). On the other hand, situations like that in Heintze Corp. v. Northwest Tech-Manuals, Inc., 7 Wash. App. 759 (1972) (a contract made by a person acting on behalf of the "corporation" with knowledge of no incorporation, where the other party had no such knowledge) will be governed only by the statute. The promoter doctrine will no longer apply to such situations. As previously noted, the de facto and loose estoppel (i.e., estoppel arising only because the claimant dealt with the "corporation" as a corporation) also will not apply to such situations.

Section 2.05 Organization of Corporation.

The additions to Revised Model Act section 2.05 are designed to provide the secretary of state with a date certain by which a corporation's initial annual report will be filed. Thus, under Proposed section 16.22(c), the first annual report must be delivered to the secretary of state within 120 days of the date on which the articles of incorporation were filed.

The Revised Model Act (and the Proposed Act) does not contain notice provisions for an incorporators' meeting. The Committee believes that Proposed sections 8.22(b), and 1.41 should be applied by analogy to establish such requirements.

Section 2.06 Bylaws.

The responsibility for adopting initial bylaws of a corporation has been placed on the persons completing the organization of the corporation under Proposed section 2.05.

The power to amend or repeal bylaws, or adopt new bylaws after the formation of the corporation is completed, is addressed in Proposed sections 10.20, 10.21.

Section 2.07 Emergency Bylaws.

Proposed section 2.07 separates the subject of emergency bylaws from that of emergency powers. The latter is dealt with under Proposed section 3.03.

The adoption of emergency bylaws in advance of an emergency not only clarifies lines of command and responsibility but also tends to ensure continuity of responsibility. The board of directors may be authorized by the emergency bylaws, for example, to designate the officers or other person, in order of seniority and subject to various conditions, who may be deemed to be directors during the emergency.

The definition of "emergency" adopted by subsection (d) is broader than a nuclear disaster or attack on the United States. It includes any catastrophic event, such as an airplane crash or fire, that makes it difficult or impossible for a quorum of the corporation's board of directors to be assembled. While there apparently has been no recent illustration of a public corporation facing such a catastrophic event, its possibility should not be ignored. In order to encourage corporations to adopt emergency bylaws, Proposed subsection 2.07(c) broadly validates all corporate actions taken "in good faith" pursuant to emergency bylaws and immunizes all corporate directors, officers, employees, and agents from liability as a result of these actions. The phrase "action taken in good faith in accordance with the emergency bylaws" has been substituted for "wilful misconduct," the language of the old law. This change is designed to conform to the standard for immunity within the Proposed Act and represents no substantive change.

A corporation that does not adopt emergency bylaws under this section may nevertheless exercise the powers described in Proposed section 3.03 in the event of an emergency.

CHAPTER 3. PURPOSES AND POWERS

Section 3.01 Purposes.

Proposed subsection 3.01(a) provides that every corporation automatically has the purpose of engaging in any lawful business unless a narrower purpose is described in the articles of incorporation. The specification of an "any lawful business" clause has become so nearly universal in states that permit the clause that no reason exists for treating it otherwise than as the norm for the "standard" corporation.

The option of a narrower purpose clause is most likely to be elected only in situations where one or more participants in the corporation desire to limit or retain a check on the business operations of the corporation. The articles of incorporation may limit lines of business in which the corporation may engage. It should be recognized, however, that the limited scope of the ultra vires concept in litigation between the corporation and outsiders means that a third person entering into a transaction that violates the restriction in the purpose clause may be able to enforce the transaction in accordance with its terms if the third person was unaware of the narrow purpose clause when the third person entered the transaction. See the Comment to section 3.04.

Many corporations may also find it desirable to supplement a general purpose clause with an additional statement of business purposes. This may be necessary for licensing or for qualification purposes in other states.

The Committee rejected RMA section 3.01(b) because of concern over the ambiguity related to when a business is subject to regulation under another statute of the state. It thus inserted the limitation in the old law which prohibited corporations engaged in banking or insurance from incorporating under this title.

Section 3.02 General Powers.

Proposed section 3.02 lists numerous powers which corporations possess in order to accomplish their purposes. The articles of incorporation need not recite these powers in order for a corporation to be able to exercise them. The powers exist as a matter of statutory grant. The section provides a list of powers that is not inclusive. The articles of incorporation may specifically provide that a corporation shall not have some of these powers. Such power was implicit in the old law. The articles of incorporation may also confer other powers on the corporation.

The powers enumerated in Proposed subsection 3.02(b) are broader than those provided in the old law in several significant respects:

1. A corporation is empowered to make loans to directors. Old RCW 23A.08.020 only authorized a corporation to lend money to its employees, despite authorization in old RCW 23A.08.445 of loans to directors in certain circumstances. Under the Proposed Act, the wisdom and propriety of such loans should be valued on the basis of general fiduciary standards and the benefits to the corporation. See Proposed sections 8.30 (duty of care), and 8.70-8.73 (conflicting interest transactions).

2. It is clear under Proposed subsection 3.02(b)(14) that former as well as present directors, officers, employees and agents may participate in pension, option and similar benefit plans. The old law did not so specify.

3. Proposed section 3.02(b)(17) permits payments or donations or other acts "that further the business and affairs of the corporation." This clause, independent of and added to the power to make charitable and similar donations under Proposed subsection 3.02(b)(15), permits contributions for purposes that may not be charitable, such as for political purposes. This power is explicitly limited to actions consistent with other law than the Proposed Act. Thus, it is the purpose of this subsection to authorize all corporate actions that are lawful and not against public policy.

Section 3.03 Emergency Powers.

Proposed section 3.03 should be read in conjunction with Proposed section 2.07 which authorizes a corporation to adopt emergency bylaws. Proposed section 3.03 grants every corporation limited powers to act in an emergency even though it has failed to enact emergency bylaws.

The Committee concluded that limiting exoneration of officers, directors, or employees acting in good faith in an emergency to actions in furtherance of the ordinary business affairs of the corporation was counterproductive to the purpose of the section. An emergency might well require an officer to take extraordinary steps simply to preserve the corporation's assets. Thus, the committee deleted the RMA limitation of ordinary business affairs in favor of judging actions taken by whether they further the corporation's business affairs.

Section 3.04 Ultra Vires.

The basic purpose of Proposed section 3.04—as has been the purpose of all similar statutes during the 20th century—is to eliminate all vestiges of the doctrine of inherent incapacity of corporations. See Campbell, "The Model Business Corporation Act," 11-4 BUS. LAW. 98, 102 (1956). Under this section it is unnecessary for persons dealing with a corporation to inquire into limitations on its purposes or powers that may appear in its articles of incorporation. A person who is unaware of these limitations when dealing with the corporation is not bound by them. The phrase in Proposed section 3.04(a) that "corporate action may not be challenged on the ground that the corporation lacks or lacked power to act" applies equally to the use of the doctrine as a sword or as a shield: a third person may no more avoid an undesired contract with a corporation on the ground the corporation was without authority to make the contract than a corporation may defend a suit on a contract on the ground that the contract is ultra vires.

The language of Proposed section 3.04 extends beyond contracts and conveyances of property; "corporate action" of any kind cannot be challenged on the ground of ultra vires. For this reason it makes no difference whether a limitation in articles of incorporation is considered to be a limitation on a purpose or a limitation on a power; both are equally subject to Proposed section 3.04. Corporate action also includes inaction or refusal to act. The common law of ultra vires distinguished between executory contracts, partially executed contracts, and fully executed ones; Proposed section 3.04 treats all corporate action the same—except to the extent described in Proposed subsection 3.04(b)—and the same rules apply to all contracts no matter at what stage of performance.

Proposed section 3.04, however, does not validate corporate conduct that is made illegal or unlawful by statute or common law decision. This conduct is subject to whatever sanction, criminal or civil, that is provided by the statute or decision. Whether or not illegal corporate conduct is voidable or rescindable depends on the applicable statute or substantive law and is not affected by Proposed section 3.04.

Proposed section 3.04 also does not address the validity of essentially intra vires conduct that is not approved by appropriate corporate action. It does not deal, for example, with the enforceability of an executory contract to sell substantially all the assets of a corporation not in the ordinary course of business that was not approved by the shareholders as required by Proposed section 12.02. This type of transaction is not beyond the purposes or powers of the corporation; it simply has not been approved by the corporate authorities as required by law. Similarly, Proposed section 3.04 does not deal with whether a corporation is bound by the action of a corporate agent if the action requires, but has not received, approval by the board of directors. Whether or not the corporation is bound by this action depends on the law of agency, particularly the scope of apparent authority and whether the third person knew or should have known of the defect in the corporate approval process. These actions may be ultra vires with respect to the agent's authority but they are not ultra vires with respect to the corporation and are not controlled by Proposed section 3.04.

Similarly, corporate action is not ultra vires under Proposed section 3.04 merely because it constitutes a breach of fiduciary duty. For example, a misuse of corporate assets for personal purposes by an officer or director is a breach of fiduciary duty and may be enjoined. Similarly, in some circumstances a lien on corporate assets and a contract entered into by the corporation may be cancelled or enjoined if they constitute breaches of fiduciary duty and the third person is charged with knowledge that they were improper. These transactions, however, are not ultra vires with respect to the corporation, and cannot be attacked under Proposed section 3.04. They may be enjoined because of breach of the fiduciary duty, not because the transaction exceeds the powers or purposes of the corporation.

Proposed subsection 3.04(b), like the old law, permits challenges to the corporation's lack of power in three limited classes of cases:

1. In suits by the attorney general under Proposed section 14.30. This provision does not answer the question whether or not a corporation may be dissolved or enjoined by the attorney general for committing an ultra vires act; it simply preserves the power of the state to assert that certain corporate action was ultra vires.

2. In a suit by the corporation, either direct or through a legal representative, against incumbent or former officers, directors, employees or agents, for authorizing or causing the corporation to engage in an ultra vires act. Again, this section does not address whether or not there is liability for causing the corporation to enter into an ultra vires act; it simply preserves the power of the corporation to assert that certain corporate action was ultra vires.

3. In a suit by a shareholder against the corporation to enjoin an ultra vires act. The Committee deleted the requirement in the old act and in the RMA that the court's ability to set aside or enjoin the contract depended on all affected persons being parties to the proceeding. It felt that principles of jurisdiction resolved this problem. It also deleted the limitation that the court only grant relief "if equitable." The remedies being sought are, of course, equitable, and thus the statement seems superfluous. More importantly, the ABA Committee Comment ascribes to equitable a meaning "that only third persons dealing with a corporation while specifically aware that the corporation's action was ultra vires will be enjoined." MODEL BUSINESS CORPORATION ACT, Official Text 63 (1984). The Committee endorses that situation as the primary one in which a contract should be enjoined, but did not feel that the statutory language captured the concept. Finally, the Committee deleted the limitation on the court's ability to grant damages (i.e., not to include anticipated profits). It felt that courts should have complete freedom to determine damages in the circumstances.

CHAPTER 4. NAME

Section 4.01 Corporate Name.

Proposed section 4.01 imposes two basic name requirements: (1) the name must indicate "corporateness," and (2) the name must be distinguishable upon the records of the secretary of state.

The Committee deleted RMA language that would have recognized words or abbreviations of corporate status in another language. It felt that the meaning of many foreign designations is not generally known in the United States, and therefore that confusion would arise as to whether the foreign words import corporateness.

Proposed section 4.01 is based on the fundamental premise that its name provisions should only ensure that each corporation has a sufficiently distinctive name so that it may be distinguished from other corporations upon the records of the secretary of state. A general business corporation statute should not be a partial substitute for a general assumed name, trademark, unfair competition, or antifraud statute. As a result, the Proposed Act does not restrict the power of a corporation to adopt or use an assumed or fictitious name with the same freedom as an individual or impose a requirement that an "official" name not be "deceptively similar" to another corporate name (a requirement of the old law.). Principles of unfair competition, not the business corporation act, provide the more effective limits on the competitive use of similar names.

The phrase "distinguishable upon the records of the secretary of state" is drawn from section 102(a)(1) of the Delaware General Corporation Law. Delaware authorities construing that subsection are reviewed in Trans-Americas Airlines, Inc. v. Kenton, 491 A.2d 1139 (Del. 1985) ("Transamerica Airlines Inc." is distinguishable from "Trans-Americas Airlines, Inc."). The principal justifications for requiring a distinguishable official name are (1) to prevent confusion within the secretary of state's office and (2) to permit accuracy in naming and serving corporate defendants in litigation. Thus, confusion in an absolute or linguistic sense is the appropriate test under the Proposed Act, not the competitive relationship between the corporations, which is the test for fraud or unfair competition. The precise scope of "distinguishable upon the records of the secretary of state" is an appropriate subject of regulation by the office of secretary of state in order to ensure uniformity of administration. Corporate names that differ only in the words used to indicate corporateness are generally not distinguishable. Thus, if ABC Corporation is in existence, the names "ABC Inc.," "ABC Co.," or "ABC Corp." should not be viewed as distinguishable. Similarly, minor variations between names that are unlikely to be noticed, such as the substitution of a "." for a "," or the substitution of an arabic numeral for a word, such as "2" for "Two", or the substitution of a lower case letter for a capital, such as "d" for "D," should not be viewed as being distinguishable.

The elimination of the "deceptively similar" requirement that appeared in the old law and the specific recognition appearing in Proposed section 4.01(d), that corporations may use assumed business or trade names to the same extent an individual can, are based on the fact that the secretary of state does not generally police the unfair competitive use of names and, indeed, has no resources to do so.

Proposed section 4.01 contains, as old RCW 23A.08.050 did, a list of prohibited words that cannot be used in corporate names. Counsel should note that the source of the prohibitions regarding the words listed in both the old law and Proposed subsection 4.01(a)(3) are other statutes in RCW. Thus, for example, a corporation (that is not a bank) may not use as part of its name "bank," "banking," "banker," or "trust." RCW 30.04.020. A corporation (that is not a savings and loan association) may not use as part of its name words that connote operation as a savings and loan association. RCW 33.08.010. A corporation (that is not an industrial loan company) may not use any combination of the words "industrial" and "loan." RCW 31.04.010. A corporation (that is not a cooperative) may not use the word "cooperative" in its name. RCW 23.86.030. Finally, broad and general prohibitions upon certain names exist. E.g., RCW 48.30.060 prohibits any person who is not an insurer to use any name which deceptively infers or suggests that it is an insurer.

Section 4.02 Reserved Name.

The secretary of state is not equipped to determine the intent that a person has for making a reservation. Thus, Proposed section 4.02 deletes the old list of five acceptable purposes in favor of permitting "any person" to reserve a corporation name, irrespective of purpose.

The committee elected to continue the period of reservation (180 days) found in the old law, rather than to adopt the RMA period of 120 days. It felt that long-standing familiarity with the old period justified the change. It did adopt, however, the RMA approach of no renewal of the reservation on grounds that incorporation under the Proposed Act (or qualification of a foreign corporation) is a simple enough process that it is unlikely more than 180 days will be necessary for formation or qualification. In the event it is not, the original reserver can reapply for reservation of the name immediately after the name becomes available.

Section 4.03 Registered Name.

The "registration" of a corporate name is basically a device by which a foreign corporation, not qualified to transact business in the state, can preserve the right to use its unique "real" name if it decides later to qualify in the state. In effect, registration ensures "real" name availability in areas of potential future expansion.

The committee believes it desirable to limit Proposed section 4.03 to this purpose and not allow it to become an indirect device for the preservation of trademarks, trade names, or possible assumed names. For this reason, generally only "real" names of foreign corporations may be registered (with exceptions described below). A broader approach would create issues better resolved under a trademark or similar statute, or by litigation under unfair competition principles, and might impose duties on the secretary of state that that office is generally not equipped to handle, or could handle only at increased cost.

Registration of a name other than the "real" name is permitted in only one situation: if the "real" name of a foreign corporation is not available solely because it does not comply with Proposed section 15.06, requiring the words "incorporated," "company," or "limited," or an abbreviation of one of these words, the corporation may add one of these words or abbreviations and register its "real" name as so modified under Proposed subsection 4.03(a).

Confusion sometimes exists between "reservation" of names under Proposed section 4.02 and registration of names under Proposed section 4.03. A foreign corporation that is planning to qualify as a foreign corporation and finds that its name is available in the state may either register or reserve the name. Often a foreign corporation will have to decide whether to qualify or to create a domestic subsidiary; this well may be decided after the exclusive right to use the corporate name in the state is obtained either by reservation or by registration. If the corporation registers its name, it will be kept indefinitely; if it reserves, it will be kept for 180 days. That is the foreign corporation's choice. If a foreign corporation registers its name and then elects to form a domestic or foreign subsidiary, the written consent procedure of Proposed section 4.03(e) allows the secretary of state to ascertain that the domestic subsidiary is related to the foreign corporation and that use of the registered name by that subsidiary is acceptable to the foreign parent.

If a foreign corporation's "real" name is unavailable, a foreign corporation may reserve any name—including one that is assumed or fictitious when compared with the corporation's "real" name—for 180 days. But it may not register this type of name in light of the policy against allowing the name provision of the Proposed Act to be used for purposes broader than the "unique name" issue. Nevertheless, a foreign corporation that wishes to be certain that a particular fictitious or assumed name will be available in the future may create an inactive domestic subsidiary with the desired name to preserve its future availability.

Proposed subsection 4.03(e) provides that the protection of the name provided by this section terminates when the name is used pursuant to this section by the foreign corporation, its domestic or foreign subsidiary, or a domestic or foreign limited partnership.

CHAPTER 5. OFFICE AND AGENT

Section 5.01 Registered Office and Registered Agent.

The Proposed Act assumes that formal communications to the corporation will normally be addressed to the registered agent at the registered office. If the communication itself deals with the registered office or registered agent, however, copies must be sent to the principal office of the corporation. Moreover, the Act authorizes corporations to retain records at, or to provide information to shareholders through, offices other than the registered office. The Proposed Act consistently recognizes that the registered office may be a "legal" rather than a "business" office.

Many corporations designate their registered office to be a business office of the corporation and a corporate officer at that office to be the registered agent. Since most of the communication to the registered agent at the registered office deals with legal matters, however, corporations often designate their regular legal counsel or counsel's nominee as their registered agent and the counsel's (or nominee's) office as the registered office of the corporation.

The registered agent need not be an individual. Corporation service companies often provide, as a commercial service, registered offices and registered agents at the office of the corporation service company.

The voluntary dissolution of the corporation does not of itself terminate the authority of the registered agent to accept service of process or other communications on behalf of the dissolved corporation. See section 14.05.

Section 5.02 Change of Registered Office or Registered Agent.

Changes of registered office or registered agent are usually routine matters which do not affect the rights of shareholders. The purpose of Proposed section 5.02 is to permit these changes without a formal amendment of the articles of incorporation, without approval of the shareholders, and, indeed, even without formal approval of the board of directors.

Changes of registered office or registered agent are often of particular concern to corporation service companies which routinely serve as registered agent and routinely provide a registered office for literally thousands of corporations within many states.

Experience with the change of registered agent and registered office provisions in old law and the statutes of other states revealed several minor problems with these largely formal provisions that are addressed in the Proposed Act:

(1) Changes of registered office or registered agent need not be authorized by the board of directors. Many changes (such as the name of a specific registered agent at a registered office) are so routine that they should not require action by the board of directors, particularly in publicly held corporations.

(2) The procedure by which a registered agent may change the street address of the registered office applies to any location within the state and the agent is expressly required to notify the corporation of the change. But a facsimile signature of the agent is acceptable since a corporation service company changing its street address may be required to file a form for each of the thousands of corporations for which it serves as registered agent and to notify each corporation of the change.

Section 5.03 Resignation of Registered Agent.

Proposed section 5.03, by requiring the secretary of state to mail one copy of the resignation after it is filed to the corporation at its principal office, eliminates possible ambiguity under the old law as to where such statement is to be mailed.

The Proposed section also permits the discontinuance of the registered office as well as the resignation of the agent. Corporation service companies desiring to resign their agency for nonpayment of fees will normally wish to discontinue the registered office as well as the registered agent.

Section 5.04. Service on Corporation.

The Committee rejected the RMA approach regarding default service on the secretary of the corporation on the ground that courts and counsel had become accustomed to easy, objective proof regarding service in such situations. It felt that the RMA approach would lead to additional, unnecessary complications regarding proof, with no real advantages over the old law.

CHAPTER 6. SHARES AND DISTRIBUTIONS

Section 6.01 Authorized Shares.

The Proposed Act follows the approach of the Revised Model Business Corporation Act by abolishing the distinction between "common" and "preferred or special" shares. Those words are no longer used in the Proposed Act, in favor of more general language which better reflects the actual flexibility in the creation of classes of shares that exists in modern practice.

Proposed subsection 6.01(a) requires that the articles of incorporation prescribe the classes of shares and the number of shares of each class that the corporation is authorized to issue. If the articles authorize the issue of only one class of shares, no designation or description of the shares is required, it being understood that these shares have both the power to vote and the power to receive the net assets of the corporation upon dissolution. See Proposed subsection 6.01(b). Shares with both of these characteristics are usually referred to as "common shares" or "common stock," but no specific designation is required by the Proposed Act.

If more than one class of shares is authorized, the preferences, limitations, and relative rights of each class of shares must be described in the articles of incorporation before any shares of that class are issued, or the board of directors may be given authority to establish them under Proposed section 6.02. These descriptions constitute the "contract" of the holders of those classes of shares with respect to their interest in the corporation and must be set forth in sufficient detail reasonably to define their interest. The designations, preferences, limitations, and relative rights of shares with one or more special or preferential rights which may be authorized are further described in Proposed subsection 6.01(c).

If more than one class is authorized (or if only one class is originally authorized but at some future time one or more other classes of shares are added by amendment), the preferences, limitations, and relative rights of each class or classes of shares, including the class or classes that possess the fundamental characteristics of voting and residual equity financial interests, must be described before shares of those classes are issued. If both fundamental characteristics are placed exclusively in a single class of shares, that class may be described simply as "common shares" or by statements such as the "shares have general distribution and voting rights," the "shares have all the rights of common shares," or the "shares have all rights not granted to the class A shares."

If the articles of incorporation create classes of shares that divide these fundamental rights among two or more classes of shares, it is necessary that the rights be clearly allocated among the classes. Specificity is required only to the extent necessary to differentiate the relative rights of the respective classes. For example, where one class has a liquidation preference over another, it is necessary to specify only the preferential liquidation right of that class; in the absence of a contrary provision in the articles, the remaining class would be entitled to receive the net assets remaining after the liquidation preference has been satisfied.

More than one class of shares may be designated as "common shares;" however, each must have a "distinguishing designation" under Proposed subsection 6.01(a), e.g., "nonvoting common shares" or "class A common shares," and the rights of the classes must be described. For example, if a corporation authorizes two classes of shares with equal rights to share in all distributions and with identical voting rights except that one class is entitled exclusively to elect one director and the second class is entitled exclusively to elect a second director, the two classes may be designated, e.g., as "Class A common" and "Class B common," and described, e.g., as "a class of common shares with the right to elect one director." What is required is language that makes the location of these rights clear.

Rather than describing the terms of each class of shares in the articles of incorporation, the corporation may delegate to the board of directors under Proposed section 6.02 the power to establish the terms of a class of shares (or of a series within a class of shares) if no shares of that class (or series) have previously been issued. Those terms, however, must be set forth in an amendment to the articles of incorporation before the shares are issued.

Proposed subsection 6.01(b) requires that every corporation authorize one or more classes of shares that have the two fundamental characteristics of having unlimited voting rights and the right to receive the net assets of the corporation upon its dissolution. These two fundamental characteristics need not be placed in a single class of shares but may be divided as desired. It is nevertheless essential that the corporation always have authorized shares with these two characteristics, and Proposed section 6.03 requires that shares having in the aggregate these characteristics always be outstanding.

Proposed subsection 6.01(b) ensures that there is always in existence one or more classes of shareholders who share in the ultimate residual interest in the corporation and who are entitled to elect a board of directors and make other fundamental decisions with respect to the corporation.

Proposed subsection 6.01(c) lists the principal features that are customarily incorporated into classes of shares. Proposed subsection 6.01(d) makes clear that this listing is not exhaustive.

Any class of shares may be granted multiple or fractional votes per share without limitation. See Proposed section 7.21. Shares of any class may also be made nonvoting "except to the extent prohibited by this title." This "except" clause refers to the provisions in the Proposed Act that permit shares that are designated to be nonvoting to vote as separate voting groups on amendments to articles of incorporation and other organic changes in the corporation that directly affect that class (Proposed sections 7.26 and 10.04). In addition, shares may be given voting rights that are limited or conditional (e.g., on the passing of a specified number of dividends). Proposed subsection 6.01(b), however, requires that there always be one or more classes of shares that together have unlimited voting rights.

Proposed subsection 6.01(c)(2) permits classes of shares to be made redeemable on the terms set forth in the articles of incorporation. Under this subsection, shares may be made "redeemable" at the option of the holder, the corporation, or another person; shares redeemable at the option of the corporation are sometimes called "callable shares," while shares redeemable at the option of the shareholder are sometimes described as involving a "put." The Proposed Act permits either type of redemption for any class of shares and thereby permits the creation of redeemable or callable shares without limitation (subject only to the provisos that the class or classes of shares described in Proposed subsection 6.01(b) must always exist and that at least one share of each class with those rights or powers must be outstanding under Proposed section 6.03).

Statutes of many states contain a direct or indirect prohibition against callable voting shares or callable common shares. Even where such a prohibition exists, however, the same effect can be obtained by the use of consensual share transfer restrictions (see Proposed section 6.27). If it is possible to create what is essentially a callable voting share by agreement, there is no reason why such provisions should not be built directly and publicly into the capital structure of the corporation if that is desired.

The recognition of a redemption that is a "put" exercisable by the holders of the shares (or a third person such as holders of other classes of shares) is also new to the Proposed Act and is not permitted in many states. However, consensual share transfer restrictions may create a right that is indistinguishable from such a right of redemption, and a right of redemption is expressly recognized by many states in connection with certain specialized classes of corporations such as open-end investment companies. As described below, if a right of redemption is recognized, prohibitions in the old law against "upstream" conversions served no purpose.

The amount to be paid upon the redemption of shares under Proposed subsection 6.01(c)(2) may be fixed in the articles of incorporation or "determined in accordance with a designated formula or by reference to extrinsic data or events." The reference to "extrinsic data or events" is intended to permit the redemption price to be established on the basis of matters external to the corporation, such as the purchase price of other shares, the level of the prime rate, the effective interest rate at which the corporation may obtain short- or long-term financing, the consumer price index or a designated currency ratio. While a designated price formula or references must be set out in the articles of incorporation, the board of directors may be given limited authority to implement the provisions.

All redemptions of shares are subject to the restrictions on distributions set forth in Proposed section 6.40. See Proposed subsection 6.03(b).

Proposed subsection 6.01(c)(2) also permits shares of any class to be made convertible into shares of any other class or into cash, indebtedness, securities, or other property of the corporation or another person.

The old law and the statutes of many states prohibit so-called "upstream" conversions, that is, shares convertible into debt securities or into a class of shares having prior or superior preference rights. This restriction was eliminated from the Proposed Act since it was recognized that the power to make shares redeemable at the option of the shareholder for cash (see Proposed subsection 6.01(c)(2)(ii)) should logically permit the shares to be redeemable or convertible at the option of the shareholder into other shares with senior preferential rights. Creditors of the corporation and holders of shares with preferential rights are less seriously affected by a conversion of shares into debt or into shares with preferential rights than they would be by the redemption of the shares for money, which is permitted by the Proposed Act, subject to the limitations of Proposed section 6.40. Shares made "redeemable" for debt under Proposed subsection 6.01(c)(2)(ii), achieve the same effect as a right to "convert" shares into debt securities.

Section 6.02 Terms of Class or Series Determined By Board of Directors.

Proposed section 6.02 permits the board of directors, if authority to do so is contained in the articles, to fix the terms of a class of shares to meet corporate needs, including current requirements of the securities market or the exigencies of negotiations for acquisition of other corporations or properties, without the necessity of holding a shareholders' meeting to amend the articles. This section therefore permits prompt action and gives desirable flexibility. The articles of incorporation may also create "series" of shares within a class (rather than designating that "series" as a separate class) if that is deemed desirable.

The board of directors may create new series within a class or set the terms of a class or series only if there are no outstanding shares of that class or series. This section recognizes that in some contexts there is no substantive difference between a "class" and a "series within a class," and that the labels are often a matter of convenience. In appropriate circumstances, a series may be treated as a class of shares that has one or both of the fundamental characteristics described in Proposed subsection 6.01(b).

Shares of stock to be issued in different classes or series that vary in terms to be set by the board of directors are sometimes referred to as "blank stock." The granting of the power to vary the terms gives the board of directors broad power to affect the capital structure of the corporation. Exercise of this power may in some circumstances dilute the interest of existing shareholders. But on balance it is desirable to permit this flexibility.

Proposed subsection 6.02(e) gives directors (unless the articles of incorporation provide otherwise) the power to reduce the number of shares of an outstanding series, but not below the number of shares of that series then outstanding. Such power in accord with old law.

Section 6.03 Issued and Outstanding Shares.

Proposed section 6.03 permits the corporation to issue shares up to the number of shares authorized in the articles of incorporation and provides that shares that are issued are outstanding shares for purposes of this title until they are reacquired, redeemed, converted, or cancelled. The determination of the number of shares to be issued is usually made by the board of directors but may be reserved by the articles of incorporation to the shareholders. The only requirements are that no class of shares be over issued and that one or more shares of a class or classes that together have unlimited voting power and one or more shares of a class or classes that together are entitled to the net assets of the corporation upon dissolution at all times must be outstanding.

Shares of any class that are outstanding may be made subject to share transfer restrictions that may result in contractual obligations by the corporation to reacquire shares. The validity of such share transfer restriction is today not open to serious question. See Proposed section 6.27. The corporation may also acquire outstanding shares of any class pursuant to a voluntary transaction between the shareholder and the corporation. All contractual or voluntary reacquisitions are subject to the restrictions set forth in subsection (d) of this section and to Proposed section 6.40. The corporation may also reacquire shares pursuant to a right of redemption (or an obligation to redeem) established in the articles of incorporation. See Proposed subsection 6.01(c)(2). All such redemptions of shares are also subject to the restrictions of subsection (d) of this section and to Proposed section 6.40. Shares of the class or classes described in Proposed subsection 6.01(b) may be reacquired or redeemed by the corporation in any of the foregoing ways to the same extent as shares of any other class, subject, however, to the overriding requirement of Proposed subsection 6.03(d) that at all times at least shares that meet the requirements of Proposed subsection 6.01(b) be outstanding.

Redeemable shares are often redeemed in connection with a transaction such as a merger or the issuance of a new senior class of shares that requires shareholder approval. Proposed subsection 6.03(c) avoids subjecting a transaction to approval by a class of redeemable shares that will be redeemed as a result of the transaction if adequate provision has been made to ensure that the holders of the redeemable shares will in fact receive the amount payable to them on redemption.

Section 6.04 Fractional Shares.

Fractional shares may arise from a share dividend that, as applied to a particular holder, does not produce an even multiple of shares; they may also result from fractional stock splits, from reverse splits, and from reclassifications and mergers. Although corporations are authorized to issue fractional shares, which are vested proportionately with the same rights as full shares, the creation of fractional shares often creates administrative difficulties, particularly for voting and dividend purposes.

Proposed section 6.04 authorizes handling fractional shares in various ways, including:

(1) The corporation may issue scrip instead of fractional shares. Scrip confers none of the substantive rights of shareholders, but only authorizes holders to combine scrip certificates in amounts aggregating a full share and then to exchange them for a full share. This aggregation must occur within the time and subject to the conditions set initially by the board of directors and stated in the scrip certificate. Scrip that is not combined and exchanged becomes void. To protect shareholders against forfeiture of their interest, however, it is usually provided that the shares represented by scrip certificates not exchanged by the expiration date are to be sold and the proceeds held, either indefinitely or for a stated period, for the benefit of the scripholders and paid to them on surrender of their scrip certificate.

Scrip has been widely used in lieu of fractional shares. The New York Stock Exchange, while not requiring the use of any particular method for the settlement of fractional share interests, has established a policy relating to the minimum rights and privileges that scrip issued by registered companies must provide. N.Y.S.E. LISTED COMPANY MANUAL section 703.02(B).

(2) The corporation may authorize the immediate sale of all fractional share interests, thereby avoiding the expense and delay of scrip and the inconvenience of recognizing fractional shares. While this procedure denies shareholders the benefit of any subsequent rise in the market, it protects them against any subsequent decline and ensures them of recognition based on market values contemporaneous with the transaction. Since these transactions necessarily involve less than one full share for each shareholder, the amount involved in subsequent price changes is usually modest.

Under this section fractional shares may be certificated or uncertificated. There is no difference in treatment of certificated or uncertificated shares for this purpose. See Proposed sections 6.25 and 6.26.

Section 6.20 Subscription For Shares Before Incorporation.

Proposed subsection 6.20(a) provides that written preincorporation subscriptions are irrevocable for six months unless the subscription agreement provides that they are revocable or that they are irrevocable for some other period. Nevertheless, all the subscribers to shares may agree at any time that a subscriber may withdraw in part from the subscriber's commitment to subscribe for shares, that a subscriber may revoke the subscription entirely, or that the period of irrevocability may continue for an additional stated period. If the corporation accepts the subscription during the period of irrevocability, the subscription becomes a contract binding on both the subscribers and the corporation. The terms of this contract are set forth in Proposed subsections 6.20(b) and (d).

Proposed subsection 6.20(b) provides that after incorporation the board of directors may determine the payment terms of subscriptions but these calls must be uniform so far as practicable as to all shares of the same class or series unless the subscriptions provide otherwise. Proposed subsection 6.20(d) provides alternative methods of enforcement of preincorporation subscriptions by the corporation. If the consideration for the subscription involves the payment of money or conveyance of property, the corporation may, in the event of nonpayment, collect the amount due as any other debt. Alternatively, unless the subscription agreement provides otherwise, the corporation may rescind the agreement and may resell the shares after 20 days' notice to the subscriber.

Proposed subsection 6.20(c) provides that shares issued pursuant to preincorporation subscriptions are fully paid and nonassessable when the corporation receives the subscription price. The liability of the subscriber to pay the purchase price is addressed in Proposed section 6.22. Proposed Section 6.20 does not address the liability of transferees of shares which may be issued before the subscription price is paid or the power of the corporation to cancel for nonpayment shares that have been issued before payment of the full subscription price. Issued shares represented by unpaid subscriptions are subject to cancellation for nonpayment to the same extent as shares issued for promissory notes or shares issued before the consideration therefor is paid.

Postincorporation subscriptions are contracts between the corporation and the investor by which the corporation agrees to issue shares for a stated consideration and the investor agrees to purchase the shares for that consideration. Postincorporation subscriptions are simple contracts subject to the power of the board of directors and they may contain any mutually acceptable provisions subject to Proposed section 6.21. Proposed subsection 6.20(e) states, for completeness, that postincorporation subscriptions are contracts between the corporation and the subscriber subject to Proposed section 6.21.

Section 6.21 Issuance of Shares.

Proposed section 6.21 continues the thrust of the 1984 and 1985 amendments: it does not recognize the concepts of par value and stated capital which were eliminated from the old law in 1984; and it endorses the 1985 elimination of the old rules declaring certain kinds of property ineligible as consideration for shares.

Since shares need not have a par value, under Proposed section 6.21 there is no minimum price at which specific shares must be issued and therefore there can be no "watered stock" liability for issuing shares below an arbitrarily fixed price. The price at which shares are issued is primarily a matter of concern to other shareholders whose interests may be diluted if shares are issued at unreasonably low prices or for overvalued property. This problem of equality of treatment essentially involves honest and fair judgments by directors and cannot be effectively addressed by an arbitrary doctrine establishing a minimum price for shares such as "par value" provided under older statutes.

Proposed subsection 6.21(b) specifically validates contracts for future services (including promoters' services), promissory notes, or "any tangible or intangible property or benefit to the corporation," as consideration for the present issue of shares. The term "benefit" should be broadly construed to include, for example, a reduction of a liability, a release of a claim, or benefits obtained by a corporation by contribution of its shares to a charitable organization or as a prize in a promotion. In the realities of commercial life, there is sometimes a need for the issuance of shares for contract rights or such intangible property or benefits. And, as a matter of business economics, contracts for future services, promissory notes, and intangible property or benefits often have value that is as real as the value of tangible property or past services, the only types of property that many older statutes permit as consideration for shares. Thus, only business judgment should determine what kind of property should be obtained for shares, and a determination by the directors (meeting the requirements of Proposed section 8.30) to accept a specific kind of valuable property for shares should be accepted and not circumscribed by artificial or arbitrary rules.

The issuance of some shares for cash and other shares for promissory notes, contracts for past or future services, or for tangible or intangible property or benefits, like the issuance of shares for an inadequate consideration, opens the possibility of dilution of the interests of other shareholders. For example, persons acquiring shares for cash may be unfairly treated if optimistic values are placed on past or future services or intangible benefits being provided by other persons. The problem is particularly acute if the persons providing services, promissory notes, or property or benefits of debatable value are themselves connected with the promoters of the corporation or with its directors. Protection of shareholders against abuse of the power granted to the board of directors to determine that shares may be issued for intangible property or benefits is provided in part by the requirement that the board must act in accordance with the requirements of Proposed section 8.30, and, if applicable, Proposed sections 8.70-8.73, in determining that the consideration received for shares is adequate.

Accounting principles are not specified in the Proposed Act, and the board of directors is not required by the statute to determine the "value" of noncash consideration received by the corporation (as was the case in old law.) In many instances, property or benefit received by the corporation will be of uncertain value; if the board of directors determines that the issuance of shares for the property or benefit is an appropriate transaction that protects the shareholders from dilution, that is sufficient under Proposed section 6.21. The board of directors does not have to make an explicit "adequacy" determination by formal resolution; that determination may be inferred from a determination to authorize the issuance of shares for a specified consideration.

Proposed section 6.21 also does not require that the board of directors determine the value of the consideration to be entered on the books of the corporation, though the board of directors may do so if it wishes. Of course, a specific value must be placed on the consideration received for the shares for bookkeeping purposes, but bookkeeping details are not the statutory responsibility of the board of directors. The statute also does not require the board of directors to determine the corresponding entry on the right-hand side of the balance sheet under owner's equity to be designated as "stated capital" or be allocated among "stated capital" and other surplus accounts. The corporation, however, may determine that its shareholders' equity accounts should be divided into these traditional categories if it wishes.

The first sentence of Proposed subsection 6.21(c) describes the effect of a good faith determination by the board of directors that consideration is adequate for the issuance of shares. That determination, without more, is conclusive to the extent that adequacy is relevant to the question whether the shares are validly issued, fully paid, and nonassessable. Proposed subsection 6.21(c) provides that shares are fully paid and nonassessable when the board of directors has made such determination, and the corporation has received the consideration. Whether shares are validly issued may depend on compliance with corporate procedural requirements, such as issuance within the amount authorized in the articles of incorporation or holding a directors' meeting upon proper notice and with a quorum present. The Proposed Act does not address the remedies that may be available for issuances that are subject to challenge.

Shares issued pursuant to preincorporation subscriptions are governed by Proposed section 6.20 and not by this section.

The Proposed Act does not address the question whether validly issued shares may thereafter be cancelled on the grounds of fraud or bad faith if the shares are in the hands of the original shareholder or other persons who were aware of the circumstances under which they were issued when they acquired the shares. It also leaves to the Uniform Commercial Code other questions relating to the rights of persons other than the person acquiring the shares from the corporation.

Proposed subsection 6.21(d) permits the board of directors to determine that shares issued for promissory notes or for contracts for future services or benefits be placed in escrow or their transfer otherwise restricted until the services are performed, the benefits received, or the notes are paid. The section also defines the rights of the corporation with respect to these shares. If the shares are issued without being restricted as provided in this subsection, they are validly issued insofar as the adequacy of consideration is concerned.

Proposed subsection 6.21(a) provides that the powers granted to the board of directors by this section may be reserved to the shareholders by the articles of incorporation. No negative inference should be drawn from Proposed subsection 6.21(a) with respect to the efficacy of similar provisions under other sections of the Proposed Act.

Proposed subsection 6.21(e) is designed to provide a mechanism for determining that shares issued in prior years are fully paid and unassessable even if those facts cannot currently be verified.

Section 6.22 Liability of Shareholders.

With the elimination of the concepts of par value and watered stock in 1984, the sole obligation of a purchaser of shares from the corporation, as set forth in Proposed section 6.22, is to pay the consideration established by the board of directors (or the consideration specified in the subscription, in the case of preincorporation subscriptions). The consideration for the shares may consist of promissory notes, contracts for future services, or tangible or intangible property or benefits, and, if the board of directors so decides, the delivery of the notes, contracts, or accrual of the benefits constitute full payment for the shares. See Proposed section 6.21. Upon the transfer to the corporation of the consideration so determined or specified, the shareholder has no further responsibility to the corporation or its creditors "with respect to the shares," though the shareholder may have continuing obligations under a contract or promissory note entered into in connection with the acquisition of shares.

Proposed section 6.22 deals only with the responsibility for payment by the purchaser of shares from the corporation. The Proposed Act leaves to the Uniform Commercial Code questions with respect to the rights of subsequent purchasers of shares and the power of the corporation to cancel shares if the consideration is not paid when due. See sections 8-202 and 8-301 of the UNIFORM COMMERCIAL CODE.

The Proposed Act does not include a subsection in the RMA that states that unless the articles of incorporation provide otherwise, a shareholder is not liable for the debts of the corporation "except by reason of his own acts or conduct." The committee concluded that the RMA language might well confuse development within the state of such well-known doctrines as disregard of the corporate entity. It therefore omitted the provision.

Section 6.23 Share Dividends.

A share dividend is solely a paper transaction: no assets are received by the corporation for the shares and any "dividend" paid in shares does not involve the distribution of property by the corporation to its shareholders. Proposed section 6.23 therefore recognizes that such a transaction involves the issuance of shares "without consideration," and Proposed section 1.40 excludes it from the definition of a "distribution." Such transactions were treated in a fictional way under the old "par value" and "stated capital" statutes, which treated a share dividend as involving transfers from a surplus account to stated capital and assumed that par value shares could be issued without receiving any consideration by reason of that transfer of surplus.

The par value statutory treatment of share dividend transactions distinguished a share "split" from a share dividend. In a share "split" the par value of the former shares was divided among the new shares and there was no transfer of surplus into the stated capital account as in the case of a share "dividend." Since Washington law has eliminated the concept of par value, the distinction between a "split" and a "dividend" has not been retained; both types of transactions are referred to simply as "share dividends." A distinction between "share dividends" and "share splits," however, continues to exist in other contexts--for example, in connection with transactions by publicly held corporations, see N.Y.S.E. LISTED COMPANY MANUAL section 703.02(a), or corporations that have optionally retained par value for their shares. The change made in the Proposed Act is not intended to affect the manner in which transactions by these corporations are handled or described but simply reflects the elimination of artificial legal distinctions based on the par value statutes.

A "reverse stock split" is not a share dividend under this section of the Proposed Act. A reverse split involves an amendment to the articles of incorporation reducing the number of authorized shares, not the issuance of additional shares.

Share dividends may create problems when a corporation has more than a single class of shares. The requirement that a share dividend be "pro rata" only applies to shares of the same class or series; if there are two or more classes entitled to receive a share dividend in different proportions, the dividend will have to be allocated appropriately.

The distribution of shares of one class to holders of another class may dilute the equity of the holders of the first class. Therefore, Proposed subsection 6.23(b) permits the distribution of shares of one class to the holders of another class only if one or more of the following conditions are met: (1) the articles of incorporation expressly authorize the transaction, (2) the holders of the class being distributed consent to the distribution, or (3) there are no holders of the class being distributed.

Section 6.24 Share Options.

A specific provision authorizing the creation of share options and share rights appears in most state statutes. Even though corporations doubtless have the inherent power to issue share options and share rights, specific authorization is desirable because of the economic importance of options and rights, and because of the need to establish the primacy of the board of directors in determining the consideration received by the corporation for rights and options. The creation of incentive compensation plans for directors, officers, agents, and employees is basically a matter of business judgment and the good faith determination by the board of directors should therefore be conclusive. This is as true for incentive plans that involve the issuance of share options or rights as for those that involve the payment of cash. In appropriate cases incentive plans may involve the granting of options at prices below the current market prices of the shares.

Proposed section 6.24 does not require shareholder approval of share options or rights as incentive plans. Of course, prior shareholder approval may be required in order to comply with the requirements of national security exchanges for the listing of securities, see N.Y.S.E. LISTED COMPANY MANUAL section 309.00, or to acquire the benefits of federal law conditioned upon shareholder approval of such plans, see S.E.C. Rule 16b-3(a), 17 C.F.R. section 240.16b-3(a).

The reference to the "form" of a right, option, or warrant in Proposed section 6.24 permits the board of directors to designate the interests issued under Proposed section 6.24 as options, warrants, rights, or by some other name, and to evidence these interests by certificates, contracts, letter agreements, or in other forms that are appropriate under the circumstances. Rights, options, or warrants may be issued together with or independently of the corporation's issue and sale of its shares or other securities.

Section 6.25 Form and Content of Certificates.

This section sets forth the minimum requirements for share certificates. A corporation whose shares are not publicly traded will normally issue certificates that meet these minimum requirements and little more. Securities that are publicly traded, on the other hand, must contain reasonable safeguards against fraudulent duplication; for this reason, regulations by exchanges contain technical requirements relating to design, quality, engraving, and printing. Also, exchange requirements may require signatures of a transfer agent and registrar as well as designated corporate officers. All these requirements are in addition to the minimum requirements of the Proposed Act.

Certificateless shares are permitted under Proposed subsection 6.25(a) upon compliance with Proposed section 6.26. Proposed subsection 6.25(a) makes it clear that there are no differences in the rights and obligations of shareholders, whether or not their shares are represented by certificates, other than mechanical differences (such as the means by which instructions for transfer are communicated to the issuer) necessitated by the use or nonuse of certificates. If share transfer restrictions are imposed, conspicuous references must appear on the certificate if they are to be binding on third persons without knowledge of the restrictions. See Proposed section 6.27.

Under Proposed section 6.25 all signatures on a share certificate may be facsimiles. This change, which has been adopted recently in several states, gives recognition to the fact that a purchaser of publicly traded shares will hardly ever be in a position to determine whether a manual signature on a stock certificate is in fact the authorized signature of an officer of the transfer agent or registrar. From the standpoint of the issuing corporation of publicly traded securities, if a share certificate requiring a manual signature is stolen and the signature thereafter forged, the corporation may defend on lack of genuineness under section 8-202(3) of the UNIFORM COMMERCIAL CODE. But this defense is not effective against a bona fide purchaser when the forged signature has been placed on the certificate by an employee of the issuer or registrar or transfer agent entrusted with handling the certificates (UCC 8-205). It is likely that a corporation would therefore follow the same security precautions for blank certificates requiring manual signatures as for those not requiring them. At the same time, the time and expense required for manual signatures has been eliminated.

Section 6.26 Shares Without Certificates.

Proposed section 6.26(a) authorizes the creation of uncertificated shares either by original issue or in substitution for shares previously represented by certificates. This subsection gives the board of directors the widest discretion so that a particular class and series of shares might be entirely represented by certificates, entirely uncertificated, or represented partly by each. The second sentence ensures that a corporation may not treat as uncertificated, and accordingly transferable on its books without due presentation of a certificate, any shares for which a certificate is outstanding.

The statement required by Proposed subsection 6.26(b) ensures that holders of uncertificated shares will receive from the corporation the same information that the holders of certificates receive when certificates are issued. There is no requirement that this information be delivered to purchasers of uncertificated shares before purchase.

Detailed rules with respect to the issuance, transfer, and registration of both certificated and uncertificated shares appear in article 8 of the UNIFORM COMMERCIAL CODE. In general terms there are no differences between certificated and uncertificated securities except in matters such as their manner of transfer.

Section 6.27 Restriction on Transfer of Shares and Other Securities.

Share transfer restrictions are widely used by both publicly held and closely held corporations for a variety of appropriate purposes. Washington case law on the subject is relatively limited and somewhat inconsistent. See (in order of decision) State ex rel. Howland v. Olympia Veneer Co., 138 Wash. 144 (1926) (bylaw requiring directors' consent for transfer of shares held invalid as unlawful restraint on alienation); In re West Waterway Lumber Co., 59 Wash. 2d 310 (1962) (restriction giving corporation right to repurchase shares if a shareholder voluntarily ceased to manufacture lumber upheld; reasonable restraints on alienation of corporate shares are not objectionable); Jones v. Harris, 63 Wash. 2d 559 (1964) (restriction giving corporation right to repurchase shares at book value upheld; contract could not be said to have been unfair or inequitable when it was made); Rogers Walla Walla Inc. v. Ballard, 16 Wash. App. 81 (1976) (restriction giving corporation power to repurchase shares upheld; fairness of restriction to be determined at time agreement signed); and Fine v. Laband, 35 Wash. App. 368 (1983) (restriction giving corporation right to repurchase shares on breach of contract upheld; question was whether agreement was fair and equitable at time entered into). By prescribing reasonable rules to govern the use of transfer restrictions, Proposed section 6.27 should guide practitioners in their use and encourage a more uniform and favorable judicial reception.

Proposed subsection 6.27(a) generally authorizes the imposition of transfer restrictions on "shares," although the caption of the section refers to "shares and other securities." Proposed subsection 6.27(e) defines "shares" for purposes of Proposed section 6.27 to include securities "convertible into or carrying a right to subscribe for or acquire shares;" the phrase "other securities" in the title of the Proposed section thus describes the broader scope of this section resulting from the definition in Proposed subsection 6.27(e).

Share transfer restrictions are usually created by provisions in the bylaws or articles of incorporation but may also be created by contract between the corporation and some or all the shareholders or between or among the shareholders themselves. However, if shares are originally issued free of restriction, they may not thereafter be subject to a transfer restriction without the consent of the holder, evidenced by a vote in favor of the amendment to the articles of incorporation or bylaws creating the restriction, or by being a party to the contract creating the restriction.

The terms of a restriction on transfer do not need to be set forth in full or summarized in detail on a certificate or information statement required by Proposed subsection 6.26(b) for uncertificated securities. Rather, Proposed subsection 6.27(b) provides that in the case of a certificated security, the existence of the restriction must be conspicuously set forth on the front or back of the certificate; in the case of an uncertificated security, the existence of the restriction must be noted in the information statement. There is no requirement that the notation on an information statement be conspicuous.

If a transferee knows of the restriction the transferee is bound by it even though the restriction is not noted on the certificate or information statement.

Proposed subsection 6.27(c) describes the purposes for which restrictions may be imposed while Proposed subsection 6.27(d) describes the types of restrictions that may be imposed.

Proposed subsection 6.27(c) enumerates certain purposes for which share transfer restrictions may be imposed, but does not limit the purposes since Proposed subsection 6.27(c)(3) permits restrictions "for any other reasonable purpose." Examples of the "status" referred to in Proposed subsection 6.27(c)(1) are the subchapter S election under the Internal Revenue Code, and entitlement to a program or eligibility for a privilege administered by governmental agencies or national securities exchanges. Specific references in Proposed section 6.27 to subchapter S and other statutes were not made because of the possibility that the Internal Revenue Code or other statute may be amended or recodified after the adoption of the Proposed Act.

Proposed subsection 6.27(c)(2) permits restrictions on transfers of shares to ensure availability of exemptions under state or federal securities acts. Share transfer restrictions for other purposes are permitted by Proposed subsection 6.23(c)(3) so long as the purpose is reasonable. It is unnecessary to inquire into the reasonableness of the purposes specifically enumerated in Proposed subsections 6.27(c)(1) and (2).

The types of restrictions referred to in Proposed subsections 6.27(d)(1) (option agreements) and (2) (buy-sell agreements) are imposed as a matter of contractual negotiation and do not prohibit the outright transfer of shares. Rather, they designate to whom shares or other securities must be offered at a price established in the agreement or by a formula or method agreed to in advance. By contrast, the restrictions described in Proposed subsections 6.27(d)(3) and (4) may permanently limit the market for shares by disqualifying all or some potential purchasers. As a result the restrictions imposed by these two provisions must not be "manifestly unreasonable."

Use of the term "manifestly unreasonable" will at the very least change the parameters for inquiry announced in Washington cases for consent restrictions. See State ex rel Howland v. Olympia Veneer Co., 138 Wash. 144 (1926); and the court's language in In re West Waterway Lumber Co., 59 Wash. 2d 310 (1962). The term "manifestly unreasonable" is derived from Del. Gen. Corp. L. section 202(c)(4) (essentially equivalent to RMA section 6.27(d)(4)), where it has not received significant interpretation. Compare Edelman v. Phillips Petroleum Co., 1985 WL 11534 (Del. Ch. 1985) (a standstill agreement was not manifestly unreasonable); Joseph E. Seagram & Sons, Inc. v. Conoco, Inc., 519 F. Supp. 506 (D.C. Del. 1981) (issue of whether bylaw restriction on transfer of shares to aliens was manifestly unreasonable presented but not resolved). See also Pa. Bus. Corp. Act section 613.1 (same language). See generally Colbert v. Hennessey, 217 N.E.2d 914 (Mass. 1966) holding that a consent restriction was not "palpably unreasonable."

Section 6.28 Expense of Issue.

The original purpose of this section was to deal with the problems created by the concepts of "par value" and "stated capital;" it permitted the corporation to expend its capital for "the reasonable charges and expenses of" organization without fear of making the shares not fully paid or assessable because the assets ultimately received were less than the aggregate par value of the issued shares.

Under the modern capitalization principles set forth in the Proposed Act there is no basis for the fear that shares issued property under Proposed section 6.21 can be made assessable because of the subsequent use of the proceeds. While Proposed section 6.28 thus may be technically unnecessary, it was believed to be desirable to retain in the Proposed Act a general authorization to the corporation to pay its expenses of formation and raising capital out of its original capitalization. The reference to "reasonable" charges and expenses was deleted on the theory that the test for these expenses should be no different from the test for expenses of any other type.

The concluding language in the old law, "without rendering the shares not fully paid or assessable," was also deleted as unnecessary and confusing in the context of the earlier revisions to the financial provisions of the Washington statutes.

Section 6.30 Shareholders' Preemptive Rights.

Proposed section 6.30 follows the "opt out" approach of old RCW 23A.08.220, rather than the "opt in" approach of RMA section 6.30. Thus, unless preemptive rights are abolished or altered in the articles of incorporation, the rights set forth in this section exist. It is important to note that the right conferred by this section can be expanded if so provided in the articles of incorporation.

Proposed subsection 6.30(b) states rules with respect to the waiver of the right. Proposed subsection 6.30(c) lists the principal exceptions recognized by courts to preemptive rights. The Committee rejected the RMA subsection that would have provided no preemptive right to shares issued (from the number originally authorized) within 6 months of incorporation. It chose instead language intended to capture the exception announced in Yasik v. Wachtel, 17 A.2d 309 (Del. Ch. 1941); an exception for shares issued pursuant to the corporation's initial plan of financing (which in Yasik lasted more than 5 years.)

Proposed subsection 6.30(a) is primarily designed to protect voting power within the corporation from dilution. For this reason, Proposed subsection 6.30(f) contains a special definition of "shares" to ensure that the preemptive rights of shareholders apply to all securities that are convertible into or carry a right to acquire voting shares.

On the other hand, preemptive rights also may serve in part to protect the equity participation of shareholders. This combination of functions creates no problem in a corporation that has authorized only a single class of shares but may occasionally create problems in corporations with more complex capital structures. In many multiple-class corporate financial structures, the issuance of additional shares of one class does not adversely affect other classes. For example, the issuance of additional general voting shares without preferential rights normally does not affect either the limited voting power or equity participation of holders of shares with preferential rights; holders of shares with preferential equity participation rights but without general voting rights should therefore have no preemptive rights with respect to general voting shares without preferential rights, unless the articles of incorporation so provide. See Proposed subsection 6.30(d)(i) and (ii). Classes of shares that may give rise to possible conflict between the protection of voting interests and equity participation when the board of directors desires to issue additional shares include classes of nonvoting shares without preferential rights and classes of shares with both preferential rights to distributions and general voting rights. Attorneys who draft articles of incorporation with classes of shares that may give rise to these conflicts should consider the precise application of Proposed subsection 6.30(d) with respect to preemptive rights for these classes and define more carefully the scope of the preemptive rights desired.

Section 6.31 Corporation's Acquisition of Its Own Shares.

Proposed subsection 6.31(a) restates the fundamental power of a corporation to reacquire its own shares. Such a transaction constitutes a "distribution" by the corporation (see the definition of that term in Proposed section 1.40) and is subject to the limitations of Proposed section 6.40.

Shares that are reacquired by the corporation become authorized but unissued shares under Proposed subsection 6.31(b) unless the articles prohibit reissue, in which event they are cancelled. Proposed subsection 6.31(c) requires a simplified official filing to reflect the reduction of authorized shares. This provision is included in order that there be a public record of the number of authorized shares that a corporation may issue. The amendment may be made without shareholder action.

Until the amendment referred to in Proposed subsection 6.31(c) is effective, the corporation has power to reissue the reacquired shares despite a prohibition in the articles of incorporation. In such a case, the action of the directors in issuing the shares may be challengeable but the shares so issued would be fully paid and nonassessable if issued in conformity with Proposed section 6.21.

Section 6.40 Distributions to Shareholders.

Proposed section 1.40 defines "distribution" to include virtually all transfers of money, indebtedness of the corporation or other property to a shareholder in respect of the corporation's shares. It thus includes cash or property dividends, payments by a corporation to purchase its own shares, distributions of promissory notes or indebtedness, and distributions in partial or complete liquidation or voluntary or involuntary dissolution. Proposed section 1.40 excludes from the definition of "distribution" transactions by the corporation in which only its own shares are distributed to its shareholders. These transactions are called "share dividends" in the Proposed Act. See Proposed section 6.23.

The old law prohibited payments of dividends if the corporation was, or as a result of the payment would be, insolvent in the equity sense. This test is retained, appearing in Proposed subsection 6.40(b)(1).

In most cases involving a corporation operating as a going concern in the normal course, information generally available will make it quite apparent that no particular inquiry concerning the equity insolvency test is needed. While neither a balance sheet nor an income statement can be conclusive as to this test, the existence of significant shareholders' equity and normal operating conditions are of themselves a strong indication that no issue should arise under that test. Indeed, in the case of a corporation having regularly audited financial statements, the absence of any qualification in the most recent auditor's opinion as to the corporation's status as a "going concern," coupled with a lack of subsequent adverse events, would normally be decisive.

It is only when circumstances indicate that the corporation is encountering difficulties or is in an uncertain position concerning its liquidity and operations that the board of directors or, more commonly, the officers or others upon whom they may place reliance under Proposed subsection 8.30(b), may need to address the issue. Because of the overall judgment required in evaluating the equity insolvency test, no "bright line" test can be employed. However, in determining whether the equity insolvency test has been met, certain judgments or assumptions as to the future course of the corporation's business are customarily justified, absent clear evidence to the contrary. These include the likelihood that (a) based on existing and contemplated demand for the corporation's products or services, it will be able to generate funds over a period of time sufficient to satisfy its existing and reasonably anticipated obligations as they mature, and (b) indebtedness which matures in the near-term will be refinanced where, on the basis of the corporation's financial condition and future prospects and the general availability of credit to businesses similarly situated, it is reasonable to assume that such refinancing may be accomplished. To the extent that the corporation may be subject to asserted or unasserted contingent liabilities, reasonable judgments as to the likelihood, amount, and time of any recovery against the corporation, after giving consideration to the extent to which the corporation is insured or otherwise protected against loss, may be utilized. There may be occasions when it would be useful to consider a cash flow analysis, based on a business forecast and budget, covering a sufficient period of time to permit a conclusion that known obligations of the corporation can reasonably be expected to be satisfied over the period of time that they will mature.

In exercising their judgment, the directors are entitled to rely, under Proposed subsection 8.30(b) as noted above, on information, opinions, reports, and statements prepared by others. Ordinarily, they should not be expected to become involved in the details of the various analyses or market or economic projections that may be relevant. Judgments must of necessity be made on the basis of information in the hands of the directors when a distribution is authorized. They should not, of course, be held responsible as a matter of hindsight for unforeseen developments. This is particularly true with respect to assumptions as to the ability of the corporation's business to repay long-term obligations which do not mature for several years, since the primary focus of the directors' decision to make a distribution should normally be on the corporation's prospects and obligations in the shorter term, unless special factors concerning the corporation's prospects require the taking of a longer term perspective.

The Proposed Act establishes the validity of distributions from the corporate law standpoint under Proposed section 6.40 and determines the potential liability of directors for improper distributions under Proposed sections 8.30 and 8.31. The federal Bankruptcy Act and state fraudulent conveyance statutes, on the other hand, are designed to enable the trustee or other representative to recapture for the benefit of creditors funds distributed to others in some circumstances. In light of these diverse purposes, and to minimize management difficulties in administering the statutes, Proposed subsection 6.40(f) provides that the provisions in this title supersede those of the state fraudulent conveyances act in determining the legality of a distribution.

Proposed subsection 6.40(b)(2) requires that, after giving effect to any distribution, the corporation's assets equal or exceed its liabilities plus (with some exceptions) the dissolution preferences of senior equity securities. Proposed subsection 6.40(c)(1) authorizes asset and liability determinations to be made for this purpose on the basis of either (1) financial statements prepared on the basis of accounting practices and principles that are reasonable in the circumstances or (2) a fair valuation or other method that is reasonable in the circumstances. The determination of a corporation's assets and liabilities and the choice of the permissible basis on which to do so are left to the judgment of its board of directors. In making a judgment under Proposed subsection 6.40(c)(1), the board may rely under Proposed subsection 8.30(b) upon opinions, reports, or statements, including financial statements and other financial data prepared or presented by public accountants or others.

Proposed section 6.40 does not utilize particular accounting terminology of a technical nature or specify particular accounting concepts. In making determinations under this section, the board of directors may make judgments about accounting matters, giving full effect to its right to rely upon professional or expert opinion.

In a corporation with subsidiaries, the board of directors may rely on unconsolidated statements prepared on the basis of the equity method of accounting (see American Institute of Certified Public Accountants, APB Opinion No. 18 (1971)) as to the corporation's investee corporations, including corporate joint ventures and subsidiaries, although other evidence would be relevant in the total determination.

The board of directors should in all circumstances be entitled to rely upon reasonably current financial statements prepared on the basis of generally accepted accounting principles in determining whether or not the balance sheet test of Proposed subsection 6.40(b)(2) has been met, unless the board is then aware that it would be unreasonable to rely on the financial statements because of newly-discovered or subsequently arising facts or circumstances. But Proposed section 6.40 does not mandate the use of generally accepted accounting principles; it only requires the use of accounting practices and principles that are reasonable in the circumstances. While publicly-owned corporations subject to registration under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 must, and many other corporations in fact do, utilize financial statements prepared on the basis of generally accepted accounting principles, a great number of smaller or closely-held corporations do not. Some of these corporations maintain records solely on a tax accounting basis and their financial statements are of necessity prepared on that basis. Others prepare financial statements that substantially reflect generally accepted accounting principles but may depart from them in some respects (e.g., footnote disclosure). These facts of corporate life indicate that a statutory standard of reasonableness, rather than stipulating generally accepted accounting principles as the normative standard, is appropriate in order to achieve a reasonable degree of flexibility and to accommodate the needs of the many different types of business corporations which might be subject to these provisions, including in particular closely-held corporations. Accordingly, the Proposed Act contemplates that generally acceptable accounting principles are always "reasonable in the circumstances" and that other accounting principles may be perfectly acceptable, under a general standard of reasonableness, even if they do not involve the "fair value" or "current value" concepts that are also contemplated by Proposed subsection 6.40(c)(1).

Proposed subsection 6.40(c)(1) specifically permits determinations to be made under Proposed subsection 6.40(b)(2) on the basis of a fair valuation or other method that is reasonable in the circumstances. Thus the statute authorizes departures from historical cost accounting and sanctions the use of appraisal and current value methods to determine the amount available for distribution. No particular method of valuation is prescribed in the statute, since different methods may have validity depending upon the circumstances, including the type of enterprise and the purpose for which the determination is made. For example, it is inappropriate in most cases to apply a "quick-sale liquidation" method to value an enterprise, particularly with respect to the payment of normal dividends. On the other hand, a "quick-sale liquidation" valuation method might be appropriate in certain circumstances for an enterprise in the course of reducing its asset or business base by a material degree. In most cases, a fair valuation method or a going-concern basis would be appropriate if it is believed that the enterprise will continue as a going concern.

Ordinarily a corporation should not selectively revalue assets. It should consider the value of all of its material assets, whether or not reflected in the financial statements (e.g., a valuable executory contract). Likewise, all of a corporation's material obligations should be considered and revalued to the extent appropriate and possible. In any event, Proposed subsection 6.40(c)(1) calls for the application under Proposed subsection 6.40(b)(2) of a method of determining the aggregate amount of assets and liabilities that is reasonable in the circumstances.

Proposed subsection 6.40(c)(1) also refers to some "other method that is reasonable in the circumstances." This phrase is intended to comprehend within Proposed subsection 6.40(b)(2) the wide variety of possibilities that might not be considered to fall under a "fair valuation" or "current value" method but might be reasonable in the circumstances of a particular case.

Proposed subsection 6.40(b)(2) provides that a distribution may not be made unless the total assets of the corporation exceed its liabilities plus the amount that would be needed to satisfy any shareholder's superior preferential rights upon dissolution if the corporation were to be dissolved at the time of the distribution. This requirement in effect treats preferential dissolution rights of shares for distribution purposes as if they were liabilities for the sole purpose of determining the amount available for distributions, and carries forward analogous treatment of shares having preferential dissolution rights from the old law. In making the calculation of the amount that must be added to the liabilities of the corporation to reflect the preferential dissolution rights, the assumption should be made that the preferential dissolution rights are to be established pursuant to the articles of incorporation, as of the date of the distribution or proposed distribution. The amount so determined must include arrearages in preferential dividends if the articles of incorporation require that they be paid upon the dissolution of the corporation. In the case of shares having both a preferential right upon dissolution and other nonpreferential rights, only the preferential right should be taken into account. The treatment of preferential dissolution rights of classes of shares set forth in Proposed subsection 6.40(b)(2) is applicable only to the balance sheet test and is not applicable to the equity insolvency test of Proposed subsection 6.40(b)(1). The treatment of preferential rights mandated by this section may always be eliminated by an appropriate provision in the articles of incorporation.

Proposed subsection 6.40(d)(2)(iii) provides that the time for measuring the effect of a distribution for compliance with the equity insolvency and balance sheet tests for all distributions not involving the reacquisition of shares or the distribution of indebtedness is the date of authorization, if the payment occurs within 120 days following the authorization; if the payment occurs more than 120 days after the authorization, however, the date of payment must be used. If the corporation elects to make a distribution in the form of its own indebtedness, under Proposed subsection 6.40(d)(2)(ii) the validity of that distribution must be measured as of the time of distribution, unless the indebtedness qualifies under Proposed subsection 6.40(d)(1).

Proposed subsection 6.40(d)(2)(i) provides a different rule for the time of measurement when the distribution involves a reacquisition of shares. The application of the equity insolvency and balance sheet tests to distributions that involve the purchase, redemption, or other acquisition of the corporation's shares creates unique problems; Proposed section 6.40 provides a specific rule for the resolution of these problems as described below.

Proposed subsection 6.40(d)(2)(i) provides that the time for measuring the effect of a distribution under Proposed section 6.40(b), if shares of the corporation are reacquired, is the earlier of (i) the payment date, or (ii) the date the shareholder ceased to be a shareholder with respect to the shares, except as provided in Proposed subsection 6.40(d)(1).

In an acquisition of its shares, a corporation may transfer property or incur debt to the former holder of the shares. The case law on the status of this debt is conflicting. However, share repurchase agreements involving payment for shares over a period of time are of special importance in closely-held corporate enterprises. Proposed subsection 6.40(d)(2)(1) provides a clear rule for this situation: the legality of the distribution must be measured at the time of the issuance of incurrence of the debt, not at a later date when the debt is actually paid, except as provided in Proposed subsection 6.40(d)(1). Of course, this does not preclude later challenge of a payment on account of redemption-related debt by a bankruptcy trustee on the ground that it constitutes a preferential payment to a creditor.

Proposed subsection 6.40(e) provides that indebtedness created to acquire the corporation's shares or issued as a distribution is on a parity with the indebtedness of the corporation to its general, unsecured creditors, except to the extent otherwise provided by agreement. General creditors are better off in these situations than they would have been if cash or other property had been paid out for the shares or distributed (which is proper under the statute), and no worse off than if cash had been paid or distributed and then lent back to the corporation, making the shareholders (or former shareholders) creditors. The parity created by Proposed subsection 6.40(e) is logically consistent with the rule established by Proposed subsection 6.40(d)(2)(1) that these transactions should be judged at the time of the issuance of the debt.

Proposed subsection 6.40(c)(2) provides that indebtedness need not be taken into account as a liability in determining whether the tests of Proposed subsection 6.40(b) have been met: if the terms of the indebtedness provide that payments of principal or interest can be made only if and to the extent that payment of a distribution could then be made under Proposed section 6.40. This has the effect of making the holder of the indebtedness junior to all other creditors but senior to the holders of all classes of shares, not only during the time the corporation is operating but also upon dissolution and liquidation. It should be noted that the creation of such indebtedness, and the related limitations on payments of principal and interest, may create tax problems or raise other legal questions.

Although Proposed subsection 6.40(c)(2) is applicable to all indebtedness meeting its tests, regardless of the circumstances of its issuance, it is anticipated that it will be applicable most frequently to permit the reacquisition of shares of the corporation at a time when the deferred purchase price exceeds the net worth of the corporation. This type of reacquisition will often be necessary in the case of businesses in early stages of development or service businesses whose value derives principally from existing or prospective net income or cash flow rather than from net asset value. In such situations, it is anticipated that net worth will grow over time from operations so that when payments in respect of the indebtedness are to be made the two insolvency tests will be satisfied. In the meantime, the fact that the indebtedness is outstanding will not prevent distributions that could be made under subsection (b) if the indebtedness were not counted in making the determination.

CHAPTER 7. SHAREHOLDERS

Section 7.01 Annual Meeting.

Proposed subsection 7.01(a) requires every corporation to hold an annual meeting each year of shareholders entitled to participate in the election of directors and to consider other matters coming before the annual meeting of shareholders. The principal action to be taken at the annual meeting is the election of directors as required by Proposed section 8.03. But the purposes of an annual meeting are not generally limited and all matters appropriate for shareholder action (except removal of directors under Proposed subsection 8.08(d)) may also be considered at that meeting. An annual meeting may also be the appropriate forum (assuming the articles of incorporation or bylaws do not prohibit such action) for a shareholder to raise any relevant question about the corporation's operations.

The requirement of Proposed subsection 7.01(a) that an annual meeting be held is phrased in mandatory terms to ensure that every shareholder entitled to participate in the meeting has the unqualified rights (1) to demand that the annual meeting be held and (2) to compel the holding of the meeting under Proposed section 7.03 if the corporation does not promptly hold the meeting. Many corporations, such as non-public subsidiaries and closely held corporations, do not regularly hold annual meetings, and if no shareholder objects, that practice creates no problem under Proposed section 7.01, since Proposed subsection 7.01(c) provides that failure to hold an annual meeting does not affect the validity of any corporate action. Rather than holding an annual meeting, the shareholders may elect directors and take other appropriate action by unanimous written consent under Proposed section 7.04. And, even if the shareholders fail to elect directors, the directors currently in office continue in office under Proposed section 8.05 beyond the expiration of their terms.

The time and place of the annual meeting may be "stated in or fixed in accordance with the bylaws." If the bylaws do not themselves fix a time and place for the annual meeting, authority to fix them may be delegated to the board of directors or to a specified corporate officer. This section thus gives corporations the flexibility to hold annual meetings in varying places at such times as convenience may dictate.

The annual meeting may be held either inside or outside the state or in a foreign country, but if the bylaws do not fix, or state the method of fixing, the place of the meeting, the meeting must be held at the "principal office" of the corporation. The principal office is defined in Proposed section 1.40 as the location of the principal executive office of the corporation and may or may not be its registered or official office under Proposed section 5.01. Proposed section 16.22 requires that the address of the principal office be specified in the corporation's annual report.

If the annual meeting is not held either within 6 months of the close of the corporation's fiscal year or within 15 months of the last annual meeting, a shareholder may compel an annual meeting to be held under Proposed section 7.03. In the absence of a demand for a meeting, a corporation can operate indefinitely without actually holding an annual meeting.

Authority granted to the board of directors or some individual to fix the time and place of the annual meeting must be exercised in good faith. See Schnell v. Chris-Craft Industries, Inc., 285 A.2d 437 (Del. 1971).

Section 7.02 Special Meeting.

Any meeting other than an annual meeting is a special meeting under Proposed section 7.02. The principal formal differences between an annual and a special meeting are that at an annual meeting directors are elected and, subject to the special notice requirements of Proposed subsection 7.05(b), any relevant issue pertaining to the corporation (except removal of directors under Proposed section 8.08) may be considered, while a special meeting must be called for specific purposes and may only consider matters within those purposes.

A special meeting may be called under Proposed subsection 7.02(a) by the board of directors or the person or persons authorized to do so by the articles of incorporation or bylaws. Typically, the person or persons holding certain designated offices within the corporation, e.g., the president, chairman of the board of directors, or chief executive officer, are given authority to call special meetings of the shareholders. In addition, generally the holders of at least 10 percent of the votes entitled to be cast on a proposed issue at the special meeting may require the corporation to hold a special meeting by signing, dating, and delivering one or more writings that demand a special meeting and set forth the purpose or purposes of the desired meeting. Shareholders demanding a special meeting do not have to sign a single piece of paper, but the writings signed must all describe essentially the same purpose or purposes. Upon receipt of writings evidencing a demand by holders of 10 percent of the votes, the corporation (through an appropriate officer) must call the special meeting at a reasonable time and at the place stated in or fixed in accordance with the bylaws, or if not so stated or fixed, at the corporation's principal office. The shareholders' demand may suggest a time and place but the final decision on such matters is the corporation's. If no meeting is held within the time periods specified in Proposed section 7.03, the shareholders may obtain a summary court order under that section requiring that the meeting be held. Proposed subsection 7.03(b) continues current law permitting public companies to limit or deny the right of shareholders to call a special meeting by article of incorporation provision. Proposed subsection 7.03(c) authorizes non-public companies to increase to 25 percent the percentage of votes required in the demand.

Proposed subsection 7.02(d) fixes a record date for determining the shareholders entitled to sign a demand for a special shareholders' meeting. Unless a record date is otherwise fixed for this purpose, the record date is the date the first shareholder signs the demand. If a shareholder initially signs a demand but later seeks to withdraw his demand, the corporation may permit the shareholder to do so.

Under Proposed subsection 7.02(a)(2) it is possible that more than one faction of shareholders may demand meetings at roughly the same time or that a single (or changing) faction of shareholders may request consecutive, overlapping, or repetitive meetings. The responsible corporate officers have some discretion as to the call and purposes of a meeting, and where demands are repetitious or overlapping, they may refuse to call a meeting for a purpose identical or similar to a purpose for which a previous special meeting was held in the recent past. Similarly, they may decline to call a special meeting when an annual meeting will be held in the near future. This limited discretion of the corporation to deny repetitive or overlapping demands may ultimately be tested under Proposed section 7.03, which itself gives the court discretion whether or not to compel the holding of a special meeting under these circumstances.

Proposed subsection 7.05(c) provides that a notice of a special meeting must include a "description of the purpose or purposes for which the meeting is called." Subsection 7.02(f) states that only business that is within that purpose or those purposes may be conducted at the special meeting. The word "within" was chosen, rather than a broader phrase like "reasonably related to," to describe the relationship between the notice and the authorized business to assure a shareholder who does not attend a special meeting that new or unexpected matters will not be considered in the shareholder's absence.

Section 7.03 Court-Ordered Meeting.

Proposed section 7.03 provides the remedy for shareholders if the corporation refuses or fails to hold a shareholders' meeting as required by Proposed section 7.01 or Proposed section 7.02. A shareholder entitled to vote for directors at a meeting may apply for a summary court order to command the holding of a meeting if (1) an annual meeting is not held within 6 months after the end of the corporation's fiscal year or 15 months after its last annual meeting, or (2) a special meeting is not properly noticed within 30 days after a valid demand is delivered to the secretary of the corporation or, if properly noticed, is not held in accordance with the notice. Since a meeting must be held within 60 days of the notice date under Proposed section 7.05, the maximum delay between the demand for a special meeting and the right to petition a court for a summary order is 90 days.

The court must provide notice to the corporation before it orders a meeting or fixes the details of the meeting. The Committee added this requirement to the RMA in order to give the corporation ample opportunity to take necessary action on its own initiative.

The court has discretion under Proposed section 7.03 since the language of the statute is that the court "may summarily order" that a meeting be held. A court, for example, may refuse to order a special meeting if the specified purpose is repetitive of the purpose of a special meeting held in the recent past. Similarly, even though a demand for an annual meeting is not a formal prerequisite for an application for a summary order under this section, the court may withhold setting a time and date for the annual meeting for a reasonably short period in order to permit the corporation to do so.

In any event, a shareholder applying for a summary order to hold a meeting has the burden of showing that the shareholder is entitled to the order and, in the case of a special meeting, the shareholder has the burden of showing that the demand was executed by the holders of at least 10 percent (or, in the case of a non-public corporation, such higher percentage not in excess of 25 percent as is stated in the articles of incorporation or bylaws) of the votes entitled to be cast on the record date and that the demand was duly delivered to the corporation's secretary.

If the court orders that a meeting be held, it may fix the time and place of the meeting, determine the voting groups entitled to participate in the meeting, set the record date, order notice to be given, and enter such other orders as may be appropriate for the holding of the meeting.

The court may provide that a meeting it has ordered is to be the annual meeting. If so provided, the meeting should be viewed as compliance with Proposed section 7.01, precluding all other shareholder requests for an annual meeting for that year.

The Committee considered in connection with Proposed section 7.03 old RCW 23A.08.305 (missing shareholders). It concluded that most situations in which that provision might be invoked were covered by the Proposed section. It therefore omitted old RCW 23A.08.305 and made minor changes in RMA section 7.03(b) to authorize the court to determine the shareholders to participate in a meeting (thereby covering the main operative element in old RCW 23A.08.305) and to authorize the court to determine the manner (e.g., by publication) of providing notice.

Section 7.04 Action Without Meeting.

Proposed section 7.04 provides that all the shareholders entitled to vote on an issue may validly act by unanimous written consent without a meeting. Unanimous written consent is obtainable, as a practical matter, only on matters on which there are only a relatively few shareholders entitled to vote.

Proposed section 7.04 is based on the fundamental premise that if all the voting shareholders desire some action to be taken, no purpose is served by requiring the formality of holding a meeting of shareholders. Action by unanimous written consent has the same effect as a meeting vote and may be described as such in any document, including documents delivered to the secretary of state for filing. Proposed section 7.04 is applicable to any shareholder action, including, without limitation, election of directors, approval of mergers or sales of substantially all the corporate property not in the ordinary course of business, amendments of articles of incorporation, and dissolution.

To be effective, consents must be in writing, signed by all the shareholders entitled to vote, and delivered to the corporation for inclusion in the minutes or filing with the corporate records. The phrase "one or more written consents" is included in Proposed subsection 7.04(a) to make it clear that all shareholders do not need to sign the same piece of paper. The record date for determining who is entitled to vote, if not otherwise fixed by or in accordance with the bylaws, is the date the first shareholder signs the consent. Proposed subsection 7.04(b).

Proposed subsection 7.04(c), related to withdrawal, was designed to eliminate possible confusion and litigation as to revocability of consents. See Calumet Industries, Inc. v. MacClure, 464 F. Supp. 19 (N.D. Ill. 1978) (reaching a conclusion similar to that in Proposed subsection (c)).

Proposed section 7.04 is applicable to all shareholder actions, including the approval of fundamental corporate changes described in chapters 10, 11, 12, and 14. If these actions were taken at an annual or special meeting, shareholders who were not entitled to vote on the matter would nevertheless be entitled to receive notice of the meeting, including a description of the transaction proposed to be considered at the meeting. See, e.g., Proposed sections 10.03 (notice of proposed amendment), 11.03 (notice of proposed merger). In order to ensure that nonvoting shareholders have essentially the same right if action is taken by consent rather than at a meeting, Proposed subsection 7.04(d) provides that all nonvoting shareholders must be given at least 10 days' written notice of the fundamental corporate changes that are proposed for approval by consent.

Section 7.05 Notice of Meeting.

Shareholders entitled to notice must be given notice of annual and special meetings pursuant to Proposed section 7.05 unless the notice is waived pursuant to Proposed section 7.06. Notice must be given at least 10 (or 20, in the case of proposed actions described in Proposed subsection 7.05(a)), but not more than 60 days before the meeting date.

Generally, only shareholders who are entitled to vote at a meeting are entitled to notice. Thus, notice usually need be sent only to holders of shares entitled to vote in an election of directors or generally on other matters (in the case of an annual meeting), and on matters within the specified purposes set forth in the notice (in the case of a special meeting), and only to holders of shares of those classes or series of shares on the record date. The last sentence of Proposed subsection 7.05(a), however, recognizes that other sections of the Act require that notice of meetings at which certain types of fundamental corporate changes are to be considered must be sent to all shareholders, including holders of shares who are not entitled to vote on any matter at the meeting. See Proposed sections 10.03, 11.03, 12.02, and 14.02. In addition, the articles of incorporation may require that notice of meetings be given to all or specified voting groups of shareholders who are not entitled to vote on the matters considered at those meetings.

Notice of all special meetings must include a description of the purpose or purposes for which the meeting is called and the matters acted upon at the meeting are limited to those within the notice of meeting. By contrast, the notice of an annual meeting usually need not refer to any specific purpose or purposes. As recognized in Proposed subsection 7.05(b), however, other provisions of the Proposed Act provide that certain types of fundamental corporate changes may be considered at an annual meeting only if specific reference to the proposed action appears in the notice of meeting. See Proposed sections 10.03, 11.03, 12.02, and 14.02. In addition, if the board of directors chooses, a notice of an annual meeting may contain references to purposes or proposals not required by statute. In either event, if a notice of an annual meeting refers specifically to one or more purposes, the meeting is not limited to those purposes.

Proposed subsection 7.05(d) provides rules for notice of adjourned meetings and determines when new notice must be given to shareholders. Under this subsection a meeting may be adjourned to a different date, time, or place without additional notice to the shareholders (unless the bylaws require otherwise) if the new date, time, or place is announced before adjournment. But new notice is required if a new record date is or must be fixed under Proposed subsection 7.07(c). If a new record date is or must be fixed, all requirements of Proposed section 7.05 must be complied with as notice is given to the persons who are shareholders as of the new record date. A new quorum for the adjourned meeting must also be established. See Proposed section 7.25.

Section 7.06 Waiver of Notice.

Proposed subsection 7.06(a) permits any shareholder to waive any notice required by Proposed section 7.05 by a written waiver, signed by the shareholder and delivered to the corporation. A waiver is effective even though it is signed before or after the date and time of the meeting that is the subject of the notice.

A notice of shareholder meetings serves two principal purposes: (1) it advises shareholders of the date, time, and place of the annual or special meeting, and (2) in the case of a special meeting (or an annual meeting at which fundamental changes may be made), it advises shareholders of the purposes of the meeting. If a shareholder attends a meeting, the shareholder has probably received some form of notice of the date, time, and place of the meeting whether from the corporation or from another source. As a result, Proposed subsection 7.06(b) provides that attendance at a meeting constitutes waiver of any failure to receive the notice or defects in the statement of the date, time, and place of any meeting. Defects waived by attendance for this purpose include a failure to send the notice altogether, delivery to the wrong address, a misstatement of the date, time, or place of the meeting, and a failure to notice the meeting within the time periods specified in Proposed subsection 7.05(a). If a shareholder believes that the defect in or failure of notice was in some way prejudicial, the shareholder may preserve that objection by stating at the beginning of the meeting that the shareholder objects to holding the meeting or transacting any business. If this objection is made, the corporation may correct the defect by sending proper notice to the shareholders for a subsequent meeting or by obtaining written waivers of notice from all shareholders who did not receive the notice required by Proposed section 7.05.

For purposes of this section, "attendance" at a meeting involves the presence of the shareholder in person or by proxy. A shareholder who attends a meeting solely for the purpose of objecting to the notice may be counted as present for purposes of determining whether a quorum is present. See Proposed subsection 7.25(b).

In the case of special meetings, or annual meetings at which fundamental corporate changes are considered, a second purpose of the notice is to tell shareholders what is to be considered at the meeting. An objection that a particular matter is not within the stated purposes of the meeting obviously cannot be raised until the matter is presented. Thus Proposed subsection 7.06(c) provides that a shareholder waives this kind of objection if the shareholder fails to object promptly after the matter is first presented. If this objection is made, the corporation may correct the defect by sending proper notice to the shareholders for a subsequent meeting or obtaining written waivers of notice from all shareholders. Of course, whether or not a specific matter is within a stated purpose of a meeting is ultimately a matter for judicial determination, typically in a suit to invalidate action taken at the meeting brought by a shareholder who was not present at the meeting or who was present at the meeting and preserved the shareholder's objection under Proposed subsection 7.06(b).

The purpose of both waiver rules in Proposed subsections 7.06(b) and (c) is to require shareholders with objections to holding the meeting or considering a specific matter to raise them at the outset and not reserve them to be raised only if they are unhappy with the outcome of the meeting. The rules set forth in this section differ in some respects from the waiver rules for directors set forth in Proposed section 8.23 where a waiver is inferred if the director acquiesces in the action taken at a meeting even if the director raised an objection to the notice of a meeting at the outset.

Other sections of the Proposed Act require that shareholders who are not entitled to vote are entitled to notice of meetings at which certain fundamental corporate changes are to be considered. See Proposed sections 10.03, 11.03, 12.02, and 14.02. In order to obtain an effective waiver of notice for these meetings under this section, waivers must be obtained from the nonvoting shareholders who are entitled to notice as well as from the voting shareholders.

Section 7.07 Record Date.

Proposed subsection 7.07(a) authorizes the board of directors to fix record dates for any action by shareholders unless the bylaws themselves fix or provide for the fixing of a record date. A separate record date may be established for each voting group entitled to vote separately on a matter at a meeting, or a single record date may be established for all voting groups entitled to vote in the meeting. If neither the bylaws nor the board of directors fix a record date for a specific action, Proposed subsections (b), (c) and (d) provide record dates. Thus, subsection (b) provides that the record date for determining who is entitled to notice of a meeting (if not fixed by the directors or the bylaws) is the day before the date the corporation first gives notice to shareholders of the meeting. Subsection (c) fixes the record date (if the board of directors does not fix it) for share dividends as the date the directors authorize the share dividend. Subsection (d) fixes the record date (if the board of directors does not otherwise fix it) for distributions other than those involving a reacquisition of shares as the date the directors authorize the distribution. No record date is necessary for a reacquisition of shares from one or more specific shareholders. The board of directors may set a record date for a reacquisition if it is to be pro rata and offered to all shareholders.

A record date may not be fixed more than 70 days before the meeting or action in question and may not be fixed retroactively. Once set, the same record date may be utilized for an adjournment of the meeting that reconvenes within 120 days after the date fixed for the original meeting or the board of directors may fix a new record date. If the adjourned meeting takes place more than 120 days after the date fixed for the original meeting, Proposed subsection 7.07(f) requires that a new record date be fixed. But if an adjournment is ordered by a court, Proposed subsection 7.07(g) allows the court to provide that the original record date continues to be applicable or to fix a different date. In any event, if a different record date is or must be fixed under this section, Proposed section 7.05 requires that new notice be given to the persons who are shareholders as of the new record date.

and Proposed section 7.25 requires that a quorum be redetermined for an adjourned meeting as to which a new record date is set.

Section 7.08 Shareholder Participation By Means of Communication Equipment.

Old RCW 23A.08.255 was added to Washington law in 1980 to facilitate the holding of special shareholders' meetings of closely-held corporations when one or more important shareholders might be absent. The Proposed section omits the requirement in the old provision that all persons be able to hear each other "at the same time" on grounds that that limitation would eliminate many forms of communication equipment where the speaker cannot hear other persons speaking at the same time. As modified, the provision is in effect in California and a number of other states.

Section 7.20 Shareholders' List for Meeting.

Proposed section 7.20 requires the preparation of a list of shareholders entitled to notice of a meeting and requires that this list be made available on request to shareholders beginning 10 days prior to, and continuing during, the meeting.

The list of shareholders is often referred to as the "voting list" and usually the list will include only the names of those shareholders entitled to vote at the meeting. The list, however, must also include the names, shareholdings, and addresses of shareholders of nonvoting shares if they are entitled to notice of the meeting by reason of the nature of the actions proposed to be taken at the meeting.

The list must generally be available for inspection beginning 10 days prior to the meeting and continuously thereafter until the meeting occurs at the corporation's principal office or at a place identified in the meeting notice.

Proposed subsection 7.20(b) permits the list to be maintained prior to the meeting either at the corporation's principal office or at any location in the city in which the meeting is to be held, the precise location to be designated in the notice of meeting.

Proposed subsection 7.20(c) also requires a copy of the shareholders' list to be available at the meeting itself for inspection. This list may be used to determine the presence or absence of a quorum, and the right to vote.

Proposed section 7.20 does not require the list of shareholders to be in any particular form. It may be maintained, for example, in electronic form. If the list is maintained in other than written form, however, suitable equipment must be provided so that a comprehensible list may be inspected by a shareholder as permitted by this section.

Proposed section 7.20 creates a corporate obligation rather than an obligation imposed upon a corporate officer. If the corporation fails to prepare the list or refuses to permit a shareholder to inspect it, either before the meeting as required by Proposed subsection 7.20(b) or at the meeting itself as required by Proposed subsection 7.20(c), a shareholder may apply to the superior court under Proposed subsection 7.20(d) for a summary order permitting inspection of the list; the court may further order the meeting to be postponed for a reasonable time. If the court orders a copy of the list to be provided to the shareholders, the copying is at the corporation's expense.

The judicial remedy provided in Proposed subsection 7.20(d) is the only sanction for violation of Proposed section 7.20 since Proposed subsection 7.20(e) provides that the failure to prepare, maintain, or produce the list does not affect the validity of any action taken at the meeting.

Proposed subsection 7.20(b) permits shareholders to "inspect" the list without limitation during the 10 days prior to the meeting. But Proposed subsection 7.20(e) permits the shareholder to "copy" the list only if the shareholder complies with the requirements of Proposed subsection 16.02(c). The distinction between "inspection" and "copying" set forth in Proposed subsections 7.20(b) and 7.20(e) reflects an accommodation between competing considerations of permitting shareholders access to the list immediately prior to and at the meeting and possible misuse of a copied list.

As Proposed subsection 7.20(e) makes clear, Proposed section 7.20 creates a right of shareholders to inspect a list of shareholders in advance of and at a meeting that is independent of the rights of shareholders to inspect corporate records under chapter 16. A shareholder may obtain the right to inspect the list of shareholders as provided in chapter 16 without regard to the provisions relating to the pendency of a meeting in Proposed section 7.20, and similarly the limitations of chapter 16 are not applicable to the right of inspection created by section 7.20.

The right to inspect under chapter 16 is also broader in the sense that in some circumstances the shareholder may be entitled to receive copies of the documents the shareholder desires to inspect. See section 16.03.

Section 7.21 Voting Entitlement of Shares.

Proposed section 7.21 deals with the entitlement of shareholders to vote, while Proposed section 7.22 deals with voting by proxy and Proposed section 7.24 establishes rules for the corporation's acceptance or rejection of proxy votes.

Proposed subsection 7.21(a) provides that each outstanding share, regardless of class, is entitled to one vote per share unless otherwise provided in the articles of incorporation. The articles of incorporation may provide for multiple or fractional votes per share, and may provide that some classes of shares are nonvoting on some or all matters, or that some classes have multiple or fractional votes per share while other classes have a single vote per share or different multiple or fractional votes per share, or that some classes constitute one or more separate voting groups and are entitled to vote separately on the matter. See Proposed subsection 6.01(c).

The articles of incorporation may also authorize the board of directors to determine, in whole or in part, the preferences, limitations and relative rights of classes or series of shares with preferential rights, which may be voting or nonvoting in whole or in part. See Proposed section 6.02.

Fractional or multiple votes per share, or nonvoting shares, are often used in the planning of business ventures, particularly closely held ventures, when the contributions of participants vary in kind or quality. It is possible through these devices, for example, to give persons with relatively small financial contributions a relatively large voting power within the corporation.

The power to vary or condition voting power is also often used to give increased protection to financial interests in the corporation. It is customary, for example, to make classes of shares with preferential rights nonvoting, but the power to vote may be granted to those classes if distributions are omitted for a specified period. This conditional right to vote may permit the class of shares with preferential rights to vote separately as a voting group to elect one or more directors or to vote with the shares having general voting rights in the election of the directors, when, for example, dividends on the class of shares are in arrears.

In order to reflect the possibility that shares may have multiple or fractional votes per share, all provisions relating to quorums, voting, and similar matters in the Proposed Act are phrased in terms of "votes" rather than "shares."

Under the last sentence of Proposed subsection 7.21(a), the power to vote cannot be granted directly to nonshareholders. The statutes of some states permit bondholders to be given the power to vote under certain specified circumstances; this option is not available under the Proposed Act. But creditors may in effect be given the power to vote, e.g., by creating a special class of redeemable voting shares for them, by creating a voting trust at the time the credit is extended with power in the creditors to name the voting trustees, by registering the shares in the name of the creditors as pledgees with power to vote, or by granting the creditors a revocable or irrevocable proxy to vote some or all of the outstanding shares.

Proposed subsection 7.21(b) prohibits the voting of shares held by a domestic or foreign corporation that is itself a majority-owned subsidiary of the corporation issuing the shares. The purpose of this prohibition is to prevent management from using a corporate investment to perpetuate itself in power. Similar public policy considerations may be present in situations where the issuing corporation owns a large but not a majority interest in the corporation voting the shares. The inclusion of Proposed subsection 7.21(b) is not intended to affect the possible application of common law principles that may invalidate circular holding situations not within its literal prohibition. As to the possible existence of these common law principles, see, e.g., Cleveland Trust Co. v. Eaton, 229 N.E.2d 850 (1967), rev'd on the basis of statutory amendment, 256 N.E.2d 198 (1970).

Proposed subsection 7.21(c) makes the prohibition against voting of circularly-owned shares of Proposed subsection 7.21(b) inapplicable to shares held in a fiduciary capacity. Compare DEL. GEN. CORP. LAW section 160(c). The Ohio statute involved in the Eaton case authorized a bank to vote its own shares that were held by it in a fiduciary capacity. A state may grant or prohibit such voting by another statute; Proposed subsection 7.21(c) provides only that such voting is not prohibited by the Proposed Act.

Section 7.22 Proxies.

Proposed section 7.22 provides that shareholders may vote in person or by proxy and establishes the basic rules for appointing a proxy. As business organizations have increased in size and complexity, the number of shareholders has also increased. As a result, proxy voting is an essential step in the governance of many corporations.

The word "proxy" is often used ambiguously, sometimes referring to the grant of authority to vote, sometimes to the document granting the authority, and sometimes to the person to whom the authority is granted. In the Proposed Act the word "proxy" is used only in the last sense; the term "appointment form" is used to describe the document appointing the proxy; and the word "appointment" is used to describe the grant of authority to vote.

A shareholder may appoint a proxy to vote for the shareholder simply by signing an appointment form, either personally or by the shareholder's attorney-in-fact. The appointment is effective when it is received by the secretary or other officer or agent authorized to receive and tabulate votes. The proxy has the same power to vote as that possessed by the shareholder, unless the appointment form contains an express limitation on the power to vote or direction as to how to vote the shares on a particular matter, in which event the corporation must tabulate the votes in a manner consistent with that limitation or direction. See Proposed subsection 7.22(h).

An appointment form that contains no expiration date is valid for 11 months. See Proposed subsection 7.22(c). This ensures that in the normal course a new appointment will be solicited at least once every 12 months. But an appointment form may validly specify a longer period if the parties agree.

The appointment of a proxy is essentially the appointment of an agent and is revocable in accordance with the principles of agency law unless it is "coupled with an interest." See Proposed subsection 7.22(d). Thus an appointment may generally be revoked either expressly or by implication, as when a shareholder later executes a second appointment form inconsistent with an earlier one, or attends the meeting in person and seeks to vote on his own behalf. The Proposed Act does not attempt to codify these common law principles of agency law.

While death or incapacity of the appointing shareholder revokes an agency appointment under common law principles, Proposed subsection 7.22(e) modifies the common law rule to provide that the corporation may accept the vote of the proxy until the appropriate corporate officer or agent receives notice of the shareholder's death or incapacity. In view of the widespread dispersal of shareholders in many corporations, it is not feasible for the corporation to learn of these events independently of notice. On the other hand, Proposed subsection 7.22(e) does not affect the validity of the proxy appointment or its manner of exercise as between the proxy and the personal representatives of the decedent or incompetent. That relationship is governed by the law of agency independent of the Proposed Act.

Proposed subsection 7.22(d) deals with the irrevocable appointment of a proxy. The general test adopted is the common law test that all appointments are revocable unless "coupled with an interest." But Proposed subsection 7.22(d) provides considerable certainty since it describes several accepted forms of relationship as examples of "proxies coupled with an interest." These examples are not exhaustive and other arrangements may be held to be "coupled with interest." See generally State ex rel. Everett Trust & Savings Bank v. Pacific Waxed Paper Co., 22 Wash. 2d 844 (1945); Comment, "The Irrevocable Proxy and Voting Control of Small Business Corporations," 98 U. PA. L. REV. 401, 405-7 (1950); 1 RESTATEMENT OF AGENCY (SECOND) section 138 (1958).

Proposed subsection 7.22(f) provides that an irrevocable proxy is revoked when the interest with which it was coupled is extinguished—for example, by repayment of the loan or release of the pledge.

A transferee for value of shares that are subject to an irrevocable appointment takes free of the appointment if (1) the transferee did not know of the existence of the appointment and (2) the existence of the irrevocable appointment was not noted conspicuously on the certificate or information statement. See Proposed subsection 7.22(g). Under this subsection, both the appointment and the irrevocable nature of the appointment must conspicuously appear on the certificate.

Section 7.23 Shares Held By Nominees.

Traditionally, a corporation recognizes only the registered owner as the owner of shares. Indeed, Proposed section 1.40 defines "shareholder" basically as the registered owner of shares. But it has become a common practice for persons purchasing shares to have them registered in the "street name" of a broker-dealer or other financial institution, principally to facilitate transfer by eliminating the need for the beneficial owner's signature and delivery. In addition, in order to avoid the burdens of processing securities transfers, which caused a crisis in the securities industry in the late 1960s, a system of securities depositories (defined as "clearing corporations" in section 8-102(3) of the UNIFORM COMMERCIAL CODE) has been developed. In this system, financial institutions deposit securities with the depository, which becomes the registered owner of the shares. Transfers between depositories are then accomplished by book entry of the depository. As a result, there may be at least two entities interposed between the corporation and the beneficial owner with the depository being the registered owner for the account of the brokerage firm that in turn holds the shares for the account of the beneficial owner.

The purpose of Proposed section 7.23 is to facilitate direct communication between the corporation and the beneficial owner by authorizing the corporation to create a procedure for bypassing both the registered owner and intermediate brokerage firms. The adoption of this procedure is discretionary with each corporation and affirmative action by the corporation is necessary to accomplish it. The procedure is also discretionary with the shareholder, who must elect to follow the applicable procedure prescribed by the corporation. The shareholder retains all of the shareholder's rights except those granted to the beneficial owner.

The corporation may limit or qualify the procedure as it deems appropriate. For example, the corporation may:

- (1) limit the procedure to certain classes of shareholders, such as depositories, broker-dealers and banks, or their nominees, or make the procedure available to all shareholders;

- (2) permit a shareholder to adopt the procedure with respect to some but not all of the shares registered in the shareholder's name (and in that case the nominee shareholder continues to be treated as the shareholder with respect to the balance);

- (3) specify the purpose or purposes for which the certification is effective, e.g., for giving notice of, and voting at, shareholders' meetings, for the distribution of proxy statements and annual reports, or for payment of cash dividends;

- (4) specify the form of the certification, e.g., a written list, computer tape, or some other form of compatible input;

- (5) specify the type of information that must be provided, e.g., the name and address of the beneficial owner, the beneficial owner's taxpayer identification number, and the number of shares as to which the certification is effective.

- (6) establish deadlines for receipt of the certifications so that the corporation may schedule its mailings; or

- (7) provide for the period for which the certification is effective (e.g., provide that a new certification is required following each record date or that a certification as of a certain date may continue until changed by the certifying shareholder).

This listing is illustrative and not exhaustive. It is expected that experimentation with various devices under this section may reveal other areas with the corporation's plan should address.

The definition of "shareholder" in Proposed section 1.40 includes beneficial owners to the extent they obtain the rights of shareholders pursuant to the procedure authorized by this section.

Section 7.24 Corporation's Acceptance of Votes.

Corporations are often asked to accept a written instrument as evidence of action by a shareholder. These instruments usually involve appointment forms for a proxy to vote the shares, but may also include waivers of notice, consents to action without a meeting, requests for a special meeting of shareholders, and similar instruments involving action by the shareholders. Usually the corporation or its officers will have no personal knowledge of the circumstances under which the instrument was executed and no way of verifying whether the signature on the instrument is in fact the signature of the shareholder. This problem is particularly acute in large corporations with thousands of shareholders.

Proposed section 7.24 establishes general rules permitting the corporation and its officers or agents to accept these instruments if they appear to be executed by the shareholder or by a person who has authority to execute the instrument for the shareholder and they are accompanied by whatever authenticating evidence the corporation reasonably requests. The rules set forth in this section are not exclusive and may be supplemented by additional rules established by the corporation pursuant to Proposed subsection 2.06(d). Proposed subsection 7.24(a) authorizes acceptance of an instrument if the name appearing on the instrument "corresponds" to the name of the shareholder, while Proposed subsection 7.24(b) permits the acceptance of an instrument executed by a person other than the shareholder if there is a designation or evidence of the capacity of the person executing the instrument that indicates the act of the person is the act of the shareholder. On the other hand, Proposed subsection 7.24(c) permits rejection of an instrument if the officer or agent tabulating votes has a "reasonable basis for doubt" about the validity of the signature or about the authority of the person acting on behalf of the shareholder.

The purpose of Proposed subsection 7.24(d) is to protect the corporation and its officers or agents from liability for damages to the shareholder if action is taken in accordance with the section. Thus Proposed subsection 7.24(d) provides that there is no liability to the shareholder if the corporation's officer or agent, acting in good faith, accepts an instrument that meets the requirements of Proposed subsections 7.24(a) or (b), even if it turns out that the execution was invalid or unauthorized; similarly, no liability exists if the officer or agent, again acting in good faith, rejects an instrument because of a "reasonable basis for doubt," even though it turns out that the instrument was properly executed by the shareholder. But Proposed section 7.24 does not address the question whether an action was properly or improperly taken or approved, and Proposed subsection 7.24(e) makes clear that the validity or invalidity of corporate action is ultimately a matter for judicial resolution through review of the results of an election in a suit to enjoin or compel corporate action. It is contemplated that any such suit will be brought promptly, typically before the corporate action is consummated or the corporation's position otherwise changes in reliance on the vote, and that any suit that is not brought promptly under the circumstances would normally be barred because of laches.

Similarly, Proposed section 7.24 does not address the liability of the proxy to the shareholder for exercising authority beyond that granted to the proxy or for disobeying instructions. These matters are governed by agency law.

The American Society of Corporate Secretaries has established principles for the acceptance of proxy appointments in routine elections in which there is no proxy contest. Many of the examples of the application of Proposed section 7.24 set forth below are based on these principles.

1. EXAMPLES OF EXECUTIONS "CORRESPONDING WITH" THE NAME OF THE SHAREHOLDER

a. Assuming that shares are registered in the name of an individual, an instrument may be accepted as corresponding to the name of the shareholder:

- (1) Whether executed in ink, pencil, ballpoint, crayon, etc.

(2) Regardless of where the signature appears on the instrument (whether or not in the space provided), if there is no reason to doubt the intent to execute.

(3) Whether the name is handwritten, handprinted, or rubberstamped in facsimile-signature or printed form.

(4) Whether there are deviations between the registered name and the signature, provided that the deviations are not inconsistent with the registered name. For example, if the shares are registered in the name of "John F. Smith," the following are acceptable: "J. Foster Smith," "J. Smith," "J.F. Smith," "J.F.S.," "J.S.," "John F.," and even simply "Smith." Similarly, if "John Smith" is the name of the shareholder, "John F. Smith" and "J. Foster Smith" are also acceptable.

(5) If marked by an "X" and witnessed by one other person.

(6) If not executed at all, a signed letter or telegram from the shareholder states that the shareholder has signed the instrument or approves of the action taken by the instrument.

(7) The signature is illegible, unless it cannot reasonably be considered to be the signature of the shareholder. For example, if shares are registered in the name of "John F. Smith," the signature is not acceptable if the first letter of the signature is clearly an "M" or the first word is "Mark."

b. If the shares are registered in the maiden name of a woman, e.g., Mary Smith, and the instrument is executed:

(1) In her married name, clearly indicated as such, e.g., "Mary Smith Jones (formerly Mary Smith)" or "Mary Smith (now Mrs. Mary Smith Jones)."

(2) In her married name or in a form that implies her married status, e.g., "Mary Smith Anderson," "Mrs. Mary S. Anderson," "Mrs. Mary Smith Anderson," or "Mrs. Mary Anderson."

c. If the shares are registered in the name "Peter Smith, Sr." but the designation "Sr." is omitted, e.g., "Peter Smith." The execution "Peter Smith, Jr.," however, does not correspond with the shareholder.

2. EXAMPLES OF EXECUTIONS THAT "INDICATE THE CAPACITY" OF THE PERSON SIGNING

In all the following instances, the corporation may request additional evidence of authority but is not required to do so; officers and agents are protected from liability if they routinely accept the instrument without requiring additional evidence.

a. Assuming that the shares are registered in the name of a partnership, e.g., "Smith Bros.," an instrument may be accepted if executed either in the form "Smith Bros. by John Able, Partner" or simply "Smith Bros."

b. Assuming that the shares are registered in the name of a corporation, e.g., "Smith Corporation," an instrument may be accepted if executed in the name of the corporation, by an officer or agent designated as holding a responsible position, by a person with a surname similar to the corporate name, or simply in the name of the corporation, e.g., "Smith Corporation by John Able, President," "Smith Corporation by Peter Apt, Agent," "Smith Corporation by John Smith," or "Smith Corporation."

c. Assuming that the shares are registered in the name of an individual who is deceased, incompetent, a minor, in bankruptcy, or in receivership, an instrument may be accepted if it is executed by an executor, administrator, guardian, receiver, or trustee who signs as such. Shares registered in the name of a minor may be voted by a parent of the shareholder if the parent is identified as such, e.g., "Ralph Able by John Able, Father."

d. Assuming that the shares are registered in the name of an individual, an instrument may be accepted if it is executed by another individual who indicates (1) that the signatory is signing as an agent or attorney-in-fact for the shareholder (see Proposed section 7.22); (2) that the signatory has a close family or other relationship with the shareholder from which authority can be inferred; or (3) that the signatory is the beneficial owner of shares, a pledgee of the shares, or a donee of the shares. For example: if shares are registered in the name of "Peter Jones," "Ed Smith, Agent," "Paul Smith, Son," "Mary Smith Jones, Wife," "Emelia Able, Attorney," "Arthur Peters, Private Secretary," "Paul Jones, Trustee under Deed of Trust dated April 1, 1980," or "Mary Smith, Donee," are all acceptable absent some indication that the execution was unauthorized.

e. Assuming that the shares are registered in the names of two or more persons—as joint tenants or tenants in common, executors or administrators, guardians or conservators, a committee for an incompetent, or trustees—an instrument may be accepted if signed by or on behalf of fewer than all the persons named. This conclusion proceeds on the assumption that the signer or signers have authority to act for the others and there is nothing on the face of the instrument that rebuts this assumption.

3. EXAMPLES OF "REASONABLE BASIS FOR DOUBT"

The phrase "reasonable basis for doubt" about the validity of a signature or about the signer's authority creates an objective standard for the exercise of the authority granted by Proposed subsection 7.24(c) to reject proffered instruments. In the absence of a proxy fight or a seriously contested issue, instruments should be rejected only if there seems to be no basis for finding the execution regular on its face. In a proxy fight or other contested issue, the possibility of illegal or unauthorized execution is greatly increased, and a more cautious attitude should therefore be adopted. The following are examples in which a "reasonable basis for doubt" could be found to exist:

a. The shares are registered in the name of "John F. Smith" and the instrument is executed by "Joseph F. Smith" or by "Frank W. Smith."

b. The shares are registered in the name of "Ellen Smith, a Minor" or "John Smith, Custodian for Ellen Smith, a Minor," and the instrument is executed by "Ellen Smith." There is no "reasonable basis for doubt," however, if the instrument is accompanied by evidence satisfactory to the corporation that the shareholder is no longer a minor.

c. A proxy appointment is received that is regular on its face, and the secretary or other corporate officer or agent receives a telephone call from a person who identifies the caller as the shareholder and says either that the caller wishes to revoke the appointment or that the caller did not authorize its original execution.

d. Shares are registered in the name of two or more persons as co-owners, the instrument is executed by fewer than all of them, and the instrument shows on its face that not all the registered owners granted authority to the signers, as where the instrument states that it was not possible to obtain all the co-owners' signatures or that some refused to sign. For the normal rule of acceptability of proxies executed by fewer than all co-owners, however, see Proposed subsection 7.24(b)(5) and part 2.e of this Comment.

4. OTHER PRINCIPLES APPLICABLE TO PROXY APPOINTMENTS

As indicated in the Comment to Proposed section 7.22, a proxy is simply an agent of the shareholder, and the proxy's appointment therefore involves primarily the law of agency. The law of agency determines the rights and duties of the shareholder and the proxy, and it is important to recognize that Proposed section 7.24 is not intended to affect these rights and duties. Rather, it recognizes that the great bulk of instruments executed in the name of a shareholder or on the shareholder's behalf are in fact authorized and the corporation and its officers should be encouraged to accept them rather than to adopt unduly narrow requirements.

The Committee omitted from the Proposed Act old RCW 23A.08.310 (Stock Transfer by Married Person), 23A.08.320 (Shares Issued or Transferred in Joint Tenancy Form), and 23A.08.325 (Community Property Agreements) on the ground that their subject matter was more properly regulated under article 8 of the UNIFORM COMMERCIAL CODE. The only instance that one of the provisions deals with an issue other than transfer of shares appears in RCW 23A.08.310 (concerning any proxy or power given by a married person). The Committee believes that the rules set forth in examples 1(b) and 2(d) above should produce results similar to those under the old statute.

Section 7.25 Quorum and Voting Requirements.

Proposed section 7.25 establishes general quorum and voting requirements for voting groups for purposes of the title. As defined in Proposed section 1.40, a "voting group" consists of all shares of one or more classes or series that under the articles of incorporation or the Proposed Act are entitled to vote and be counted together collectively on a matter. Shares entitled to vote "generally" on a matter (that is, all shares entitled to vote on the matter by the articles of incorporation or this title that do not expressly have the right to be counted or tabulated separately) are a single voting group. The determination of which shares form part of a single voting group must be made from the provisions of the articles of incorporation and of this title.

The voting group concept permits a single section of the Proposed Act to deal with quorum and voting rules applicable to a variety of single and multiple voting group situations. Proposed section 7.25 covers, for example, quorum and voting requirements for all actions by the shareholders of a corporation with a single class of voting shares; it also covers quorum and voting requirements for a matter on which only a class of shares with preferential rights is entitled to vote under the articles of incorporation because of a default in the payment of dividends (a vote which is often described as a "class vote"); and it covers quorum and voting requirements for a matter on which both common and preferred shares are entitled to vote, either together as a single voting group under the articles of incorporation or separately as two voting groups under either the articles of incorporation or this title.

Under the Proposed Act, classes or series of shares are generally not entitled to vote separately by voting group except to the extent specifically authorized by the articles of incorporation. But Proposed sections 10.04 and 11.03 of the Act grant classes or series of shares the right to vote separately when fundamental changes are proposed that may adversely affect the class or series. Under the Proposed Act even a class or series of shares that is expressly described as nonvoting under the articles of incorporation may be entitled to vote separately on a matter affecting the class or series in a designated way. See Proposed subsection 10.04(e).

In addition to the provisions of this title, separate voting by voting group may be authorized by the articles of incorporation in such instances and on such terms as may be desired (except that the statutory privilege of voting by separate voting groups cannot be diluted or reduced). Finally, on some matters the board of directors may condition their submission of matters to shareholders on their approval by specific voting groups designated by the board of directors. Proposed sections 7.25 and 7.26 establish the rules by which all voting by single or multiple voting groups is conducted.

In some situations, shares of a single class may be entitled to vote in two different voting groups.

Implicit in Proposed section 7.25 is the concept that the determination of the voting groups entitled to vote, and the quorum and voting requirements applicable thereto, must be determined separately for each "matter" coming before a meeting. As a result, different quorum and voting requirements may be applicable to different portions of a meeting, depending on the matter being considered. In this respect, Proposed sections 7.25 and 7.26 differ in structure from the old law which contemplated that a single set of quorum and voting requirements would be applicable to a "meeting." There is no difference in substance, however, since it was generally recognized that different quorum and voting requirements should be applicable in class voting situations. And, under the Proposed Act, if only a single voting group is entitled to vote on all matters coming before a meeting of shareholders, a single quorum and voting requirement will usually be applicable to the entire meeting.

Proposed subsections 7.25(a) and (b) provide standard rules for the determination of a quorum for each voting group required to act at a shareholders' meeting on a matter. In the absence of a different provision in the articles of incorporation or in the Proposed Act, Proposed subsection 7.25(a) provides that a quorum consists of a majority of the votes entitled to be cast on the matter at the meeting.

Proposed subsection 7.25(b) retains the common law view that once a share is present (assuming that shares represented at the meeting solely to object to notice or matters on the agenda are not present) at a meeting, it is deemed present for quorum purposes throughout the meeting. Thus, a voting group may continue to act despite the withdrawal of persons having the power to vote one or more shares in an effort "to break the quorum." In this respect, a meeting of shareholders is governed by a different rule than a meeting of directors, where a sufficient number of directors must be present to constitute a quorum at the time action is taken.

Once a share is present at a meeting it is also deemed to be present at any adjourned meeting unless a new record date is or must be set for that adjourned meeting. See Proposed section 7.07. If a new record date is set, new notice must be given to holders of shares of a voting group and a quorum must be established from within the holders of shares of that voting group on the new record date.

The shares owned by a shareholder who comes to the meeting to object on grounds of lack of notice may be counted toward the presence of a quorum. Similarly, the shares owned by a shareholder who attends a meeting solely for purposes of raising the objection that a quorum is not present are counted toward the presence of a quorum. Attendance at a meeting, however, does not constitute a waiver of other objections to the meeting such as the lack of notice. Such waivers are governed by Proposed subsection 7.06(b).

As used in Proposed sections 7.25 and 7.26, "represented at the meeting" means the physical presence of the shareholder or a duly appointed proxy in the meeting room after the meeting has been called to order or the presiding officer has commenced consideration of the business of the meeting, and before the final adjournment of the meeting. If a person owns shares of different classes or series that are entitled to vote in separate voting groups, the presence of the person at the meeting constitutes representation at the meeting of all the shares owned by that person.

Proposed subsection 7.25(c) provides that an action (other than the election of directors, which is governed by Proposed section 7.28) is approved by a voting group at a meeting at which a quorum is present if the votes cast in favor of the action exceed the votes cast opposing the action. This section changes the traditional rule appearing in the old law and many state statutes that an action is approved at a meeting at which a quorum is present if it receives the affirmative vote "of a majority of the shares represented at that meeting." The traditional rule in effect treated abstentions as negative votes; the Proposed Act treats them truly as abstentions. The rule set forth in Proposed subsection 7.25(c) is considered desirable in part because it permits action to be taken by the shareholders when considered appropriate by a majority of those with views on the matter in question. Potential concern about the effect of abstentions in publicly held corporations has also been increased by changes in the SEC proxy regulations that recognize the right of shareholders of publicly held companies to abstain on issues.

The treatment of abstaining votes under the traditional rule gave rise to anomalous results in some situations. For example, if a corporation has 1,000 shares of a single class outstanding, all entitled to cast one vote each, a quorum consists of 501 shares; if 600 shares are represented and the vote on a proposed action is 280 in favor, 225 opposed, and 95 abstaining, the action is not approved since fewer than a majority of the 600 shares attending voted in favor of the action. This is anomalous since if the shares abstaining had not been present at the meeting at all a quorum would have been present and the action would have been approved. Under Proposed subsection 7.25(c) the action would not be defeated by the 95 abstaining votes.

The articles of incorporation may modify the quorum and voting requirements of Proposed section 7.25 for a single voting group or for all voting groups entitled to vote on any matter. The articles of incorporation may increase the quorum and voting requirements to any extent desired up to and including unanimity upon compliance with Proposed section 7.27; they may also require that shares of different classes or series are entitled to vote separately or together on specific issues or provide that actions are approved only if they receive the favorable vote of a majority of the shares of a voting group present at a meeting at which a quorum is present. The articles may also decrease the quorum requirement to a quorum of one-third of the votes entitled to be cast.

Proposed subsection 7.25(d) provides that Proposed section 7.27 governs the adoption or amendment of provisions in the articles of incorporation that impose greater or lesser quorum or voting requirements than provided for in this section.

The phrase "or this title" in Proposed subsections 7.25(a) and (c) makes clear that wherever the provisions of the Proposed Act provide more stringent voting or quorum requirements, they control over Proposed section 7.25. More stringent requirements are provided for the approval of certain fundamental corporate changes—for example, certain amendments to the articles of incorporation, mergers, and the sale of all or substantially all the corporate property not in the ordinary course of business. See Proposed sections 10.03, 11.03, and 12.02. See also sections 8.70–8.73, which impose a special voting requirements for shareholder approval of conflict of interest transactions entered into by members of the board of directors.

Section 7.26 Action By Single and Multiple Voting Groups.

Proposed subsection 7.26(a) provides that when a matter is to be voted upon by a single voting group, action is taken when the voting group votes upon the action as provided in Proposed section 7.25.

Proposed subsection 7.26(b) basically requires that if more than one voting group is entitled to vote on a matter, favorable action on a matter is taken only when it is voted upon favorably by each voting group, counted separately. Implicit in this section are the concepts that (1) different quorum and voting requirements may be applicable to different matters considered at a single meeting and (2) different quorum and voting requirements may be applicable to different voting groups voting on the same matter. Thus, each group entitled to vote must independently meet the quorum and voting requirements established by Proposed section 7.25. But if a quorum is present for one or more voting groups but not for all voting groups, Proposed subsection 7.26(b) provides that the voting groups for which a quorum is present may vote upon the matter.

A single meeting, furthermore, may consider matters on which action by several voting groups is required and also matters on which only a single voting group may act. Action may be taken on the matters on which the single voting group may act even though no quorum is present to take action on other matters. For example, in a corporation with one class of nonvoting shares with preferential rights ("preferred shares") and one class of general voting shares without preferential rights ("common shares"), a matter to be considered at the annual meeting may be a proposed amendment to the articles of incorporation that reduces the cumulative dividend right of the preferred shares (a matter on which the preferred shares have a statutory right to vote as a separate voting group). Other matters to be considered may include the election of directors and the appointment of an auditor, both matters on which the preferred shares have no vote. If a quorum of the voting group consisting of the common shares is present but no quorum of the voting group consisting of the preferred shares is present, the common shares may proceed to elect directors and appoint the auditor. The common shares voting group may also vote to approve the proposed amendment to the articles of the incorporation, but that amendment will not be approved until the preferred shares voting group also votes to approve the amendment.

As described in Proposed subsection 7.26(b), if voting by multiple voting groups is required, the votes of members of each voting group must be separately tabulated. Often each class or series of shares will participate in only a single voting group. But since holders of shares entitled by the articles of incorporation to vote generally on a matter are always entitled to vote in the voting group consisting of the general voting shares, in some instances classes or series of shares may be entitled to be counted simultaneously in two voting groups. This will occur whenever a class or series of shares entitled to vote generally on a matter under the articles of incorporation is affected by the matter in a way that gives rise to the right to vote separately as well as generally, and to have its votes cast under the special voting right counted separately as an independent voting group under the Act. For example, assume that non-public corporation Y has outstanding one class of general voting shares without preferential rights ("common shares"), 600 shares issued, and one class of shares with preferential rights ("preferred shares"), 300 shares issued, that also have full voting rights under the articles of incorporation, i.e., the preferred may vote for election of directors and on all other matters on which common may vote. The preferred and the common therefore are part of the general voting group. The directors propose to amend the articles to create a new class of nonvoting shares that will have preferential rights senior to the existing preferred's preferential rights. All shares are present at the meeting and they divide as follows on the proposal to adopt the amendment:

Yes	Common	310
	Preferred	300
No	Common	290

Both the preferred and the common are entitled to vote on the amendment to the articles of incorporation since they are part of a general voting group pursuant to the articles. But the vote of the preferred is also entitled to be counted separately on the proposal by Proposed subsection 10.04(a)(7) of the Proposed Act. The result is that the proposal passes with the required 2/3rds votes: 610 to 290 in the voting group consisting of the shares entitled to vote generally; and 300 to 0 in the voting group consisting solely of the preferred shares:

(a) First voting group

Yes	Common	310
	Preferred	300
		610
No	Common	290
		290

(b) Second voting group (preferred)

Yes	Preferred	300
No	Preferred	0

Section 7.27 Greater or Lesser Quorum or Voting Requirements.

Proposed subsections 7.27(a) and (b) permit the articles of incorporation to increase the quorum or voting requirements for approval of an action by shareholders up to any desired amount including unanimity. These provisions may relate to ordinary or routine actions by the general voting group (which otherwise may be acted upon under Proposed section 7.25 if the number of affirmative votes exceeds the number of negative votes at a meeting at which a quorum of that voting group is present), or to one or more other voting groups, or to actions for which the Proposed Act provides a greater voting requirement—for example, changes of a fundamental nature in the corporation like certain amendments to articles of incorporation (section 10.03), mergers (section 11.03), sales of all or substantially all the property of a corporation not in the ordinary course of business (section 12.02), and dissolution (section 14.02). Unless the articles of incorporation reduce the required vote to a majority of shares entitled to vote on the matter, the Proposed Act requires these fundamental changes to receive the affirmative vote of two-thirds of the votes entitled to be cast on the proposal by each voting group entitled to vote thereon (rather than by a plurality of the shares voting affirmatively or negatively at a meeting at which a quorum is present). Proposed subsection 7.27(c) recognizes the right to reduce under Proposed sections 10.03, 11.03, 12.02 and 14.02 the required vote to a majority of shares entitled to vote on the matter.

Proposed subsection 7.27(d) requires that any amendment of the articles of incorporation that adds, modifies, or repeals a greater or lesser quorum or voting requirement must be approved by the quorum and vote requirements then in effect. Thus, a supermajority provision in the articles of incorporation that requires an 80 percent affirmative vote of all eligible votes of a voting group present at the meeting may not be removed from the articles of incorporation or reduced in any way except by an 80 percent affirmative vote. Similarly, an amendment to the articles of incorporation to reduce the required vote for a sale of substantially all assets (pursuant to section 12.02) from the statutory requirement of two-thirds of all votes entitled to be cast to a majority of all votes entitled to be cast on such action would require a vote of two-thirds of the votes entitled to be cast.

Proposed subsection 7.27(a) also permits the articles of incorporation to decrease the quorum below a majority of votes entitled to be cast, provided that the quorum may not be less than one-third of the votes entitled to be cast. The required vote and quorum for such action would be the vote and quorum requirements then in effect. The Committee rejected the RMA provision on quorum (which would have permitted decreases without any such limit) in favor of retaining the standard set in current law.

Section 7.28 Voting for Directors; Cumulative Voting.

Proposed subsection 7.28(a) continues the approach in old RCW 23A.08.300 regarding cumulative voting: a corporation has cumulative voting in elections of directors unless its articles of incorporation provide otherwise. The Committee's concern with the RMA approach was that many small corporations have relied on the current statutory structure in erecting control arrangements. The affairs of those corporations would have been dramatically affected if the RMA change were adopted. Moreover, corporations for which cumulative voting is not appropriate have long since eliminated it by article of incorporation provisions.

For similar reasons, Proposed section 7.28 omits RMA 7.28(d). That provision, in the name of notice to shareholders, appears to undercut substantially the right to vote cumulatively where it exists.

Proposed subsection 7.28(b) provides that directors are elected by a plurality of the votes cast in an election of directors at a meeting at which a quorum is present of the voting group entitled to participate in the election. A "plurality" means that the individuals with the largest numbers of votes are elected as directors up to the maximum number of directors to be chosen at the election. In elections in which several factions are competing within a voting group, the individuals elected may have fewer than a majority of all the votes cast in the election. The articles of incorporation or bylaws of the corporation may, however, provide different voting requirements for the election of directors.

The entire board of directors may be elected by a single voting group or the articles of incorporation may provide that different voting groups are entitled to elect a designated number or fraction of the board of directors. See Proposed section 8.04.

Under Proposed subsection 7.28(a) each corporation may determine whether or not to elect its directors by cumulative voting. If directors are elected by different voting groups, the articles of incorporation may provide that specified voting groups are entitled to vote cumulatively while others are not. Cumulative voting affects the manner in which votes may be cast by shares participating in the election but does not affect the plurality principle set forth in Proposed subsection 7.28(b).

Section 7.30 Voting Trusts.

A voting trust is a device by which one or more shareholders divorce the voting rights of their shares from the ownership, retaining the latter but transferring the former to one or more trustees in whom the voting rights of all the shareholders who are parties to the trust are pooled. Following the long established pattern of the old law and the statutes of many states, a voting trust under Proposed subsection 7.30(b) is valid for a maximum of 10 years after its effective date.

At common law voting trusts were often viewed with hostility and were narrowly construed. They are, however, a reasonable voting device to accomplish legitimate objectives. As a result, much of the original judicial hostility to these arrangements has disappeared. See, e.g., Oceanic Exploration Co. v. Grynberg, 428 A.2d 1 (Del. 1981).

Proposed subsection 7.30(a) provides a simple and direct procedure for the creation of an enforceable voting trust. The shareholders agreeing to participate in the trust and the trustees must sign the trust agreement and the shares must be registered in the name of the trustee. Typically, the trust agreement provides that all attributes of beneficial ownership other than the power to vote are retained by the beneficial owners.

Upon the creation of the voting trust, the trustees must prepare a list of the beneficial owners and deliver it, together with a copy of the agreement, to the corporation's principal office, where both documents are available for inspection by shareholders under Proposed subsection 16.02(a). Under Proposed subsection 16.02(f) a beneficial owner of shares held in a voting trust has the same rights.

The purpose of Proposed section 7.30 is not to impose narrow or technical requirements on voting trusts. For example, a voting trust that by its terms extends beyond the 10-year maximum should be treated as being valid for the maximum permissible term of 10 years.

Proposed subsection 7.30(c) permits a voting trust to be extended for additional terms of not more than 10 years commencing with the date the first shareholder signs the extension agreement. Shareholders who do not agree to an extension are entitled to the return of their shares upon the expiration of the original term.

Section 7.31 Voting Agreements.

Proposed subsection 7.31(a) explicitly recognizes agreements among two or more shareholders as to the voting of shares and makes clear that these agreements are not subject to the rules relating to a voting trust. These agreements are often referred to as "pooling agreements." The only formal requirements are that they be in writing and signed by all the participating shareholders; in other respects their validity is to be judged as any other contract. See generally Winsor v. Commonwealth Coal Co., 63 Wash. 62 (1911). They are not subject to the 10-year limitations applicable to voting trusts.

Proposed subsection 7.31(b) provides that voting agreements may be specifically enforceable. A voting agreement may provide its own enforcement mechanism, as by the appointment of a proxy to vote all shares subject to the agreement; the appointment may be made irrevocable under Proposed section 7.22. If no enforcement mechanism is provided, a court may order specific enforcement of the agreement and order the votes cast as the agreement contemplates. To the extent that this result is contrary to Gleason v. Earles, 78 Wash. 491 (1914) (holding specific performance would not be ordered where the voting agreement concerned shares of a bank), that case would be overruled by the Proposed section. This section recognizes that damages are not likely to be an appropriate remedy for breach of a voting agreement, and also avoids the result reached in Ringling Bros. Barnum & Bailey Combined Shows v. Ringling, 53 A.2d 441 (Del. 1947), where the court held that the appropriate remedy to enforce a pooling agreement was to refuse to permit any voting of the breaching party's shares.

Section 7.40 Procedure In Derivative Proceedings.

Proposed section 7.40 deals with the procedural requirements applicable to derivative suits. A great deal of controversy has surrounded the derivative suit, and widely different perceptions as to the value and efficacy of this litigation continue to exist. On the one hand, the derivative action has historically been the principal method of challenging allegedly improper, illegal, or unreasonable action by management. On the other hand, it has long been recognized that the derivative suit may be instituted more with a view to obtaining a settlement favorable to the plaintiff and the plaintiff's attorney than to righting a wrong to the corporation (the so-called "strike suit").

Old RCW 23A.08.460, and similar statutes in many states, imposed a series of procedural requirements designed in part to deter or prevent strike suits. Fed. R. Civ. P. 23.1, and Wash. R. Civ. P. 23.1, also impose procedural requirements on derivative litigation brought in federal and state courts, respectively. There has thus been a great deal of experience with procedural devices to control abuses of the derivative suit. Proposed section 7.40 reflects a reappraisal of these devices in light of major developments in corporate governance, the public demand for corporate accountability, and the corporate response in the form of greater independence and sense of responsibility in boards of directors. It is also adopted with the expectation that future developments (e.g., a new Revised Model Act provision: an ALI provision) will cause reexamination of the provision in the near future.

1. PROCEDURAL REQUIREMENTS

The procedural requirements imposed by Proposed section 7.40 are as follows:

a. The plaintiff may be either a registered or beneficial owner of shares held by a nominee in the beneficial owner's behalf

Many statutes, and old RCW 23A.08.460, required the plaintiff to be a shareholder "of record." This limiting requirement was dropped, in light of the widespread use of street name or nominee ownership of shares. At the same time, it was determined that, in accord with old RCW 23A.08.460, the beneficial owner of shares held in a voting trust should also be permitted to serve as a plaintiff in a derivative suit. These changes were accomplished by the addition of a special definition of "shareholder" in subsection (e) to broaden the definition of that term in section 1.40.

b. The plaintiff must have been an owner of shares at the time of the transaction in question

The statutes of many states and old RCW 23A.08.460 have long imposed a "contemporaneous ownership" rule, i.e., the plaintiff must have been an owner of shares at the time of the transaction in question. This rule has been criticized as being unduly narrow and technical and unnecessary to prevent the transfer or purchase of lawsuits. A few states, particularly California, Cal. G.C.L. section 800(B), have relaxed this rule to the extent of allowing some subsequent purchasers of shares to be plaintiffs in limited circumstances.

The decision to retain the contemporaneous ownership rule in Proposed section 7.40 was based primarily on the view that it was simple, clear, and easy to apply while the California approach might encourage litigation on peripheral issues like the extent of the plaintiff's knowledge of the transaction in question when the plaintiff acquired the plaintiff's shares. Further, there has been no persuasive showing that the contemporaneous ownership rule has prevented the litigation of substantial suits since there appear to be many persons who might qualify as plaintiffs to bring suit even if subsequent purchasers are disqualified.

c. The complaint must be verified

Proposed subsection 7.40(b) requires the complaint in a derivative suit to be verified, i.e., sworn to. Compare Fed. R. Civ. P. 23.1; Wash. R. Civ. P. 23.1; Surowitz v. Hilton Hotels Corp., 383 U.S. 363 (1966). This requirement provides some protection against groundless litigation without deterring suits brought in good faith.

d. Option holders and convertible debenture holders are not permitted to sue Arguments may be made that long-term creditors and investors with the privilege of becoming shareholders by the exercise of options or conversion rights should be permitted to bring derivative suits. These arguments, however, appear to involve the substantive rights of these various classes of investors more than the procedures required for the assertion of derivative rights on behalf of the corporation. See, e.g., Harff v. Kerkorian, 324 A.2d 215 (Del. Ch. 1974), rev'd in part, 347 A.2d 133 (Del. 1975). Therefore, Proposed subsection 7.40(a) does not permit option holders or convertible debenture holders to serve as derivative plaintiffs.

e. There must be prior notice and demand on directors in most circumstances

The purpose of a demand on the board of directors is to stimulate the board of directors to enforce the rights of the corporation on its own. Modern trends in corporate governance--particularly the increasing number of outside directors and greater director sensitivity to their roles in the corporation and to the possibility of personal liability--improve the likelihood that the board of directors will weigh carefully the shareholder's demand. Therefore, Proposed subsection 7.40(b) requires an allegation with particularity of the demand made, if any, on the board of directors. On the other hand, there may be circumstances showing that a demand on the board of directors would be useless, and in those circumstances it should be sufficient to allege the reasons why the plaintiff did not make the demand.

Of itself, the rejection by the board of directors of the shareholder's demand neither permits nor precludes the shareholder's suit. See paragraph 2a. below.

f. There need be no prior notice to or demand on shareholders

Rule 23.1 of the Fed. R. Civ. P. (and Wash. R. Civ. P. 23.1) requires that, in addition to a demand on the board of directors, a demand be made on shareholders "if necessary." The statutes of a number of states, including California and New York, require demands only on boards of directors.

Although a demand on shareholders seems generally consistent with the broad doctrine of requiring exhaustion of all internal avenues of relief before commencement of suit, the board of directors, not the shareholders, is charged with governance of the corporation, including the commencement and management of litigation. Further, to require a demand on shareholders would virtually require the plaintiff to engage in a preliminary proxy contest and, in the case of publicly held corporations, would greatly increase the cost of filing all derivative suits, discouraging even legitimate cases.

For these reasons, it was concluded that the requirement of a demand on shareholders would add uncertainty, expense, and delay without commensurately improving the prospects of resolving the substantive issues.

g. A court may stay a derivative suit while the board of directors investigates

The last sentence of Proposed subsection 7.40(b) provides that if the corporation undertakes an investigation, the court may stay the proceeding until the investigation of the charges made in the demand or complaint is completed. The purpose of this stay is to preserve the right of the board of directors to consider whether or not to seek to enforce on its own the corporation's claim.

h. Plaintiffs are not required to post bond as security for expenses

Old RCW 23A.08.460 paragraph 3 and the statutes of many states required a plaintiff to give security for reasonable expenses, including attorneys' fees, if the plaintiff's holdings of shares did not reach a specified size or value—five percent of the outstanding shares or a value of $25,000. This requirement has been deleted. The security for expenses requirement, to the extent it was based on the size or value of the plaintiff's holdings rather than on the apparent good faith of the plaintiff's claim, was subject to criticism that it unreasonably discriminated against small shareholders.

The basic policy question with respect to the requirement of a bond for small shareholders is how far to go in protecting the corporation and its officers and directors from suits. The choice is between making the right to sue widely available, without obstacles except in obviously baseless cases, or imposing obstacles in the way of the small shareholder without imposing a similar obstacle in the way of the large shareholder. Moreover, no bond requirement exists for class actions, antitrust cases, or individual actions for personal injury, all of which involve the corporation in substantial expense of defending against suit.

Several states have concluded on the basis of these considerations that the bond requirement for small plaintiffs should be repealed or not adopted.

i. Recovery of reasonable expenses of suit, including attorneys' fees, if suit is brought without good cause

In lieu of the bond requirement, Proposed subsection 7.40(d) provides that on termination of a proceeding the court may require the complainant to pay the defendants' reasonable expenses, including attorneys' fees, if it finds that the proceeding "was commenced without reasonable cause." This test is similar to but not identical with the test utilized in Proposed section 13.31, relating to dissenters' rights, where the standard for award of expenses and attorneys' fees is that dissenters "acted arbitrarily, vexatiously or not in good faith" in demanding a judicial appraisal of their shares. The derivative action situation is sufficiently different from the dissenters' rights situation to justify a different and less onerous test for imposing costs on the plaintiff. The test of Proposed subsection 7.40(d) that the action was brought without reasonable cause is appropriate to deter strike suits, on the one hand, and on the other hand to protect plaintiffs whose suits have a reasonable foundation.

Proposed subsection 7.40(d) does not refer to the award of expenses, including attorneys' fees, to successful plaintiffs. The right of successful plaintiffs in derivative suits to this recovery is so universally recognized, both by statute and on the theory of a recovery of a fund or benefit for the corporation, that specific reference was thought to be unnecessary. The intention is to preserve fully these nonstatutory rights of reimbursement. Therefore, no negative inference should be drawn from Proposed subsection 7.40(d) as to the rights of plaintiffs to reimbursement.

Abuses in the conduct of derivative litigation may occur on the part of defendants and their counsel as well as by plaintiffs and their counsel. Abuses may occur with respect to motions, pleadings, requests for discovery and resistance to discovery when conducted either in bad faith or without good cause. Sanctions to deal with such conduct are not included in this Act because courts possess adequate power to impose appropriate sanctions under rules of civil procedure or the

j. Settlement or discontinuance of derivative litigation requires judicial approval

Proposed subsection 7.40(c) follows the Fed. R. Civ. P. 23.1, Wash. R. Civ. P. 23.1, and the statutes of a number of states, including New York and Michigan, and requires that all proposed settlements and discontinuances must receive judicial approval. This requirement seems a natural consequence of the proposition that a derivative suit is brought on behalf of the class of all shareholders and avoids many of the evils of the strike suit by preventing the individual shareholder-plaintiff from settling privately with the defendants.

Proposed subsection 7.40(c) also requires notice to all affected shareholders if the court determines that the proposed settlement may substantially affect the interest of one or more classes of shareholders. Unlike the statutes of some states, however, Proposed subsection 7.40(c) does not address the issue of which party should bear the cost of giving this notice. That is a matter left to the discretion of the court reviewing the proposed settlement.

2. ISSUES UNRESOLVED BY PROPOSED SECTION 7.40

Several issues relating to Proposed section 7.40 were reserved for future consideration because it was felt that further experience or experimentation was desirable before their resolution was encapsulated in statutory language. The issues so reserved include the following:

a. Should a decision by the board of directors that maintenance of a derivative suit is against the corporation's interest bar the suit?

The case law concerning the power of the board of directors or of an independent committee of the board to bar a derivative suit without judicial review is in a state of flux. See, e.g., Burks v. Lasker, 441 U.S. 471 (1979); Auerbach v. Bennett, 393 N.E.2d 994 (1979); Zapata Corp. v. Maldonado, 430 A.2d 779 (Del. 1981); Aronson v. Lewis, 473 A.2d 805 (Del. 1984). For the present it should be permitted to continue to develop.

b. Should the method of calculating attorneys' fees be specified?

Courts are today scrutinizing plaintiffs' fees more closely than they have in the past. This trend should be encouraged, and it was therefore concluded that the subject was not appropriate for statutory language at the present time. It is believed that the problem is more acute with respect to plaintiffs' fees recoverable under general principles of derivative litigation than it is under Proposed subsection 7.40(d).

CHAPTER 8. DIRECTORS AND OFFICERS

Section 8.01 Requirement For and Duties Of Board of Directors.

Proposed section 8.01 requires that every corporation have a board of directors except that a corporation may dispense with or limit the authority of the board of directors by describing in the articles "who will perform some or all of the duties of a board of directors." Proposed subsection 8.01(c).

Obviously, some form of governance is necessary for every corporation. The board of directors is the traditional form of corporate governance but it need not be the exclusive form. Patterns of management may be tailored to specific needs in connection with family controlled enterprises, wholly or partially owned subsidiaries, or corporate joint ventures. The persons who perform some or all of the duties of the board of directors may be designated "trustees," "agents," or "managers," and they may be selected in ways other than the traditional election by the shareholders. It is necessary, however, that some person or group perform these duties, and the designated persons, while performing them, are subjected to the same duties as directors.

Proposed subsection 8.01(b) states that if a corporation has a board of directors "all corporate powers shall be exercised by or under the authority of, and the business and affairs of the corporation managed under the direction of," the board of directors. The quoted language is chosen to reflect the role and functions of boards of directors in all varieties of corporations. In a small corporation and in some larger corporations where the board of directors is composed entirely of persons actively involved in the management of the corporate business, it may be reasonable to describe management as being "by" the board of directors. But a different model is appropriate for the boards of directors of publicly held corporations, which usually include individuals not actively involved in management. In these corporations the appropriate model is that the business and affairs be managed "under the direction of" the board of directors, since the role of the board of directors consists principally of the formulation of major management policy with little or no direct involvement in day-to-day management.

As a corollary, in large and complex publicly held corporations it is generally recognized that boards of directors delegate to appropriate officers those powers not required by law to be exercised by the board of directors itself. Although delegation does not relieve the board of directors from its responsibilities of oversight, directors should not be held personally responsible for actions or omissions of officers, employees, or agents of the corporation so long as the directors have acted reasonably in delegating authority to others.

Proposed subsection 8.01(b) also recognizes that the powers of the board of directors may be limited by express provisions in the articles of incorporation.

In the event a corporation elects, pursuant to Proposed subsection 8.01(c), to dispense with the board of directors, its articles of incorporation must describe who will perform some or all of the duties of the board of directors. (E.g., "the corporation has no board of directors. Its corporate powers shall be exercised by or under the authority of, and its business and affairs shall be managed under the direction of, its shareholders.") Proposed section 16.22 requires that the annual report to be filed with the secretary of state must set forth the names and addresses of persons performing the directors' functions.

Section 8.02 Qualifications of Directors.

The elimination of statutory qualifications for directors is now nearly universal. The articles of incorporation or bylaws, however, may prescribe special qualifications, an option that is most likely to be utilized in closely held corporations where qualifications for directors may be used as a device for ensuring representation and voting power on the board of directors.

Section 8.03 Number and Election of Directors.

Proposed section 8.03 prescribes rules for the determination of the size of the board of directors of corporations that have not dispensed with a board of directors under Proposed subsection 8.01(c). Proposed subsection 8.03(a) provides that the size of the initial board of directors may be "specified in or fixed in accordance with" the articles of incorporation or bylaws. The size of the board of directors may thus be fixed initially in the fundamental corporate documents, or the decisions as to the size of the initial board of directors may be made thereafter by those authorized in those documents.

The committee did not adopt RMA section 8.03(b) and (c), related, respectively, to limits on the power of the board of directors to fix or change the number of directors, and to article of incorporation or bylaw provisions regarding a variable range for the size of the board of directors and changes therein. The committee believes that Proposed subsection 8.03(a) is a sufficiently broad grant of authority to empower a corporation, by means of an article of incorporation or bylaw provision, to establish a variable range for the size of the board of directors. It further believes that restrictions on the power of directors to fix or change the number of directors, or on the power of directors either to change the size of a variable range board of directors, or to change from a fixed to a variable-range board, can be imposed by shareholders in either the articles of incorporation or the bylaws as part of the basic planning for the control structure. It thus concluded that sections RMA 8.03(b) and (c) were unduly confining.

Proposed subsection 8.03(b) makes it clear that all directors are elected annually unless the board is staggered. See Proposed section 8.05.

Section 8.04 Election of Directors By Certain Classes or Series of Shares.

Proposed section 8.04 makes explicit that the articles of incorporation may provide that a specified number (or all) of the directors may be elected by the holders of one or more classes or series of shares. This approach is widely used in closely held corporations to effect an agreed upon allocation of control, for example, to ensure minority representation on the board of directors by issuing to that minority a class or series of shares entitled to elect one or more directors. A class (or classes) or series of shares entitled to elect separately one or more directors constitutes a separate voting group for purposes of the election of directors; within each voting group directors are elected by a plurality of votes and quorum and voting requirements must be separately met by each voting group. See Proposed sections 7.25, 7.26, and 7.28.

Section 8.05 Terms of Directors Generally.

Proposed section 8.05 provides for the annual election of directors at the annual shareholders' meeting with the single exception that terms may be staggered as permitted in Proposed section 8.06.

Proposed subsection 8.05(c) provides that a decrease in the number of directors does not shorten the term of an incumbent director. Rather, the incumbent director's term expires at the annual meeting at which the director's successor would otherwise be elected.

Proposed subsection 8.05(d) provides that the terms of all directors elected to fill vacancies expire at the next meeting of shareholders at which directors are elected. Thus, if terms are staggered under Proposed section 8.06, the term of a director elected to fill a vacant term with more than a year to run is shorter than the term of that director's predecessor. The board of directors may take appropriate steps, by designation of short terms or otherwise, to return the rotation of election of directors to the original terms established or fixed by the articles or bylaws.

Proposed subsection 8.05(e) provides for "holdover" directors so that directorships do not automatically become vacant at the expiration of their terms but the same persons continue in office until successors qualify for office. Thus the power of the board of directors to act continues uninterrupted even though an annual shareholders' meeting is not held or the shareholders are deadlocked and unable to elect directors at the meeting.

Section 8.06 Staggered Terms For Directors.

The Committee believes that the only justification for imposing a board-size limitation on the corporations eligible to elect staggered terms relates to the operation of cumulative voting. That belief led to the two changes made in RMA section 8.06: (1) the addition of subsection 8.06(b) requiring corporations with cumulative voting to elect at least three directors at each annual shareholders' meeting; and (2) the deletion of a size limitation (in RMA section 8.06, nine or more directors) for corporations with straight voting.

Proposed section 8.06 recognizes the practice of "classifying" the board or "staggering" the terms of directors so that only one-half or one-third of them are elected at each annual shareholders' meeting and directors are elected for two- or three-year terms rather than one-year terms.

Under Proposed subsection 8.06(b) if the corporation has cumulative voting, at least three directors must be elected at each annual meeting. These directors may be elected by one or more voting groups, as provided in the articles of incorporation.

The principal justification for staggering the board today is that it protects against sudden change in the management of the corporation despite a change in shareholdings. It also reduces the impact of cumulative voting since a greater number of votes is required to elect a director if the board is staggered than is required if the entire board were elected at each annual meeting.

The staggered board of directors is sometimes used by incumbent management to make unwanted takeover attempts more difficult to effectuate. It is unlikely to be effective alone, however, since the shareholders may in any event remove directors under Proposed section 8.08 whether or not their terms are staggered. As a result, a staggered board is likely to be used for this purpose only in conjunction with a provision that directors may be removed only for cause.

Section 8.07 Resignation of Directors.

The resignation of a director is effective when the written notice is delivered unless the notice specifies a later effective date, in which case the director continues to serve until the later date. Since the person giving the notice is still a member of the board, the director may participate in all decisions until the specified date, including the choice of the director's successor under Proposed section 8.10. The participation of the retiring director in the decision on the director's successor may be of importance in closely held corporations where control of the board may be affected by the resignation.

When vacancies are created by a resignation effective at a later date, under Proposed section 8.10 action may be taken before that date to fill the vacancy.

Section 8.08 Removal of Directors by Shareholders.

Proposed subsection 8.08(a) accepts the view that since the shareholders are the owners of the corporation, they should normally have the power to change the directors at will. This section reverses the common law position that directors have a statutory entitlement to their office and can be removed only for cause—fraud, criminal conduct, gross abuse of office amounting to a breach of trust, or similar conduct. The power to remove directors is subject to several restrictions set forth in Proposed section 8.08:

(1) The power to remove a director without cause may be eliminated by a provision in the articles of incorporation. Such a provision in effect guarantees the directors the same entitlement to office that directors enjoyed at common law. It is likely to be used in closely held corporations as an element of an agreed-upon allocation of power and control which ensures directors immunity from removal except for cause. It may also be used in publicly held corporations that fear changes in ownership of the majority of the shares and desire to provide security to the directors.

(2) If the articles of incorporation provide that one or more classes or series of shares constitute a separate voting group entitled to elect a director (see Proposed section 8.04), only the shareholders of that voting group may participate in the vote whether or not to remove that director. But that director may be removed by court proceeding under Proposed section 8.09 despite this section.

(3) If cumulative voting is not authorized, a director is removed only if the votes cast to remove the director exceed the votes cast to retain the director at a meeting of the voting group electing the director at which a quorum of shares entitled to vote on the director's election is present. This is a significant change from the old rule which required the vote of a majority of shares entitled to a vote at an election of directors.

(4) If cumulative voting is authorized, a different standard for removal is involved. Under cumulative voting, a director may be removed only if the votes cast in favor of retaining the director would not have been sufficient to elect the director pursuant to cumulative voting at that meeting. This provision guarantees that a minority faction with sufficient votes to guarantee the election of a director under cumulative voting will be able to protect that director from removal by the remaining shareholders. The director, however, may be removed by court proceeding under Proposed section 8.09 despite this section. In computing whether or not a director elected by cumulative voting is protected from removal from office by Proposed subsection 8.08(c), the votes should be counted as though (1) the vote to remove the director occurred in an election to elect the number of directors normally elected by the voting group along with the director whose removal is sought, (2) the number of votes cast cumulatively against removal of the director had been cast for the director's election, and (3) all votes cast for removal of the director had been cast cumulatively in an efficient pattern for the election of a sufficient number of candidates so as to deprive the director whose removal is being sought of the director's office.

Removal of directors under the Proposed subsection 8.08(d) requires the meeting notice to state that removal of specific directors will be proposed. The Committee added the requirement that removal occur only at a special meeting of shareholders, in order to maximize the shareholders' interest in the proceedings. Such requirement need not impose extra expense on the corporation as the special meeting may be held concurrently with the corporation's annual meeting.

Section 8.09 Removal of Directors By Judicial Proceeding.

Proposed section 8.09 authorizes the removal of a director who is found in a judicial proceeding to have engaged in fraudulent or dishonest conduct with respect to the corporation. For example, a judicial proceeding (as contrasted with removal under Proposed section 8.08) may be necessary or appropriate in the following situations:

(1) In a closely held corporation, the director charged with misconduct is elected by voting group or cumulative voting, and the shareholders with power to prevent the director's removal exercise that power despite the existence of fraudulent or dishonest conduct. The classic example is where the director charged with misconduct possesses sufficient votes to prevent the director's own removal and exercises such voting power to that end.

(2) In a publicly held corporation, the director charged with misconduct declines to resign, though urged to do so, and because of the large number of widely scattered shareholders, a special shareholders' meeting can be held only after a period of delay and at considerable expense.

A shareholder who owns less than 10 percent of the outstanding shares of the corporation may bring suit derivatively in the name of the corporation under this section upon compliance with the requirements of Proposed section 7.40. A shareholder who owns at least 10 percent of the outstanding shares of the corporation may maintain suit in the shareholder's own name and own right without compliance with Proposed section 7.40. But in such a case the corporation must be made a party defendant to the proceeding. See Proposed subsection 8.09(c).

The purpose of Proposed section 8.09 is to permit the prompt and efficient removal of directors found by the court to have engaged in fraudulent or dishonest conduct with respect to the corporation. It is not intended to permit judicial resolution of internal corporate struggles for control except in those cases in which a court finds that the director has been guilty of wrongful conduct of the type described. The provision is also not intended as a basis for removing a director whose misconduct is not with respect to the corporation (even though such conduct is possibly embarrassing to the corporation).

The Committee deleted the RMA language that would have permitted a court to remove a director found to have engaged in gross abuse of authority or discretion. The Committee believed such language was so general as to be meaningless.

Section 8.10 Vacancy On Board of Directors.

Vacancies on the board of directors may be filled either by the shareholders or by the board of directors. In large corporations the cost of calling a special meeting of shareholders may be prohibitive so that in those corporations filling vacancies by the board of directors is the norm. On the other hand, in a closely held corporation the shareholders may fill vacancies as readily as the board.

Proposed subsection 8.10(a)(3) allows the directors remaining in office to fill vacancies even though they are fewer than a quorum. The test for the exercise of this power is whether the directors remaining in office are fewer than a quorum, not whether the directors seeking to act are fewer than a quorum. For example, on a board of six directors where a quorum is four, if there are two vacancies, they may not be filled under Proposed subsection 8.10(a)(3) at a "meeting" attended by only three directors. Even though the three directors are fewer than a quorum, Proposed subsection 8.10(a)(3) is not applicable because the number of directors remaining in office--four--is not fewer than a quorum.

Proposed subsection 8.10(b) provides that if holders of one or more authorized classes or series of shares is entitled to elect a director, only holders of those classes or series of shares are entitled to fill a vacant office which was held by a director elected by that voting group. This section is part of the consistent treatment of directors elected by a voting group of shareholders. See Proposed sections 1.40, 7.25, 7.26, 7.28, and 8.04 and Proposed subsection 8.08(b).

Proposed subsection 8.10(c) permits vacancies that will arise on a specific later date to be filled in advance of that date so long as the designee does not actually take office until the vacancy occurs. The director in the office that will become vacant may participate in the selection of his successor. A vacancy arising at a later date is most likely to arise because of a resignation effective at a later date; it may also arise in connection with retirements or with prospective amendments to bylaws. In a closely held corporation with a balance of power on the board of directors that was reached by agreement, a prospective resignation followed by the appointment of a successor under this section permits the board to act on the replacement before the change in balance caused by the resignation.

Section 8.11 Compensation of Directors.

This section puts at rest the question whether the board of directors can fix the compensation of its members for serving as directors. The practice of compensating directors is now of long standing, and the establishment of a policy with respect to director compensation is an appropriate function of the board of directors.

In publicly held corporations, compensation is customarily provided to nonmanagement directors. As stated in The Corporate Director's Guidebook, "... it is expected that a nonmanagement director will devote substantial attention to the affairs of the corporation and will be compensated accordingly." 33 BUS.LAW. 1591, 1622 (1978).

Section 8.20 Meetings and Action of the Board.

This section authorizes meetings of directors anywhere. No distinction is made between meetings in-state and out-of-state. It also authorizes any or all directors to participate in a meeting by the use of any means of communication by which all directors participating can hear each other. A person participating in this fashion is deemed to be present in person at the meeting for purposes of quorum and voting requirements.

With the development of modern electronic technology, it is possible that most of the advantages of the traditional meeting, at which all members are present at a single place, may be obtained even though the members are physically dispersed and no two directors are present at the same place. The advantages of the traditional meeting is the opportunity for interchange that is permitted by a meeting in a single room at which members are physically present. The opportunity for interchange is provided by conference call technology. Thus, a meeting may be conducted by electronic means although no two directors are physically present at the same place and no specific place for the meeting is designated.

The Committee rejected RMA language that gave directors the discretion to decide whether to permit a director to participate in a meeting by conference communication technology. The Committee felt that such discretion could too easily be abused, with serious consequences on the possibility of certain directors participating in director deliberations. The Committee also rejected the RMA requirement that all directors participating in the meeting be able to simultaneously hear each other during the meeting. Such requirement would eliminate communications equipment whereby the speaker cannot hear other persons speaking at the same time.

Section 8.21 Action Without Meeting.

The power of the board of directors to act unanimously without a meeting is based on the pragmatic consideration that in many situations a formal meeting is a waste of time. For example, in a closely held corporation there will often be informal discussion by the manager-owners of the venture before a decision is made. And, of course, if there is only a single director (as is permitted by Proposed section 8.03), a written consent is the natural method of signifying director action. Consent may be signified on one or more documents if desirable.

In publicly held corporations, meetings of the board of directors may be appropriate for many actions. But there will always be situations where prompt action is necessary and the decision noncontroversial, so that approval without a meeting may be appropriate.

Under Proposed section 8.21 the requirement of unanimous consent precludes the possibility of stifling or ignoring opposing argument. A director opposed to an action that is proposed to be taken by unanimous consent, or uncertain about the desirability of that action, may compel the holding of a directors' meeting to discuss the matter simply by withholding the director's consent.

Section 8.22 Notice of Meeting.

Regular meetings of the board of directors may be held without notice and special meetings require only two days' notice unless other requirements are imposed by the articles of incorporation or bylaws. The notice may be written, or oral if expressly authorized by the articles of incorporation or bylaws. See Proposed section 1.41. Also, no statement of the purpose of either a regular or special meeting is necessary unless required by the articles of incorporation or bylaws. These requirements differ from the requirements applicable to meetings of shareholders because of fundamental differences in their roles: directors are expected to be more closely involved in corporate affairs than shareholders, and meetings of directors are held more systematically and regularly than meetings of shareholders.

Section 8.23 Waiver of Notice.

Proposed subsection 8.23(a) continues the old law authorizing waivers of notice by directors after the date and time of the meeting. In modern practice notice is often a technical requirement and waivers should be freely permitted.

Proposed subsection 8.23(b) recognizes that the function of notice is to inform directors of a meeting. If a director actually appears at the meeting the director has probably had notice of it and generally should not be able to object to lack of notice. In cases where actual prejudice occurs because of the lack of notice, as may be indicated by the absence of one or more other directors, the director must call attention to the defect at the outset of the meeting or promptly upon the director's arrival. That director, or a director who did not receive notice and was not present at the meeting, may then attack the validity of the action taken for want of notice. If a director properly objects to the meeting being held, the director is not presumed to have assented to actions taken thereafter, but the director waives any objection if the director thereafter votes for or assents to action taken at the meeting. See Proposed subsection 8.24(d).

Section 8.24 Quorum and Voting.

In the absence of a provision in the articles of incorporation or bylaws, a quorum is a majority of the number of directors specified in or fixed in accordance with the articles of incorporation or bylaws.

Proposed subsection 8.24(b) provides that the articles of incorporation or bylaws may decrease the size of the quorum to not less than one-third of the number of directors determined under Proposed subsection 8.24(a).

Proposed subsection 8.24(a) allows the articles of incorporation or bylaws to increase the quorum up to and including unanimity while Proposed subsection 8.24(c) allows these documents similarly to increase the vote necessary to take action. The articles of incorporation or bylaws may also establish quorum or voting requirements with respect to directors elected by voting groups of shareholders pursuant to Proposed section 8.04. The option to increase either or both the vote and quorum requirements most commonly is exercised in closely held corporations where a greater degree of participation is thought appropriate or where a minority participant in the venture seeks to obtain a veto power over corporate action.

The phrase "when the vote is taken" in Proposed subsection 8.24(c) is designed to make clear that the board of directors may act only when a quorum is present. If directors leave during the course of a meeting, the board of directors may not act after the number of directors present is reduced to less than a quorum.

Under Proposed subsection 8.24(d) directors, if they object or abstain with respect to action taken by the board of directors, must make their position clear in one of the ways described in this subsection. If objection is made in the form of a written dissent, it may be transmitted by wire, telecopier, or other medium of data transmission. This written objection serves the important purpose of forcefully bringing the position of the dissenting member to the attention of the balance of the board of directors. The requirement of a written objection also prevents a director from later seeking to avoid responsibility because of secret doubts about the wisdom of the action taken. The right of dissent or abstention is not available to a director who voted in favor of the action taken.

Proposed subsection 8.24(d) applies only to directors who are present at the meeting. Directors who are not present are not deemed to have assented to any action taken at the meeting in their absence.

The Committee altered RMA section 8.24(d) to permit dissenting or abstaining directors to deliver written notice of dissent or abstention within a reasonable time (rather than immediately, as in RMA 8.24(d)) after adjournment of the meeting. Such change was designed to accommodate the director who does not find out the director's dissent or abstention was not included in the minutes of the meeting until the minutes were distributed to members of the board.

The Committee also deleted the reference to a committee of a board of directors from RMA section 8.24(d) on the ground that Proposed subsection 8.25(c) extends the provisions of Proposed section 8.24 to committees and members of committees.

Section 8.25 Committees.

Proposed section 8.25 makes explicit the power of a board of directors to act through committees of directors and specifies the powers of the board of directors that are nondelegable, that is, powers that only the full board of directors may exercise. Proposed section 8.25 deals only with committees made up of members of the board of directors exercising the functions of the board of directors; the board of directors or management, independently of Proposed section 8.25, may establish nonboard committees composed of directors, employees, or others to deal with corporate powers not required to be exercised by the board of directors.

Proposed subsection 8.25(b) provides that a committee of the board of directors may be created only by the affirmative vote of a majority of the board of directors then in office, or, if greater, by the number of directors required to take action by the articles of incorporation or the bylaws. This supermajority requirement reflects the importance of the decision to invest board committees with power to act under Proposed section 8.25.

Committees of the board of directors are assuming increasingly important roles in the governance of publicly held corporations. See "The Corporate Director's Guidebook," 33 BUS. LAW. 1591 (1978); "The Overview Committees of the Board of Directors," 35 BUS. LAW. 1335 (1980). Executive committees have long provided guidance to management between meetings of the full board of directors. Audit committees also have a long history of performing essential review and control functions on behalf of the board of directors. In recent years nominating and compensation committees, composed primarily or entirely of nonmanagement directors, have also become more widely used by publicly held corporations.

Proposed section 8.25 establishes the desirable and appropriate role of director committees in light of competing considerations: on the one hand, it seems clear that appropriate board committee action is not only desirable but also is likely to improve the functioning of larger and more diffuse boards of directors; on the other hand, wholesale delegation of authority to a board committee, to the point of abdication of director responsibility as a board of directors, is manifestly inappropriate and undesirable. Overbroad delegation also increases the potential, where the board of directors is divided, for usurpation of basic board functions by means of delegation to a committee dominated by one faction.

The statement of nondelegable functions set out in Proposed subsection 8.25(e) is based on the principle that prohibitions against delegation should be limited generally to actions substantially affecting the rights of shareholders among themselves as shareholders and specifically to (1) those matters that have immediate and irrevocable effect, (2) those matters that may well become irrevocable without swift action, and (3) those matters that will cause changes of position by others that cannot be rectified. As a result, delegation of authority to committees under Proposed subsection 8.25(e) may be broader than mere authority to act with respect to matters arising within the ordinary course of business. The ordinary course of business standard for delegation was rejected as being too narrow and inappropriate for many modern corporations. For example, although Proposed subsection 8.25(e)(7) makes nondelegable the decision whether to issue and sell shares or create a class or series of shares with designated rights and preferences, it permits the board of directors to delegate to a committee (within limits specifically prescribed by the board of directors) the important but more limited functions of fixing the specific terms—including without limitation, the price, the dividend rate, provisions for redemption, sinking fund, conversion, voting or preferential rights, and provisions for other features of a class or series of shares. The committee may also be empowered to adopt any final resolution setting forth the terms and to authorize the appropriate filing with the secretary of state required by this title. Thus, terms of the sale of shares may be set quickly and upon the most accurate information without necessarily involving a meeting of the full board of directors. The phrase "(or senior executive officer of the corporation)" also permits these functions to be delegated to the chief financial officer or other appropriate officer of the corporation. The subsection also permits delegation to a committee of authority to determine the terms of a contract or option for the sale of shares if the board prescribes specific limits in a stock option plan or otherwise. This delegation avoids requiring involvement of the full board in the details of the administration of stock option or other compensation plans.

Proposed subsection 8.25(e)(2) prohibits delegation of authority with respect to most mergers, sales of substantially all the assets, amendments to articles of incorporation and voluntary dissolution since most of these actions require shareholder action. In addition, Proposed subsection 8.25(e) prohibits delegation to a board committee of authority to declare distributions (unless according to a general formula or method prescribed by the full board of directors), designate director candidates for purposes of proxy solicitation, fill board vacancies, approve a so-called "short-form merger" (where the interests of the minority shareholders warrant special attention), or amend the bylaws or the articles of incorporation (without shareholder approval under section 10.02). On the other hand, under Proposed subsection 8.25(e) many actions of a material nature, such as the authorization of long-term debt and capital investment or the pricing of shares, may properly be made the subject of committee delegation.

Proposed subsection 8.25(f) makes clear that although the board of directors may delegate to a committee the authority to take action, the designation of the committee, the delegation of authority to it, and action by the committee will not alone constitute compliance by a noncommittee board member with the director's responsibility under Proposed section 8.30. On the other hand, a noncommittee director also will not automatically incur liability should the action of the particular committee fail to meet the standard of care set out in Proposed section 8.30. The noncommittee member's liability in these cases will depend upon whether the director failed to comply with Proposed subsection 8.30(d). Factors to be considered in this regard will include the care used in the delegation to and supervision over the committee, and the amount of knowledge regarding the particular matter which the noncommittee director has available. Care in delegation and supervision include appraisal of the capabilities and diligence of the committee directors in light of the subject and its relative importance and may be facilitated, in the usual case, by review of minutes and receipt of other reports concerning committee activities. The enumeration of these factors is intended to emphasize that directors may not abdicate their responsibilities and secure exoneration from liability simply by delegating authority to board committees. Rather, a director against whom liability is asserted based upon acts of a committee of which the director is not a member avoids liability if the standards contained in Proposed section 8.30 are met.

Proposed subsection 8.25(f) has no application to a member of the committee itself. The standard applicable to a committee member is set forth in Proposed subsection 8.30(a).

Section 8.30 General Standards For Directors.

Proposed section 8.30 defines the general standard of conduct for directors. It sets forth the standard by focusing on the manner in which the director performs the director's duties, not the correctness of the director's decisions. Proposed subsection 8.30(a) thus requires a director to perform the director's duties in good faith, with the care of an ordinarily prudent person in a like position and in a manner the director believes to be in the best interests of the corporation. This standard is based on the old Washington law, a number of state statutes and on judicial formulations of the duty of care applicable to directors. Proposed section 8.30 also parallels, to the extent possible, the indemnification provisions of Proposed sections 8.50 through 8.60.

In determining whether to impose liability, the courts recognize that boards of directors and corporate managers continuously make decisions that involve the balancing of risks and benefits for the enterprise. Although some decisions turn out to be unwise or the result of a mistake of judgment, it is unreasonable to reexamine these decisions with the benefit of hindsight. Therefore, a director is not liable for injury or damage caused by the director's decision, no matter how unwise or mistaken it may turn out to be, if in performing the director's duties the director met the requirements of Proposed section 8.30.

Even before statutory formulations of directors' duty of care, courts sometimes invoked the business judgment rule in determining whether to impose liability in a particular case. In doing so, courts have sometimes used language similar to the standards set forth in Proposed subsection 8.30(a). The elements of the business judgment rule and the circumstances for its application are continuing to be developed by the courts in Washington and elsewhere. Compare the requirements for the rule set forth in Nursing Home Bldg. Corp. v. De Hart, 13 Wash. App. 489 (1975), with those in Smith v. Van Gorkum, 488 A.2d 858 (Del. 1985). See also Comment, to Proposed section 8.42. In view of that continuing judicial development, Proposed section 8.30 does not try to codify the business judgment rule or to delineate the differences, if any, between that rule and the standards of director conduct set forth in this section. That is a task left to the courts.

Proposed section 8.30 should be read in light of the basic duty of directors set forth in Proposed subsection 8.01(b) that the "business and affairs of a corporation shall be managed under the direction of" the board. Since the board may delegate or assign to appropriate officers of the corporation the authority or duty to exercise powers that Proposed section 8.01 does not require the board to retain, directors are not personally responsible under Proposed section 8.30 for actions or omissions of officers, employees, or agents of the corporation so long as the directors, complying with the standard of care set forth in section 8.30, have acted reasonably in delegating responsibility.

Proposed subsection 8.30(a) establishes a general standard of care for all directors. It requires a director to exercise "the care an ordinarily prudent person in a like position would exercise." Some state statutes use the words "diligence," "care," and "skill" to define this duty. E.g., N.C. GEN. STAT. ANN. section 55-35 (1975). There is very little authority as to what "skill" and "diligence," as distinguished from "care," can be required or properly expected of corporate directors in the performance of their duties. "Skill," in the sense of technical competence in a particular field, should not be a qualification for the office of director. The concept of "diligence" is sufficiently subsumed within the concept of "care." Accordingly, the words "diligence" and "skill" were omitted from the standard adopted.

Likewise, Proposed section 8.30 does not use the term "fiduciary" in the standard for directors' conduct, because that term could be confused with the unique attributes and obligations of a fiduciary imposed by the law of trusts, some of which are not appropriate for directors of a corporation.

Several of the phrases chosen to define the general standard of care in Proposed subsection 8.30(a) deserve specific mention:

(1) The reference to "ordinarily prudent person" embodies long traditions of the common law, in contrast to suggested standards that might call for some undefined degree of expertise, like "ordinarily prudent businessperson." The phrase recognizes the need for innovation, essential to profit orientation, and focuses on the basic director attributes of common sense, practical wisdom, and informed judgment.

(2) The phrase "in a like position" recognizes that the "care" under consideration is that which would be used by the "ordinarily prudent person" if such person were a director of the particular corporation.

(3) The combined phrase "in a like position ... under similar circumstances" is intended to recognize that (a) the nature and extent of responsibilities will vary, depending upon such factors as the size, complexity, urgency, and location of activities carried on by the particular corporation, (b) decisions must be made on the basis of the information known to the directors without the benefit of hindsight, and (c) the special background, qualifications, and management responsibilities of a particular director may be relevant in evaluating the director's compliance with the standard of care. Even though the quoted phrase takes into account the special background, qualifications and management responsibilities of a particular director, it does not excuse a director lacking business experience or particular expertise from exercising the common sense, practical wisdom, and informed judgment of an "ordinarily prudent person."

The process by which a director becomes informed will vary but the duty of care requires every director to take steps to become informed about the background facts and circumstances before taking action on the matter at hand. The omission of the words "reasonable inquiry," present in the old law, is not intended to work any substantive change in the law.

In relying upon the performance by management of delegated or assigned duties pursuant to Proposed section 8.01 (including, for example, matters of law and legal compliance), the director may depend upon the presumption of regularity, absent knowledge or notice to the contrary. A director may also rely on information, opinions, reports, and statements prepared or presented by others as set forth in Proposed subsection 8.30(b).

A director complying with the standards expressed in Proposed subsection 8.30(a) is entitled to rely upon information, opinions, reports or statements, including financial statements and other financial data, prepared or presented by the persons or committees described in Proposed subsection 8.30(b). The right to rely under this section applies to the entire range of matters for which the board of directors is responsible. Under Proposed subsection 8.30(c), however, a director so relying must be without knowledge concerning the matter in question that would cause the director's reliance to be unwarranted. Also inherent in the concept of good faith is the requirement that, in order to be entitled to rely on a report, statement, opinion, or other matter, the director must have read the report or statement in question, or have been present at a meeting at which it was orally presented or summarized, or have taken other steps to become generally familiar with its contents. In short, the director must comply with the general standard of care of Proposed subsection 8.30(a) in making a judgment as to the reliability and competence of the source of information upon which the director proposes to rely.

Proposed subsection 8.30(b) permits reliance upon outside advisers, including not only those in the professional disciplines customarily supervised by state authorities, such as lawyers, accountants, and engineers, but also those in other fields involving special experience and skills, such as investment bankers, geologists, management consultants, actuaries, and real estate appraisers. The concept of "expert competence" in Proposed subsection 8.30(b)(2) embraces a wide variety of qualifications and is not limited to the more precise and narrower recognition of experts under the Securities Act of 1933. In this respect Proposed subsection 8.30(b) goes beyond many existing state business corporation acts, although several state statutes permit reliance on reports of appraisers selected with reasonable care by the board of directors and deal with the scope and nature of corporate reports and records generally.

Proposed subsection 8.30(b) permits reliance upon a committee of the board of directors when performing a supervisory or other functions. For example, there may be reliance upon an investigation undertaken by a board committee and reported to the full board of directors, which forms the basis for action by the board of directors itself. Another example is reliance upon a committee of the board of directors, such as a corporate audit committee, with respect to the ongoing role of oversight of the accounting and auditing functions of the corporation. In addition, where reliance upon information or materials prepared or presented by a board committee is not involved, a director may properly rely on dispositive action by a board committee (of which the director is not a member) empowered to act pursuant to authority delegated under Proposed section 8.25 or acting with the acquiescence of the board of directors. See Comment to Proposed section 8.25. A director may similarly rely on committees not created under Proposed section 8.25 which have nondirector members.

In conditioning reliance upon reasonable belief that the board committee merits the director's "confidence," Proposed subsection 8.30(b)(3) recognizes a difference between a board committee and an expert. In Proposed subsections 8.30(b)(1) and (2) the reference is to "competence of an expert," which recognizes the expectation of experience and in most instances technical skills on the part of those upon whom the director may rely. In Proposed subsection 8.30(b)(3), the concept of "confidence" is substituted for "competence" in order to avoid any inference that technical skills are a prerequisite.

By identifying those upon whom a director may rely in discharging the director's duties, Proposed subsection 8.30(b) does not limit the ability of directors to delegate their powers under Proposed sections 8.01(a) and 8.25 to committees of the board of directors or officers of the corporation, except where this delegation is expressly prohibited by the Proposed Act. Delegation should be carried out in accordance with the standards set forth in Proposed subsection 8.30(a).

Proposed subsection 8.30(c) expressly prevents a director from "hiding his or her head in the sand" and relying on information, opinions, reports, or statements when the director has actual knowledge which makes reliance unwarranted.

Proposed subsection 8.30(d) is self-executing, and the individual director's exoneration from liability is automatic. If compliance with the standard of conduct set forth in Proposed section 8.30 is established, there is no need to consider possible application of the business judgment rule. The possible application of the business judgment rule need only be considered if compliance with the standard of conduct set forth in Proposed section 8.30 is not established.

Proposed subsection 8.30(d) makes clear that the section will apply whether or not affirmative action was in fact taken. If the board of directors or a committee considers an issue (such as a recommendation of independent auditors concerning the corporation's internal accounting controls) and determines not to take action, the determination not to act is protected by Proposed section 8.30. Similarly, if the board of directors or committee delegates responsibility for handling a matter to subordinates, the delegation constitutes "action" under Proposed section 8.30. Proposed subsection 8.30(d) applies (assuming its requirements are satisfied) to any conscious consideration of matters involving the affairs of the corporation. It also applies to the determination by the board of directors of which matters to address and which not to address. Proposed subsection 8.30(d) does not apply only when the director has failed to consider taking action which under the circumstances the director is obliged to consider taking.

Proposed section 8.30 generally deals only with directors. Proposed section 8.42 and its Comment explain the extent to which the provisions of Proposed section 8.30 apply to officers.

Section 8.31 Liability For Unlawful Distributions.

Although the revisions to the financial provisions of both the old and Proposed Act have simplified and rationalized the rules for determining the validity of distributions (see Proposed section 6.40), the possibility remains that a distribution may be made in violation of these rules. Proposed section 8.31 provides that if it is established that a director failed to meet the standards of conduct of Proposed section 8.30 and voted for or assented to an unlawful distribution, the director is personally liable for the portion of the distribution that exceeds the maximum amount that could have been lawfully distributed. It also expressly preserves for a director all defenses which would ordinarily be available, notably the common law business judgment rule.

The explicit reference to the availability of defenses ordinarily available to a director was not contained in the old law, and may well be unnecessary. This declaration was included in the current text for two reasons. First, Proposed section 8.31 is the only provision in the Proposed Act specifying personal liability for directors in the event of failure to comply with the statute (specifically Proposed section 6.40), and the absence of the declaration might have provided the basis for an argument that the standards for Proposed section 6.40 were different than in other cases, a result not intended by the Proposed Act. Second, the declaration was inserted to make section 8.31 congruent with the intent of Proposed subsection 8.30(d), which states that the director is automatically shielded from liability if the director's compliance with Proposed section 8.30 is established and that the application of the business judgment rule need only be considered if compliance with the standard of conduct set forth in Proposed section 8.30 is not established.

A director who is compelled to restore the amount of an unlawful distribution to the corporation is entitled to contribution from every other director who could have been held liable for the unlawful distribution. The director may also recover the amounts paid to any shareholder who accepted the payments knowing that they were in violation of the statute. A shareholder who receives a payment not knowing of its invalidity is entitled to retain it. Although no attempt has been made in the Proposed Act to work out in detail the relationship between this right of recoupment from shareholders and the right of contribution from assenting directors, it is expected that a court will equitably apportion the obligations and benefits arising from the application of the principles set forth in this section.

Proposed subsection 8.31(c) limits the time within which a proceeding may be commenced against a director for an unlawful distribution to two years after the date on which the effect of the distribution was measured.

Section 8.32 Limitation On Liability of Directors.

Proposed section 8.32 separates, for emphasis, the Washington Business Corporation Act subsection adopted in 1987 that permitted articles of incorporation to contain provisions that eliminated or limited the personal liability of directors (with stated exceptions). The Comment to the 1987 legislation follows.

1. General comments:

A number of recent events have resulted in a significant increase in the risk of liability encountered by directors of a corporation: (1) directors as a result of increased takeover and merger activity have with greater frequency been exposed to decisions in which their corporation's survival as an independent entity is involved; (2) dissatisfied shareholders have sued directors in connection with almost every hostile takeover attempt in recent years, framing complaints based on state corporation laws, securities laws, or RICO; (3) courts, as a result of decisions like Smith v. Van Gorkum, 488 A.2d 858 (Del. 1985), are perceived to have imposed more stringent standards regarding directors' disclosure, care and loyalty; and (4) insurance companies, as a result of some extraordinarily large claim settlements, either withdrew from offering directors' and officers' insurance, cancelled such policies for high-risk corporations, or rewrote such policies to enlarge exclusions, reduce coverage and substantially increase premiums.

The issue came to the attention of the WSBA Corporate Act Revision Committee this summer 1986 when several events confirmed the existence of a significant problem in Washington. Numerous companies reported either resignations of outside directors, or difficulty in obtaining qualified candidates for outside directorships. Statutes in a number of jurisdictions (e.g., Virginia, Maryland, Indiana, Missouri, Delaware, and New York) were enacted, or proposed (e.g., Texas, Michigan, Louisiana, Utah), to modify some of the legal rules thought to exacerbate the problem. Finally, a number of Washington corporations either reincorporated in a state with such legislation (e.g., Microsoft) or sought advice about such reincorporation.

The committee concluded that it was appropriate to recommend to the Board of Governors, and ultimately to the legislature, that legislation be adopted to ameliorate the problem. The committee reviewed a number of measures, including a statutory limitation on the amount of directors' liability, a change in the standard of culpability for directors, a provision authorizing shareholders' limitations on liability of directors, and a change in directors' indemnification provisions. It concluded that a combination of the last two approaches seemed most appropriate for Washington corporations.

2. Comment concerning proposed amendment to RCW 23A.12.020 (Contents Articles of Incorporation).

RCW 23A.12.020 would be amended to authorize a new optional provision in the articles of incorporation eliminating or limiting the personal liability of a director for monetary damages for conduct as a director. The provision is modelled on Delaware Gen. Corp.L. 102(b)(7) (added to that statute effective July 1, 1986). The central concept of the provision is that shareholders, as owners of a corporation, should have the right to decide whether such a limitation on liability of directors is an appropriate means of obtaining the services of qualified directors. Such limitation is analogous to trust law principles which authorize a settlor to limit the liability of a trustee for breach of trust. See 1 Restatement of Trusts (2d) 222 (1959). The exceptions to the proposed limitation on liability are also quite analogous to those set forth in the Restatement.

The proposed amendment makes a number of changes in the specific language of the Delaware provision:

(1) Delaware permits a limitation on monetary damages "for breach of fiduciary duty as a director." The Committee concluded that "breach of fiduciary duty" is not a clearly defined term, and thus might lead to litigation over its meaning or to subtleties (e.g., suits against directors for the tort of negligence.) It chose instead "for conduct as a director," which avoids the difficulties and is similar to language used in connection with indemnification under RCW 23A.08.025.

(2) Delaware excludes from the limitation liability "for any breach of the director's duty of loyalty to the corporation or its stockholders." The Committee concluded that the "duty of loyalty" is not a clearly defined term, and that the main content of such duty, receipt of personal benefit, was explicitly excluded under a later clause.

(3) Delaware excludes from the limitation liability "for acts or omissions not in good faith." The Committee concluded that "good faith" is not a clearly defined term.

(4) Delaware excepts liability "for any transaction from which the director derived an improper personal benefit." The Committee concluded that improper personal benefit was not clearly defined. It chose instead to refer to personal receipt of benefits to which the director was not entitled, language adapted from the New York indemnification statute. The proposed amendment does not affect the ability of shareholders to obtain injunctive or equitable relief against directors for any breach of duty.

Section 8.40 Officers.

Proposed section 8.40 permits every corporation to designate the officers it wants. The designation may be made in the bylaws or by the board of directors if such designation is consistent with the bylaws. This is a departure from the old law and most state corporation acts, which require certain officers, usually the president, one or more vice presidents, the secretary, and the treasurer, and generally authorize the corporation to designate additional or assistant officers. Experience has shown, however, that little purpose is served by a statutory requirement that there be certain officers, and that statutory requirements may sometimes create problems of implied or apparent authority or confusion with nonstatutory offices the corporation desires to create.

The board of directors may appoint assistant officers pursuant to its general powers under Proposed subsection 8.40(a); duly appointed officers may also appoint assistant officers if authorized by the board under Proposed subsection 8.40(b).

Throughout the Proposed Act, the act of a board designating an officer is referred to as an "appointment" rather than an "election." The Act also consistently uses the word "elect" when referring to the selection of directors, thus emphasizing the difference in the selection process.

The board of directors, as well as duly appointed corporate officers or other agents, may also appoint agents for the corporation.

The bylaws or the board of directors must also delegate to an officer the responsibility to prepare minutes and authenticating records of the corporation; the person performing this function is referred to as the "secretary" of the corporation throughout the Proposed Act. See Proposed section 1.40. Under the Proposed Act a corporation may have this and all other corporate functions performed by a single individual functioning as its only officer.

The person who is designated by the bylaws or the board as responsible for maintaining minutes of meetings and authenticating records of the corporation thereby has authority to bind the corporation by the person's authentication under this section. This delegation of authority, traditionally vested in the corporate "secretary," allows third persons to rely on authenticated records without inquiring into their truth or accuracy.

Section 8.41 Duties of Officers.

Proposed section 8.41 recognizes that persons designated as officers have the formal authority set forth for that position (1) by its description in the bylaws, (2) by specific resolution of the board of directors, or (3) by direction of another officer authorized by the board of directors to prescribe the duties of other officers.

These methods of investing officers with formal authority do not exhaust the sources of an officer's actual or apparent authority. Many cases state that specific corporate officers, particularly the chief executive officer, may have apparent authority merely by virtue of their positions. This authority, which may overlap the express authority granted by the bylaws, generally has been viewed as extending only to ordinary business transactions, though some cases have recognized usually broad apparent authority of the chief executive officer or have created a presumption that corporate officers have broad authority, thereby placing on the corporation the burden of showing lack of authority.

In addition to express, implied, or apparent authority, a corporation is normally bound by unauthorized acts of officers if they are ratified by the board of directors. Generally, ratification extends only to acts that could have been authorized as an original matter. Ratification may itself be express or implied and may in some cases serve as the basis of apparent authority.

Section 8.42 Standards of Conduct for Officers.

This section provides that a nondirector officer with discretionary authority must meet the same standards of conduct required of directors under Proposed section 8.30. But the officer's ability to rely on information, reports, or statements, may, depending upon the circumstances of the particular case, be more limited than in the case of a director in view of the greater obligation the officer may have to be familiar with the affairs of the corporation. See Proposed subsection 8.42(b). Nondirector officers with more limited discretionary authority may be judged by a narrower standard. The Comment to Proposed section 8.30 is generally applicable to nondirector officers as well as to directors.

The adoption of Proposed section 8.42 would change much of the reasoning that appears in Para-Medical Leasing, Inc. v. Hangen, 48 Wash. App. 389 (1987). In that case, the court held that the standards stated in old RCW 23A.08.343 did not apply to an officer of a corporation. It also held that the rules of agency related to an agent's duty of care to the principal did not apply to an officer. It said: "In considering the action of a corporate officer, however, the business judgment rule rather than the standard of ordinary care applies." 48 Wash. App. at 396. Adoption of Proposed section 8.42 would make clear that the standard of care prescribed therein does apply to officers with discretionary authority. Indeed, Proposed subsection 8.42(d) makes clear that if compliance with the standard of conduct set forth in the section is established, there is no need to consider application of the business judgment rule. If, on the other hand, compliance with the standard of conduct set forth in the section is not shown, possible application of the business judgment rule may be considered. But given the overlap in the requirements imposed by most courts for operation of the business judgment rule (see, e.g., Smith v. Van Gorkum, 488 A.2d 858 (Del. 1985)) and the requirements set forth in Proposed section 8.42, it would appear that there should be few cases in which a court would be able to find that an officer whose conduct failed to meet the requirements of Proposed section 8.42 nevertheless was exonerated by the business judgment rule.

Section 8.43 Resignation and Removal of Officers.

Proposed subsection 8.43(a) is declaratory of current law. It recognizes that corporate officers may resign, and that they may resign effective at a later date.

In part because of the unlimited power of removal, confirmed by Proposed subsection 8.43(b), a board of directors may grant an officer an employment contract that extends beyond the term of the board of directors. This type of contract is binding on the corporation even if the articles of incorporation or bylaws provide that officers are appointed for a term shorter than the period of the employment contract. If a later board of directors refuses to reappoint that person as an officer, the officer has the right to sue for damages but not for specific performance of the officer's employment contract.

Proposed subsection 8.43(b) is also declaratory of current law. The tenure of all corporate officers is subject to the will of the board of directors. If the board of directors loses confidence in a corporate officer, that officer may be removed irrespective of contract rights or the presence or absence of "cause" in a legal sense. Proposed section 8.44 provides that removal of an officer who has contract rights is without prejudice to whatever rights the former officer may assert in a suit for damages for breach of contract.

Section 8.44 Contract Rights of Officers.

Proposed section 8.44 makes clear that the appointment of an officer does not itself create contract rights in the officer. The removal of an officer with contract rights is without prejudice to the officer's later enforcement of contract rights in a suit for damages for breach of contract. Similarly, an officer with an employment contract who prematurely resigns may be in breach of the officer's employment contract. The mere appointment of an officer for a term does not create a contractual obligation on the officer's part to complete the term.

Section 8.50 Indemnification Definitions.

The definitions set forth in Proposed section 8.50 apply only to Proposed sections 8.51-8.60 and have no application elsewhere in the Proposed Act.

A special definition of "corporation" is included in Proposed section 8.50 to make it clear that predecessor entities that have been absorbed in mergers or other transactions are included within the definition. It is probable that the same result would be reached for many transactions under Proposed section 11.06 (effect of merger or share exchange), which provides for the assumption of liabilities by operation of law upon a merger. The express responsibility of successor entities for the liabilities of their predecessors under Proposed sections 8.51-8.60 is broader than under Proposed section 11.06 and may impose liability on a successor even though Proposed section 11.06 does not. Proposed subsection 8.50(1) is thus an essential aspect of the protection provided by Proposed sections 8.51-8.60 for persons eligible for indemnification.

A special definition of "director" is included in Proposed section 8.50 to make it clear that a person who is or was a director is covered by Proposed sections 8.51-8.60 while serving at the corporation's request in another enterprise. The purpose of this definition is to give directors the benefits of the protection of the Proposed sections 8.51-8.60 while serving at the corporation's request in a responsible position in employee benefit plans, trade associations, nonprofit or charitable entities, foreign or domestic entities, and other kinds of profit or nonprofit ventures. A director serving at the corporation's request in such a venture is viewed as acting as a director of the corporation for purposes of Proposed sections 8.51-8.60 even though the director is also acting in some other capacity in the other venture.

The second sentence of Proposed subsection 8.50(2) addresses the question of liabilities arising under the Employee Retirement Income Security Act (ERISA). It makes clear that a director who is serving as a fiduciary of an employee benefit plan is nevertheless viewed as acting as a director for purposes of Proposed sections 8.51-8.60. Special treatment is felt to be necessary because of the broad definition of "fiduciary" in section 3(21) of ERISA, 29 U.S.C. section 1002(21) (1974), and the requirement of section 404 (section 1104(a)) that a "fiduciary" must discharge the fiduciary's duties "solely in the interest" of the participants and beneficiaries of the employee benefit plan. Decisions by a director serving as a fiduciary under the plan on questions regarding eligibility for benefits, investment decisions, and interpretation of plan provisions regarding qualifying service, years of service, and retroactivity are all subject to the protections of Proposed sections 8.51-8.60. See also Proposed subsections 8.50(4) and 8.51(b). Similar provisions appear in the business corporation acts of New York, N.Y. BUS. CORP. LAW ANN. section 723 (McKinney 1963), and Connecticut, CONN. GEN. STAT. ANN. section 33-320a (West Supp. 1981).

The estate or personal representative of a director is entitled to the rights of indemnification possessed by the director. See the last sentence of Proposed subsection 8.50(2). The phrase, "unless the context requires otherwise," was added to make clear that the estate or personal representative did not have the right to participate in directoral decisions whether to grant indemnification authorized in Proposed sections 8.51-8.60.

"Expenses" is defined to include counsel fees to avoid repeated references to such fees every time "expenses" appears throughout Proposed sections 8.51-8.60.

"Liability" is defined for convenience, to avoid repeated references to recoverable items throughout Proposed sections 8.51-8.60. Even though the definition of "liability" includes both expenses and amounts paid to satisfy or to settle substantive claims, indemnification against substantive claims is not allowed in several provisions in Proposed sections 8.51-8.60. For example, indemnification in suits brought by or in the name of the corporation is limited to expenses. See Proposed subsection 8.51(e).

The definition of "liability" permits the indemnification only of "reasonable expenses incurred." The intention is that any portion of expenses falling outside the perimeter of reasonableness should not be indemnified, and that, if necessary, an allocation of expenses should be made. By contrast, unlike the old law and statutes of many states, Proposed subsection 8.50(4) provides that amounts paid to settle or satisfy substantive claims are not subject to a reasonableness test. Since payment of these amounts is permissive--mandatory indemnification is available under Proposed section 8.52 only where the defendant is "wholly successful"--a special limitation of "reasonableness" for settlements is inappropriate. Further, it is undesirable to base the statutory test of power to indemnify on an affirmative finding that a settlement is reasonable. Indeed, the grant of authority to indemnify only those settlements that are "reasonable" would suggest an "all or nothing" approach inconsistent with the basic philosophy of indemnification of "reasonable" expenses.

"Penalties" and "fines" are expressly included within the definition of "liability" so that in appropriate cases these items may also be indemnified. See Proposed section 8.51. The purpose of this definition is to cover every type of monetary obligation that may be imposed upon a director, including civil penalties (which have been authorized in a number of recent statutes), restitution, and obligations to give notice (which are proposed as part of the revision of the federal criminal code). This definition also expressly includes the levy of excise taxes under the Internal Revenue Code pursuant to ERISA within the definition of "fines."

The definition of "official capacity" is necessary because the term determines which of the two alternative standards of conduct set forth in Proposed section 8.51 applies: if action is taken in an "official capacity," the person to be indemnified must have reasonably believed he or she was acting in the best interests of the corporation, while if the action in question was not taken in his or her "official capacity," the director need only have reasonably believed that the conduct was not opposed to the best interests of the corporation.

The definition of "party" establishes the basic coverage of the Proposed sections 8.51-8.60. The definition includes every individual "who was, is, or is threatened to be made a named defendant or respondent in a proceeding." A person who is only called as a witness is not a "party" within this definition, and as specifically provided in Proposed subsection 8.59(b), indemnification of this person is not limited by this subchapter.

The broad definition of "proceeding" ensures that the benefits of Proposed sections 8.51-8.60 will be available to directors in new and unexpected, as well as traditional, types of proceedings whether civil, criminal, administrative, or investigative. It also includes appeals in lawsuits and petitions to review administrative actions.

Section 8.51 Authority to Indemnify.

The standards for indemnification of directors contained in Proposed subsection 8.51(a) define the outer limits for which indemnification of directors not authorized by shareholder action is permitted under the Proposed Act. A director whose conduct does not meet these standards is eligible for court-ordered indemnification under Proposed subsection 8.54(2) and for shareholder authorized indemnification under Proposed section 8.56. Conduct that falls within these outer limits does not automatically entitle directors to indemnification, although many corporations have adopted bylaw provisions that obligate the corporation to indemnify directors to the maximum extent permitted by statute. Absent such a bylaw provision, Proposed section 8.52 defines a much narrower area in which the directors are entitled as a matter of right to indemnification.

The old law provided separate, but similarly worded, standards for indemnification in third-party suits and indemnification in suits brought by or in the name of the corporation. The Proposed Act establishes a single uniform test to make clear that the outer limits of conduct for which indemnification of directors is permitted should not be dependent on the type of proceeding in which the claim arises. To prevent circularity in recovery, however, Proposed subsection 8.51(e) limits indemnification in connection with suits brought by or in the name of the corporation to expenses incurred and excludes amounts paid to settle or satisfy substantive claims.

The standards of conduct described in Proposed subsections 8.51(a)(1) and 8.51(a)(2)(i)—that a director's conduct in his or her official capacity was in "good faith" and in the corporation's "best interests"—is closely related to the basic standards of conduct imposed by Proposed section 8.30, but the two standards are not identical. No attempt is made to define "good faith," a term used in both Proposed section 8.30 and Proposed section 8.51. The concept of good faith involves a subjective test, which would include "a mistake of judgment," even though made unwisely by objective standards. But the affirmative requirement of Proposed section 8.30—that the "care of an ordinarily prudent person in a like position" be exercised—is not included in the standard of conduct for indemnification. On the other hand, Proposed section 8.51 requires that there be a "reasonable" belief on the part of the director in most instances, and in the case of criminal proceedings that there be no "reasonable" cause to believe the conduct was unlawful. Accordingly, it is possible that a director who has not acted "with the care an ordinarily prudent person in a like position would exercise under similar circumstances," as required by Proposed section 8.30, could nevertheless be indemnified if the standard of Proposed section 8.51 were met. As a corollary, it is clear that a director who has met the Proposed section 8.30 standards of conduct would be eligible in virtually every case to be indemnified under Proposed section 8.51.

Proposed subsection 8.51(a)(2)(ii) requires, if a director is not acting in his or her official capacity, that the director's action be "at least not opposed to" the corporation's best interests. This standard is applicable to the director when serving another entity at the request of the corporation or when sued simply because he or she is or was a director. The words "at least" were added to qualify "not opposed to" in order to make it clear that this test is an outer limit for conduct other than in an official capacity.

This section makes clear that a director who is serving as a trustee or fiduciary for an employee benefit plan under ERISA meets the standard for indemnification under Proposed subsection 8.51(a) if the director reasonably believes the director's conduct was in the best interests of the participants in and beneficiaries of the plan. This standard is a specific application of the more general test that conduct not in official corporate capacity is indemnifiable if it is "at least not opposed to" the best interests of the corporation and provides a standard for indemnification that is consistent with the statutory policies embodied in ERISA.

The purpose of Proposed subsection 8.51(c) is to reject the argument that indemnification is automatically improper whenever a proceeding has been terminated on a basis that does not exonerate the director claiming indemnification. Even though a final judgment or conviction is not automatically determinative of the issue whether the minimum standard of conduct was met, any judicial determination of substantive liability would in most instances be entitled to considerable weight. By the same token, it is clear that the termination of a proceeding by settlement or plea of nolo contendere should not of itself create a presumption either that conduct met or did not meet the standard of Proposed section 8.51. On the other hand, a final determination of nonliability or acquittal automatically entitles the director to indemnification of expenses under Proposed section 8.52.

Proposed subsection 8.51(c) applies expressly to indemnification of expenses in derivative actions as well as to indemnification in third party suits. The most likely application of this subsection to derivative actions will be to settlements since a judgment or order would normally result in liability to the corporation and thereby preclude all indemnification under Proposed subsection 8.51(d). In the rare event that a judgment or order entered against the director did not include a determination of liability to the corporation, the entry of the judgment or order would not be determinative that the director failed to meet the requisite standard of conduct.

Proposed subsection 8.51(d) makes clear that indemnification is not permissible under Proposed section 8.51 in the face of a finding of improper conduct either because liability is imposed in favor of the corporation in a suit brought by or in its name or because there is a finding that the director improperly received a personal benefit as a result of the director's conduct. Indemnification under this subsection is prohibited if a director is adjudged liable in a derivative suit because it is believed that there should be no indemnification in this situation unless a court first finds it proper. Proposed section 8.54 permits a director found liable to the corporation to petition a court for a judicial determination of entitlement to indemnification. Proposed section 8.56 authorizes shareholders in certain circumstances to indemnify directors found liable to the corporation. Voluntary indemnification is also prohibited if there has been an adjudication that a director improperly received a personal benefit, even if, for example, the director acted in a manner not opposed to the best interests of the corporation. Improper use of inside information for personal benefit should not be an action for which the corporation may provide indemnification, even if the corporation was not thereby harmed. Although it is unlikely that a person found liable for receiving an improper personal benefit would be found to have met the statutory standard of conduct set forth in Proposed subsection 8.51(a)(2)(ii), this limitation is made explicit in Proposed subsection 8.51(d)(2). Recourse to a court under Proposed section 8.54 may also be appropriate in some improper benefit cases—for example, where it would be unfair for a small personal benefit to foreclose indemnification in an expensive and complicated matter.

Proposed subsection 8.51(e) limits indemnification in suits brought by or in the right of the corporation to expenses incurred in connection with the proceeding. Its purpose is to avoid circularity that would be involved if a corporation seeks to indemnify a director for payments made in settlement by the director to the corporation. This subsection applies only to settlements since all indemnification is prohibited by Proposed subsection 8.51(d)(1)—subject to the right to seek judicially approved indemnification under Proposed section 8.54 or to seek shareholder approved indemnification under Proposed section 8.56—in cases where a director is "adjudged" liable to the corporation.

Section 8.52 Mandatory Indemnification.

Proposed section 8.51 determines whether indemnification may be made voluntarily by a corporation if its directors elect to do so. Proposed section 8.52 determines whether a corporation must indemnify a director for the director's expenses; in other words, Proposed section 8.52 creates a statutory right of indemnification in favor of the director who meets the requirements of that section. Enforcement of this right by judicial proceeding is specifically contemplated by Proposed subsection 8.54(1), which also gives the director a statutory right to recover expenses incurred by the director in enforcing his or her statutory right to indemnification under Proposed section 8.52.

The basic standard for mandatory indemnification is that the director has been "wholly successful, on the merits or otherwise," in the defense of the proceeding. The word "wholly" is added to avoid the argument accepted in Merritt-Chapman & Scott Corp. v. Wolfson, 321 A.2d 138 (Del. 1974), that a defendant may be entitled to partial mandatory indemnification if the defendant succeeded by plea bargaining or otherwise to obtain the dismissal of some but not all counts of an indictment. A defendant is "wholly successful" only if the entire proceeding is disposed of on a basis which involves a finding of nonliability. However, the language in the old law and in many other state statutes that the basis of success may be "on the merits or otherwise" is retained. While this standard may result in an occasional defendant becoming entitled to indemnification because of procedural defenses not related to the merits (e.g., the statute of limitations or disqualification of the plaintiff), it is unreasonable to require a defendant with a valid procedural defense to undergo a possibly prolonged and expensive trial on the merits in order to establish eligibility for mandatory indemnification.

Section 8.53 Advance For Expenses.

It is often critically important to a director who is made a party to a complex proceeding that the corporation the director served have power to make advances for expenses at the beginning of and during the proceeding. Adequate legal representation and adequate preparation of a defense may require substantial payments of expenses before a final determination, and unless the corporation may make advances for expenses, a defendant may be unable to finance the defendant's own defense. This problem is complicated by the fact that during the early stages of a proceeding (when advances are often needed) the facts underlying the claim cannot be fully evaluated and the board of directors therefore cannot accurately ascertain the ultimate propriety of indemnification.

Proposed subsection 8.53(a) requires a written affirmation by the director of the director's good faith belief that the director has met the standard of conduct necessary for indemnification by the corporation and a written undertaking by or on behalf of the director to repay the advance if it is ultimately determined that the director has not met the standard of conduct. Under Proposed subsection 8.53(b), the undertaking need not be secured and financial ability to repay is not a prerequisite. The theory underlying this subsection is that, in advancing expenses, wealthy directors should not be favored over directors whose financial resources are modest.

The limitations of Proposed section 8.53 apply only to persons who are directors at the time the advance is made. Thus the corporation may advance the expenses of former directors without obtaining the affirmation and undertaking otherwise required by Proposed subsection 8.53(a)(1) and (2).

The Committee deleted the RMA requirement that directors make a determination on the basis of facts known that indemnification is not precluded under Proposed section 8.51. It concluded that that requirement frequently led the board of directors to deny advances to directors for fear that liability might be imposed on directors authorizing the advances. It also concluded that the corporation's real protection in such situations was the director's written undertaking to repay the advance if it was later shown that the director had not met the standard of conduct.

Section 8.54 Court-Ordered Indemnification.

Proposed section 8.54 permits court-ordered indemnification in three situations: (1) a director entitled to mandatory indemnification may enforce that entitlement by judicial proceeding (in which case the court may also order the corporation to pay the reasonable expenses incurred in connection with the proceeding); (2) indemnification at the court's discretion is permitted in all cases whether or not the director met the requisite standard of conduct in Proposed section 8.51 or is otherwise ineligible for indemnification; and (3) a director entitled to advances for or reimbursement of expenses may enforce that entitlement by judicial proceeding. But indemnification with respect to derivative suits or improper benefit is limited to expenses by the last clause of Proposed subsection 8.54(2) unless the articles of incorporation or a bylaw, contract or resolution approved or ratified by the shareholders pursuant to Proposed section 8.56 provides otherwise.

Proposed subsection 8.54(3) is new and has no counterpart in either the Revised Model Act or the old law. It permits a director to sue for expense advances pursuant to charter, bylaw, or other provision committing the corporation to advance expenses. This permits a director to enforce previously bargained for contract rights to expense advancement in the proceeding in which the expenses are being incurred.

Application for indemnification under Proposed section 8.54 may be made either to the court in which the proceeding was heard or to another court of appropriate jurisdiction. For example, a defendant in a criminal action who has been convicted but believes that indemnification would be proper could apply either to the court which heard the criminal action or bring an action against the corporation in another court. A decision by the board of directors not to oppose the request for indemnification is governed by the general standards of conduct found in Proposed section 8.30. Even if the corporation decided not to oppose the request, the court must satisfy itself that the person seeking indemnification is properly entitled to it.

A corporation may limit the right of a director under Proposed section 8.54 by a provision in its articles of incorporation. In the absence of such a provision, however, the court has general power to grant indemnification under this section.

Section 8.55 Determination and Authorization of Indemnification.

Proposed section 8.55 provides the method for determining whether a corporation should voluntarily indemnify directors under Proposed section 8.51. In this section a distinction is made between a "determination" and an "authorization." A "determination" involves a decision whether under the circumstances the person seeking indemnification has met the requisite standard of conduct under Proposed section 8.51 and is therefore eligible for indemnification. This decision may be made by the persons or groups described in Proposed subsection 8.55(b). In addition, after a favorable "determination" is made, the corporation must "authorize" indemnification; this includes a review of the reasonableness of the expenses. Proposed subsection 8.55(c) provides that "authorization" of indemnification may be made only by the board of directors, by a committee of the board, or by the shareholders. While special legal counsel may make the "determination" of eligibility for indemnification, counsel may not "authorize" the indemnification.

Proposed subsection 8.55(b) establishes a procedure for selecting the person or persons who will make the determination of eligibility for indemnification. Even though directors who are parties to the proceeding may not participate in the decision determining eligibility for indemnification, they may, if necessary to permit valid action by the board of directors, participate in the decision establishing a committee of independent directors or selecting special legal counsel. Directors who are parties may also participate in the decision to "authorize" indemnification on the basis of a favorable "determination" if necessary to permit action by the board of directors. This limited participation of interested directors in the decision is justified by a principle of necessity.

Legal counsel authorized to make the required determination is referred to as "special legal counsel." In statutes of other states, the counsel is referred to as "independent" legal counsel. The word "special" is felt to be more descriptive of the role to be performed and is not intended to indicate that the counsel selected should not be independent in accordance with governing legal precepts. "Special legal counsel" should normally be counsel having no prior professional lawyer-client relationship with those seeking indemnification, should be retained for the specific occasion, and should not be either inside counsel or regular outside counsel. It is important that the selection process be sufficiently flexible to permit selection of counsel in light of the particular circumstances and so that unnecessary expense may be avoided. Hence the phrase "special legal counsel" is not defined in the statute.

Determinations by shareholders rather than by directors or special counsel are permitted by Proposed subsection 8.55(b)(4), but shares owned by or voted under the control of directors seeking indemnification may not be voted on the determination of eligibility for indemnification. This does not affect rules governing the determination of a quorum at the meeting.

Section 8.56 Shareholder Authorized Indemnification and Advancement of Expenses.

The provision in old RCW 23A.08.025(8) was amended in 1987 to eliminate former limitations on any indemnity not consistent with the statute. At the same time, old RCW 23A.12.020 was amended to authorize limitations of directors' liability in certain circumstances if the articles of incorporation so provided. See comment to Proposed section 8.32 which contains the background of both provisions.

Proposed section 8.56 is an entirely separate grant of corporate authority to indemnify, without regard to limitations contained in other sections of the title. This authority may be only be exercised by the shareholders, and then only under the types of voting rules generally reserved for decisions such as amending the articles of incorporation and other major corporate actions.

Under Proposed section 8.56 the corporation may indemnify directors fully, including the amount of judgments and fines, as well as for expenses. This authority extends to actions by the corporation and derivative actions, as well as to actions brought by third parties or government officials. The justification for this is the parallel power of the shareholders to exculpate directors from liability to the corporation or its shareholders for negligent acts, subject to the public policy limits imposed by Proposed section 8.32. Where shareholders have not exculpated directors in advance by formally amending the corporation's articles of incorporation, this section grants them power to indemnify directors, either by contract, bylaw or resolution approved in advance or after the fact. The reference to "ratified" is intended to cover the situation where a board of directors has authorized such indemnification, either in a bylaw, resolution or contract with the director, but the shareholders did not approve their action until a later time.

Section 8.57 Indemnification of Officers, Employees and Agents.

Proposed section 8.57 correlates the general legal principles relating to the indemnification of officers, employees, and agents of the corporation with the limitations of indemnification of directors in Proposed sections 8.51-8.56. This correlation may be summarized in general terms as follows:

(1) Proposed sections 8.51-8.56 apply only to, and limits the indemnification of, directors.

(2) An officer, agent or employee of a corporation who is not a director may be indemnified by the corporation on a discretionary basis to the same extent as though such person were a director, and, in addition, may have additional indemnification rights apart from Proposed sections 8.51-8.60. (Proposed subsections 8.57(2) and (3)).

(3) A director who is also an officer, employee, or agent of the corporation is limited to the director's indemnification rights under Proposed sections 8.51-8.56 and is therefore treated the same way as other directors. (Proposed subsection 8.57(3) by negative inference.) Such an officer-director is limited to his or her rights under Proposed sections 8.51-8.56 even though the officer-director is sued solely in his or her capacity as an officer.

(4) An officer of the corporation (but not employees or agents generally) who is not a director has the mandatory right of indemnification granted to directors under Proposed section 8.52 and the right to apply for court-ordered indemnification under Proposed section 8.54 (Proposed subsection 8.57(1)).

Proposed subsection 8.57(3) authorizes indemnification for officers, employees, and agents who are not directors, but neither requires nor prescribes standards for their indemnification and expressly states that their indemnification may be broader than the right of indemnification granted to directors by Proposed sections 8.51-8.60. The rights of employees or agents may derive from principles of agency, the doctrine of respondeat superior, or collective bargaining or other contractual agreement, rather than from the statute. Indemnification of employees or agents may appropriately protect the person indemnified from liabilities incurred while serving at the corporation's request as a director, officer, partner, trustee, or agent of another commercial, charitable, or nonprofit enterprise. See the definition of "director" in Proposed subsection 8.50(2). But indemnification under Proposed subsection 8.57(3) must ultimately be "consistent with law." In effect, this leaves public policy determinations as to what are permissible limits, in a particular case, to the courts. For example, in Koster v. Warren, 297 F.2d 418, 423 (9th Cir. 1961), the court allowed indemnification of an officer and an employee, both of whom pleaded nolo contendere to an antitrust indictment at the corporation's request, the court reasoning that they had foregone their personal right to defend for the corporation's benefit. On the other hand, the court indicated in dictum that an agreement in advance by the corporation to indemnify anyone convicted of antitrust violations would be against public policy.

The broad grant of indemnification in Proposed subsection 8.57(3) may be limited by appropriate provisions in the articles of incorporation.

Proposed section 8.57 provides that officers, employees, or agents who are also directors are subject to the same standards of indemnification as other directors. Consideration was given to whether these officer-directors, if acting in their capacity as an officer but not as a director, should have the benefit of the additional flexibility afforded by Proposed subsection 8.57(3) for officers who are not directors. It was concluded, however, that all directors should be treated alike; complications may be created if directors who are not officers have potentially less protection under the statute than directors who are officers. It would also be difficult in many instances to distinguish in what capacity an officer-director is acting. Finally, Proposed sections 8.51-8.56 offer sufficient flexibility in indemnifying directors so that, as a practical matter, foreseeable problems for officer-directors can be handled within the statutory framework.

Proposed subsection 8.57(1) grants nondirector officers the same mandatory rights to indemnification under Proposed section 8.52 (or to petition a court for indemnification under Proposed section 8.54) as are granted directors. Thus, the net effect of Proposed section 8.57 is to provide officers with no less protection than is provided directors (including protection for service to third parties at the request of the corporation) and, additionally, to permit the corporation to provide broader indemnification for officers who are not directors.

Section 8.58 Insurance.

Proposed section 8.58 authorizes a corporation to purchase and maintain insurance on behalf of directors, officers, employees, or agents against liabilities imposed on them by reason of actions in their official capacity or arising from their service to the corporation or another entity at the corporation's request. Insurance is not limited to claims against which corporations are entitled to indemnify under this subchapter. This insurance, usually referred to as "D&O Liability Insurance," provides a useful supplement to the rights of indemnification created by Proposed sections 8.51 to 8.60, providing a source of reimbursement for corporations who indemnify directors and others for conduct covered by the insurance, and protecting the insureds against the corporation's failure to pay indemnification required or permitted by Proposed sections 8.51 to 8.60. On the other hand, policies do not cover uninsurable events like self-dealing, bad faith, knowing violations of the securities acts, or other willful misconduct. See generally Johnston, "Corporate Indemnification and Liability Insurance," 33 BUS. LAW. 1993 (1978); Hinsey, "The New Lloyd's Policy Form for Directors and Officers Liability Insurance--An Analysis," 33 BUS. LAW. 1961 (1978).

Section 8.59 Application of Sections 8.50-8.58.

Proposed subsection 8.59(a) provides that a provision treating the indemnification of directors by the corporation in articles of incorporation, bylaws, shareholders' or directors' resolution, or contract "is valid only if and to the extent it is consistent with" Proposed sections 8.50-8.58. The statutes of many states provides that the statutory provisions are not "exclusive" and make no attempt to limit the nonstatutory creation of rights of indemnification. Such language is subject to misconstruction, however, since nonstatutory conceptions of public policy limit the power of a corporation to indemnify or to contract to indemnify directors, officers, employees, or agents.

The language of the first sentence of Proposed subsection 8.59(a), "to the extent it is consistent with sections 8.50-8.58," is believed to be a more accurate description of the limited validity of nonstatutory indemnification provisions than the "non-exclusive" provisions in other states. It is important to recognize that "to the extent it is consistent with" is not synonymous with "exclusive." Situations may well develop from time to time in which indemnification is permissible under Proposed section 8.58 but would be precluded if all Proposed sections 8.50-8.58 were viewed as exclusive. But indemnification provisions protecting against the consequences of bad faith or willful misconduct are not consistent with law and would not be valid. Furthermore, they would violate well-understood principles of public policy and doubtless would be invalidated on that ground even under statutes purporting to make "nonexclusive" the statutory provisions for indemnification. To the extent the consistency language may preclude indemnification in circumstances where it is reasonable and violates no statutory policy, an escape valve is provided in Proposed subsection 8.55(2), which authorizes a court to grant indemnification if a director "is fairly and reasonably entitled to indemnification in view of all the relevant circumstances," even though the director may not have fully met the standards of conduct set forth in Proposed section 8.51.

Proposed section 8.59 does not preclude provisions in articles of incorporation, bylaws, resolutions, or contracts designed to provide procedural machinery different from that provided by Proposed section 8.55 or to make mandatory the permissive provisions of Proposed sections 8.50–8.54. For example, a corporation may properly obligate the board of directors to consider and act expeditiously on an application for indemnification or advances, or obligate the board of directors to cooperate in the procedural steps required to obtain a judicial determination under Proposed section 8.54.

Some corporations currently commit themselves, in one form or another, to indemnify directors to the fullest extent permitted by applicable law. These commitments are consistent with Proposed sections 8.50–8.58, subject to appropriate interpretation in light of the facts and circumstances of the particular case. Furthermore, a commitment to maintain liability insurance for a director, pursuant to Proposed section 8.58, is consistent with Proposed sections 8.50–8.58.

The first sentence of Proposed subsection 8.59(a) applies only to directors; it does not apply to officers, employees, or agents who are not directors. The inherent problems of conflict of interest and the need to encourage persons to serve as directors are not present to the same degree in the case of nondirector officers, employees, or agents. The standard for permissible indemnification of these persons in Proposed subsection 8.57(3) is "consistent with law" without regard to Proposed sections 8.50–8.58.

Proposed subsection 8.59(b) is designed to make clear that Proposed sections 8.50–8.58 deal only with directors who are actual or prospective defendants or respondents in a proceeding, and that expenses incurred in connection with appearance as a witness may be indemnified without regard to the limitations of Proposed sections 8.50–8.58. Indeed, most of the standards described in Proposed sections 8.51–8.54 by their own terms can have no meaningful application to a director whose only connection with a proceeding is that the director has been called as a witness.

Section 8.60 Report to Shareholders.

Proposed section 8.60 requires reporting to shareholders of payments made to directors or officers either for indemnification under Proposed sections 8.51, 8.52, 8.54 and 8.56 or for advances for expenses under Proposed section 8.53. Some academic criticism of earlier indemnification statutes pointed out the possible evil of secret payments of indemnification which may or may not be consistent with the standards set forth in the general corporation statute. In addition, the use of corporate funds for this purpose is a legitimate matter of interest to shareholders.

Proposed section 8.60 requires the report to be made no later than the time notice is given for the next meeting of shareholders. Disclosure is required only of payments made in connection with suits by or in the name of the corporation; payments and advances arising out of third-party suits are not required to be reported, although proxy rules may require reporting and corporations, of course, may choose to report even if not legally required to do so. This subsection does not require reporting of indemnification payments or advances to any individual who is not a director. The required reporting covers payments and advances to directors in derivative suits made not only under Proposed sections 8.51, 8.52, 8.53, 8.54 or 8.56 but also pursuant to a charter, bylaw, or other provision.

Section 8.70 Definitions for Sections 8.71–8.73.

INTRODUCTORY COMMENT TO SECTIONS 8.70-8.73

The common law, drawing by analogy on the fiduciary principles of the law of trusts, initially took the position that any transaction between X Co. and a director of X Co. was contaminated by the director's conflicting interest, that the transaction was null and void or voidable, and, at least by implication, that the interested director who benefited from the transaction could be required to disgorge any profits and be held liable for any damages. In time, this rule was perceived to be demonstrably unworkable in the real business world and contrary to the best interests of the corporation. Accordingly, some courts modified their initial rigidity, and, in addition, corrective legislation was enacted as a part of the business corporation acts.

The new statutory provisions on directors' conflicting interest transactions allowed the courts to develop the substantive content of the duty of loyalty owed by agents to their principals, by employees to their employers, and by directors to their corporations. The statutes themselves concentrated on creating procedures by which interest-conflict transactions between corporations and their directors could be salvaged while, at the same time, corporations and their shareholders could be protected against unfair dealing by self-aggrandizing directors. Section 41 of the 1969 Model Business Corporation Act was such a procedural provision; so was its successor, section 8.31 of the Model Act.

The replacement for section 8.31, now embodied as sections 8.70-8.73 of the Proposed Act, is of the same procedural character. But the new sections have some important new features.

1. PURPOSES AND SPECIAL CHARACTERISTICS OF PROPOSED SECTIONS 8.70-8.73.

Predecessor provisions to Proposed sections 8.70-8.73 were sweeping and generalized in character. The Proposed sections are not. Their key objectives are to increase predictability and to enhance practical administrability. To that end, the Proposed sections spell out a safe harbor procedure more meticulously than their predecessors. To the same end, the Proposed sections go further. Earlier statutes left entirely to judicial interpretation—and to the guess of corporate counsel—the central question as to what does and what does not constitute a conflicting interest of a director. Great uncertainty has arisen as to the scope of that concept. The new sections take the new step of spelling out a practical working definition of "conflicting interest" and declare that definition to be exclusive. Circumstances that fall outside the statutory definition of conflicting interest cannot constitute the basis for an attack on a transaction on grounds of a director's interest conflict, although they may, of course, afford basis for legal attack on some other ground. Finally, to a greater degree than their predecessors, the new sections specify when judicial intervention is appropriate and when it is not.

In sum, the new sections are new in that they adopt a "bright-line" statutory approach. An inevitable feature of any bright-line statute or regulation is that, no matter where the line may be set, some situations that fall outside the line will closely resemble other situations that fall inside it. Some observers find that outcome anomalous and argue that a bright-line approach is inferior to a statement of broad principles. But the legislative draftsman who chooses to suppress marginal anomalies by resorting to generalized statements of principle will pay a cost in terms of predictability. The choice between these two drafting approaches is a matter of judgment; an experienced legislative draftsman would never write a bright-line constitutional "due process" clause, nor would the draftsman provide in a business corporation act for "a reasonable period" of notice for a shareholders' meeting.

For a number of reasons, the new sections are deliberately weighted towards bright-line specificity and predictability. That there will be imaginable situations at the margin that are similar but yield different results can be anticipated and is accepted.

One consideration arguing for the bright-line approach in the new sections is that the existing case law governing interest conflicts of directors is in a state of unhealthy uncertainty, reflecting differing judicial attitudes toward and varying levels of comprehension concerning the subject. Equal uncertainty surrounds the working of the procedural machinery for dealing with transactions that involve a director's conflicting interest.

A second consideration arguing for a bright-line approach is that the fundamental perspective of the new sections is prospective. In the real business world, a decision must be made now whether or not to proceed with the transaction and legal counsel's opinion must be delivered now as to whether clearance procedures are available and have been complied with. The business executive can accept either "yes" or "no" as an answer but the executive cannot effectively function in an environment in which the law, lawyers or the courts say "Go ahead and I will tell you later—perhaps years later—whether the transaction is vulnerable to attack."

Further, the essential character of interest conflict is often, unfortunately, misunderstood by the public and the media (and sometimes misunderstood, too, by lawyers and judges). Interest conflicts can and sometimes do lead to baneful acts. The law regulates interest conflict transactions because experience shows that people often yield to the temptation to advance their self-interests and, if they do, other people may be injured. That contingent fear is sufficient reason to warrant caution and to apply special standards and procedures to interest conflict transactions.

Nonetheless, it is important to keep firmly in mind that it is a contingent risk we are dealing with—that an interest conflict is not in itself a crime or a tort or necessarily injurious to others. Contrary to much popular usage, having a "conflict of interest" is not something one is "guilty of"; it is simply a state of affairs. Indeed, in many situations, the corporation and the shareholders may secure major benefits from a transaction despite the presence of a director's conflicting interest. Further, while history is replete with selfish acts, it is also oddly counterpointed by numberless acts taken contrary to self interest.

And, as an additional consideration, while conflicting interests surely carry potential danger, other important social values, such as economic efficiency, predictability and business finality are also at stake and should be accorded heavy countering weight in the law.

One last point. Even if one were to disregard these considerations and were to draft statutory language governing directors' interest conflicts in the most generalized form in an effort to catch the last malefactor, "anomalous" results still would not be avoided. One reason is that generalized drafting invites varying judicial and practitioner interpretation, as has in fact occurred in the cases on directors' conflicts of interest. But the ultimate unresolvable problem in seeking to regulate interest conflicts is that human beings are motivated by unimaginably varied and indeterminable mixes of ambitions, likes, dislikes, and biases. At the end of the day, who can say in respect of any matter that a particular director was in a deeper sense "disinterested" in a particular transaction and acted objectively on the merits? In regulating the conflicting interests of directors, the courts (and pertinent statutes) have limited inquiry to the financial interests of the director and the director's immediate family and associates. That is the wise course and, indeed, the only practical course. But in adopting that course, one obviously excludes a large fraction of the interests that actually drive the actions of human beings. Thus, the law may preclude a director from voting on a transaction in which the director has an economic interest even if, given the director's resources, the amount at stake will have no real impact upon the director's decision-making; yet the law does not prohibit the same director from voting on a transaction which significantly benefits a religious institution to whose creed the director is deeply devoted and that guides the director's life. Such deeper anomalies cannot be eradicated and the law should not seek to eradicate them. But it is worthwhile to be reminded that they exist, for in this field a degree of anomaly is a condition that must be accepted and lived with.

2. PROPOSED SCOPE OF SECTIONS 8.70-8.73.

The focus of Proposed sections 8.70-8.73 is sharply defined and limited.

First: the Proposed sections are targeted on legal challenges based on interest conflicts only. They do not undertake to define, regulate or provide any form of procedure regarding other possible claims. For example, the Proposed sections do not address a claim that a controlling shareholder has violated a duty owed to the corporation or minority shareholders.

Second: the Proposed sections are applicable only when there is a "transaction" by or with the corporation. Many circumstances can arise in which a director has an economic interest in a particular matter that is adverse to the corporation's best interests but that does not entail a "transaction" with the corporation. Obvious examples include a director who usurps a corporate opportunity or competes with the corporation. In some situations, too, simple inaction by a board might work to a director's personal economic advantage. Without suggesting anything about other safe harbor procedures for the director and the corporation that might be available for such nontransactional matters (see paragraph 4 below), the new sections have no application unless there is a "transaction" to which the corporation is a party.

Third: Proposed sections 8.70-8.73 deal with directors only. Conflicts of interest of non-director officers or employees of the corporation are dealt with by the law of agency prescribing loyalty of agent to principal. Moreover, most large corporations today have internal regulations governing the business conduct of all personnel, including loyalty to the employer and avoidance of conflicting personal interests. A corporate employee can also deal with a personal conflict situation by going to the employee's supervisor. Thus the conflict of interest problems of all corporate personnel except directors can be satisfactorily handled by general law, internal rules and personnel procedures. For the directors, however--those who are ultimately responsible for the corporation--special provisions in the business corporation statute are required.

Fourth: it is important to stress that the voting procedures and standards prescribed in the Proposed sections deal solely with the element of the director's conflicting interest. A transaction that receives a directors' or shareholders' vote that complies with the new sections may well fail to achieve a different vote or quorum that may be requisite for substantive approval of the transaction under other applicable statutory provisions or under the articles of incorporation; and vice versa. (Under the Proposed Act, latitude is granted for setting higher voting requirements and different quorum requirements in the articles of incorporation. See sections 7.27 and 2.02(e).)

Fifth: a few corporate transactions or arrangements in which directors inherently have a special personal interest are of a unique character and are regulated by special procedural provisions of the Act. See Proposed sections 8.51 and 8.52 dealing with indemnification arrangements and Proposed section 7.40 dealing with termination of derivative proceedings by board action. Any corporate transactions or arrangements affecting directors that are governed by such regulatory sections of the Proposed Act are not governed by the new sections.

The new sections contemplate the deletion of provisions dealing specially with loans to directors; a loan to a director is simply a subspecies of directors' conflicting interest transactions and is procedurally governed by the new sections.

3. STRUCTURE OF PROPOSED SECTIONS 8.70-8.73

Definitions are in Proposed section 8.70. Proposed section 8.71 prescribes what a court may or may not do in various situations. Proposed section 8.72 prescribes procedures for action by boards of directors regarding a director's conflicting interest transaction. Proposed section 8.73 prescribes corresponding procedures for shareholders. Thus the most important operative section of the subchapter is Proposed section 8.71.

4. OUTSIDE PROPOSED SECTIONS 8.70-8.73: NON-TRANSACTIONAL SITUATIONS

A prudent director will be sensitive to situations that may place the director in the position of divided loyalty. To resolve doubts, the director will bring to the attention of the board of directors investment opportunities or business activities the director wishes to pursue. The board's blessing can serve as a shield if the director later should be charged with usurping corporate opportunity or engaging in improper competitive activity. Quite often, too, a director's personal financial interests can often be impacted by a non-transactional policy decision of the board-- as where it decides to establish a divisional headquarters in the director's small home town. Non-transactional cases of that kind most often employ a procedure quite similar to that provided for director's conflicting interest transactions under Proposed section 8.72. In addition, a flow of ongoing business relationships between the director and the corporation may, without centering upon any discrete "transaction", raise problems of alleged favoritism or unfair dealing or undue influence.

The circumstances in which such non-transactional situations should be brought to the board or shareholders for clearance, and the legal effect of such clearance, are questions for development under the common law. While non-transactional situations are unaffected one way or the other by the provisions of sections 8.70-8.73, a court may well recognize procedures in those sections as a useful analogy for dealing with such situations. Where the procedures of sections 8.70-8.73 were followed in such situations, the court may, in its discretion, accord to them the same or similar effect to that which is provided by the new sections.

For purposes of Proposed sections 8.70-8.73, "transaction" generally connotes negotiations or a consensual bilateral act between the corporation and another party or parties that concern their respective and differing economic rights or interests--not simply a unilateral action by the corporation but rather a "deal." See discussion of "transaction" under subparagraph (2) of (2) respecting section 8.70.

NOTE

In the Comments to the sections of subchapter F, the director who has a conflicting interest is for convenience referred to as "the director" or "D," the corporation of which the director is a director is referred to as "the corporation" or "X Co." and another corporation dealing with X Co. is referred to as "Y Co."

COMMENT TO PROPOSED SECTION 8.70

The definitions set forth in Proposed section 8.70 apply to sections 8.71-8.73 only and have no application elsewhere in the Proposed Act.

1. CONFLICTING INTEREST

The definition of conflicting interest requires that the director know of the transaction. More than that, it requires that the director know of the director's interest conflict at the time of the corporation's commitment to the transaction. Absent that knowledge by the director, the risk to the corporation addressed by Proposed sections 8.70-8.73 is not present. In a corporation of significant size, routine transactions in the ordinary course of business, involving decision-making at lower management levels, will usually not be known to the director and will thus be excluded by the "knowledge" criterion in the definition.

The term "conflicting interest" as defined in Proposed section 8.70 is never abstract or free-standing; its use must always be linked to a particular director, to a particular transaction and to a particular corporation.

The definition of "conflicting interest" is exclusive. An interest of a director is a conflicting interest if and only if it meets the requirements of subdivision (1).

D can have a conflicting interest in only three ways.

First: a conflicting interest of D will obviously arise if the transaction is between D and X Co.

A conflicting interest will also arise under subdivision (1)(i) if D is not a party but has a beneficial financial interest in the transaction that is separate from the director's interest as a director or shareholder and is of such significance to the director that it would reasonably be expected to exert an influence on the director's judgment if the director were called upon to vote on the matter. The personal economic stake of the director must be in or closely linked to the transaction--that is, the director's gain must hinge directly on the transaction itself. A contingent or remote gain (such as a future reduction in tax rates in the local community) is not enough to give rise to a conflicting interest under subdivision (1)(i). See the discussion of "transaction" under the Comment to subdivision (2).

If Y Co. is a party to or interested in the transaction with X Co. and Y Co. is somehow linked to D, the matter is in general governed by subdivision (1)(ii). But D's economic interest in Y Co. could be so substantial and the impact of the transaction so important to Y Co. that D could also have a conflicting interest under subdivision (1)(i).

Note that the basic standard set by subdivision (1)(i) and throughout Proposed sections 8.70-8.73—"would reasonably be expected to exert an influence"—is an objective, not a subjective, criterion.

Second: a conflicting interest of D can arise under subdivision (1)(i) from the involvement in the transaction of a "related person" of D. "Related person" is defined in subdivision (3).

Third: in limited circumstances, subsequently discussed, a conflicting interest of D can arise through the economic involvement of certain other persons specified in subdivision (1)(ii). These are any entity (other than X Co.) of which the director is a director, general partner, agent or employee; a person that controls, or an entity that is controlled by, or is under common control with one or more of the entities specified in the preceding clause; and any individual who is a general partner, principal or employer of D.

The terms "principal" and "employer" as used in subdivision (1)(ii) are not separately defined but should be interpreted sensibly in the context of the purpose of the new sections. The key question is whether D is, by force of an overt or covert tie to an employer or a principal who has a significant stake in the outcome of the transaction, beholden to act in the interest of that outside employer or principal rather than in the interest of X Co.

The "would reasonably be expected" criterion of subdivision (1)(i) applies also to subdivision (1)(ii).

Any director will, of course, have countless relationships and linkages to persons and institutions other than those specified in subdivision (1)(ii) and those defined in subdivision (3) to be related persons. But, for the reasons outlined in the Introduction, the subcategories of persons encompassed by subdivision (1)(ii) are expressly intended to be exclusive and to cover the field for purposes of Proposed sections 8.70-8.73 and particularly Proposed subsection 8.71(a). Thus, if, in a case involving a transaction between X Co. and Y Co., a court is presented with the argument that D, a director of X Co., is also a major creditor of Y Co. and that that stake in Y Co. gives D a conflicting interest, the court should reply that D's creditor interest in Y Co. does not fit any subcategory of subdivision (1)(ii) or subdivision (3) and therefore the conflict of interest claim must be rejected by force of Proposed subsection 8.71(a). The result would be otherwise if Y Co.'s debt to D is of such economic significance to D that it would fall under subdivision (1)(i) or put D in control of Y Co. and thus come within subdivision (1)(i).

Subdivision (1)(ii) has a differentiated threshold keyed to the significance of the transaction. See the Official Comment to subdivision (2).

It is to be noted that under subdivision (1) of Proposed section 8.70, any interest that the director has that meets the criteria set forth is considered a "conflicting interest." If a director has an interest that meets those criteria, sections 8.70-8.73 draw no further distinction between a director's interest that clashes with the interests of the corporation and a director's interest that is parallel to the interests of the corporation. If the director's "interest" is present, "conflict" is assumed.

2. DIRECTOR'S CONFLICTING INTEREST TRANSACTION

The definition of "director's conflicting interest transaction" in subdivision (2) is the key concept of Proposed sections 8.70-8.73, establishing the area that lies within—and without—the scope of the provisions. The definition operates preclusively; it not only designates the area within which the rules of Proposed sections 8.70-8.73 are to be applied but also denies the power of the court to act with respect to claims of conflict of interest of directors in circumstances that lie outside the statutory definition of "director's conflicting interest transaction." See Proposed subsection 8.71(a).

(1) Transaction

To constitute a director's conflicting interest transaction, there must first be a transaction by the corporation or its subsidiary or controlled entity in which the director has a financial interest. As discussed in the Introduction, the safe harbor provisions provided by sections 8.70-8.73 have no application to circumstances in which there is no "transaction" by the corporation, however apparent the director's conflicting interest. Other strictures of the law prohibit a director from seizing corporate opportunities for personal benefit and from competing against the corporation of which the director is a director; Proposed sections 8.70-8.73 have no application to such situations. Moreover, a director might be personally benefited if the corporation takes no action, as where the corporation decides not to make a bid. Proposed sections 8.70-8.73 have no application to such instances. The limited thrust of the sections is to establish procedures which, if followed, immunize a corporate transaction and the interested director against the common law doctrine of voidability grounded on the director's conflicting interest. See the Introductory Comment for further discussion.

However, a policy decision and a transactional decision can blur and overlap. Assume X Co. operates a steel mini-mill that is running at a loss. A real estate developer offers to buy the land on which the mill is located and the X Co. board, having no other use for the land, accepts the offer. This corporate action can readily be characterized either as a transaction--the sale of the land--or as a business policy decision--to go out of an unprofitable business. If D is a partner of the real estate developer, D has a stake in the sale transaction and subdivisions (1)(i) and (1)(ii) and all of Proposed sections 8.70-8.73 apply. But what if D, having no such interest, is in the local trucking business and a predictable consequence of closing the local mini-mill is that D will benefit from a future increase in demand for hauling services to bring in steel from more distant supply sources? An intent of the words "in or so closely linked to the transaction" in subdivisions (1)(i) and (1)(ii) is to focus Proposed sections 8.70-8.73 on the transaction itself. D's financial stake as a trucker in this situation lies not in the transaction, which is governed by Proposed sections 8.70-8.73, but in the corporate business decision, which is not; accordingly, Proposed subsection 8.71(a) is inapplicable and imposes no bar to the court's discretion. Board action, though in compliance with Proposed section 8.72, will not, ipso facto, yield safe harbor protection for D or the transaction under Proposed subsection 8.71(b). The matter will be treated as provided in paragraph 4 of the Introduction.

As another feature of the key term "transaction," the text of subdivision (1) emphasizes that the term implies and is limited to action by the corporation itself. The language of Proposed sections 8.70-8.73 have no application one way or the other to economic actions by the director in which the corporation is not a party or in which the corporation takes no action. Thus, a purchase by the director of the corporation's shares on the open market or from a third party is not a "transaction" within the scope of Proposed sections 8.70-8.73 and the sections do not govern an attack made on the propriety of such a share purchase.

If the board of directors of X Co. decides to distribute "poison pill" rights in order to fend off a possible takeover, that occurrence does not constitute a "transaction" as contemplated by Proposed sections 8.70-8.73. See the discussion in paragraph 4 of the Introductory Comment as to the character of a "transaction." If, on the other hand, a board of directors commits the corporation to a "crown jewel" option granted to a third party, there would be a "transaction."

But as noted earlier, for the transaction to be covered by Proposed sections 8.70-8.73, the director (or other person designated by Section 8.60(i)) must have a beneficial interest respecting the transaction. Proposed sections 8.70-8.73 would obviously govern such a crown jewel contract if a director was (or had a defined relationship to) the third party. But the fact that the crown jewel contract was in part motivated by the directors' desire to keep themselves on the board would not, taken alone, constitute a sufficiently direct interest in the transaction to bring it within Proposed sections 8.70-8.73.

(2) Party to the transaction--the corporation

Transaction by what entity? In the usual case, the transaction in question would be by X Co. But assume that X Co. is the controlling corporation of S Co. (i.e., it controls the vote for directors of S Co.). D wishes to sell a building D owns to X Co. and X Co. is willing to buy it. As a business matter, it will often make no difference to X Co. whether it takes the title itself or places it with its subsidiary S or another entity that X Co. controls. The applicability of Proposed sections 8.70-8.73 cannot be allowed to depend upon that formal distinction. The Proposed sections 8.70-8.73 therefore include within their operative framework transactions by a subsidiary or controlled entity of X Co. See the Note on Parent Companies and Subsidiaries below.

(3) Party to the transaction—the director

Subdivision (1)(i) and subdivision (1)(ii) differ as to the persons covered and as to the threshold of transactional significance. Subdivision (1)(i), addressed to D and related persons of D, includes as directors' conflicting interest transactions all transactions that meet the substantive criteria prescribed. By contrast, subdivision (1)(ii), addressed to transactions involving other designated persons, excludes from its coverage transactions that are not sufficiently significant to the corporation to warrant decision at the boardroom level.

As a generalization, the linkage between a director and a "related person" is closer than that between the director and those persons and entities specified in subdivision (1)(ii). Correspondingly, the threshold of conflicting interest under subdivision (1)(i) is lower than that set for subdivision (1)(ii). Thus, all routine transactions of X Co. are excluded from the definition of director's conflicting interest transaction unless they fall within subdivision (1)(i). If Y Co., a computer company of which D is also an outside director, sells office machinery to X Co., the transaction will not normally give rise to a conflicting interest for D from the perspective of either company since the transaction is a routine matter that would not come before either board. If, however, the transaction is of such significance to one of the two companies that it would come before the board of that company, then D has a conflicting interest in the transaction with respect to that company.

Implicit in subdivision (1)(ii) is a recognition that X Co. and Y Co., particularly if large enterprises, are likely to have routine, perhaps frequent, business dealings with each other as they buy and sell goods and services in the marketplace. The terms of these dealings are dictated by competitive market forces and the transactions are conducted at personnel levels far below the board room. The fact that D has some relationship with Y Co. is not in itself sufficient reason to open these smaller scale impersonal business transactions to challenge if not passed through the board in accordance with the procedures of Proposed section 8.72. It would be doubly impractical to do so twice where X Co. and Y Co. have a common director.

Proposed section 8.70 takes the practical position. The definition in subdivision (1)(i) excludes most such transactions both by its "knowledge" requirement and by its higher threshold of economic significance. In almost all cases, any such transaction, if challenged, would in any case be easily defensible as being "fair." In respect of day-to-day business dealings, the main practical risk of impropriety that could arise would be that a director having a conflicting interest might seek to exert inappropriate influence upon the interior operations of the enterprise—might try to use the director's status as a director to pressure lower level employees to divert their business out of ordinary channels to the director's advantage. But a director's affirmative misconduct goes well beyond a claim that the director has a conflicting interest and judicial action against such improper behavior remains available. See also the Comment to Proposed subsection 8.72(b) regarding common directors.

The absence of the significance threshold in subdivision (1)(i) does not impose an inappropriate burden on directors and related persons. The commonplace and oftentimes recurring transaction will involve purchase of the corporation's product line, it will usually not be difficult for D to show that the transaction was on commercial terms and was fair, or indeed, that D had no knowledge of the transaction. As a result, these transactions do not invite harassing lawsuits against the director. A purchase by D of a product of X Co. at a usual "employee's discount", while technically assessable as a conflicting interest transaction, would customarily be viewed as "fair" to the corporation as a routine incident of the office of director. For other transactions between the corporation and the director or those close to the director, D can, and should, have the burden of establishing the fairness of the transaction if it is not passed upon by the arm's-length review of qualified directors or the holders of qualified shares. If there are any reasons to believe that the terms of the transaction might be questioned as unfair to X Co., D is well advised to pass the transaction through the safe harbor procedures of Proposed sections 8.70-8.73.

Note on Parent Companies and Subsidiaries

If a subsidiary is wholly owned there is no outside holder of shares of the subsidiary to be injured with respect to transactions between the two corporations.

Transactions between a parent corporation and a partially-owned subsidiary may raise the possibility of abuse of power by a majority shareholder to the disadvantage of a minority shareholder. Proposed sections 8.70-8.73 have no relevance as to how a court should in the circumstances deal with that claim.

If there are not at least two outside directors of the subsidiary, the subsidiary and the board of directors must operate on the basis that any transaction between the subsidiary and the parent that reaches the significance threshold in subdivision (1)(ii) may, as a technical matter, be challengeable by a minority shareholder of the subsidiary on grounds that it is a director's conflicting interest transaction. In that case, the directors of the subsidiary will have to establish the fairness of the transaction to the subsidiary. In practice, however, the case law has dealt with such claims under the rubric of the duties of a majority shareholder and that is, in reality, the better approach. See the Comment to Proposed subsection 8.71(b).

3. RELATED PERSON

Two subcategories of "related person" of the director are set out in subdivision (3). These subcategories are specified, exclusive and preemptive.

The first subcategory is made up of closely related family, or near-family, individuals, trusts and estates as specified in clause (i). The clause is exclusive insofar as family relationships are concerned. The references to a "spouse" are intended to include a common-law spouse or unrelated cohabitant.

The second subcategory is made up of persons specified in clause (ii) to whom or which the director is linked in a fiduciary capacity as, for example, in the director's status as trustee or administrator. (Note that the definition of "person" in the Proposed Act includes both individuals and entities. See Proposed subsection 1.40(16).) From the perspective of X Co., D's fiduciary relationships are always a sensitive concern. A conscientious director may be able to control the director's own greed arising from a conflicting personal interest. And the director may resist the temptation to assist the director's spouse or child. But the director can never escape the legal obligation to act in the best interests of another person for whom the director is a trustee or other fiduciary.

4. REQUIRED DISCLOSURE

Two separate elements together make up the defined term "required disclosure". They are disclosure of the existence of the conflicting interest and then disclosure of the material facts known to D about the subject of the transaction.

Subdivision (4) calls for disclosure of all facts known to D about the subject of the transaction that an ordinarily prudent person would reasonably believe to be material to a judgment by the person acting for the corporation as to whether to proceed or not to proceed with the transaction. If a director knows that the land the corporation is buying from the director is sinking into an abandoned coal mine, the director must disclose not only that the director is the owner and that the director has an interest in the transaction but also that the land is subsiding; as a director of X Co. the director may not invoke caveat emptor. But in the same circumstances the director is not under an obligation to reveal the price the director paid for the property ten years ago, or that the director inherited it, since that information is not material to the corporation's business judgment as to whether or not to proceed with the transaction. Further, while material facts that pertain to the subject of the transaction must be disclosed, a director is not required to reveal personal or subjective information that bears upon the director's negotiating position (such as, for example, the director's urgent need for cash, or the lowest price the director would be willing to accept. This is true despite the fact that such information would obviously be relevant to the corporation's decision-making in the sense that, if known to the corporation, it could equip the corporation to hold out for terms more favorable to it.

Underlying the definition of the twin components of "required disclosure" is the critically important provision contained in subdivision (1) that a basic precondition for the existence of a "conflicting interest" is that the director know of the transaction and also that the director know of the existence of the director's conflicting interest.

5. TIME OF COMMITMENT

The time of the commitment by the corporation (or its subsidiary or other controlled entity) to the transaction is defined in operational terms geared to change of economic position.

Section 8.71 Judicial Action.

Section 8.71 is the operational section of Proposed sections 8.70-8.73 as it prescribes the judicial consequences of the other sections.

Speaking generally:

(i) If the procedure set forth in Proposed section 8.72 or in Proposed section 8.73 is complied with, or if the transaction is fair to the corporation, then a director's conflicting interest transaction is immune from attack on any ground of a personal interest or conflict of interest of the director. The narrow scope of Proposed sections 8.70-8.73 must again, however, be strongly emphasized: if the transaction is vulnerable to attack on some other ground, Proposed sections 8.70-8.73 do not make it less so for having been passed through the procedures of those sections. See, however, paragraph 4 of the Introductory Comment.

(ii) If a transaction is not a director's conflicting interest transaction as defined in Proposed section 8.70, then the transaction may not be enjoined, rescinded or made the basis of other sanction on the ground of a conflict of interest of a director, whether or not it went through the procedures of sections 8.70-8.73. In that sense, Proposed sections 8.70-8.73 are specifically intended to be both comprehensive and exclusive.

(iii) If a transaction that is a director's conflicting interest transaction was not at any time the subject of action taken in compliance with Proposed section 8.72 or Proposed section 8.73, and it is attacked on grounds of a director's conflicting interest and is not shown to be fair to the corporation, then the court may grant such remedial action as it considers appropriate under the applicable law. If the attack is on other grounds, Proposed sections 8.70-8.73 have no relevance to the issue(s) before the court.

1. PROPOSED SUBSECTION 8.71(a)

Proposed subsection 8.71(a) is a key component in the design of Proposed sections 8.70-8.73. It draws a bright-line circle, declaring that the definitions of Proposed section 8.70 wholly occupy and preempt the field of directors' conflicting interest transactions. Of course, outside this circle there is a penumbra of director interests, desires, goals, loyalties and prejudices that may, in a particular context, run at odds with the best interests of the corporation; but Proposed subsection 8.71(a) forbids a court to ground remedial action on any of them. If a plaintiff charges that a director had a conflict of interest with respect to a transaction of the corporation because the other party was the director's cousin, the answer of the court should be: "No. A cousin, as such and without more, is not included in Proposed subsection 8.70(3) as a related person--and under Proposed subsection 8.71(a), I have no authority to reach out farther." If a plaintiff contends that the director had a conflict of interest in a corporate transaction because the other party is president of the golf club the director wants desperately to join, the court should respond: "No. The only director's conflicting interest on the basis of which I can set aside a corporate transaction or impose other sanctions is a financial interest as defined in Proposed section 8.70." The reasons why Proposed sections 8.70-8.73 adopt this bright-line approach are reviewed in the Introductory Comment.

In the real world, however, matters are often not clear, and one cannot always predict with comfort a future judicial response. It must be expected that quite often a director (and the director's legal/business advisors) may be in doubt as to whether a particular person would or would not be held to fall within a subcategory in Proposed subsection 8.70(3), or whether the economic impact on the director will be considered "in or closely linked" to the transaction, or whether the director is an "agent" or "employee," or whether the scale of the director's interest is large enough to be likely to sway the director if brought to a vote. Some directors will wish, too, to make it clear that they are leaning over backwards. In such circumstances, the obvious avenue to follow is to clear the matter with qualified directors under Proposed section 8.72 or with the holders of qualified shares under Proposed section 8.73. If it is later judicially determined that a conflicting interest of the director did exist, the director will be grateful for the safe harbor protection. If it should be ultimately held that there was no conflicting interest in the transaction as defined by Proposed section 8.70, no harm (other than nuisance) has been done by passing the transaction through the procedures of Proposed section 8.72 or Proposed section 8.73. It may be expected, therefore, that the procedures of Proposed section 8.72 (and, to a lesser extent, Proposed section 8.73) will be used with regard to many transactions that lie outside the sharp definitions of Proposed section 8.70—a result that is healthy and constructive.

Once again, it is important to stress that Proposed sections 8.70–8.73 deal only with "transactions". If a non-transactional corporate decision is challenged on the ground that D has a conflicting personal stake in it, Proposed subsection 8.71(a) is irrelevant. For a discussion of corporate action that may be considered either a business decision or a transaction, see the Comment to Proposed subsection 8.70(1)(ii) and Paragraph 4 of the Introductory Comment.

2. PROPOSED SUBSECTION 8.71(b)

Proposed subsection 8.71(b) is the heart of Proposed sections 8.70–8.73—the fundamental section that provides for the safe harbor.

Clause (1) of subsection (b) provides that if a director has a conflicting interest respecting a transaction, neither the transaction nor the director is legally vulnerable if the procedures of Proposed section 8.72 have been properly followed. Proposed subsection (b)(1) is, however, subject to a critically important predicate condition.

The condition—an obvious one—is that the board's action must comply with the care, best interests and good faith criteria for director action prescribed in Proposed subsection 8.30(a). If the directors who voted for the conflicting interest transaction were qualified directors under Proposed sections 8.70–8.73, but approved the transaction merely as an accommodation to the director with the conflicting interest, going through the motions of board action without complying with the requirements of Proposed subsection 8.30(a), the action of the board would not be given effect for purposes of Proposed subsection 8.71(b)(1).

Board action on a director's conflicting interest transaction provides a context in which the function of the "best interests of the corporation" language in Proposed section 8.30(a) is brought into clear focus. Consider, for example, a situation in which it is established that the board of a manufacturing corporation approved a cash loan to a director where the duration, security and interest terms of the loan were at prevailing commercial rates, but (i) the loan was not made in the course of the corporation's ordinary business and (ii) the loan required a commitment of limited working capital that would otherwise have been used in furtherance of the corporation's business activities. Such a loan transaction would not be afforded safe-harbor protection by Proposed section 8.72(b)(1) since the board did not comply with the requirement in section 8.30(a) that the board's action be, in its reasonable judgment, in the best interests of the corporation—that is, that the action will, as the board judges the circumstances at hand, yield favorable results (or reduce detrimental results) as judged from the perspective of furthering the corporation's business activities.

If a determination is made that the terms of a director's conflicting interest transaction, judged according to the circumstances at the time of commitment, were manifestly unfavorable to the corporation, that determination would be relevant to an allegation that the directors' action was not taken in good faith and therefore did not comply with Proposed section 8.30(a).

The Proposed Act does not undertake to prescribe litigation procedures. If board action under Proposed section 8.72(b)(1) is interposed as a bar to a challenge to a director's conflicting interest transaction and the complainant wishes to put in issue an alleged non-compliance with Proposed section 8.30(a) by the board, he would do so by proceeding under the same local pleading, presumption and burden of proof rules that would govern any other attack on an action of a board of directors.

Clause (2) of Proposed subsection (b) regarding shareholders' approval of the transaction is the matching piece to clause (1) regarding directors' approval.

Clause (3) of Proposed subsection (b) provides that a director's conflicting interest transaction will be secure against judicial intervention if the interested director (or the corporation, if it chooses) shows that although neither directors' nor shareholders' action was taken complying with Proposed sections 8.72 or 8.73, the transaction was fair to the corporation. The term "fair" accords with traditional language in the cases. But it must be understood that, as used in the context of those cases and of Proposed sections 8.70-8.73, they have a special flexibility in meaning and a wide embrace.

Note on Fair Transactions

(1) Terms of the Transaction. If the issue in a transaction is the "fairness" of a price, "fair" is not to be taken to imply that there is a single "fair" price, all others being "unfair." It has long been settled that a "fair" price is any price in that broad range which an unrelated party might have been willing to pay, or willing to accept, as the case may be, for the property, following a normal arm's-length business negotiation, in the light of the knowledge that would have been reasonably acquired in the course of such negotiations, any result within that range being "fair." The same statement applies not only to price but to any other key term of the deal.

Although the "fair" criterion applied by the courts is a range rather than a point, the width of the range is only a segment of the full spectrum of the directors' discretion associated with the exercise of business judgment under Proposed section 8.30(a). That is to say, the scope of decisional discretion that a court would have allowed to the directors if they had acted and had complied with Proposed section 8.30(a) is wider than the range of "fairness" contemplated for judicial determination where Proposed subsection 8.71(b)(3) is the governing provision.

(2) Benefit to the Corporation. In considering the "fairness" of the transaction, the court will in addition be required to consider not only the market fairness of the terms of the deal, but also, as the board would have been required to do, whether the transaction was one that was reasonably likely to yield favorable results (or reduce detrimental results) from the perspective of furthering the corporation's business activities. Thus, if a manufacturing company that is short of working capital allocates some of its scarce funds to purchase a sailing yacht owned by one of its directors, it will not be easy to persuade the court that the transaction is "fair" in the sense that it was reasonably made to further the business interests of the corporation; the fact that the price paid for the yacht was stipulated to be a "fair" market price will not be enough alone to uphold the transaction. See also the discussion above regarding Proposed section 8.30(a).

(3) Process of Decision. In some circumstances, the behavior of the director having the conflicting interest can itself affect the finding and content of "fairness." The most obvious illustration of unfair dealing arises out of the director's failure to disclose fully the director's interest or hidden defects known to the director regarding the transaction. Another illustration could be the exertion of improper pressure by the director upon the other directors. When the facts of such unfair dealing become known, the court should offer the corporation its option as to whether to rescind the transaction on grounds of "unfairness" even if it appears that the terms were "fair" by market standards and the corporation profited from it. If the corporation decides not to rescind the transaction because of business advantages accruing to the corporation from it, the court may still find in the director's misconduct a basis for judicially imposed sanction against the director personally. Thus, the course of dealing--or process--is a key component to a "fairness" determination under subsection (b)(3).

Note on Directors' Compensation

Directors' fees and similar forms of compensation, expense reimbursement practices, directors' and officer's liability insurance and routine incidents of office (such as a privilege to buy the corporation's products at a discount) in the normal course of business are typically set by the board and are specially authorized (though not regulated) by sections 8.11 and 8.58 of the Proposed Act. These practices obviously involve a conflicting interest on the part of most if not all of the directors and are capable of being abused, although, in the usual case, they fall within normative patterns and fairness can be readily established. While, as a matter of practical necessity, these practices are universally accepted in principle by the law, board action on directors' compensation and benefits would be subject to judicial sanction if not in the circumstances fair to the corporation or favorably acted upon by shareholders pursuant to Proposed section 8.73. Sustainable action by the board in this regard must, of course, meet the general criteria for board action prescribed in Proposed section 8.30(a); see the Comment to Proposed section 8.71(b).

Note On Directors' Personal Liability

At common law, articulation of the legal principles applicable to directors' conflicts of interest typically declare the transaction to be void or (sometimes) voidable. These formulations say little about the liabilities, if any, of the parties to the transaction. It is clear, however, that in some special circumstances a court would hold that the interested director must disgorge the profits the director made from the transaction or must respond in damages for injury suffered by the corporation as a result of the transaction. Such sanctions could arise in contexts where the court leaves the transaction itself in place as well as in situations where the court rescinds the transaction. Proposed sections 8.70-8.73 leave these matters of sanction entirely to the judgment of the court.

In some situations, a transaction will contain an element of conflicting interest on the part of the director but in reality the director is a surrogate in the board room and not the real beneficiary of the transaction. Thus, where P Co. is a majority or controlling shareholder in X Co., and some or all of the directors of X Co. are the employees or agents of P Co., there is always a risk that, in a transaction between P Co. and X Co., P Co. may take advantage of its position to press its agents and employees who are on the X Co. board to approve a transaction that is disadvantageous to X Co. but advantageous to P Co. Under Proposed sections 8.70-8.73, if X Co. has directors who are not affiliated with P Co., action pursuant to Proposed section 8.72 is possible. But many less-than-wholly-owned subsidiaries have no unaffiliated directors to pass on a transaction between X Co. and its controlling shareholder P Co. In such a circumstance, the minority shareholders of X Co. are entitled to fair treatment; if they are not treated fairly, the responsibility should, in most cases, be laid at the door of P Co. and not be placed upon P Co.'s agents or employees on the X Co. board.

As a matter of case law, the courts have arrived at that result by treating such cases under the rubric of the duty of fair dealing on the part of the controlling shareholder vis-a-vis the minority shareholders. In so doing, the courts have deliberately skipped over any analytically available alternative approach predicated on a theory of conflicting interest of the X Co. director who is an employee or agent of the controlling shareholder. All rights of minority shareholders against a controlling shareholder are preserved unaffected by Proposed sections 8.70-8.73. All directors of X Co., regardless of their other affiliations, have duties to perform for the benefit of all X Co.'s shareholders, not just some of them. D is not relieved of those obligations merely because D happens to be an employee of the majority shareholder. At the same time, in these circumstances D often has little real discretion in voting to approve the transaction and the beneficiary of the transaction is not D but P Co., D's employer.

If a transaction is between P Co. and X Co., if the transaction is important to X Co., if D is an agent or employee of P Co., if the transaction is not protected by the procedures of Proposed section 8.72 or Proposed section 8.73, and if the transaction is not shown to be fair to X Co., then a court may well set aside the transaction or take other remedial action with regard to P Co.--but it would not usually be equitable in such cases to hold D personally liable.

Parallels to this commonplace parent-subsidiary example can also arise under Proposed sections 8.70-8.73 out of almost any circumstance that meets the criteria of Proposed subsection 8.70(1)(ii). It is evident that a common director of X Co. and of Y Co. has a degree of conflicting interest in a transaction between the two corporations; but (assuming no valid safe harbor action under Proposed sections 8.70-8.73) the sanction that would be appropriate would in most circumstances be addressed to the transaction itself and to one or both of the companies involved, rather than to D personally. See the Comment to Proposed subsection 8.70(2) and Proposed subsection 8.72(d).

Section 8.72 Directors' Action.

Proposed section 8.72 provides the procedure for action of the board of directors under Proposed sections 8.70-8.73. In the normal course, this section, taken together with Proposed subsection 8.71(b), will be the key provision for dealing with directors' conflicting interest transactions.

All discussion of Proposed section 8.72 must be conducted in light of the overarching provisions of Proposed subsection 8.30(a) prescribing the criteria for decisions by directors. Board action that does not comply with the requirements of Proposed subsection 8.30(a) will not, of course, be given effect under Proposed section 8.72. See the Comment to Proposed subsection 8.71(b).

1. PROPOSED SUBSECTION 8.72(a)

A transaction in which a director has a conflicting interest is approved under Proposed section 8.72 if and only if it is approved by qualified directors, as defined in Proposed subsection 8.72(d). Action by the board of directors as a whole is effective if approved by the affirmative vote of a majority (but not less than two) of the qualified directors on the board. Action may also be taken by a duly authorized committee of the board but, to be effective, all members of the committee must be qualified directors and the committee must either contain all of the qualified directors on the board or must have been appointed by the affirmative vote of a majority of the qualified directors on the board. The effect of the limitation on committee action is to make it impossible to handpick as committee members a favorably inclined minority from among the qualified directors.

Except to the limited extent provided in subsection (b), approval by the board or committee must be preceded by required disclosure.

Action complying with Proposed subsection 8.72(a) may be taken by the board of directors at any time, before or after the transaction, and may deal with a single transaction or a specified category of similar transactions.

2. PROPOSED SUBSECTION 8.72(b)

Proposed subsection (b) is a new provision designed to deal, in a practical way, with situations in which a director who has a conflicting interest is not able to comply fully with the disclosure requirement of Proposed subsection (a) because of an extrinsic duty of confidentiality. The director may, for example, be prohibited from making full disclosure because of restrictions of law that happen to apply to the transaction (e.g., grand jury seal or national security statute) or professional canon (e.g., lawyers' or doctors' client privilege). The most frequent use of Proposed subsection (b), however, will undoubtedly be in connection with common directors who find themselves in a position of dual fiduciary obligations that clash. If D is also a director of Y Co., D may have acquired privileged confidential information from one or both sources relevant to a transaction between X Co. and Y Co. that the director cannot reveal to one without violating the director's fiduciary relationship to the other. In such circumstance, Proposed subsection (b) makes it possible for such a matter to be brought to the board for consideration under Proposed subsection (a) and thus enable X Co. to secure the protection afforded by Proposed sections 8.70-8.73 for the transaction despite the fact that D cannot make the full disclosure usually required.

To comply with Proposed subsection (b), D must disclose that D has a conflicting interest, inform the directors who vote on the transaction of the nature of the director's duty of confidentiality (e.g., inform them that it arises out of an attorney-client privilege or the director's duty as a director of Y Co. that prevents the director from making the disclosure called for by clause (ii) of Proposed subsection 8.70(4)) and then play no personal part in the board's deliberations. The point of Proposed subsection (b) is simply to make clear that the provisions of Proposed sections 8.70-8.73 may be employed with regard to a transaction in circumstances where an interested director cannot, because of enforced fiduciary silence, make disclosure of the facts known to the director. Of course, if D invokes Proposed subsection (b) and then remains silent before leaving the boardroom, the remaining directors may decline to act on the transaction if troubled by a concern that D knows (or may know) something they do not. On the other hand, if D is subject to an extrinsic duty of confidentiality but has no knowledge of facts that should be disclosed, D would normally so state and disregard Proposed subsection (b), and (having disclosed the existence and nature of D's conflicting interest) thereby comply with Proposed subsection 8.70(4).

A director could, of course, encounter the same problem of mandated silence with regard to any matter that comes before the board; that is, the problem of forced silence is not linked at all to the problems of transactions involving a conflicting interest of a director. It could easily happen that at the same board meeting of X Co. at which D, the interested director, invokes Proposed subsection 8.72(b) and excuses himself, another director who has absolutely no financial interest in the transaction might conclude that under local law the other director is bound to silence (because of attorney-client privilege, for example) and would under general principles of sound director conduct withdraw from participation in the board's deliberations and action.

While subchapter F explicitly contemplates the application of Proposed subsection (b) to the frequently recurrent problem of common directors and officers, it should not otherwise be read as attempting to define the scope or mandate the consequences of various silence-privileges; that is a topic for local law.

Proposed subsection (b) is not available to D if the transaction is directly between the corporation and D or the director's related person--if, that is, the director or a related person is a party to the transaction. If D or a related person is a party to the transaction, the director's only options are required disclosure on an unqualified basis, abandonment of the transaction, or acceptance of the risk of establishing fairness in a court proceeding if the transaction is challenged.

Whenever D proceeds as provided in Proposed subsection 8.72(b), the board should recognize that D may well have information that in usual circumstances D would be required to reveal to the board--information that may well indicate that the transaction is a favorable or unfavorable one for X Co.

3. PROPOSED SUBSECTION 8.72(c)

Proposed subsection (c) contains technical provisions dealing with quorum and superfluous votes by interested directors.

4. PROPOSED SUBSECTION 8.72(d)

Obviously, a director's conflicting interest transaction and D cannot be provided safe harbor protection by fellow directors who themselves have conflicting interests; only "qualified directors" can provide such safe harbor protection pursuant to Proposed subsection (a). "Qualified director" is defined in Proposed subsection (d). The definition is broad: it excludes not only any director who has a conflicting interest respecting the matter, but also--going significantly beyond the persons specified in the subcategories of Proposed subsection 8.70(1)(ii) for purposes of the "conflicting interest" definition--any director whose familial or financial relationship with D or whose employment or professional relationship with D would be likely to influence the director's vote on the transaction.

The determination of whether there is a financial, employment or professional relationship should be based on the practicalities of the situation rather than formalistic circumstances. For example, a director employed by a corporation controlled by D should be regarded as having an employment relationship with D.

Section 8.73 Shareholders' Action.

Proposed section 8.73 provides the machinery for shareholder safe harbor of a director's conflicting interest transaction, as Proposed section 8.72 provides the machinery for safe harbor by action of directors.

1. PROPOSED SUBSECTION 8.73(a)

Proposed subsection (a) specifies the procedure required to establish effective safe harbor protection of a director's conflicting interest transaction through vote of shareholders. In advance of the vote, three steps must be taken. Shareholders must be given notice describing the transaction. D must provide the information called for in Proposed subsection (d), discussed below. And required disclosure must be made, as defined in Proposed subsection 8.70(4). If, then, a majority of all qualified shares that are entitled to vote on the matter vote favorably, the safe harbor provision of Proposed subsection 8.71(b)(2) becomes effective.

Action that complies with Proposed subsection 8.73(a) may be taken at any time--before or after the transaction.

Note that Proposed section 8.73 does not contain a provision comparable to Proposed subsection 8.72(b). Thus, the safe harbor protection of Proposed sections 8.70-8.73 cannot be made available through shareholder action under Proposed section 8.73 in a case where D remains silent because of an extrinsic duty of confidentiality. This is advertent. While it is believed that the Proposed subsection 8.72(b) procedure is workable in the collegial setting of the boardroom, one must have reservations whether the same is true vis-à-vis the shareholder body--especially in larger corporations where there is heavy reliance upon the proxy mechanic. In most situations no opportunity exists for shareholders to quiz D about D's duty and to discuss the implications of acting without the benefit of D's knowledge concerning the transaction. In a case involving a closely-held corporation where Proposed section 8.73 procedures are followed, but with D acting as provided in Proposed subsection 8.72(b), a court could, of course, attach significance to a favorable shareholder vote in evaluating the fairness of the transaction to the corporation. See the discussion in paragraph 4 of the Introductory Comment.

2. PROPOSED SUBSECTION 8.73(b)

Under Proposed subsection (a), only "qualified shares" may be counted in the vote for purposes of safe harbor action pursuant to Proposed subsection 8.71(b)(2). Proposed subsection (b) defines "qualified shares" to exclude all shares that prior to the vote the secretary or other tabulator of the votes knows to be owned or controlled by the director who has the conflicting interest or any related person of that director. It should be stressed that this definition is dependent upon the tabulator's actual knowledge. If the tabulator does not know that certain shares are owned by the director who has the conflicting interest, the tabulator cannot be expected to exclude those shares from the vote count. But see the Comment to Proposed subsection (e).

The category of persons whose shares are excluded from the vote count under Proposed subsection (b) is not the same as the category of persons specified in Proposed subsection 8.70(1)(ii) for purposes of defining D's "conflicting interest" and--importantly--not the same as the category of persons excluded for purposes of the definition of non-qualified directors under Proposed subsection 8.72(d). The distinctions among these three categories are deliberate and carefully drawn.

The definition of "qualified shares" excludes shares owned by D or a related person as defined in Proposed subsection 8.70(3). If D is an employee or director of Y Co., Y Co. is not prevented by that fact from exercising its usual voting rights as to any shares it may hold in X Co. D's linkage to a related person is close. But the net of Proposed subsection 8.70(1)(ii) specifying other persons and entities for purposes of the "conflicting interest" definition is cast so wide that D will never be able to know whether, nor have a reason to try to monitor whether, some person within those subcategories holds X Co. shares. Typically, moreover, D will have no control over those persons and how they vote their X Co. shares. There is, in reality, no reason to strip those persons of their voting rights as shareholders, for in the usual commercial situation they will vote in accordance with their own interests--which may well not coincide with the personal interest of D.

To illustrate the operation of Proposed subsection (b), consider a case in which D is also a director of Y Co., and to D's knowledge: 30% of Y Co.'s stock is owned by X Co.; D, D's spouse, a trust of which D is the trustee, and a corporation D controls, together own 10% of X Co.'s stock but no stock of Y Co.; and X Co. and Y Co. wish to enter into a transaction that is of major significance to both.

From the perspective of X Co., D has a conflicting interest since D is a director of Y Co. If X Co. submits the transaction to a vote of its shareholders under section 8.73, the shares held by D, D's spouse, the trust of which D is the trustee and the corporation D controls are not qualified shares and may not be counted in the vote.

From the perspective of Y Co., D has a conflicting interest since D is a director of X Co. If Y Co. submits the transaction to a vote of its shareholders under Proposed section 8.73, the 30% of Y Co. shares held by X Co. are qualified shares and may be counted for purposes of Proposed section 8.73. The same would be equally true if X Co. were the majority shareholder of Y Co. but as emphasized elsewhere, the vote under Proposed section 8.73 has no effect whatever by way of exonerating or protecting X Co. if X Co. fails to meet any legal obligation which, as the majority shareholder of Y Co., it may owe to the minority shareholders of Y Co.

3. PROPOSED SUBSECTION 8.73(c)

Proposed subsection (c) contains administratively useful quorum provisions and provides that superfluous voting of shares that were not qualified to vote does not vitiate the effectiveness of the vote. But see Proposed subsection (e).

The fact that certain shares are not qualified and are not countable for purposes of subsection (a) says nothing as to whether they are properly countable for other purposes such as, for example, a statutory requirement that a certain fraction of the total vote or a special majority vote be obtained.

4. PROPOSED SUBSECTION 8.73(d)

In most circumstances, the secretary of X Co. will have no way to know whether certain of X Co.'s outstanding shares should be excluded from the teller's count because of the identity of the owners or of those persons who control the voting of the shares. Proposed subsection (a) together with Proposed subsection (d) therefore impose on a director who has a conflicting interest respecting the transaction, as a prerequisite to safe harbor protection by shareholder vote, the obligation to inform the secretary, or other officer or agent authorized to tabulate votes, of the number and holders of shares known by the director to be owned by the director or by a related person of the director. Thus, a director who has a conflicting interest respecting the transaction, because the director stands to make a commission from it, is obligated to report shares owned or the vote of which is controlled by the director and by all related persons of the director; a director who has a conflicting interest respecting the transaction because the director's brother stands to make a commission from it has the same reporting obligation. The tabulator may also, of course, have other independent knowledge of shares that are owned or controlled by a related person of the director.

If the tabulator of votes knows that particular shares should be excluded but fails to exclude them from the count and their inclusion in the vote does not affect its outcome, Proposed subsection (c) governs and the shareholders' vote stands. If the improper inclusion determines the outcome, the shareholders' vote fails to comply with Proposed subsection (a). If the tabulator does not know that certain shares are owned or controlled by the director who has the conflicting interest or a related person of the director, the shares are "qualified" pursuant to the definition in Proposed subsection (b), and the vote cannot be attacked on that ground for failure to comply with Proposed subsection (a); but see Proposed subsection (e).

5. PROPOSED SUBSECTION 8.73(e)

If D did not provide the information required under Proposed subsection (d), on the face of it shareholders' action is not in compliance with Proposed subsection (a) and D has no safe harbor under Proposed subsection (a). In the absence of such safe harbor D can be put to the challenge of establishing the fairness of the transaction under Proposed subsection 8.71(b)(3).

That result is the proper one where D's failure to inform was determinative of the vote or, worse, was part of a deliberate effort on D's part to influence the outcome of the vote. But if D's omission was essentially an act of negligence, if the number of unreported shares was not determinative of the outcome of the vote, and if the omission was not motivated by an effort by D to influence the integrity of the voting process, the court should be free to fashion an appropriate response to the situation in the light of all the considerations at the time of trial and not be automatically forced by the mechanics of sections 8.70-8.73 to a lengthy and retrospective trial on "fairness". Proposed subsection (e) grants the court that discretion in those circumstances and permits it to accord such effect, if any, to the shareholders' vote, or grant such relief respecting the transaction or D, as the court may find appropriate.

Despite the presumption of regularity customarily accorded the secretary's record, a plaintiff may go behind the secretary's record for purposes of Proposed subsection (e).

CHAPTER 9 is reserved.

CHAPTER 10. AMENDMENT OF ARTICLES OF INCORPORATION AND BYLAWS

Section 10.01 Authority to Amend Articles of Incorporation.

Proposed subsection 10.01(a) authorizes a corporation to amend its articles of incorporation by adding a new provision to its articles of incorporation, modifying an existing provision, or deleting a provision in its entirety. The sole test for the validity of an amendment is whether the provision could lawfully have been included in (or in the case of a deletion, omitted from) the original articles of incorporation as of the effective date of the amendment.

The power of amendment must be exercised pursuant to the procedures set forth in the rest of chapter 10, which require (for non-public companies and for corporations with no article of incorporation provision reducing the vote) significant amendments to be approved by two-thirds of the votes eligible to be cast on the proposed amendment (Proposed section 10.03). This vote requirement is supplemented by Proposed section 10.04, which establishes a right of voting by voting groups on amendments that directly affect a single class or series of shares, and by Proposed section 7.27, which establishes voting and quorum requirements for amendments that change the voting requirements for certain actions.

Proposed subsection 10.01(b) restates explicitly the policy embodied in all modern state corporation statutes, that a shareholder "does not have a vested property right" in any provision of the articles of incorporation. It is also consistent with the rejection of the vested rights doctrine by the court in Seattle Trust & Savings Bank v. McCarthy, 94 Wash.2d 605 (1980) ("these authorities ... make it manifest that flexibility is vital to the functioning and growth of corporations, as is the democratic concept of majority rule.") Corporations and their shareholders are also subject to amendments of the governing statute by the state under Proposed section 1.02.

Proposed subsection 10.01(b) should be construed liberally and without qualification or restriction to achieve the fundamental purpose of chapter 10 of permitting corporate adjustment and change generally by two-thirds vote. Proposed subsection 10.01(b) rejects decisions by a few courts that have applied a "vested rights" or "property right" doctrine to restrict or invalidate amendments to articles of incorporation because they modified particular rights conferred on shareholders by the original articles of incorporation. These holdings were rejected by the court in Seattle Trust & Savings Bank because their effect often is to create a tyranny of the minority: the individual consent of each shareholder becomes necessary to adopt any important change, and each shareholder, no matter how small the shareholder's holding, can prevent the change.

Proposed subsection 10.01(b) does not change in any way the purpose of similar provisions in the old law, which included, along with general language similar to Proposed subsection 10.01(a), a long list of specific permissible amendments. This list was designed to eliminate the last possible vestige of the "vested rights" theory by expressly referring to and validating all types of amendments to which a vested rights challenge otherwise could be made. Proposed subsection 10.01(b) omits this "laundry list" of permissible amendments as prolix and unnecessary to carry out the policies of the section. Examples of amendments that may be made under Proposed section 10.01 include:

(1) Amendments to eliminate a narrow or limited purpose clause (thereby authorizing the corporation to engage in any lawful business) or a limited duration clause (thereby authorizing the corporation to have perpetual duration).

(2) Amendments increasing or decreasing the number of shares a corporation is authorized to issue.

(3) Amendments exchanging, classifying, reclassifying, or cancelling any part of a corporation's shares, whether or not previously issued.

(4) Amendments limiting or cancelling the right of holders of a class of shares to receive dividends, whether or not the dividends or rights to receive the dividends had accumulated or accrued in the past.

(5) Amendments creating new classes of shares whether superior or inferior to shares already outstanding, or changing the designations of shares, or the preferences, limitations, or rights of classes of shares, whether or not previously issued.

(6) Amendments dividing a class of shares into series and authorizing the directors to fix the relative rights and preferences of a class or series.

(7) Amendments changing the voting rights of outstanding shares, including elimination of the power to vote cumulatively or assigning multiple or fractional votes per share, or denying the power to vote entirely to classes of shares, whether or not previously issued.

This listing is partial and illustrative only.

A provision in the articles of incorporation is subject to amendment under Proposed section 10.01 even though the provision is described, referred to, or stated in a share certificate, information statement, or other document issued by the corporation that reflects provisions of the articles of incorporation. The only exception to this unlimited power of amendment is Proposed section 6.27, which provides that share transfer restrictions may not be imposed by amendment on shares that were previously issued without the consent of the holder.

Proposed section 10.01 relates only to amendments to articles of incorporation. It does not relate to the impairment of obligations of a corporation to its shareholders based upon contracts independent of the articles of incorporation. An amendment permitted by this section may constitute a breach of such a contract or of a contract between the shareholders themselves. A shareholder with contractual rights (or who otherwise is concerned about possible onerous amendments) may obtain complete protection against these amendments only by establishing procedures in the articles of incorporation or bylaws that limit the power of amendment without the shareholder's consent. In appropriate cases, a shareholder may be able to enjoin an amendment that constitutes a breach of a contract.

Minority shareholders are protected from the power of the majority to impose onerous or objectionable amendments by the two-thirds voting requirement (Proposed section 10.03) and by the right to vote on amendments by separate voting groups (Proposed section 10.04). In addition, courts have held that a decision by majority shareholders to exercise the powers granted by this section in a way that is arguably detrimental or unfair to minority interests may be examined by a court under its inherent equity power to review transactions for good faith and fair dealing. McNulty v. W. & J. Sloane, 54 N.Y.S.2d 253 (Sup. Ct. 1945); Kamena v. Janssen Dairy Corp., 31 A.2d 200, 202 (1943), aff'd, 35 A.2d 894 (NJ 1944) (where the court stated that it "is more a question of fair dealing between the strong and the weak than it is a question of percentages or proportions of the votes favoring the plan.") See also Teschner v. Chicago Title & Trust Co., 322 N.E.2d 54, 57 (IL 1974), where the court, in upholding a transaction that had a reasonable business purpose, relied partially on the fact that there was "no claim of fraud or deceptive conduct . . . or that the exchange offered was unfair or that the price later offered for the shares was inadequate."

Because of the broad power of amendment contained in this section, it is unnecessary and undesirable to make any reference to, or reserve, an express power to amend in articles of incorporation.

Section 10.02 Amendment of Articles of Incorporation By Board of Directors.

The amendments described in clauses (1) through (6) are thought to be so routine and "housekeeping" in nature as not to require action by shareholders. None affects substantive rights in any meaningful way. For example, Proposed subsection 10.02(1) authorizes amendments by the board of directors to provide, change, or eliminate the par value of any class of shares if the corporation has only one class of shares outstanding. Similarly, Proposed subsections 10.02(2) and (3) authorize the board of directors to delete the names of initial directors, or the name and address of the initial registered agent and registered office, set forth in the original articles if that information is obsolete. Proposed subsection 10.02(4) authorizes the board of directors to change the number of authorized shares to effectuate a split of, or stock dividend in, the corporation's own shares, if the corporation has only one class of shares outstanding. Proposed subsection 10.02(5) authorizes name changes without shareholder approval.

Proposed subsection 10.02(6) recognizes that other sections of the Proposed Act expressly permit other amendments to be made by the board of directors without prior shareholder approval. Examples of these include Proposed section 6.02 (creation of series of shares pursuant to authority already granted in the articles) and Proposed section 6.31 (cancellation of reacquired shares if the articles provide they are not to be reissued).

Amendments provided for in this section may be included in restated articles of incorporation under Proposed section 10.07 or in articles of merger under chapter 11.

The Committee deleted the RMA subsection empowering directors to extend the duration of a corporation incorporated at a time when limited duration was required by law. It felt that that provision overlapped specific reinstatement procedures, available for limited time periods, in the old act, and would thus cause confusion.

Section 10.03 Amendment of Articles of Incorporation By Board of Directors and Shareholders.

Significant amendments to articles of incorporation must be approved by the shareholders after being proposed by the board of directors. When proposing an amendment, the board of directors must make a recommendation to the shareholders that the amendment be approved, unless it determines that because of conflict of interest or other special circumstances it should make no recommendation. If the board of directors so determines, it must describe the conflict or circumstance, and communicate the basis for its determination, when presenting the proposed amendment to the shareholders.

Proposed subsection 10.03(c) codifies existing practice by expressly permitting the board of directors to submit an amendment to the shareholders on a conditional basis. This power of the board of directors does not alter the balance of power between the board of directors and shareholders since the board of directors may always withhold its approval entirely and not submit an amendment. Examples of conditions commonly imposed are that the amendment not be approved unless (1) a favorable vote by a specified proportion (larger than ordinarily required) of the shareholders is obtained, (2) no more than a specified fraction of the shareholders file written dissents, or (3) a class or series of shares must approve the amendment as a separate voting group. These conditions may be used, for example, to discourage unwise depletion of corporate assets by the adoption of the amendment. The board of directors is not limited to conditions of these types, however, and may condition the submission on any basis.

Proposed subsection 10.03(e) imposes a requirement that two-thirds (or in case of a public company, a majority) of the votes entitled to be cast by any voting group entitled to vote as a voting group be cast in favor of the amendment. Such requirements are similar to those in old RCW 23.16.020(3). The Committee rejected the RMA approach (which would have reduced the required vote for all corporations to a majority) on grounds that many small corporations had developed control patterns based on the old requirements, and thus that any change would affect the operation of large numbers of corporations. However, the Committee gave such corporations the option to reduce the required vote to a majority of votes entitled to be cast on the amendment. See Proposed subsection 10.03(e). Under Proposed section 7.27, the vote required to make such a reduction would be the vote then in effect (i.e., two-thirds of all the votes entitled to be cast).

The articles of incorporation or the board of directors may require that a proposed amendment be approved by a class or series of shares voting as a separate voting group; such a requirement may only be in addition to that otherwise required by Proposed section 10.04.

Section 10.04 Voting on Amendments to Articles of Incorporation By Voting Groups.

A class or series of shares is generally entitled to vote separately as a voting group on any amendment that affects the class or series in the manner described in subdivisions (1) through (9) of Proposed subsection 10.04(a). Shares are entitled to vote as separate voting groups under this section even though they are designated as nonvoting shares in the articles of incorporation, or the articles of incorporation purport to deny them entirely the right to vote on the proposal in question, or purport to allow other classes or series of shares to vote as part of the same voting group. See Proposed subsection 10.04(d).

The right to vote by voting groups under Proposed section 10.04 is applicable only if "shareholder voting is otherwise required by this title." An amendment that does not require shareholder approval, such as the creation of a new series of shares pursuant to authority reserved in the original articles of incorporation (see Proposed section 6.02), does not trigger the right to vote by voting groups under this section.

The right to vote as a separate voting group provides a major protection for classes or series of shares with preferential rights or classes or series of limited or nonvoting shares against amendments that are especially burdensome to that class. This section, however, does not make the right to vote by separate voting group dependent on an evaluation of whether the amendment is detrimental to the class or series: if the amendment is one of those described in Proposed subsection 10.04(a), the class or series is automatically entitled to vote as a separate voting group on the amendment. The question whether an amendment is detrimental is often a question of judgment, and approval by the affected class or series is required, irrespective of whether the board or other shareholders believe it is beneficial or detrimental to the affected class or series.

The nine types of changes that give rise to voting by voting groups are essentially the same as those stated in the old law. Proposed subsections (b) and (c) extend the privilege of voting by separate voting group to one or more series within a class of shares if the series has unique financial or voting provisions and is affected in one or more of the ways described in Proposed subsection (a). These subsections must necessarily be phrased in general terms; any significant distinguishing feature of a series, which an amendment affects or alters, should trigger the right of voting by separate voting group for that series.

The application of Proposed subsections (b) and (c) may best be illustrated by an example. Assume there is a class of shares with preferential rights comprised of three series, each with different preferential dividend rights. A proposed amendment would reduce the rate of dividend applicable to the "Series A" shares and would change the dividend right of the "Series B" shares from a cumulative to a noncumulative right. The amendment would not affect the preferential dividend right of the "Series C" shares. Both Series A and B would be entitled to vote as separate voting groups on the proposed amendment; the holders of the Series C shares, not directly affected by the amendment, would not be entitled to vote at all unless the shares are otherwise voting shares under the articles of incorporation, in which case they would not vote as a separate voting group but in the voting group consisting of all shares with general voting rights under the articles of incorporation. If the proposed amendment would reduce the dividend right of Series A and change the dividend right of both Series B and C from a cumulative to a noncumulative right, the holders of Series A would be entitled to vote as a single voting group, and the holders of Series B and C would be required to vote together as a single, separate voting group.

Proposed sections 7.25 and 7.26 set forth the mechanics of voting by multiple voting groups.

Proposed subsection 10.04(d) makes clear that the limited right to vote by separate voting groups provided by Proposed section 10.04 may not be narrowed or eliminated by the articles of incorporation. Even if a class or series of shares is described as "nonvoting" and the articles purport to make that class or series nonvoting "for all purposes," that class or series nevertheless has the limited voting right provided by this section. Proposed subsection 10.04(d) was included because of the ambiguity that would normally arise whenever a class or series of nonvoting shares is created; no inference of any kind should be drawn from Proposed subsection 10.04(d) as to whether other, unrelated sections of the Proposed Act may be modified by the provisions in the articles of incorporation.

Section 10.05 Amendment of Articles of Incorporation Before Issuance of Shares.

Proposed section 10.05 provides that, before any shares are issued, amendments may be made by the persons empowered to complete the organization of the corporation. Under Proposed section 10.05 the organizers may, at the option of the corporation, be either the incorporators or the initial directors named in the articles of incorporation. An amendment to the articles made at this stage of the formation process should involve a minimum of formality.

Section 10.06 Articles of Amendment.

The articles of amendment must set forth both the amendment itself and the manner in which it was adopted. In the case of an amendment approved by shareholder vote (Proposed sections 10.03 and 10.04), the articles must state that the amendment was duly approved by the shareholders in accordance with the provisions of sections 10.03 and 10.04.

Proposed subsection 10.06(3) requires the articles of amendment to contain a statement of the manner in which an exchange, reclassification, or cancellation of issued shares is to be put into effect if not set forth in the amendment itself. This requirement avoids any possible confusion that may arise as to how the amendment is to be put into effect and also permits the amendment itself to be limited to provisions of permanent applicability, with transitional provisions having no long-range effect appearing only in the articles of amendment.

Section 10.07 Restated Articles of Incorporation.

Restated articles of incorporation serve the useful purpose of permitting articles of incorporation that have been amended from time to time to be consolidated into a single document. Such a restatement may also eliminate "historical" or obsolete provisions that have no present relevance.

A restatement of articles of incorporation that does not involve any substantive change in the articles may be made by any officer of the corporation. The Committee deleted the RMA requirement of directors' action for such simple restatements on the ground that they were purely ministerial and therefore should not require director approval. If the restatement amends the articles of incorporation, either director (in the case of amendments described in Proposed section 10.02) or shareholder approval of the restatement must be obtained.

If restated articles are submitted to the shareholders, the notice of meeting should identify changes in the articles that may reasonably be viewed as more than mere changes of form.

Proposed subsection 10.07(e) makes it clear that the restated articles of incorporation supersede the original articles of incorporation and all amendments to them, and Proposed subsection 10.07(f) permits the secretary of state to certify the restatement uncluttered by the information set forth in Proposed subsection (e).

Section 10.08 Amendment of Articles of Incorporation Pursuant To Reorganization.

Proposed section 10.08 provides a simplified method of conforming corporate documents filed under state law with the federal statutes relating to corporate reorganization. If a federal court confirms a plan of reorganization that requires articles of amendment to be filed, those amendments may be prepared and filed by the individuals designated by the court and the approval of neither the shareholders nor the board of directors is required. Further, shareholders do not have dissenters' rights unless the plan specifically provides for them.

This section applies only to amendments in articles of incorporation approved before the entry of a final decree in the reorganization plan.

Section 10.09 Effect of Amendment of Articles of Incorporation.

Under Proposed section 10.09, amendments to articles of incorporation do not interrupt the corporate existence and do not abate a proceeding by or against the corporation even though the amendment changes the name of the corporation.

Amendments are effective when filed unless a delayed effective date is elected. See Proposed section 1.23.

The majority's power to affect the rights of other shareholders by means of amendments to the corporation's articles of incorporation is not unlimited. See discussion in Comment to Proposed section 10.02.

Section 10.20 Amendment of Bylaws By Board of Directors or Shareholders.

In the absence of a provision in the articles of incorporation, the power to amend or repeal bylaws is shared by the board of directors and shareholders. Amendment of bylaws by the board of directors is often simpler and more convenient than amendment by the shareholders and avoids the expense of calling a shareholders' meeting, a cost that may be significant in publicly held corporations.

Proposed subsection 10.20(a) provides, however, that the power to amend or repeal bylaws (or adopt new bylaws) may be reserved exclusively to the shareholders by an appropriate provision in the articles of incorporation. This option may appropriately be elected by a closely held corporation—for example, where control arrangements appear in the bylaws but one shareholder or group of shareholders has the power to name a majority of the board of directors. In such a corporation, the control arrangements may alternatively be placed in the articles of incorporation rather than the bylaws if there is no objection to making them a matter of public record.

Proposed subsection 10.20(a)(1) provides that the power to amend or repeal the bylaws (or adopt new bylaws) may be reserved to the shareholders "in whole or part." This language permits the reservation of power to be limited to specific articles or sections of the bylaws or to specific subjects or topics addressed in the bylaws. It is important that the areas reserved exclusively to the shareholders be delineated clearly and unambiguously.

Proposed subsection 10.20(a)(2) permits the shareholders to adopt or amend a bylaw and reserve exclusively to themselves the power to amend or repeal it later. This reservation must be expressed in the action by the shareholders adopting or amending the bylaw. This option is also included for the benefit of closely held corporations.

Proposed subsection 10.20(b) states that the power of shareholders to adopt, amend or repeal bylaws exists even though that power is shared with the board of directors. This section makes inapplicable the holdings of a few cases (e.g., Somers v. AAA Temporary Services, Inc., 284 N.E.2d 462 (Ill. App. 1972)) under differently phrased statutes that shareholders do not have a general or residual power to amend bylaws or that the power to amend bylaws may be vested exclusively in the board of directors. Under the Proposed Act the shareholders always have the power to adopt, amend or repeal the bylaws.

The Committee decided not to include RMA section 10.21 in the Proposed Act. Other sections in the Proposed Act make clear that the quorum or voting requirements for shareholders can be increased by provisions in the corporation's articles of incorporation. RMA section 10.21 would have provided a mechanism to accomplish that end in the bylaws. However, its requirements are complex and appeared to outweigh any advantage of the provision.

Section 10.21 Bylaw Increasing Quorum or Voting Requirements For Directors.

Supermajority provisions relating to the board of directors may appear in the bylaws of the corporation without specific authorization in the articles of incorporation. See Proposed subsections 8.24(a) and (c). Like other bylaw provisions, they may be adopted either by the board of directors or by the shareholders. See Proposed section 10.20. Such provisions, further, may be amended or repealed by the board of directors or shareholders as provided in this section. This treatment of supermajority provisions for the board of directors should be contrasted with the treatment of analogous provisions for shareholders which must be set forth in the articles of incorporation, Proposed section 7.27, and their adoption, amendment, or repeal must be approved by the shareholders by the vote specified in Proposed section 7.27.

Supermajority provisions relating to the board of directors are usually part of control arrangements in closely held corporations, and Proposed section 10.21 is designed with this end in view. Its basic purpose is to ensure that control arrangements negotiated by shareholders for their own protection will not be prematurely terminated by a majority vote of the shareholders or the board of directors. Thus, Proposed subsection 10.21(a)(1) provides that if a supermajority requirement is originally imposed by a bylaw adopted by the shareholders, only the shareholders may amend or repeal it. Further, under Proposed subsection 10.21(b), that bylaw may impose restrictions on the manner in which it may be thereafter amended or repealed by the shareholders. On the other hand, if a supermajority requirement is originally imposed in a bylaw adopted by the board of directors, that bylaw may be amended either by the board of directors or shareholders (see Proposed subsection 10.21(a)(2)), but if it is to be amended by the board of directors, and if the corporation is not a public company, Proposed subsection 10.21(d) requires approval by the supermajority requirement then being imposed or as amended, whichever is greater. This requirement is analogous to that imposed on supermajority amendments appearing in the articles of incorporation. See Proposed section 7.27. If the corporation is a public company, and the bylaw is to be amended by the board of directors, Proposed subsection 10.21(c) requires approval by the voting requirement then in effect.

CHAPTER 11. MERGER AND SHARE EXCHANGE.

Section 11.01 Merger.

Proposed subsection 11.01(a) authorizes a statutory merger, to be accomplished by the adoption of a plan of merger under Proposed subsection 11.01(b), approval of the transaction by the shareholders (if required by Proposed section 11.03), and filing articles of merger under Proposed section 11.05. Upon the effective date of the merger, the surviving corporation becomes vested with all the assets of the disappearing corporations and becomes subject to their liabilities.

Under the Proposed Act there are virtually no restrictions or limitations on the terms of a statutory merger. Shareholders of the disappearing corporations may receive securities of the surviving corporation, securities of a third corporation, e.g., shares issued by the parent of the surviving or disappearing corporation (which may be publicly traded and marketable while the shares of the surviving or disappearing corporation are not), or cash or other property (a "cash" or "cash-out" merger). Some of the holders of a single class of shares may be required to accept securities or properties while the remaining holders may be compelled to accept different securities, property, or cash. The capitalization of the surviving corporation may be restructured in the merger, or its articles of incorporation may be amended by the articles of merger in any way deemed appropriate. Any other provisions considered necessary or desirable with respect to the merger may be included in the plan of merger.

Merger transactions may give rise to voting by separate voting groups of shareholders under Proposed subsection 11.03(e), and dissenting shareholders may have dissenters' rights under chapter 13.

Courts have held that merger transactions that are formally authorized by the procedures set forth in this chapter may in some circumstances constitute a breach of duty to minority shareholders where the effect of the transaction is to eliminate them from further equity participation in the enterprise. See McBride, "Delaware Corporate Law: Judicial Scrutiny of Mergers--The Aftermath of Singer v. Magnavox Co.," 33 BUS.LAW. 2231 (1978). In Delaware, case law establishes that these transactions must be fully disclosed and entirely fair to the minority shareholders. See Singer v. Magnavox Co., 380 A.2d 969 (Del. 1977); Weinberger v. UOP, Inc., 457 A.2d 701 (Del. 1983); Harman v. Maseonellan International, Inc., 442 A.2d 487 (Del. 1982).

A transaction may have the same economic effect as a statutory merger even though it is cast in the form of a nonstatutory transaction. For example, assets of the disappearing corporations may be sold for consideration in the form of shares of the surviving corporation, followed by the distribution of those shares by the disappearing corporations to their shareholders and their subsequent dissolution. Transactions have sometimes been structured in nonstatutory form for tax reasons or in an effort to avoid some of the consequences of a statutory merger, particularly appraisal rights to dissenting shareholders. Faced with these transactions, a few courts have developed or accepted the "de facto merger" concept which, to some uncertain extent, grants to dissenting shareholders the rights they would have had if the transaction had been structured as a statutory merger. See Folk, "De Facto Mergers in Delaware: Hariton v. Arco Electronics, Inc.," 49 VA. L. REV. 1261 (1963).

Old RCW 23A.20.020 provided for a "consolidation," which was similar to a merger, except that all corporate parties to the transaction disappeared and an entirely new corporation was created. In modern corporate practice consolidation transactions are obsolete since it is nearly always advantageous for one of the parties to the transaction to be the surviving corporation. If creation of a new entity is considered desirable, it may be created before the merger and the disappearing entities merged into it. As a result, the Proposed Act makes no references to "consolidation."

Section 11.02 Share Exchange.

Proposed section 11.02 establishes a procedure by which a direct exchange of shares for cash or other consideration in corporate combinations may be effected under the same safeguards applicable to statutory mergers or similar transactions. A share exchange under Proposed section 11.02 is binding upon all shareholders of the acquired class or series of shares.

It is often desirable to effect a reorganization or combination so that the corporation being acquired does not go out of existence but becomes a subsidiary of the acquiring corporation or holding company, the securities of which are issued as part of the transaction. These objectives often are particularly important in the formation of holding company systems for, or for the acquisition of, insurance companies and banks, but are not limited to these transactions. In the absence of a share exchange procedure, this kind of a transaction often may be accomplished only by the process of a "reverse triangular merger": the formation of a new subsidiary of the acquiring or holding company, followed by a merger of that subsidiary into the corporation to be acquired in which securities of the new subsidiary's parent are exchanged for securities of the corporation to be acquired. Proposed section 11.02 provides a straightforward procedure to accomplish the same end.

Under Proposed section 11.02, all shares of a particular class or series of shares must be acquired. However, shares of one or more classes or series may be excluded from the plan or may be included on different bases. After the plan is adopted and approved by the shareholders as required by Proposed section 11.03, it is binding on all holders of shares of the class or series to be acquired; members of the class or series, however, have the right to dissent under chapter 13.

It is not necessary that a share exchange under Proposed section 11.02 be on a share-for-share basis. The consideration for the shares being acquired may be "shares, obligations, or other securities of the acquiring or any other corporation or ... cash or other property in whole or part."

Proposed subsection 11.02(c) is designed to make it clear that the mandatory exchange provided by Proposed section 11.02 does not affect the power of corporations to acquire shares by voluntary exchange or otherwise by agreement with the shareholders.

Section 11.03 Action on Plan of Merger or Share Exchange.

Proposed section 11.03 requires mergers or share exchanges to be approved by the shareholders as follows:

In the case of a merger:

(1) the transaction must always be approved by the shareholders of the disappearing corporation (unless the merger is between parent and subsidiary pursuant to Proposed section 11.04); and

(2) the transaction must be approved by the shareholders of the surviving corporation only if the number of voting or participating shares authorized in its articles of incorporation is increased as a result of the transaction.

In the case of a share exchange:

(1) the transaction must always be approved by the shareholders of the corporation whose shares are being acquired; and

(2) the transaction need not be approved by the shareholders of the corporation acquiring the shares.

Proposed section 11.03 requires the board of directors to propose the plan of merger or share exchange and then submit the proposal to the shareholders. When proposing a plan of merger or share exchange, the board of directors must make a recommendation to the shareholders that the plan be approved, unless it determines that because of conflict of interest or other special circumstances it should make no recommendation. If the board of directors so determines, it must describe the conflict or circumstances, and communicate the basis for its determination, when presenting the proposed plan of merger or share exchange to the shareholders.

Proposed subsection 11.03(c) permits the board of directors to condition its submission of a plan of merger or share exchange on any basis; for example, the board may direct that the plan is approved only if it receives a favorable vote of specified percentage of the disinterested shareholders voting on the plan or that shareholders holding no more than a specified number or percentage of shares file notice of intent to demand payment under chapter 13.

Proposed subsection 11.03(d) requires the notice to shareholders to contain or be accompanied by a copy or summary of the plan. Any summary provided to shareholders must contain sufficient detail regarding the transaction to allow the shareholder to make an informed decision whether to approve the transaction and whether to exercise dissenters' rights pursuant to chapter 13. In the event a copy of the plan is included, it will not usually be necessary to include supporting exhibits and schedules in order for a shareholder to make an informed decision. A copy of the agreement and supporting exhibits and schedules should be provided to any shareholder requesting such in writing.

A plan of merger or share exchange, to be approved, generally must be approved by each voting group entitled to vote on the merger by two-thirds of all the votes entitled to be cast on the plan. However, the articles of incorporation may provide for a lesser vote than two-thirds, or for a lesser vote by separate voting groups, so long as the vote provided for each voting group entitled to vote separately on the plan of merger or share exchange is not less than a majority of all the votes entitled to be cast on the plan of merger or share exchange by that voting group. The Committee rejected a general majority vote standard set forth in the RMA on the ground that the two-thirds requirement in the old law had become an important feature in planning control structures of small corporations. It concluded that the optional article of incorporation provision gave most of the advantages of the RMA provision, without the potential for disrupting control structures.

The articles of incorporation of either corporation may require a greater vote by one or more voting groups of that corporation, and if the transaction involves an amendment to the articles of incorporation of the surviving corporation which affects the voting requirements for future amendments, the transaction must also be approved by the vote required by Proposed section 7.27. See Proposed subsections 11.03(e) and (f). In addition, voting by more than one voting group may be required by Proposed subsections 11.03(e) and (f) or by the articles of incorporation. Finally, the board of directors may require a greater vote or a vote by voting groups under their power to make conditional submissions to shareholders described above. The articles of incorporation or the board of directors, however, may only require a vote by separate voting groups in addition to that otherwise required by this title.

Proposed subsection 11.03(g) describes when approval by the shareholders of the surviving corporation is not required. The Committee considered the requirement in RMA sections 11.03(g)(3) and (4) that shareholders of the surviving corporation vote on merger only if the number of outstanding participating or voting shares is increased by more than 20 percent as a result of the transaction. That requirement is consistent with provisions in a number of states (e.g., Delaware, Michigan, Pennsylvania) and with the requirements of the various stock exchanges. But the requirement generally is not applied to other acquisition forms (e.g., acquisition of assets; triangular mergers) that will achieve the same consequences as a merger. Thus, the Committee concluded that a vote by shareholders of the surviving corporation should only be necessary if an amendment to its articles of incorporation is required to authorize additional shares to consummate the merger. Listed corporations will, of course, continue to be subject to requirements imposed by particular exchanges related to voting.

Proposed subsection 11.03(e) requires voting by voting groups on a plan of merger if the plan contains a provision that "if contained in a proposed amendment to articles of incorporation, would require action by one or more separate voting groups on the proposed amendment." See Proposed section 10.04. Under this provision, voting by voting groups may be required for one or more classes or series of shares of the surviving corporation as well as for one or more classes or series of the disappearing corporation.

Proposed subsection 11.03(f) requires voting by voting groups in a share exchange, with each class or series of shares that is to be acquired in a share exchange entitled to vote as a separate voting group. This provision protects all classes of shareholders when more than one class or series of shares are being acquired on different terms.

In a merger transaction that involves an increase in the number of authorized shares of the surviving corporation, Proposed subsection 11.03(g) requires a shareholder vote. Proposed subsections 11.03(g)(3) and (4) separately apply the authorized share test to increases in the "voting shares" (as defined in Proposed subsection 11.03(h)(2)) and increases in "participating shares" (as defined in Proposed subsection 11.03(h)(1)). If the number of authorized shares of either type is increased in connection with the merger transaction, the transaction must be approved by the shareholders.

Under the definitions in Proposed subsections 11.03(h)(1) and (2), the authorized share requirement may be applied to shares with preferential rights if they are either voting or fully participating, and to deferred or contingent shares issued as a result of the merger. On the other hand, it is typically not applicable to shares issuable under antidilution clauses to balance share splits or share dividends; these shares would not become issuable "pursuant to the merger," but by virtue of later corporate action authorizing the split or dividend.

Proposed subsections 11.03(g)(3) and (4) only determine when a shareholders' vote is required; they do not relate to voting by voting groups. Whether or not a class or series of shares is entitled to vote as a separate voting group is determined by Proposed subsections 11.03(e) and (f).

Proposed subsection 11.03(i) makes it clear that the corporations may abandon without shareholder approval a merger or share exchange even though it has been previously approved by the shareholders. Abandonment under this section does not affect contract rights of third parties. The plan, however, may require that abandonments be approved by shareholders before they are effective.

Section 11.04 Merger of Subsidiary.

Proposed subsection 11.04(a) defines a "parent" corporation as one that owns at least 90 percent of the outstanding shares of each class of another corporation, and a "subsidiary" corporation as one whose shares are so owned. Proposed section 11.04 permits merger of a subsidiary into its parent corporation upon adoption of a plan of merger by the board of directors of the parent alone. Separate action by the board of directors of the subsidiary is unnecessary because the share ownership of the parent corporation is normally sufficient to permit it to elect or remove the subsidiary's board of directors.

Further, the merger transaction need not be approved by the shareholders of either corporation. Approval by the shareholders of the subsidiary is meaningless because the parent's share ownership is sufficient to ensure the plan will be approved. Approval by the parent's shareholders is also unnecessary because the transaction does not materially change their rights: the ownership of the parent corporation is being changed only from 90 percent indirect ownership to 100 percent direct ownership of the same assets, and no significant amendment of the parent's articles of incorporation is being made. For the same reason, shareholders of the parent corporation do not have the right to dissent from the transaction under chapter 13.

Minority shareholders of the subsidiary corporation may receive shares, obligations, or other securities of the parent or any other corporation, or cash or other property in whole or in part in exchange for their shares. The parent must mail notice of the merger, within 10 days after corporate action is taken, to each shareholder of the subsidiary.

Shareholders of the subsidiary corporation have a right to dissent from the merger transaction under chapter 13. Courts have held that in some circumstances such a transaction may constitute a breach of duty owed by the parent corporation to the shareholders of the subsidiary. See Roland International Corp. v. Najjar, 407 A.2d 1032 (Del. 1979).

Section 11.05 Articles of Merger or Share Exchange.

The articles of merger or share exchange formally make the terms of the transaction a matter of public record. The effective date of the articles is the effective date of their filing unless a delayed effective date is utilized. See Proposed section 1.23. The articles of merger or share exchange must state whether the plan was submitted to the vote of one or more voting groups of the participating corporations entitled to vote separately on the plan, and, if so, state that the merger or share exchange was duly approved by the shareholders pursuant to Proposed section 11.03.

Section 11.06 Effect of Merger or Share Exchange.

Proposed section 11.06 describes the legal consequences of a merger or share exchange on its effective date.

Proposed subsection 11.06(a) describes the effect of a merger. On the effective date every disappearing corporation that is a party to the merger disappears into the surviving corporation and the surviving corporation automatically becomes the owner of all real and personal property and becomes subject to all liabilities, actual or contingent, of each disappearing corporation. The property so described is intended to encompass all of the items mentioned in old RCW 23A.20.060(4). A merger is not a conveyance or transfer, and does not give rise to claims of reverter or impairment of title based on a prohibited conveyance or transfer. See Proposed subsection 11.06(a)(2). Further, all pending litigation is continued; the name of the surviving corporation may, but need not be, substituted for the name of a disappearing corporation that is a party to litigation.

Proposed subsection 11.06(a)(6) provides that if any shareholders to any party to the merger are to receive different shares or cash or property under the plan of merger, the rights of those shareholders after the articles of merger are filed are limited to their rights under the plan of merger or their rights under chapter 13 of this Act.

The articles of incorporation of the surviving corporation are amended as provided in the plan of merger on the effective date of the merger. See Proposed subsection 11.06(a)(5).

Proposed subsection 11.06(b) describes the effect of a share exchange. On the effective date, the shareholders of the acquired class of shares cease to be shareholders of the acquired corporation. On that date they are entitled to receive only the consideration provided in the plan of share exchange, or the rights of dissenting shareholders under chapter 13.

Section 11.07 Merger or Share Exchange With Foreign Corporation.

Proposed section 11.07 permits mergers or share exchanges between domestic and foreign corporations.

In connection with a plan of merger, the plan must be permitted under the law of the state or country of incorporation of the foreign corporation as well as under the law of the domestic state. The surviving corporation, if it is a foreign corporation, must file articles of merger to accomplish the disappearance of the domestic corporation or corporations, and thereby irrevocably appoints the secretary of state as agent for service of process and agrees to pay dissenters in accordance with chapter 13.

A plan of share exchange, unlike a plan of merger, need not be authorized by the state or country of incorporation of the acquiring foreign corporation. If the domestic law authorizes a compulsory share exchange to acquire a class or series of shares of a domestic corporation, it makes no difference whether the acquiring corporation is foreign or domestic. This kind of transaction does not affect the separate corporate existence of, or impose the liabilities of the disappearing corporation on, the acquiring foreign corporation.

CHAPTER 12. SALE OF ASSETS.

Section 12.01 Sale of Assets In Regular Course of Business and Mortgage of Assets.

A sale of "all or substantially all" the corporate assets in the regular course of business is governed by Proposed section 12.01. Mortgages of all of the corporation's assets are also covered by Proposed section 12.01. All other sales of "all or substantially all" the corporate assets are governed by Proposed section 12.02. Dispositions or transfers of property that do not involve "all or substantially all" the property of the corporation are not controlled by statute and may be approved by the board of directors (or an authorized corporate officer) in the same manner as any other corporate transaction.

The phrase "all or substantially all" is intended to mean what it literally says, "all or substantially all." The phrase "substantially all" is synonymous with "nearly all" and was added merely to make it clear that the statutory requirements could not be avoided by retention of some minimal or nominal residue of the original assets. A sale of all the corporate assets other than cash or cash equivalents is normally the sale of "all or substantially all" of the corporation's property. A sale of several distinct manufacturing lines while retaining one or more lines is normally not a sale of "all or substantially all" even though the lines being sold are substantial and include a significant fraction of the corporation's former business. If the lines retained are viewed only as a temporary operation or as a pretext to avoid the "all or substantially all" requirements, however, the statutory requirements of chapter 12 must be complied with. Similarly, a sale of a plant but retention of operating assets (e.g., machinery and equipment), accounts receivable, good will, and the like with a view toward continuing the operation at another location is not a sale of "all or substantially all" the corporation's property.

Some court decisions have adopted a narrower construction of somewhat similar statutory language. These decisions should be viewed as resting on the diverse statutory language involved in those cases and should not be viewed as illustrating the meaning of "all or substantially all" intended by the Committee.

Proposed section 12.01 describes transfers or dispositions of "all or substantially all" the corporate assets that do not require shareholder approval unless the articles of incorporation require it. These transactions consist of (1) mortgages or pledges of all the corporation's property, whether or not the loan they secure is in the ordinary course of business, and (2) transactions within the usual and regular course of business.

Mortgages or pledges of all the corporate assets may be demanded by lenders. They are substantively different from a sale or other disposition of assets even though they may take the form of a formal transfer of title to the mortgagee for security purposes, or of a dedication of assets to the repayment of indebtedness, as in the case of oil and gas production payments. The corporation remains in possession of the mortgaged property, may continue to use it for corporate purposes, in most cases must continue to manage the property, and may recover full title to the property by discharging the indebtedness.

Most transfers of "all or substantially all" the corporate property (as defined above) are, almost by definition, not in the usual and regular course of business; sales by real estate corporations and by corporations organized to liquidate a business are examples of sales that may be included in this part of Proposed subsection 12.01(a). Typically, sales falling within the usual and regular course of business do not involve the sale of the corporate name or good will.

Section 12.02 Sale of Assets Other Than In The Regular Course Of Business.

The scope of the phrase "all or substantially all" is discussed in the Comment to Proposed section 12.01. All transactions that involve the sale or transfer of "all or substantially all" the corporate property must be approved by the shareholders unless they fall within one of the exceptions of Proposed section 12.01.

Proposed section 12.02 requires the board of directors to propose the sale and then submit the proposal to the shareholders. The board of directors must make a recommendation to the shareholders that the transaction be approved, unless the board determines that because of conflict of interest or other special circumstances it should make no recommendation. If the board so determines, it must describe the conflict or circumstances, and communicate the basis for its determination, to the shareholders when it presents the proposed sale.

The proposed sale, to be approved, generally must receive two-thirds of all the votes entitled by the articles of incorporation to be cast on the proposal. The Committee rejected the RMA approach that would have required only a majority vote on the ground that the two-thirds approval present in the old law had become such an important part of control structure planning that a reduction to a majority requirement would greatly upset expectations in numerous small corporations. However, the Committee added a provision permitting articles of incorporation to provide for a vote as low as a majority of all the votes entitled to be cast on the transaction by any voting group entitled to vote separately. It felt that such provision permitted the flexibility sought by the RMA provision without endangering control patterns generally.

Nonvoting classes of shares are not given a statutory right to vote on proposed sales (either as separate voting groups or together with voting shares) by the Proposed Act on the theory that classes or series of shares that are made nonvoting by the articles of incorporation generally did not retain a voice in the areas of business the corporation may engage in the future. The articles of incorporation, however, may stipulate that specified classes or series of shares are entitled to vote by separate voting groups. Thus, in the absence of special provision in the articles of incorporation, only the shares of the corporation entitled to vote generally by the articles of incorporation are entitled to vote on sales of substantially all the assets of the corporation. The articles of incorporation may also specify that a greater percentage of votes is required to approve the proposal than specified in Proposed section 12.02.

The board of directors may condition its submission of a proposal to the shareholders under Proposed subsection 12.02(c) on any basis—for example, on its receiving a certain percentage of shareholders' affirmative votes or that specified classes or series of shares, voting by separate voting groups, must approve the transaction or on some other basis.

Proposed subsection 12.02(d) requires the notice to shareholders to contain or be accompanied by a description of the transaction. The description of the transaction must provide sufficient detail so that a shareholder can make an informed decision whether to approve or disapprove the transaction or to exercise dissenters' rights pursuant to chapter 13. In some circumstances it may be appropriate to accompany the description with a copy of the assets sale agreement, although ordinarily supporting exhibits and schedules would not be necessary to allow the shareholder to make an informed decision. In any event, a copy of the asset sale agreement and supporting exhibits and schedule should be provided to a shareholder upon written request.

The approval of most sales of "all or substantially all" of the corporation's assets gives rise to dissenters' rights under chapter 13 to shareholders who are entitled to vote on the transaction and avail themselves of the procedures described in that chapter. Sales subject to Proposed section 12.02 that do not give rise to dissenters' rights even for voting shares include (1) sales pursuant to a court order and (2) sales that require all or substantially all of the net proceeds to be distributed to the shareholders in accordance with their respective interests within one year after the date of sale. See Proposed section 13.02. Shares not entitled to vote on the transaction do not have dissenters' rights by statute; the articles of incorporation may grant those rights or the board of directors may elect to make them available.

Proposed subsection 12.02(f) authorizes a board of directors to abandon a proposed sale without shareholder approval after it has been previously approved by the shareholders. An abandonment does not affect contractual rights that third persons may have against the corporation.

Certain corporate divisions, often called "spin offs," "split offs," or "split ups," sometimes involve transactions that may be formally characterized as sales of "all or substantially all" the corporate assets when in fact they are only a step in a corporate division that does not give rise to the problem of a major change in corporate direction and therefore does not need shareholder approval. Proposed subsection 12.02(g) is designed to make clear that transactions like this, which actually constitute a distribution, are not subject to Proposed section 12.02. See Siegal, "When Corporations Divide: A Statutory and Financial Analysis," 79 HARV. L. REV. 534 (1966).

CHAPTER 13. DISSENTERS' RIGHTS.

Section 13.01 Definitions For Chapter 13.

Proposed section 13.01 contains specialized definitions applicable only to chapter 13.

(1) The definition of "corporation" in Proposed subsection 13.01(1) includes successor or acquiring corporations in mergers or share exchanges within the scope of that definition. In these transactions, the obligations of the disappearing or acquired corporations must be assumed by the successor or acquiring corporation and they are thus included within the definition of "corporation."

(2) The definition of "dissenter" in Proposed subsection 13.01(2) is phrased in terms of a "shareholder," a term that is itself specially defined in Proposed subsection 13.01(7). The definition of "shareholder" for purposes of chapter 13 differs from the definition of that term used elsewhere in the Proposed Act. Proposed section 1.40 defines "shareholder" as used elsewhere in the Act to include only "record shareholders" as defined in Proposed subsection 13.01(5). Proposed subsection 13.01(7), on the other hand, defines "shareholder" to include not only "record shareholders" but "beneficial shareholders," a term that is itself defined in Proposed subsection 13.01(6). The specially defined terms "record shareholder" and "beneficial shareholder" appear primarily in Proposed section 13.03, which establishes the manner in which beneficial shareholders, and record shareholders who are acting as nominees for more than one beneficial shareholder, establish dissenters' rights. The broadest definition of "shareholder" is used generally throughout the balance of Chapter 13 in order to permit beneficial shareholders to take advantage of the provisions of this chapter as provided in Proposed section 13.03. The definition of "dissenter" in Proposed subsection 13.01(2) is also limiting, since only a shareholder who has performed all the conditions imposed on shareholders by this chapter in order to obtain payment for the shareholder's shares is a "dissenter." Under this definition, a shareholder who initially objects but fails to perform any of these conditions within the times specified by this chapter loses status as "dissenter" under this section.

(3) The definition of "fair value" in Proposed subsection 13.01(3) leaves to the parties (and ultimately to the courts) the details by which "fair value" is to be determined within the broad outlines of the definition. This definition thus leaves untouched the accumulated case law about market value, value based on prior sales, capitalized earnings value, and asset value, and permits courts to accept proof of value by any techniques and methods which are generally accepted in the financial community. See Weinberger v. UOP, Inc., 457 A.2d 701 (Del. 1983). It specifically preserves the language in the old law excluding appreciation and depreciation in anticipation of the proposed corporate action, but permits an exception for equitable considerations. The purpose of this exception ("unless exclusion would be inequitable") is to permit consideration of factors similar to those approved by the Supreme Court of Delaware in Weinberger v. UOP, where the court found that the transaction did not involve fair dealing or fair price: "In our view this includes the elements of rescissory damages if the Chancellor considers them susceptible of proof and a remedy appropriate to all the issues of fairness before him." Consideration of appreciation or depreciation which might result from other corporate actions has generally been permitted; these effects in the past have often been reflected either in market value or capitalized earnings value.

"Fair value" is to be determined immediately before the effective date of the corporate action, instead of the date of the shareholder's vote, as is the case under most state statutes that address the issue. This comports with the plan of this chapter to preserve the dissenter's prior rights as a shareholder until the effective date of the corporate action, rather than leaving the dissenter in a twilight zone where the dissenter has lost former rights, but has not yet gained new ones.

(4) The definition of "interest" in Proposed subsection 13.01(4) is included to make interest computations under this chapter more realistic. The right to receive interest is based on the elementary consideration that the corporation has the use of the dissenter's money, and the dissenter has no use of it, from the effective date of the corporation action until the date of payment. The definition also requires the adjustment of rates to accommodate radical changes in prevailing rates like those seen in the late 1970's and early 1980's and that may be seen again in the future. The specification of the rate currently paid by the corporation provides a prima facie standard which should facilitate voluntary settlements. The date from which interest runs has been changed from the date of the shareholders' vote to the effective date of the corporate action, in conformity with the change of the valuation date in Proposed subsection 13.01(3).

Section 13.02 Right to Dissent.

Proposed subsection 13.02(a) establishes the scope of a shareholder's right to dissent (and the shareholder's resulting right to obtain payment for the shareholder's shares) by defining the transactions with respect to which a right to dissent exists. These transactions are:

(1) A plan of merger if the shareholder (i) is entitled to vote on the merger under Proposed section 11.03 or pursuant to provisions in the articles of incorporation, or (ii) is a shareholder of a subsidiary that is merged with a parent under Proposed section 11.04. The right to vote on a merger under Proposed section 11.03 extends to corporations whose separate existence disappears in the merger and to the surviving corporation if the number of its authorized shares is increased as a result of the merger.

(2) A share exchange under Proposed section 11.02 if the corporation is a party whose shares are being acquired by the plan and the shareholder is entitled to vote on the exchange.

(3) A sale or exchange of all or substantially all of the property of the corporation not in the usual course of business under Proposed section 12.02 if the shareholder is entitled to vote on the sale or exchange. Proposed subsection 13.02(a)(3) generally grants dissenters' rights in connection with sales in the process of dissolution but excludes them in connection with sales by court order and sales for cash that require substantially all the net proceeds to be distributed to the shareholders within one year. The inclusion of sales in dissolution is designed to ensure that the right to dissent cannot be avoided by characterizing sales as made in the process of dissolution long before distribution is made. An exception is provided for sales for cash pursuant to a plan that provides for distribution within one year. These transactions are unlikely to be unfair to minority shareholders since majority and minority are being treated in precisely the same way and all shareholders will ultimately receive cash for their shares. A sale other than for cash gives rise to a right of dissent since property sometimes cannot be converted into cash until long after receipt and a minority shareholder should not be compelled to assume the risk of delays or market declines. Similarly, a plan that provides for a prompt distribution of the property received gives rise to the right of dissent since the minority shareholder should not be compelled to accept for the shareholder's shares different securities or other property that may not be readily marketable.

The exclusion of court-ordered sales from the dissenter's right is based on the view that court review and approval ensures that an independent appraisal of the fairness of the transaction has been made.

(4) The Committee rejected the extension made by RMA section 13.02 of dissenters' rights to a significant number of amendments to articles of incorporation. The committee concluded that significant overreaching in such transactions would be limited by equity courts' investigations into the fairness of the exercise of majority power. It did preserve dissenters' rights for reverse stock splits resulting in fractions of shares, where the corporation is to pay cash for the shares. It felt that providing the dissenters' right in such circumstances would afford minority shareholders additional protection from such transactions, while enhancing the majority's freedom to make such changes.

(5) Any corporate action to the extent the articles, bylaws, or a resolution of the board of directors grant a right of dissent. Corporations may wish to grant on a voluntary basis dissenters' rights in connection with important transactions (e.g., those submitted for shareholder approval). The grant may be to nonvoting shareholders in connection with transactions that give rise to dissenters' rights with respect to voting shareholders. The grant of dissenters' rights may add to the attractiveness of preferred shares, and may satisfy shareholders who would, in the absence of dissenters' rights, sue to enjoin the transaction. Also, in situations where the existence of dissenters' rights may otherwise be disputed, the voluntary offer of those rights under this section will avoid a dispute.

Generally, only shareholders who are entitled to vote on the transaction are entitled to assert dissenters' rights with respect to the transaction. The right to vote may be based on the articles of incorporation or other provisions of the Proposed Act. For example, a class of nonvoting shares may nevertheless be entitled to vote (either as a separate voting group or as part of the general voting group) on an amendment to the articles of incorporation that affects them as provided in one of the ways set forth in Proposed section 10.04; such a class is entitled to vote under Proposed section 11.03 and to assert dissenters' rights if the transaction effecting such amendment to the articles also falls within Proposed section 13.02. On the other hand, such a class does not have the right to vote on a sale of substantially all the corporation's asset not in the ordinary course of business, and therefore, that class is not entitled to assert dissenters' rights with respect to that sale. One exception to this principle is the merger of a subsidiary into its parent under Proposed section 11.04 in which minority shareholders of the subsidiary have the right to assert dissenters' rights even though they have no right to vote.

Proposed subsection 13.02(b) basically adopts the New York formula as to exclusivity of the dissenters' remedy of this chapter. The remedy is the exclusive remedy unless the transaction fails to comply with procedural requirements or is "fraudulent." The theory underlying this section is as follows: when a majority of shareholders has approved a corporate change, the corporation should be permitted to proceed even if a minority considers the change unwise or disadvantageous, and persuades a court that this is correct. Since dissenting shareholders can obtain the fair value of their shares, they are protected from pecuniary loss. Thus in general terms an exclusivity principle is justified. But the prospect that shareholders may be "paid off" does not justify the corporation in proceeding without complying with procedural requirements or fraudulently. If the corporation attempts an action in violation of the corporation law on voting, in violation of clauses in articles of incorporation prohibiting it, by deception of shareholders, or in violation of a fiduciary duty—to take some examples—the court's freedom to intervene should be unaffected by the presence or absence of dissenters' rights under this chapter. Because of the variety of situations in which procedural defects and fraud may appear, this section makes no attempt to specify particular illustrations. Rather, it is designed to recognize and preserve the principles that have developed in the case law of Delaware, New York and other states with regard to the effect of dissenters' rights on other remedies of dissident shareholders. See Weinberger v. UOP, Inc., 457 A.2d 701 (Del. 1983) (appraisal remedy may not be adequate "where fraud, misrepresentation, self-dealing, deliberate waste of corporate assets, or gross or palpable overreaching are involved"); Walter J. Schloss Associates v. Arkwin Industries, Inc., 455 N.Y.S.2d 844, 847-52 (App. Div. 1982)(dissenting opinion), reversed, with adoption of dissenting opinion, 460 N.E.2d 1090 (Cl. App. 1984). See also Vorenberg, "Exclusiveness of the Dissenting Stockholders' Appraisal Right," 77 HARV. L. REV. 1189 (1964).

The Committee added Proposed subsection 13.02(c) to retain the substance of the provisions in the old law related to circumstances in which a dissenting shareholder's right to obtain payment terminated.

Section 13.03 Dissent By Nominees and Beneficial Owners.

Proposed section 13.03 addresses the relationship between dissenters' rights and the widespread practice of nominee or street name ownership of publicly held shares. Generally, a shareholder must dissent with respect to all the shares the shareholder owns or over which the shareholder has power to direct the vote. If a record shareholder is a nominee for several beneficial shareholders, however, some of whom wish to dissent and some of whom do not, Proposed subsection 13.03(a) permits the record shareholder to dissent with respect to a portion of the shares owned by the shareholder but only with respect to all the shares beneficially owned by a single person. This limitation is necessary to prevent speculative abuse by a single beneficial shareholder who is not fundamentally opposed to the proposed corporate action but who may wish to gamble, as to some of the beneficial shareholder's shares, on the possibility of a high payment to dissenters.

Proposed subsection 13.03(a) also requires a record shareholder who dissents with respect to a portion of the shares held by the shareholder to notify the corporation of the name and address of the beneficial owner on whose behalf the shareholder has dissented.

Proposed subsection 13.03(b) permits a beneficial shareholder to assert dissenters' rights directly if the beneficial shareholder submits the record shareholder's written consent. Generally, corporations treat the record shareholder as the owner of shares, and a beneficial shareholder is entitled to assert dissenters' rights only as set forth in this section. It would be foreign to the premises underlying nominee and street name ownership to require these record shareholders to forward demands and participate in litigation on behalf of their clients. In order to make dissenters' rights effective without burdening record shareholders, beneficial shareholders should be allowed to assert their own claims as provided in this subsection. The beneficial shareholder is required to submit a written consent by the record shareholder to the beneficial shareholder's assertion of dissenters' rights to verify the beneficial shareholder's entitlement and to permit the protection of any security interest in the shares. In practice, a broker's customer who receives a forwarded notice of proposed corporate action and who wishes to dissent may request the broker to supply the customer with the name of the record shareholder (which may be a house nominee or a nominee of the Depository Trust Company), and a form of consent signed by the record shareholder. From that point forward, the corporation must deal with the beneficial shareholder.

Section 13.20 Notice of Dissenters' Rights.

Proposed subsection 13.20(a) requires the corporation to notify record shareholders of the existence of dissenters' rights before the vote is taken on the corporate action. This notice provides the reassurance to investors that the right to dissent is intended to provide because many shareholders have no idea what rights of dissent they may have or how to assert them. If the corporation is uncertain whether or not the shareholders have dissenters' rights, it may comply with this notice requirement by stating that the shareholders "may have" dissenters' rights.

A similar requirement of notice is expressly required by proxy rules, by the dissenters' rights statutes of several states, and possibly under more general disclosure requirements of federal and state securities laws.

Proposed subsection 13.20(b) requires that notice be given within 10 days after the effective date of corporate action in situations where the action is validly taken without a vote of shareholders, e.g., in a merger of a subsidiary into its parent under Proposed section 11.04. This notice may be combined with the dissenters' notice required by Proposed section 13.22.

Section 13.21 Notice of Intent to Demand Payment.

If a shareholder's vote is called for, Proposed subsection 13.21(a) requires the shareholder to give notice of the shareholder's intent to demand payment before the vote on the corporate action is taken. This notice enables other voters to determine how much of a cash payment may be required. It also serves to limit the number of persons to whom the corporation must give further notice, including the technical details of depositing share certificates. This subsection has no application to actions taken without a shareholder vote.

In order to be and remain a dissenter eligible to demand payment for the shareholder's shares, the section requires that a shareholder must not only give the notice required by this section but must also vote against, or abstain from voting on, the proposal.

Section 13.22 Dissenters' Notice.

The basic purpose of Proposed section 13.22 is to require the corporation to tell all actual or potential dissenters what they must do in order to take advantage of their right of dissent. The requirements of what this notice (called a "dissenters' notice") must contain are spelled out in detail to ensure that this notice serves this basic purpose.

In the case of an action that is submitted to the vote of shareholders, the dissenters' notice must be sent only to those persons who gave notice of their intention to dissent under Proposed section 13.21 and who refrained from voting in favor of the proposed actions. In the case of a transaction not involving a vote by shareholders, the dissenters' notice must be sent to all persons who are eligible to dissent and demand payment. In either case the dissenters' notice must be sent within 10 days after the effective date of the corporate action and must be accompanied by a copy of this chapter.

The notice must contain or be accompanied by a form which a person asserting dissenters' right may use to complete the demand for payment under Proposed section 13.23. The form must specify the date by which it must be received by the corporation, which date must be not less than 30 days nor more than 60 days after the effective date of the notice of how to demand payment.

The dissenters' notice must also specify where and when share certificates must be deposited, or, in the case of uncertificated shares, when restrictions on transfer will become effective under Proposed section 13.24. The date for deposit of share certificates may not be set at a date earlier than the date for receiving the demand for payment.

Proposed subsection 13.22(b)(3) requires the corporation to specify the date of the first announcement to news media or to shareholders of the terms of the proposed corporate action. This is the critical date for determining the rights of shareholder-transferees: persons who became shareholders prior to that date are entitled to the full right to dissent and obtain payment for their shares, while persons who became shareholders on or after that date are entitled only to the more limited rights provided by Proposed section 13.27. It is appropriate for the corporation to furnish this critical date since it knows when information relating to the transaction was publicly released. The date selected should be the date the terms were announced, not the earlier date when consideration of the proposed transaction may have been announced.

Section 13.23 Duty to Demand Payment.

The demand for payment required by Proposed section 13.23 is the definitive statement by the dissenter. In the case of a transaction involving a vote by shareholders, it is a confirmation of the "intention" expressed earlier; in the case of any other transaction, it is the person's first statement of position. In either event, the filing of these demands informs the corporation of the extent of the potential cash drain if it proceeds with the proposed corporate action.

The demand for payment must include a certified statement as to whether the date on which the dissenter acquired ownership of the shares was before (or on or after) the announcement date. See Proposed subsection 13.22(b)(3). This information permits the issuer to detect acquisitions made for speculative or obstructive purposes and to exercise its right under Proposed section 13.27 to defer payment of compensation for these shares.

Proposed subsection 13.23(a) also requires a person who files a demand for payment to deposit the person's share certificates as directed by the corporation in its dissenters' notice. The deposit of share certificates is necessary to prevent dissenters from giving themselves a 30-day option to take payment if the market price of the shares goes down, but sell their shares on the open market if the price goes up. If this kind of speculation were possible, all sophisticated investors might be expected to file demands that they would not intend to carry through unless the price should fall. If the shares are not represented by certificates, the corporation can prevent speculation by restricting their transfer, as authorized by Proposed section 13.24.

With respect to certificated shares, this provision differs from the old law in that the certificates are "deposited" for retention, rather than "submitted for notation." This change assumes that the corporation will retain the certificates unless it fails to effect the proposed corporate action; it thus avoids the need of sending the certificates back to the shareholders, only to be surrendered again when payment is made. In most cases, payment will be made promptly, and the shuttling of certificates back and forth is unnecessary.

A person who fails to file the demand for payment or does not deposit the person's share certificates as required by Proposed subsection 13.23(a) loses the person's status as a dissenter. But a person who fails to certify whether the person acquired the shares before (or on or after) the announcement date does not lose the person's right to dissent; if the person does not thereafter establish that he or she acquired the shares before the announcement date, the corporation may treat the person as an after-acquiring shareholder under Proposed section 13.27.

A shareholder who deposits shares retains all other rights of a shareholder until the effective date of the proposed corporate action. See Proposed subsection 13.23(b).

Section 13.24 Share Restrictions.

Proposed section 13.24 deals with uncertificated shares in the dissent process. Proposed subsection 13.23(a) requires certificated shares to be deposited as directed by the corporation in its dissenters' notice; the restrictions on transfer of uncertificated shares provided by this section impose an analogous restriction on uncertificated shares for the same reasons. See Comment to Proposed section 13.23.

Proposed subsection 13.24(b) makes express that the restriction on transfer of shares provided by this section does not affect any other rights of the shareholder until the effective date of the proposed corporate action.

Section 13.25 Payment.

Proposed section 13.25 changes the relative balance between corporation and dissenting shareholders by requiring payment by the corporation within 30 days of the later of the effective date of the proposed corporate action, or (if the transaction did not need shareholder approval and has been completed) the date the demand for payment is received. The corporation may not wait for a final agreement on value before making payment (as under the old law), and the shareholder has the immediate use of the amount determined by the corporation to represent fair value without waiting for the conclusion of appraisal proceedings.

This obligation to make immediate payment is based on the view that since the person's rights as a shareholder are terminated with the completion of the transaction, the shareholder should have immediate use of the money to which the corporation agrees it has no further claim. A difference of opinion over the total amount to be paid should not delay payment of the amount that is undisputed.

Since the shareholder must decide whether or not to accept the payment in full satisfaction, the shareholder must be furnished at this time with the financial information specified in Proposed subsection 13.25(b), with a reminder of the shareholder's further rights and liabilities, and with a copy of this chapter.

Section 13.26 Failure To Take Action.

Proposed section 13.26 essentially grants the corporation 60 days after the payment demand date to effect the transaction and make payment for the shares as required by Proposed section 13.25. If the corporation is unable to effect the corporate action within 60 days, it must release the shares, and give a new notice when it is ready to repeat the cycle. This requirement prevents the corporation from holding the dissenter indefinitely in a position where the dissenter has no possibility of realizing on the dissenter's shares either by obtaining payment from the corporation or by selling them. If the transaction has been effected but the corporation fails to make payment as required by this chapter, it is subject to the sanctions of Proposed subsection 13.31(b).

Proposed subsection 13.26(b) makes it clear that the corporation at any time after returning the deposited shares may send a new dissenters' notice under Proposed section 13.22 and repeat the procedure.

Section 13.27 After-Acquired Shares.

Proposed section 13.27 provides for separate treatment of shares acquired on or after the date of public announcement of the proposed corporate action; this date is specified by the corporation in its dissenters' notice under Proposed section 13.22. At the corporation's option, holders of shares acquired on or after this date are not entitled to immediate payment under Proposed section 13.25; rather, they may receive only an offer of payment which is conditioned on their agreement to accept it in full satisfaction of their claim. If the right of unconditional immediate payment were granted as to all after-acquired shares, speculators and others might be tempted to buy shares merely for the purpose of dissenting. Since the function of dissenters' rights is to protect investors against unforeseen changes, there is no need to give equally favorable treatment to purchasers who knew or should have known about the proposed changes.

Corporations are given discretion whether to apply Proposed section 13.27 to after-acquired shares. Considerations of simplicity and harmony may prompt the corporation to make immediate payment for shares acquired on or after the specified date as well as for preacquired shares.

The date used as a cut-off for determining the application of this section is when "the terms" of the transaction are first announced to the news media or shareholders. The cut-off should not be set at an earlier date, such as when the first public statement that the corporate action was under consideration was made, because the goal of this section is to prevent use of dissenters' rights as a speculative device after the terms of the transaction are announced.

A dissenter under this section may accept the offered payment in full satisfaction; if the dissenter does not, the dissenter is entitled to demand a judicial determination of the amount to which the dissenter is entitled under Proposed sections 13.28 and 13.30. The dissenter is then entitled to payment of the amount so determined at the termination of the proceeding.

Section 13.28 Procedure If Shareholder Dissatisfied With Payment or Offer.

Proposed section 13.28 also departs significantly from the old law of dissenters' rights.

Under Proposed section 13.28, the dissenter who is not content with the corporation's remittance must state in writing the amount the dissenter is willing to accept. A dissenter who acquired the dissenter's shares after public announcement of the transaction (Proposed section 13.27) and is dissatisfied with the corporation's offer must also state in writing the amount the dissenter is willing to accept. A dissenter cannot, by remaining silent, force the corporation into the expense and delay of a judicial appraisal. Furthermore, if the dissenter's supplemental demand is unreasonable, the dissenter runs the risk of being assessed litigation expenses under Proposed section 13.31. These provisions are designed to encourage settlement without a judicial proceeding.

A dissenter to whom the corporation has made payment (or who has been offered payment under Proposed section 13.27) must make the dissenter's supplemental demand within 30 days after receipt of the payment (or offer of payment) in order to permit the corporation to make an early decision on initiating appraisal proceedings. If the dissenter fails to do so, the dissenter loses the right to demand additional payment under Proposed subsection 13.28(b).

If the corporation, having failed to make payment, also fails to return the certificates previously deposited or release the restrictions on transfer of uncertificated securities within 60 days, the shareholder may treat the shares as purchased by the corporation and demand payment of the full amount claimed under this section. See Proposed subsection 13.30(a). This provision creates no hardship for the corporation since, if it cannot complete the transaction within 60 days, it may return the certificates (or release the restrictions on uncertificated shares) and start the process over again at any time.

Section 13.30 Court Action.

Proposed section 13.30 retains the concept of judicial appraisal as the ultimate means of determining fair value. The proceeding is to be commenced by the corporation within 60 days after receiving a demand for payment under Proposed section 13.28. Proposed subsection 13.30(a) makes this time period jurisdictional; if the petition is not commenced within this period the corporation must pay the additional amounts demanded by the shareholders under Proposed section 13.28. Each shareholder may sue directly for this amount, if necessary, and in an appropriate case may be entitled to charge the corporation with the costs of suit.

All demands for payment made under Proposed section 13.28 are to be resolved in a single proceeding brought in the county where the corporation's principal office is located or, if none, in other specified counties. All shareholders making Proposed section 13.28 demands must be made parties, with service by publication authorized if necessary. Appraisers may be appointed within the discretion of the court. The final judgment establishes not only the fair value of the shares in the abstract but also determines how much each shareholder who made a Proposed section 13.28 demand should actually receive.

If the corporation fails to commence a judicial proceeding to establish the fair value of the shares as required by this section, it must pay the full amount claimed under this section.

Section 13.31 Court Costs and Counsel Fees.

Proposed section 13.31 provides that generally the costs of the appraisal proceeding should be assessed against the corporation. But the court is authorized to assess these costs, in whole or in part, against the dissenters if it concludes they acted arbitrarily, vexatiously, or not in good faith in making the Proposed section 13.28 demand for additional payment. Similarly, counsel fees may be charged against the corporation or against dissenters upon a finding of a failure to comply in good faith with the requirements of this chapter. Individual dissenters, in turn, can be called upon to pay counsel fees for other dissenters if the court finds that the services were of substantial benefit to the other dissenters.

The purpose of these grants of discretion with respect to costs and counsel fees is to increase the incentives of both sides to proceed in good faith under this chapter to attempt to resolve their disagreement without the need of a formal judicial appraisal of the value of shares.

CHAPTER 14. DISSOLUTION.

Section 14.01 Dissolution By Initial Directors or Incorporators.

Proposed section 14.01 provides a simple method of voluntary dissolution for a corporation that has not either issued shares or commenced business. These provisions are alternative: a corporation may utilize Proposed section 14.01 if it has not issued shares (even though it has commenced business) or if it has issued shares but has not commenced business. Dissolution may be accomplished in either of these situations simply by a majority vote of the initial directors, or if none, by the incorporators. (See Proposed section 2.05 and its Comment for a discussion of the roles of "incorporators" or "initial directors" in the organization of a corporation.)

This simple method of dissolution is likely to be used by nameholding corporations or by corporations formed for the initiation of a new venture when the reasons for the initial creation of the corporation have been completely realized or will never come to fruition.

The form of articles of dissolution provided in Proposed section 14.01 takes account of the fact that a corporation may utilize this section even though it has received capital from the issuance of shares or has incurred liabilities either from the commencement of business without issuing shares or from its organization; hence the articles must state that no debts remain unpaid, and that the net assets of the corporation remaining after winding up have been distributed to the shareholders.

Section 14.02 Dissolution By Board of Directors and Shareholders.

A corporation that has issued shares and commenced business may dissolve voluntarily only with the approval of its shareholders. Proposed section 14.02 requires the board of directors to propose dissolution and then submit the proposal to the shareholders. The board of director must make a recommendation to the shareholders that the proposal to dissolve be approved, unless it determines that because of conflict of interest or other special circumstances it should make no recommendation. If the board of directors so determines, it must describe the conflict or circumstances, and communicate the basis for its determination, to the shareholders when presenting the proposal to dissolve to the shareholders.

Dissolution, to be approved, generally must receive the vote of two-thirds of all the votes entitled by the articles of incorporation to vote on the proposal. As with other organic changes, the Committee rejected the RMA majority vote requirement in favor of generally continuing the two-thirds standard in the old law. However, provisions in the articles of incorporation may reduce the required vote to a majority of all shares of any voting group entitled to vote separately in the proposal.

Nonvoting classes of shares are not given a statutory right to vote on proposals to dissolve (either as separate voting groups or together with voting shares) by the Proposed Act on the theory that, upon dissolution, the rights of all classes or series of shares are fixed by the articles of incorporation. The articles of incorporation, however, may stipulate that specified classes or series of shares are entitled to vote by separate voting groups. Thus, in the absence of specific provision in the articles of incorporation, only the shares of the corporation entitled to vote generally by the articles of incorporation are entitled to vote on dissolution. The articles of incorporation may also specify that a greater percentage of votes is required to approve the proposal than is required by Proposed section 14.02.

The board of directors may condition its submission of a proposal to the shareholders under Proposed subsection (c) on its receiving a specified percentage of the votes of shareholders of one or more classes or series, voting by separate voting groups, or on some other basis.

Proposed section 14.04 permits the corporation to revoke the dissolution under the circumstances described.

The Committee agreed with the determination of the RMA drafters to omit a provision authorizing voluntary dissolution by consent of shareholders. See old RCW 23A.28.020. The only unique feature that that provision offered that the Proposed Act does not offer is dissolution without action of the board of directors. The Proposed Act provides for action by both directors (see Proposed section 8.21) and shareholders (see Proposed section 7.04) without a meeting. Those provisions were thought to offer sufficient flexibility to small corporations. Thus, voluntary dissolution by consent of shareholders was thought to be unnecessary.

Section 14.03 Articles of Dissolution.

The act of filing the articles of dissolution makes the decision to dissolve a matter of public record and establishes the time when the corporation must begin the process of winding-up and cease carrying on its business except to the extent necessary for winding-up.

Under the Proposed Act, articles of dissolution may be filed at the commencement of winding-up or at any time thereafter. This is the only filing required for voluntary dissolution; no filing is required to mark the completion of winding-up since the existence of the corporation continues for certain purposes even after the business is wound up and the assets remaining after satisfaction of all creditors are distributed to the shareholders. No time limit for filing the articles is specified, and it often may be desirable to postpone filing until winding up is far along or even complete. Indeed, the requirement in Proposed sections 14.01 and 14.03 that a copy of the revenue clearance certificate be filed with the articles of dissolution will necessitate postponement of the filing in many cases until the winding up is complete.

A corporation is dissolved on the date the articles of dissolution are effective. After this date the corporation is referred to as a "dissolved corporation," although its existence continues under Proposed section 14.05 for purposes of winding up.

Section 14.04 Revocation of Dissolution.

Voluntary dissolution may be revoked within 120 days of the effective date of the dissolution. Because of the importance and finality of dissolution, the decision to revoke dissolution generally requires shareholder authorization (unless the dissolution was approved solely by the initial director or incorporators under Proposed section 14.01). Proposed subsection 14.04(b), however, contemplates that the board of directors may revoke dissolution if specifically granted that authority in advance by the shareholders when approving the dissolution. Such authorization is often included in proposals to dissolve that are contingent upon the effectuation of another transaction, such as a sale of corporate assets not in the ordinary course of business.

Certain other action requiring shareholder approval may be revoked by the board of directors without express shareholder approval. (See Proposed sections 11.03 and 12.02). By contrast, dissolution under Proposed section 14.04 may not be revoked by the board of directors without approval of the shareholders.

Articles of revocation of dissolution must be filed to reflect the decision to resume the business of the corporation. The information required in these articles parallels the information required in the original articles of dissolution.

The effect of articles of revocation of dissolution is to eliminate the requirement that the corporation cease to conduct its business except as part of the winding-up process and permit it to resume its business without limitation and as if dissolution had never occurred.

Section 14.05 Effect of Dissolution.

Proposed subsection 14.05(a) provides that dissolution does not terminate the corporate existence but simply requires the corporation thereafter to devote itself to winding up its affairs and liquidating its assets; after dissolution, the corporation may not carry on its business except as may be appropriate for winding-up.

The Proposed Act uses the term "dissolution" in the specialized sense described above and not to describe the final step in the liquidation of the corporate business. This is made clear by Proposed subsection 14.05(b), which provides that chapter 14 dissolution does not have any of the characteristics of common law dissolution, which treated corporate dissolution as analogous to the death of a natural person and abated lawsuits, vested equitable title to corporate property in the shareholders, imposed the fiduciary duty of trustees on directors who had custody of corporate assets, and revoked the authority of the registered agent. Proposed subsection 14.05(b) expressly reverses all of these common law attributes of dissolution and makes clear that the rights, powers, and duties of shareholders, the directors, and the registered agent are not affected by dissolution and that suits by or against the corporation are not affected in any way.

Section 14.06 Known Claims Against A Dissolved Corporation.

Proposed section 14.06 provides a new and simplified system for handling known claims against a dissolved corporation. Proposed section 14.06 deals solely with known claims. A claim is a "known" claim even if it is unliquidated (see Proposed subsection 14.06(d)); a claim that is contingent or has not matured so that there is no immediate right to bring suit is not a "known" claim.

Known claims are handled in Proposed section 14.06 through a process of written notice to claimants; the written notice must contain the information described in Proposed subsection 14.06(b). Such notice appears to satisfy the requirements set forth in Tulsa Professional Collection Services, Inc. v. Pope, 108 S. Ct. 1340 (1988) (which would be relevant only in the event that some aspect of the procedure was considered to be state action). Proposed subsection 14.06(c) then provides fixed deadlines by which claims are barred under various circumstances, as follows:

(1) If a claimant receives written notice satisfying Proposed subsection 14.06(b) but fails to file the claim by the deadline specified by the corporation, the claim is barred by Proposed subsection 14.06(c)(1).

(2) If a claimant receives written notice satisfying Proposed subsection 14.06(b) and files the claim as required:

(i) but the corporation rejects the claim, the claimant must commence a proceeding to enforce the claim within 90 days of the rejection or the claim is barred by Proposed subsection 14.06(c)(2); or

(ii) if the corporation does not act on the claim or fails to notify the claimant of the rejection, the claimant is not barred by Proposed subsection 14.06(c) until the corporation notifies the claimant.

These principles, it should be emphasized, do not lengthen statutes of limitation applicable under general state law. Thus claims that are not barred under the foregoing rules—for example, if the corporation does not act on a claim—will nevertheless be subject to the general statute of limitations applicable to claims of that type.

Even though the directors are not trustees of the assets of a dissolved corporation (see Proposed subsection 14.05(b)(3)), they must discharge or make provision for discharging all of the corporation's known liabilities before distributing the remaining assets to the shareholders. See Proposed subsections 14.05(a)(3) and (4). See also Proposed sections 6.40 and 8.32.

The Committee deferred possible adoption of RMA section 14.07, which would have barred unknown claims after publication of notice. It was informed that the RMA drafters are studying the provision for possible revision. The Committee will reconsider RMA section 14.07 and Proposed section 14.34 in view of those revisions.

Section 14.20 Grounds For Administrative Dissolution.

Involuntary dissolution in earlier versions of the Model Act (and the Washington Business Corporation Act prior to 1980) required a judicial order upon suit filed by the state attorney general. In the comment to section 95 of the 1969 Model Act, this decision was explained on the basis that the Model Act "provides for judicial review in protection of rights that might otherwise be lost." This position, however, was not generally accepted. In 1980, Washington adopted old RCW 23A-.28.125. By 1982 only three jurisdictions limited involuntary dissolution to judicial action; all other jurisdictions permitted administrative dissolution for a variety of reasons, usually including a failure to pay franchise taxes and often including failure to file annual reports or otherwise comply with similar requirements of the corporation statutes. Some of these administrative dissolution statutes appeared in the tax statutes rather than the corporation statutes of the states.

The experience in most states has been that administrative dissolution, or the threat thereof, is an effective enforcement mechanism for a variety of statutory obligations. Judicial dissolution is inappropriate for many of these violations because of its cost and the diversion of limited legal resources, particularly since most violations reflect the abandonment of the corporation by its owners.

The advantages of administrative dissolution in these circumstances are compelling: it not only reduces the number of records maintained by the secretary of state, but also avoids further wasteful attempts to compel compliance by the abandoned corporations and returns the corporate name promptly to the status of available names. Therefore, the Proposed Act includes, in Proposed sections 14.20 through 14.22, provisions for the administrative dissolution of corporations in certain limited circumstances. These circumstances are set forth in Proposed section 14.20 and closely parallel provisions found in the old law and in most state statutes on this subject.

Old RCW 23A did not clearly state when a corporation whose period of duration had expired was dissolved. (Old RCW 23A.28.135(1) begins with the words "a corporation which has been dissolved by reason of the expiration of its period of duration"; but expiration of duration was not mentioned as a ground for administrative dissolution under old RCW 23A.28.125.) Proposed subsections 14.20(5) and (6) are designed to clarify this situation. If a corporation has a limited duration which expires after July 1, 1990, that corporation continues to exist until the secretary of state administratively dissolves it. If a corporation whose limited duration expired prior to July 1, 1990 has continued to satisfy annual report, fees and registered agent/office requirements, such corporation continues to exist until the secretary of state administratively dissolves it. If the corporation had a limited duration which expired prior to July 1, 1990, and has failed to satisfy any of such requirements, it has been dissolved prior to the effective date of the Proposed Act, and since it was not administratively dissolved, it is not eligible for reinstatement under Proposed section 14.22.

Section 14.21 Procedure For and Effect of Administrative Dissolution.

Many failures to comply with statutory requirements that may give rise to administrative dissolution under Proposed section 14.20 occur because of oversight or inadvertence by responsible corporate officers of corporations that are continuing in business. Such failures are usually corrected promptly when brought to the corporation's attention. Proposed subsections 14.21(a) and (b) therefore provide a mandatory notice by the secretary of state to each corporation subject to administrative dissolution and a 60-day grace period following the notice before administrative dissolution may be ordered.

In most instances, the issue whether the corporation is subject to administrative dissolution will not be controverted. If a corporation is administratively dissolved, it may petition the secretary of state for reinstatement under Proposed section 14.22 and, if this is denied, it may seek judicial review of the denial under Proposed section 1.26.

Section 14.22 Reinstatement Following Administrative Dissolution.

Proposed section 14.22 provides a two-year period during which a corporation may seek reinstatement following administrative dissolution. This section may apply when a corporation through inadvertence or a failure to maintain a registered agent fails to receive or respond to the predissolution notice of default required by Proposed section 14.21. A corporation that is reinstated pursuant to this section resumes carrying on its business as before dissolution.

In order to be eligible for reinstatement, a corporation must comply with all statutory requirements at the time it seeks reinstatement. It must establish, for example, that its name is available when it files the application for reinstatement. If its name is not available, the corporation must file articles of amendment changing its name with its application for reinstatement.

The Committee did not adopt RMA 14.23 (Appeal from denial of reinstatement). The Committee felt that the subject was better dealt with under the more general provisions in Proposed section 1.26.

Section 14.30 Grounds For Judicial Dissolution.

Proposed section 14.30 provides grounds for the judicial dissolution of corporations at the request of the state, a shareholder, a creditor, or a corporation which has commenced voluntary dissolution. This section states that a court "may" order dissolution if a ground for dissolution exists. Thus there is discretion on the part of the court as to whether dissolution, or some other remedy, is appropriate even though grounds exist under the specific circumstances.

Proposed subsection 14.30(1) preserves long standing and traditional provisions authorizing the state to seek to dissolve involuntarily a corporation by judicial decree. While this power has been exercised only rarely in recent years, this right of the state involves a policing action that provides a means by which the state may ensure compliance with, and nonabuse of, the fundamentals of corporate existence. Proposed subsection 14.30(1) limits the power of the state in this regard to grounds that are reasonably related to this objective.

The legality of proposed corporations or of proposed actions has sometimes been tested by the secretary of state's refusal to accept documents for filing. The role of the secretary of state in reviewing documents for filing has been restricted by the Proposed Act (see Proposed section 1.25 and its Comment). It is intended that suits under Proposed section 14.30 will replace those actions.

Proposed subsection 14.30(2) provides for involuntary dissolution at the suit of a shareholder under circumstances involving deadlock or significant abuse of power by controlling shareholders or directors.

Dissolution because of deadlock is available if there is a deadlock at the directors' level but only if (1) the shareholders are unable to break the deadlock and (2) either "irreparable injury" to the corporation is being threatened or suffered or the business and affairs "can no longer be conducted to the advantage of" the shareholders. This language closely follows the old law except that the requirement of "irreparable injury" has been relaxed to some extent. Dissolution because of deadlock at the directors' level is not dependent on the lapse of time during which the deadlock continues.

Dissolution is also available because of deadlock at the shareholders' level if the shareholders are unable to elect directors over a two-year period. This remedy is particularly important in small or family-held corporations in which share ownership may be divided on a 50-50 basis or a supermajority provision (including possibly a requirement of unanimity) may effectively prevent the election of any directors. Thus, a shareholder states a cause of action under Proposed subsection 14.30(2)(iii) simply by stating facts related to shareholder deadlock and need not plead facts concerning irreparable injury or misconduct by the directors then in office. If injury or misconduct is present, a deadlocked shareholder may proceed under another clause of Proposed subsection 14.30(2). Once such facts have been shown, the court then has discretion to determine whether dissolution, or some other remedy short of dissolution, is equitable. Compare Henry George & Sons, Inc. v. Cooper-George, Inc., 95 Wash. 2d 944 (1981).

A shareholder may sue for involuntary dissolution upon proof either that those in control of the corporation are acting illegally, oppressively, or fraudulently (Proposed subsection 14.30(2)(ii)) or that the corporate assets are being misapplied or wasted (Proposed subsection 14.30(2)(iv)). The application of these grounds for dissolution to specific circumstances obviously involves judicial discretion in the application of a general standard to concrete circumstances. The court should be cautious in the application of these grounds so as to limit them to genuine abuse rather than instances of acceptable tactics in a power struggle for control of a corporation.

Creditors may obtain involuntary dissolution only when the corporation is insolvent and only in the limited circumstances set forth in Proposed subsection 14.30(3). Typically, a proceeding under the federal Bankruptcy Act is an alternative in these situations.

A corporation that has commenced voluntary dissolution may petition a court to supervise its dissolution. Such an action may be appropriate to permit the orderly liquidation of the corporate assets and to protect the corporation from a multitude of creditors' suits or suits by dissatisfied shareholders.

Section 14.31 Procedure For Judicial Dissolution.

Proposed sections 14.30 and 14.31 designate the attorney general as the officer to bring suits for involuntary dissolution by the state. Proposed subsection 14.30(1) specifies grounds for such actions.

Proposed subsection 14.31(a) requires all suits for judicial dissolution be brought where the corporation's registered office is or was last located. This rule is in accord with the old law.

Proposed subsection 14.31(b) provides that neither directors nor shareholders are necessary parties to the dissolution action.

Proposed subsection 14.31(c) sets out the general powers of courts in dissolution proceedings. This confirms the general powers of a court in equity to protect the legal rights of interested parties.

Section 14.32 Receivership or Custodianship.

Proposed section 14.32 preserves provisions from the old law authorizing the appointment of a receiver, and adds authority to appoint a custodian as an alternative, for a corporation in a judicial dissolution proceeding. Chapter 7.60 RCW regulates the appointment of receivers and defines their duties. Proposed section 14.32 is designed to supplement these general provisions and grant the court power to take the steps it considers necessary to resolve the internal corporate problem or to effect liquidation of the corporation in an efficient manner.

Section 14.33 Decree of Dissolution.

A court decree ordering that a corporation be dissolved involuntarily has the same legal effect as articles of dissolution. Proposed section 14.33 requires that the secretary of state receive and file a copy of the decree. Thereafter the corporation's business and affairs are to be wound up as provided in Proposed sections 14.05 and 14.06.

Section 14.34 Survival of Remedy After Dissolution.

As noted in the Comment to Proposed section 14.06, the Committee deferred possible adoption of RMA section 14.07, which would have barred unknown claims after publication of notice. It adopted Proposed section 14.34 to continue the survival of remedy provisions in the old law. The Committee will reexamine the issue upon completion of a pending study by RMA drafters.

Section 14.40 Deposit With State Treasurer.

Proposed section 14.40 is a deposit provision, not an escheat provision. It does not provide for ultimate disposition of unclaimed funds. Rather, it permits a corporation that has dissolved to pay over for safekeeping to the state treasurer funds belonging to a creditor, claimant, or shareholder who cannot be found.

The handling and ultimate disposition of unclaimed funds by either the corporation or the state treasurer is to be determined by the Uniform Unclaimed Property Act, chapter 63.29 RCW.

CHAPTER 15. FOREIGN CORPORATIONS

Section 15.01 Authority To Transact Business Required.

A state may prescribe the terms and conditions upon which a foreign corporation is permitted to transact business within the state, subject, of course, to the restrictions of the United States Constitution. Chapter 15 requires that a foreign corporation seeking to transact business within Washington must (1) obtain a certificate of authority from the secretary of state and (2) maintain a registered office and appoint a registered agent within the state.

Proposed subsection 15.01(a) states the basic requirement that a foreign corporation must obtain a certificate of authority before it transacts business within the state. Proposed section 15.05 describes the scope of the privilege obtained by a certificate of authority while Proposed section 15.02 describes the consequences of transacting business in the state without first obtaining the certificate of authority.

The Proposed Act does not attempt to formulate an inclusive definition of what constitutes the transaction of business. Rather, the concept is defined in a negative fashion by Proposed subsection 15.01(b), which states that certain activities do not constitute the transaction of business. In general terms, any conduct more regular, systematic, or extensive than that described in Proposed subsection 15.01(b) constitutes the transaction of business and requires the corporation to obtain a certificate of authority. Typical conduct requiring a certificate of authority includes maintaining an office to conduct local intrastate business, selling personal property not in interstate commerce, and owning or using real estate for general corporate purposes. But the passive owning of real estate for investment purposes does not constitute transacting business. See Proposed subsection 15.01(b)(9).

The test of "transacting business" defined in a negative way in Proposed subsection 15.01(b) applies only to the question whether the corporation's contacts with the state are such that it must obtain a certificate of authority. It is not applicable to other questions such as whether the corporation is amenable to service of process under state "long-arm" statutes or liable for state or local taxes. A corporation that has obtained (or is required to obtain) a certificate of authority to transact business under chapter 15 will generally be subject to suit and state taxation in the state, while a corporation that is subject to service of process or state taxation in a state will not necessarily be required to obtain a certificate of authority under chapter 15.

The list of activities set forth in Proposed subsection 15.01(b) is not exhaustive. See Proposed subsection 15.01(c). The list excludes several different types of activities from the definition of "transacting business," which are discussed below.

Proposed subsection 15.01(b)(1) excludes "maintaining or defending any action or suit or any administrative or arbitration proceeding, or effecting the settlement thereof or the settlement of claims or disputes." Thus, a corporation is not "transacting business" solely because it resorts to the courts of the state to recover an indebtedness, enforce an obligation, recover possession of personal property, obtain the appointment of a receiver, intervene in a pending proceeding, bring a petition to compel arbitration, file an appeal bond, or pursue appellate remedies. Similarly, a foreign corporation is not required to obtain a certificate of authority merely because it files a complaint with the state securities commission or other governmental agency or participates in an administrative proceeding within the state.

A corporation does not "transact business" within a state under Proposed section 15.01 merely because some of its internal affairs occur within a state. Thus, a corporation may hold meetings of its board of directors or shareholders within a state without first obtaining a certificate of authority (Proposed subsection 15.01(b)(2)). It also may maintain offices or agencies within a state relating solely to the transfer, registration, or exchange of its shares without obtaining a certificate of authority (Proposed subsection 15.01(b)(4)). Other activities relating to the internal affairs of the corporation that do not constitute the transaction of business under Proposed subsection 15.01(b) include having officers or representatives of a corporation who reside within or are physically present in the state; while there, the officers or representatives may make executive decisions relating to the affairs of the corporation without imposing on the corporation the requirement that it obtain a certificate of authority in the state, provided these activities are not so regular and systematic as to cause the residence to be viewed as a business office.

A foreign corporation may maintain a bank account with a bank within the state, make deposits and write checks on the account without obtaining a certificate of authority (Proposed subsection 15.01(b)(3)). It may also maintain share accounts in a savings and loan association, stock or bond brokerage accounts, or certain custodial arrangements without obtaining a certificate of authority.

A corporation is not "transacting business" within the meaning of Proposed subsection 15.01(a) if it is transacting business in interstate commerce (Proposed subsection 15.01(b)(10)) or soliciting or obtaining orders that must be accepted outside the state before they become contracts (Proposed subsection 15.01(b)(6)). These limitations reflect the provisions of the United States Constitution that grant to the United States Congress exclusive power over interstate commerce, and preclude states from imposing restrictions or conditions upon this commerce. These sections should be construed in a manner consistent with judicial decisions under the United States Constitution. Under these decisions, a foreign corporation is not required to obtain a certificate of authority even though it sells goods within the state if they are shipped to the purchasers in interstate commerce. A corporation need not obtain a certificate of authority even if it also does work and performs acts within the state incidental to the interstate business, e.g., if it takes or enforces a security interest incidental to these transactions. Nor is it required to obtain a certificate of authority merely because it sends traveling salesmen or solicitors into a state so long as contracts are not made within the state. Similarly, an office may be maintained by a corporation in a state without obtaining a certificate of authority if the office's functions relate solely to interstate commerce.

Purchases of goods may of course be in interstate commerce as readily as sales. Thus, the purchase of personal property by a foreign corporation for shipment in interstate commerce out of the state does not require the corporation to obtain a certificate of authority.

A foreign corporation does not need to obtain a certificate of authority if it sells goods in the state through independent contractors (Proposed subsection 15.01(b)(5)). These transactions are viewed as transactions by the independent contractors, not by the corporation itself, even though the corporation sets some limits or ground rules for its contractors. If these controls are sufficiently pervasive, however, the corporation may be deemed to be selling for itself in intrastate commerce, and not through the independent contractors, and therefore engaged in the transaction of business in the state.

The mere act of making a loan by a foreign corporation does not constitute transacting business in the state in which the loan is made. On the same theory a foreign corporation may obtain security for the repayment of a loan, and foreclose or enforce the lien or security interest to collect the loan, without being deemed to be transacting business. See Proposed subsections 15.01(b)(7) and (8). Similarly, a refunding or "roll over" of a loan or its adjustment or compromise does not involve the transaction of business.

The concept of "transacting business" involves regular, repeated, and continuing business contacts of a local nature. A single agreement or isolated transaction within a state does not constitute the transaction of business if there is no intention to repeat the transaction or engage in similar transactions. Since the question is entirely one of fact, Proposed subsection 15.01(b)(10) retains the partially objective test from the old law that a transaction completed within 30 days does not constitute "transacting business" if it is not one in the course of "repeated transactions of a like nature." A continuing transaction that is not completed within 30 days will likely require obtaining a certificate of authority, whether or not it is one of a number of repeated transactions, but that issue is not addressed by the Proposed Act. The 30-day provision is, in other words, a "safe harbor" for not requiring a certificate of authority.

The Committee added Proposed subsection 15.01(b)(12) to the RMA list (i.e., owning and controlling a subsidiary corporation incorporated in or transacting business within the state is not considered transacting business by the parent). This item was identified in the RMA Comment as a transaction not requiring that a certificate of authority be obtained, under the general provisions of RMA section 15.01(c). The Committee felt the item sufficiently important to add it to the statute.

Proposed subsection 15.01(c) makes clear that the list of transactions in Proposed subsection 15.01(b) is not exhaustive. Among the large number of other transactions which do not give rise to the requirement that a certificate of authority be obtained are the participation as a limited partner in a limited partnership engaged in local business, or taking ministerial actions such as filing financing statements or registering trademarks.

Section 15.02 Consequences of Transacting Business Without Authority.

Washington law imposes two sanctions on a foreign corporation that does business within the state without obtaining a certificate of authority: (1) such corporation is guilty of a gross misdemeanor (RCW 9.24.040); and (2) such corporation may not maintain a proceeding in any Washington court until it obtains a certificate of authority (see old RCW 23A.32.190 and Proposed subsection 15.02(a)).

Proposed section 15.02 closes Washington courts to suits maintained by corporations which should have but which have not obtained a certificate of authority. However, this sanction is not a punitive one: Proposed subsection 15.02(e) states that the failure of the corporation to qualify does not affect the validity of corporate acts, including contracts. Thus, a contract made by a nonqualified corporation may be enforced by the corporation simply by obtaining a certificate. Further, Proposed subsection 15.02(c) authorizes a court to stay a proceeding to determine whether a corporation should have qualified to transact business and, if it concludes that qualification is necessary, it may grant a further stay to permit the corporation to do so. Thus, the corporation will not be compelled to refile a suit if the corporation qualifies to transact business within a reasonable period. The purpose of these provisions is to encourage corporations to obtain certificates of authority and to eliminate the temptation to raise Proposed section 15.02 defenses only after applicable statutes of limitation have run.

Proposed subsection 15.02(e) does not prevent a foreign corporation that has failed to obtain a certificate of authority from "defending any proceeding." The distinction between "maintaining" a proceeding under Proposed subsection 15.02(a) and "defending any proceeding" under Proposed subsection 15.02(e) is determined on the basis of whether affirmative relief is sought. A nonqualified corporation may interpose any defense or permissive or mandatory counterclaim to defeat a claimed recovery, but may not obtain an affirmative judgment or decree based on the counterclaim unless it has obtained a certificate of authority.

In addition to closing the courts of the state to a nonqualified foreign corporation, many states follow the approach of Proposed subsection 15.02(d) and the old law and impose a penalty equal to all fees for which the foreign corporation would have been liable had it qualified to transact business when it was first required to do so.

Proposed subsection 15.02(b) prevents evasion of Proposed subsection 15.02(a) by an assignment of a claim on which the foreign corporation is barred from bringing suit under Proposed subsection 15.02(a). If the successor has acquired all or substantially all of the assets of the foreign corporation, the successor may maintain suit after it has qualified. In the case of all other assignments, the foreign corporation itself must obtain a certificate of authority before the assignee may maintain suit on the claim. The phrase "all or substantially all" has the meaning set forth in the Comment to Proposed section 12.01.

Section 15.03 Application For Certificate of Authority.

Proposed section 15.03 provides that a foreign corporation seeking a certificate of authority to transact business in the state must file an application that contains the information set forth in this section. These disclosure requirements are supplemented by the requirements of other sections in this chapter--15.04, 15.06, and 15.07--which require amended or supplemental filings in certain circumstances, and by Proposed section 16.22, which requires every qualified foreign corporation to file annual reports containing specified information. Generally, the Proposed Act eliminates repetitious filings, so that information need be submitted to the secretary of state in only one document.

The purposes of these disclosure requirements are: (1) to ensure that Washington citizens have adequate information about foreign corporations in their transactions with them; (2) to put foreign corporations in a status of equality with domestic corporations with respect to information required to be furnished; (3) to facilitate their subjection to the jurisdiction of Washington courts, thereby removing any disadvantage citizens of the state may have when dealing with them; and (4) to provide readily accessible evidence of their existence.

The information required to be included in the application for a certificate of authority by Proposed section 15.03 is the minimum needed to administer the filing requirements of the Proposed Act. The application must also be accompanied by a certificate of existence and the filing fee required by section 1.22.

Section 15.04 Amended Certificate of Authority.

Proposed section 15.04 requires a foreign corporation to obtain an amended certificate of authority if it changes its corporate name, its duration, or the state or country of its incorporation. An amendment is not necessary to reflect changes in its principal office address or in its current officers or directors since that information is supplied in the annual report. In addition, Proposed section 15.07 requires an immediate filing if the foreign corporation changes its registered office or registered agent within the state.

Other fundamental changes by a foreign corporation do not require amendments to the certificate of authority. The secretary of state will be advised of most of these changes through the annual report. See Proposed section 16.22. Thus, a person seeking to obtain current information about a foreign corporation should examine the annual reports of the corporation as well as the application for certificate of authority and amendments to it. This procedure of requiring most changes to be reported in the annual reports rather than as amendments to the certificate of authority should eliminate many unnecessary filings with the secretary of state without reducing the information available through the secretary of state's office.

Section 15.05 Effect of Certificate of Authority.

A certificate of authority authorizes a foreign corporation to transact business in the state subject to the right of the state to revoke the certificate. The privileges of this status are defined in Proposed subsection 15.05(b): a qualified foreign corporation has no greater privileges than a domestic corporation of like character. Such statement is consistent with the limitation appearing in Wash. Const. art. 12 section 7.

On the other hand, Proposed subsection 15.05(b) also contains a restriction or limitation: a qualified foreign corporation is subject to the same restrictions as a domestic corporation, including the same duties, penalties, and liabilities. This latter aspect of Proposed subsection 15.05(b) has declined in importance as states have eliminated unnecessary or outdated restrictions on domestic corporations and, as a consequence of Proposed subsection 15.05(b), on qualified foreign corporations as well. In particular, Proposed subsection 15.05(b) makes Proposed section 3.01 (corporate purposes) applicable to a qualified foreign corporation, and grants substantially the same powers to it as are possessed by a domestic corporation.

With the major exception of provisions in Proposed chapter 19, Proposed subsection 15.05(c) preserves the judicially developed doctrine that internal corporate affairs are governed by the state of incorporation even when the corporation's business and assets are located primarily in other states.

Section 15.06 Corporate Name of Foreign Corporation.

A foreign corporation applying for a certificate of authority must apply under its true corporate name if that name qualifies under Proposed subsections 15.06(a) or (c). If the true corporate name qualifies except that it does not contain one of the words of corporateness set forth in Proposed subsection 15.06(a), the corporation may simply add one of those words to its true corporate name and apply under that name as modified. Proposed subsection 15.06(b)(1). If the true corporate name is unavailable because it is indistinguishable upon the records of the secretary of state from a name already in use or reserved, the corporation may use a fictitious name (if available) under Proposed subsection 15.06(b)(2) simply by delivering to the secretary of state for filing, together with its application for a certificate of authority, a certified copy of a resolution of its board of directors authorizing the use of the fictitious name in the state. Finally, the otherwise unavailable name of a foreign corporation may be augmented by the name of the state of its incorporation so as to make it distinguishable upon the records of the secretary of state. For example, a Delaware corporation, "Utopian Products, Inc." which finds that a domestic corporation is using that name, may qualify under the name "Utopian Products, Inc. (Delaware)."

A corporation that qualifies to transact business in the state may do business under an assumed name to the same extent as a domestic corporation. The name requirements of Proposed section 15.06, including the fictitious name of a corporation whose real name is unavailable, are designed to ensure that each corporation qualified to transact business in this state has a unique official name.

If a foreign corporation changes its name it may (1) file an amended certificate of authority under its new name or, if the new name is not available, (2) continue to conduct business under its former name as an assumed name, or (3) adopt a new assumed name, by filing a certified resolution of its board of directors authorizing it to do so.

Section 15.07 Registered Office and Registered Agent of Foreign Corporation.

A foreign corporation that obtains a certificate of authority in a state thereby agrees that it is amenable to suit in the state. Proposed section 15.07 requires every such corporation continuously to maintain a registered office and registered agent within the state upon whom service of process may be made. As is the case with a domestic corporation, the registered office may, but need not be, a business office of the foreign corporation.

Proposed section 15.07 is patterned after Proposed section 5.01, relating to the registered office and registered agent of a domestic corporation.

Section 15.08 Change of Registered Office or Registered Agent of Foreign Corporation.

A foreign corporation that changes its registered agent or registered office, or both, must file a statement with the secretary of state containing the information set forth in Proposed subsection 15.08(a). A registered agent, typically a corporation service company, that changes the street address of its business office (and thereby the street address of the registered office of all corporations for which it serves as registered agent) may notify the secretary of state by complying with Proposed subsection 15.08(b) rather than with Proposed subsection 15.08(a).

This section is patterned after Proposed section 5.02, relating to changes of registered office or registered agent of a domestic corporation.

Section 15.09 Resignation of Registered Agent of Foreign Corporation.

Proposed section 15.09 permits the registered agent of a foreign corporation to resign by following the procedure set forth in the section, which is designed to maximize the probabilities that the corporation is advised of the resignation of the agent. This section is principally used by compensated registered agents who are corporation service companies and who desire to resign as registered agent as a result of nonpayment of fees. Proposed section 15.09 is patterned after Proposed section 5.03, relating to the resignation of a registered agent of a domestic corporation.

Section 15.10 Service On Foreign Corporation.

Service on the registered agent is the typical method of service of process on a qualified foreign corporation. Proposed subsection 15.10(a). But if the corporation fails to appoint or maintain a registered agent, or if the agent cannot be found at the registered office, Proposed subsection 15.10(b) authorizes service on the secretary of state. Service may be effected in the same way on a corporation which has withdrawn from the state or whose certificate of authority has been revoked. Proposed subsections 15.10(c) and (d) provide rules regarding service on the secretary of state, while Proposed subsection 15.10(e) makes clear that the method of service provided by this section does not preclude the use of other means of effecting service of process. Service of process may also be effected, for example, under a "long-arm" statute or under other special statutes authorizing service in some other manner.

Proposed section 15.10 is patterned after Proposed section 5.04, relating to service of process on domestic corporations.

Section 15.20 Withdrawal of Foreign Corporation.

A foreign corporation that ceases to transact business within a state may withdraw from the state only by obtaining a certificate of withdrawal. A foreign corporation that ceases to transact business in the state but fails to obtain a certificate of withdrawal will continue to be (1) subject to service of process on its registered agent or on the secretary of state pursuant to Proposed section 15.10 and (2) liable for fees under this title.

The certificate of withdrawal provided by this section is recognition by the state that the foreign corporation has ceased to transact business in the state.

The application for certificate of withdrawal must appoint the secretary of state as the withdrawing corporation's agent for service of process in any proceeding based on a cause of action which arose during the time it was authorized to transact business in the state. The application must also set forth a mailing address to which the secretary of state may forward any process received, and the corporation must agree to notify the secretary of state of any change in that address. There is no time limit on the obligation to advise the secretary of state of changes of mailing address. To ensure that the appointment of the secretary of state is unqualified and meets the precise requirements of this section, the secretary of state may require that an application for certificate of withdrawal be on a prescribed form. See section 1.21.

Service of process on the secretary of state effects service on the corporation under Proposed subsection 15.20(c).

Section 15.30 Grounds For Revocation.

Proposed section 15.30 authorizes the administrative revocation of the certificate of authority of a foreign corporation on the grounds specified. Administrative revocation is effective only upon compliance with the procedure specified in Proposed section 15.31. A foreign corporation that believes the administrative revocation is unwarranted may obtain judicial review of the secretary of state's determination pursuant to Proposed section 1.26.

If a qualified foreign corporation has dissolved or merged into another corporation, the secretary of state may proceed to revoke its certificate of authority to transact business solely on the basis of a certificate from the secretary of state or other official of the state of incorporation. Proposed subsection 15.30(d). This subdivision provides a simple and inexpensive method to eliminate the names of corporations that are no longer in existence from the records of the secretary of state, thereby making available the corporate names for use by other entities.

Proposed section 15.30 is patterned after Proposed section 14.20, relating to the administrative dissolution of domestic corporations. See the Comment to Proposed section 14.20 for a fuller description of the policies underlying Proposed section 15.30.

Section 15.31 Procedure For and Effect of Revocation.

The procedure for revocation of a certificate of authority in Proposed section 15.31 establishes a simple method of completing the revocation while at the same time ensuring that the foreign corporation is advised of the contemplated action and has an opportunity to contest it in appropriate situations. In most situations, revocation by the secretary of state will not be contested.

After revocation, the secretary of state is appointed the foreign corporation's agent for service of process; upon receipt of service, the secretary of state under Proposed section 15.10 must forward the process to the secretary of the corporation at its principal office as shown in the records of the secretary of state. Revocation, however, does not of itself terminate the authority of the foreign corporation's registered agent, so that process served on that agent by a third person who was unaware of the revocation may be effective.

Proposed section 15.31 is patterned after Proposed section 14.21, relating to the administrative dissolution of a domestic corporation. See the Comment to Proposed section 14.21 for a fuller statement of the policies underlying Proposed section 15.31.

The Committee decided not to adopt RMA section 15.32 (Appeal From Revocation) on the ground that that provision overlapped the general judicial review provision in Proposed section 1.26.

CHAPTER 16. RECORDS AND REPORTS.

Section 16.01 Corporate Records.

Proposed section 16.01 describes in general terms the records every corporation must keep or maintain, the form in which they may be maintained, and, to a limited extent, where the records must be kept.

Proposed subsection 16.01(a) requires a corporation to "keep" as permanent records the minutes of meetings of its shareholders and board of directors, and a record of actions taken by unanimous consent by its shareholders or board of directors. (In view of the requirements of Proposed sections 7.04 and 8.21, cautious counsel may well advise the corporation to keep the written consents related to such actions.) In addition, each corporation must "keep" a record of all actions taken by a committee of the board of directors when exercising the authority of the board of directors for the corporation; this includes, for example, action taken by an executive committee between meetings of the board and final action of a special litigation committee authorized to act on behalf of the board. Proposed subsection 16.01(a) does not require a record of actions taken by a committee when the committee is not exercising the authority of the board of directors, e.g., when the committee is discussing policy and formulating recommendations for action by the board of directors. Also, it does not require either minutes or a record of committee deliberations under any circumstances. Committee meetings are preserved as forums for open and frank discussion and discussion of sensitive corporate data without fear of recordation or disclosure.

Proposed section 16.01 also does not address the amount of detail that should appear in the minutes of meeting of shareholders or the board of directors--the content of minutes is largely fixed by tradition and no inference about their content should be drawn from the section's treatment of the records of committee deliberation and action.

Proposed subsections 16.01(b) and (c) require the corporation to "maintain" appropriate accounting and shareholder records. The word "maintain" is used to denote current records only and does not require the corporation to keep on hand as permanent records, data, or information of historical interest only; the periods for which these records, data, or information should be kept is not addressed by the Proposed Act.

Proposed subsection 16.01(b) relates to accounting records. The word "appropriate" is used to indicate that the nature of the financial records to be kept is dependent to some extent on the nature of the corporation's business; the phrase "adequate records" is used in some state statutes to convey essentially the same meaning. "Appropriate" records are generally records that permit financial statements to be prepared which fairly present the financial position and transactions of the corporation. In some very small businesses operating on a cash basis, however, "appropriate" accounting records may consist only of a check register, vouchers, and receipts.

Proposed subsection 16.01(c) requires the corporation to maintain such records of its shareholders as will permit it to compile a list of shareholders when required. These records may consist of stubs from which certificates have been detached in the case of corporations with a few shareholders or of elaborate electronic data retrievable only by modern technology in the case of large, publicly held corporations. The record may be retained by the corporation or an agent, who traditionally is the transfer agent but may be another agent.

Proposed subsection 16.01(d) generally authorizes corporations to retain records on microfilm, microfiche, computer memory or disc, or any other method that is convenient or appropriate under the circumstances. The basic requirement is that the method chosen must be capable of reduction to written form within a reasonable time. In addition, in the case of the record of shareholders, the method must permit the development of an alphabetical list of shareholders of record as required by Proposed subsection 16.01(c).

Proposed subsection 16.01(e) requires certain basic records to be kept at the principal office of the corporation, including minutes of shareholders' meetings for the preceding three years and records of shareholder action taken without a meeting during the same period. This requirement is imposed because these records must be available for inspection by any shareholder at that office. See Proposed subsection 16.02(a). The "principal office" of the corporation is defined in Proposed section 1.40 to be the location of the executive offices of the corporation and its address must be set forth by the corporation in its annual report required by Proposed section 16.22. The Proposed Act does not generally specify where records other than those described in Proposed subsection 16.01(e) must be kept. They may be kept in one or more offices within or without the state; indeed, in the case of records kept in non-written form, it may be impossible to determine "where" they are located.

Section 16.02 Inspection of Records By Shareholders.

Proposed subsection 16.02(a) provides that every shareholder is entitled to examine upon written request at the principal office of the corporation all documents described in Proposed subsection 16.01(e). These documents all deal with the shareholder's interest as such in the corporation. While some of these documents may also be a matter of public record in the office of secretary of state, a shareholder should not be compelled to go to a public office that may be physically distant to examine the basic documents relating to the corporation.

Proposed subsection 16.02(b) grants a shareholder who meets the requirements of Proposed subsection 16.02(c) the right to inspect three classes of corporate records:

(1) Excerpts from minutes of meetings of the board of directors, records of action of committees of the board of directors when exercising the authority of the board of directors, and minutes of meetings of shareholders (to the extent they do not fall within Proposed subsection 16.02(a)). The corporation is required to make available only relevant excerpts of minutes and need not make available minutes of entire meetings merely because a portion of the minutes is directly connected with the shareholder's purpose.

(2) The accounting records of the corporation. The Act does not attempt to define what accounting records must be kept. See the Comment to Proposed section 16.01.

(3) The record of shareholders, subject to Proposed subsection 16.03(d). If a shareholder makes a demand in good faith and with a proper purpose under Proposed subsection 16.02(c), the shareholder is entitled to inspect the shareholders' list under Proposed subsection 16.02(b) without regard to the size or value of the shareholder's holding. This right is independent of the right to inspect a shareholders' list immediately before a meeting under Proposed section 7.20. See Proposed subsection 16.02(e).

Proposed subsection 16.02(c) follows the old law and permits inspection of the records described in Proposed subsection 16.02(b) by a shareholder only if the shareholder's demand is made in good faith and for a "proper purpose." A "proper purpose" means a purpose that is reasonably relevant to the demanding shareholder's interest as a shareholder. Some statutes do not use the phrase "proper purpose;" the Proposed Act continues to use it because it is traditional and well-understood language defining the scope of the shareholder's right of inspection and its use ensures that the very substantial case law that has developed under it will continue to be applied under the Proposed Act.

As a practical matter, a shareholder who alleges a purpose in general terms, such as a desire to determine the value of the shareholder's shares, to communicate with other shareholders, or to determine whether improper transactions have occurred, has been held to allege a "proper purpose." Proposed subsection 16.02(c) thus attempts to require more meaningful statements of purpose, if feasible, by requiring that a shareholder designate "with reasonable particularity" the shareholder's purpose and the records the shareholder desires to inspect; the records demanded must also be "directly connected" with that purpose. If disputed by the corporation, the "connection" of the records to the shareholder's purpose may be determined by a court's in camera examination of the records.

Proposed subsection 16.02(d) states that the inspection rights granted by this chapter are inherent rights of shareholders and may not be abolished or limited by the articles of incorporation or bylaws; the subsection is based on CAL. CORP. CODE ANN. section 1600(d) (West 1977). No inference of any kind should be drawn from this subsection as to whether other, unrelated sections of the Proposed Act may be modified by provisions in the articles of incorporation or bylaws.

Proposed subsection 16.02(e) provides that the right of inspection granted by Proposed section 16.02 is an independent right of inspection that is not a substitute for or in derogation of rights of inspection that may exist (1) under Proposed section 7.20, to inspect the shareholders' list following the establishment of a record date for a meeting; (2) as part of a right of discovery that exists in connection with litigation; and (3) as a "common law" right of inspection to examine corporate records. See State ex rel. Grismer v. Merger Mines Corp., 3 Wn.2d 417 (1940). Proposed subsection 16.02(e) simply preserves whatever independent right of inspection exists under these sources and does not create or recognize any rights, either expressly or by implication.

Section 16.03 Scope of Inspection Right.

The right of inspection set forth in Proposed section 16.02 includes the general right to copy the documents inspected. Proposed section 16.03 follows precedent established under the old law and extends the right of inspection to an agent or attorney of a shareholder as well as the shareholder. Further, the section now recognizes that a right to copy means more than a right to copy by longhand and extends to the right to receive, if reasonable, copies made by the modern technology of copying machines with the cost of reproduction being paid by the shareholder, or if the shareholder requests, a copy in electronic or other non-written form.

Many corporations make available to shareholders without charge some or all of the basic documents described in Proposed subsection 16.01(e). Proposed subsection 16.03(c) authorizes the corporation to charge a reasonable fee based on reproduction costs (including labor and materials) for providing a copy of any document.

Proposed subsection 16.03(d) is designed to give the corporation the option of providing a reasonably current list of its shareholders instead of granting the right of inspection; a "reasonably current" list is defined in Proposed subsection 16.03(d) as one compiled no earlier than the date of the written demand, which under Proposed subsection 16.02(b) must provide at least five days' notice.

The phrase "estimated cost of production or reproduction of the records" in Proposed subsection 16.03(c) refers to the cost of assembling information and data to meet a demand as well as the cost of reproducing documents that are already in existence.

Section 16.04 Court-Ordered Inspection.

Proposed section 16.04 provides a judicial remedy if a corporation refuses to grant the right of inspection provided by Proposed section 16.02.

If the right of inspection under Proposed subsection 16.02(a) is invoked and the corporation refuses to grant inspection, the shareholder may seek a summary order compelling inspection. A summary order is appropriate since the right of inspection under this subsection is either automatic or subject only to a determination that the person is in fact a shareholder of the corporation. By contrast, if inspection is demanded under Proposed subsection 16.02(b), the shareholder's good faith and purpose may be in issue; in this situation Proposed subsection 16.04(b) directs the court to handle the proceeding "on an expedited basis." The purpose of this phrase is to discourage dilatory tactics to avoid or delay inspection without requiring the court to resolve these issues on a summary basis. This language does not mandate any specific procedure by which these issues are to be resolved.

If a court enters a summary order directing inspection under Proposed subsection 16.02(a), the cost of reproducing the records, if any, is placed on the corporation. Proposed section 16.04 does not address who should bear the cost of reproducing other records ordered by the court; this is a matter for the court to decide in light of the policy of the Proposed Act that costs of reproduction are generally the responsibility of, and should be assessed against, the requesting shareholder.

The principal sanction against unreasonable delay or refusal to grant inspection is provided by Proposed subsection 16.04(c), which imposes on the corporation the plaintiff's costs, including attorneys' fees, unless the corporation can establish that it acted reasonably. The corporation may avoid these costs by showing that the corporation refused inspection in good faith because it had a reasonable basis for doubt about the right of the shareholder to inspect the records demanded. This normally will involve reasonable doubt whether the shareholder had the necessary good faith and proper purpose or whether the records demanded are directly connected to the shareholder's purpose. The phrase "in good faith because it had a reasonable basis for doubt" establishes a partially objective standard, in that the corporation must be able to point to some objective basis for its doubt that the shareholder was acting in good faith or had a purpose that was proper. For example, a corporation may point to earlier conduct of the shareholder involving improper use of information obtained from the corporation in the past as indicating that reasonable doubt existed as to the shareholder's present purpose. A corporation may not avoid the imposition of costs under this section merely by showing it had no information one way or the other about the issues in controversy.

The old law and the statutes of many states imposed a penalty upon the corporation or its officers for refusal to permit inspection of books and records by shareholders who (1) had been shareholders for at least six months or (2) owned five percent or more of the outstanding shares. This provision has been omitted. A penalty unrelated to the costs of securing inspection was arbitrary and, as a result, was seldom actually enforced; further, a qualification based on the size or duration of the shareholder's holding unrelated to the shareholder's actual purpose was subject to the criticism that it constituted unreasonable discrimination against small shareholders.

Section 16.20 Financial Statements For Shareholders.

Proposed section 16.20 has its principal impact on small, closely held corporations, since enterprises whose securities are registered under federal statutes are required to supply audited financial statements to shareholders. The securities of the vast majority of corporations in the United States are not registered under federal law. It is these corporations that Proposed section 16.20 principally affects.

Proposed section 16.20 requires every corporation to prepare annual financial statements consisting of a balance sheet as of the end of the fiscal year, and an income statement for the year. Consolidated statements of the corporation and any subsidiary, or subsidiaries, or combined statements for corporations under common control, may be used. But Proposed section 16.20 does not require financial statements to be prepared on the basis of generally accepted accounting principles ("GAAP"). Many small corporations have never prepared financial statements on the basis of GAAP. "Cash basis" financial statements (often used in preparing the tax returns of small corporations) do not comply with GAAP. Even closely held corporations that keep accrual basis records, and file their federal income tax returns on that basis, frequently do not make the adjustments that may be required to present their financial statements on a GAAP basis. In light of these considerations, it would be too burdensome on some small and closely held corporations to require GAAP statements. If a corporation does prepare financial statements on a GAAP basis for any purpose for the particular year, however, it must prepare its annual statements on that basis under Proposed subsection 16.20(a).

Proposed subsection 16.20(b) specifies that annual financial statements are to be mailed promptly to each shareholder who requests them.

Failure to comply with the requirements of Proposed section 16.20 does not adversely affect the existence or good standing of the corporation. Indeed, failure to prepare financial statements should not be significant in determining whether a corporate entity should be disregarded. Compare Truckweld Equip. Co. v. Olson, 26 Wash. App. 638 (1980) (corporate entity recognized despite absence of corporate minutes, resolutions, tax returns, and registration documents; informality with which corporation was operated neither prejudiced nor misled plaintiff in its consideration of the corporation's credit application). Rather, failure to comply gives an aggrieved shareholder rights to compel compliance or to obtain damages, if they can be established, under general principles of law.

Proposed subsection 16.20(c) requires an accompanying report or statement in one of two forms: (1) if the financial statements have been reported upon by a public accountant, the accountant's report must be furnished; or (2) in other cases, a statement of the president or the person responsible for the corporation's accounting records must be furnished (i) stating that person's reasonable belief as to whether the financial statements were prepared on the basis of generally accepted accounting principles, and, if not, describing the basis on which they were prepared, and (ii) describing any respects in which the financial statements were not prepared on a basis of accounting consistent with those prepared for the previous year.

In requiring a statement by the president or person responsible for the corporation's financial affairs, it is recognized that in many cases this person will not be a professionally trained accountant and that such person should not be held to the standard required of a professional. To emphasize this difference, Proposed section 16.20 requires a "statement" (rather than a "report" or "certificate") and calls for the person to express such person's "reasonable belief" (rather than "opinion") about whether or not the statements are prepared on the basis of GAAP or, if not, to describe the basis of presentation and any inconsistencies in the basis of the presentation as compared with the previous year. The person is not required to describe any inconsistencies between the basis of presentation and GAAP. If the statements are not prepared on a GAAP basis, the description would normally follow guidelines of the accounting profession as to the reporting format considered appropriate for a presentation which departs from GAAP. (See, e.g., "Statement on Auditing Standards No. 14" of the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants.) For example, the description might state, with respect to a cash basis statement of receipts and disbursements, that the statement was prepared on that basis and that it presents the cash receipts and disbursements of the entity for the period but does not purport to present the results of operations on the accrual basis of accounting.

The Committee adopted RMA section 16.21(a) as a separate section (Proposed section 8.60) in the indemnification area. It decided not to adopt RMA section 16.21(b) (and therefore, not to adopt RMA 16.21) on grounds that the disclosure called for under that provision was more than adequately dealt with by federal and state securities disclosure.

Section 16.22 Annual Report For Secretary of State.

The requirement relating to the annual report that each corporation must submit to the secretary of state has been modified in Proposed section 16.22 in an effort to make it a limited information document for use by the secretary of state, members of the general public, and shareholders. The purpose of the annual report is to show the location of the principal place of business of the corporation, and the names and business addresses of its directors and principal officers. It permits members of the general public to ascertain the identity of the corporation and communicate directly with it.

The annual report is required of both domestic corporations and foreign corporations qualified to transact business in the state. The failure to file the annual report, like the failure to satisfy other mandatory requirements of the Act, is a ground for administrative dissolution or revocation of the certificate of authority to transact business.

CHAPTER 17. MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS.

Section 17.01 Application to Existing Corporations.

The fundamental principle underlying Proposed section 17.01 is that the Proposed Act should ultimately be made fully applicable to all existing business corporations as well as to all new business corporations formed after the effective date of the new statute. It is undesirable to "grandfather" existing corporations under earlier statutes since that results in the permanent coexistence of two different and overlapping systems of corporation law, with resulting confusion. This is particularly true of the Proposed Act, which builds directly on the Revised Model Business Corporation Act and the experience of many years with existing corporation statutes and contains few major substantive changes.

Proposed subsection 17.01(a) applies this basic principle in its broadest sense by making the Proposed Act applicable as of its "effective date" (prescribed in Proposed section 17.06) to all domestic corporations formed under general statutes for corporations for profit. This includes all prior general business corporation acts, but not statutes providing for not-for-profit corporations or associations, or corporations formed for the purpose of engaging in a business for which the state has provided a separate incorporation procedure.

Proposed subsection 17.01(a) applies the Proposed Act to all corporations to which that application is constitutionally permissible.

Proposed subsection 17.01(b) makes the Proposed Act applicable on its effective date to all foreign corporations that are qualified to transact business in the state on that date. But these corporations need not refile and obtain new certificates of authority under the title.

Section 17.02 Transactions Involving Interested Shareholders.

Old RCW 23A.08.425 was enacted in 1985. The Comment in the provision at the time of its enactment follows.

This section requires special approvals of certain transactions with interested shareholders. Specifically, transactions such as mergers, sales of substantially all of the assets and liquidations involving a person or group of affiliated persons who own 20% or more of the voting stock of a corporation must be approved either by disinterested directors or by two-thirds of the shares owned by disinterested shareholders exclusive of the votes of interested shareholders.

This section is directed particularly at the abuses seen in two-tier or front-loaded tender offers. In these offers, the acquiring entity offers to buy less than all of the outstanding shares of a company at a specified price and states that it may in the future through merger, sale of assets or other corporate reorganization, cause the remaining minority shareholders to receive consideration in cash or securities worth less than the initial tender offer price. The concern of such two-tier pricing is the coercion or pressure that is created on shareholders to tender into the first step of the tender offer. The alternative of not accepting the tender offer is virtual assurance that, if the offer is successful, the shareholder will receive less in the second step. Given that pressure, there is no realistic means for shareholders to reject a two-tier bid, even where they believe the combined, or blended, first and second step price for the target is too low.

These two-tier offers have become popular during the last several years. In response, a number of companies are adopting amendments to their articles of incorporation which provide for special voting requirements. In addition, several states, including Pennsylvania and Maryland, have adopted statutes requiring special votes in these types of transactions.

Under this section, approval by disinterested shareholders would not be required if the fair market value of the consideration paid for the shares in the second step is not less than the highest fair market value of the consideration paid by the interested shareholder in acquiring the shares in the first step. The fair market values of the consideration must be determined by a majority of disinterested directors. This determination might be supported by valuations by investment bankers or others. Such expert valuation may be necessary where the types of consideration involve securities without an active trading market. If the determination by the disinterested directors is unreasonable, the determination might be challenged in a judicial proceeding. The time value of money arising from the different acquisition dates of securities need not be taken into consideration in determining the relative fair market values although the time value of money arising from payments in the future on particular securities may be taken into account.

Although the shares and votes of interested shareholders is not taken into account for purposes of the special votes required by this section, the shares and votes of interested shareholders would be taken into account for quorum and voting requirements under other sections of the title.

The concept of interested shareholders includes a shareholder who is or controls a party to a proposed transaction, such as a shareholder who controls a shell corporation with which the corporation requesting approval of its shareholders will merge. Interested shareholders also include a shareholder who, directly or indirectly, receives the assets of a corporation upon liquidation, while the other shareholders simply receive cash, or who is or controls the transferee of substantially all of the assets of the corporation in a sale or exchange.

In addition, an interested shareholder does not include a person who is acting in good faith and not for the purpose of circumventing the section as an agent, bank, broker, nominee or trustee for one or more other persons, to the extent that such other person or persons are not interested shareholders. In other words, if a broker or trustee is acting on behalf of a large number of shareholders one of whom may be an interested shareholder, the shares voted by the broker on behalf of the shareholders who are not interested shareholders, will be counted as shares voted by disinterested shareholders.

The Committee adopted the old provision with only such changes (e.g., substitution of voting groups for the old references to classes of shares) necessary to accommodate the old provision to the structure of the Proposed Act.

Section 17.03 Limitation on Liability of Directors; Indemnification.

In 1987, old RCW 23A.12.020 was amended to authorize provisions in articles of incorporation that limited the liability of directors to shareholders and to the corporation. At the same time, old RCW 23A.08.025 was amended to permit shareholders to authorize indemnification in circumstances other than those described in the statute. See Comments to sections 8.32 and 8.56. Due to an oversight, old RCW 23A.08.026 was not amended in a way that made article of incorporation limitations available to directors of other corporations. Proposed section 17.03 corrects that oversight.

Section 17.04 Savings Provisions.

The saving provisions of section 17.04 are derived from section 25 of the UNIFORM STATUTORY CONSTRUCTION ACT, which was promulgated by the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws in 1965.

It appears that at least old RCW 23A.44.145 was added to the old law in an attempt to preserve the vested rights doctrine in Washington. The language in old RCW 23A.44.145 is quite similar to that in the savings clause interpreted by the Washington Supreme Court in State ex rel Swanson v. Perham, 30 Wash. 2d 368 (1948). The court in that case construed the savings clause language as one of its reasons for finding that shareholders had a vested right to vote "straight" (as against cumulative voting). That decision was overruled by the court in Seattle Trust & Savings Bank v. McCarthy, 94 Wash. 2d 605 (1980).

Section 17.05 Severability.

Section 17.06 Repeal.

Section 17.07 Effective Date.

This title takes effect July 1, 1990.

GOVERNOR'S MESSAGES ON SENATE BILLS
SIGNED AFTER ADJOURNMENT1989 REGULAR SESSION, FIRST AND SECOND SPECIAL SESSIONS

May 31, 1989

TO THE HONORABLE, THE SENATE OF THE STATE OF WASHINGTON
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I have the honor to advise you that on May 31, 1989, Governor Gardner approved the following Senate Bills entitled:

Substitute Senate Bill No. 6074

Relating to the repeal of public facilities districts' authority to tax without voter approval and reappropriating funds.

Senate Bill No. 6095

Relating to branch campuses.

Sincerely,

Terry Sebring, Legal Counsel to the Governor

June 1, 1989

TO THE HONORABLE, THE SENATE OF THE STATE OF WASHINGTON
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I have the honor to advise you that on June 1, 1989, Governor Gardner approved the following Senate Bills entitled:

Second Substitute Senate Bill No. 5065

Relating to children.

Substitute Senate Bill No. 5897

Relating to alcohol and drug treatment.

Senate Bill No. 6155

Relating to the child care facility fund.

Sincerely,

Terry Sebring, Legal Counsel to the Governor

GOVERNOR'S MESSAGES ON SENATE BILLS
VETOED AND PARTIALLY VETOED

1989 REGULAR SESSION, FIRST AND SECOND SPECIAL SESSIONS

April 20, 1989

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to section 6, Second Substitute Senate Bill No. 5011, entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to providing for allocation of assets of an institutionalized spouse."

Section 6 requires the submission of a biennial report on the number of persons impacted by the laws relating to transfer of assets between spouses. This section imposes new duties for which no funds have been appropriated, and would require the Department of Social and Health Services to reformat information already available to the legislative fiscal committees.

With the exception of section 6, Second Substitute Senate Bill No. 5011 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,
Booth Gardner, Governor

May 12, 1989

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval, Senate Bill No. 5121 entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to drug awareness education."

This bill establishes a mobile substance abuse awareness program to be developed and staffed through the Office of the Superintendent of Public Instruction as a required component of its substance abuse initiatives.

Substance abuse in our schools represents an enormous threat to our children's welfare and safety. Effective substance abuse education programs in our schools are essential. These are most effectively designed and implemented by local communities familiar with the unique needs of their youth.

Rather than facilitating local problem solving, this bill would centralize the substance abuse awareness program at the state level. Further, no appropriations were included in the budget recently passed by the Legislature.

Last week, I signed into law Second Substitute House Bill No. 1793, an omnibus bill addressing many components of our society's substance abuse problem. The focus of the omnibus bill is to coordinate the response of law enforcement officials, human service providers, school officials and others involved in grappling with the effects of this problem. Second Substitute House Bill No. 1793 funds programs and establishes a framework for an integrated plan in this important area.

Although I support the bill's objective to deliver a substance abuse awareness program to rural communities, these communities are best able to design and coordinate programs specific to their needs.

For the reasons stated above, I am vetoing Senate Bill No. 5121 in its entirety.

Respectfully submitted,
Booth Gardner, Governor

April 20, 1989

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to sections 1 and 2, Substitute Senate Bill No. 5127, entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to boundary review boards."

Sections 1 and 2 of Substitute Senate Bill No. 5127 would eliminate the authority of boundary review boards to disapprove a proposed city or town incorporation or disincorporation.

I recognize there are some communities in the state that are dissatisfied with recent incorporation decisions of boundary review boards. However, I am not convinced that the answer to this problem is simply to eliminate the board's authority in this critical area. One of the purposes of Chapter 36.93, which created boundary review boards, was to provide a method to guide and control the creation and growth of municipalities in metropolitan areas. By deleting the boards' authority over incorporations, the purpose of this act would be frustrated.

The State has a legitimate interest in ensuring that municipal boundaries are rational and that statutory objectives are adhered to in the incorporation process. The authority of boundary review boards to review and act on incorporations is the established method of achieving that goal. Without such authority, there is some risk of proliferation of small municipalities and governmental fragmentation at the local level. Additionally, annexations often need to be amended to ensure they do not just include the property tax rich area while excluding poorer valuation residential areas which require public services.

Neighboring jurisdictions are usually affected directly by municipal incorporations. Review of these actions by boundary review boards ensures that multi-jurisdictional issues are considered before a vote is taken.

Notwithstanding the concerns with sections 1 and 2 of the bill, I recognize that boundary review boards may not be the best approach for all counties to address these important growth issues. For that reason, I requested legislation this session (House Bill No. 1174) that would provide a mechanism for the dissolution of boundary review boards if a local government service agreement is in place. That bill has not yet been acted upon by the Legislature.

With the exception of sections 1 and 2, Substitute Senate Bill No. 5127 is approved.

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to sections 8 and 12, Senate Bill No. 5156, entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to Cedar River sockeye salmon."

The concept behind this bill is to provide a mechanism to mitigate for the sockeye salmon habitat losses caused by the Landsburg diversion dam. Embodied in the concept of mitigation is that the complete cost, including the long-term operation and maintenance of the mitigation project, shall be borne by the party with the responsibility to mitigate. In this case, the City of Seattle has agreed not only to fund all phases leading up to and including construction, but also to deposit $2.5 million in a trust account so that interest can be used to fund operation and maintenance.

The acceptability of this project to the State to fully mitigate for the sockeye losses caused by the diversion dam shall be judged not only on the success of the spawning channel but also on whether the trust account is adequate to fully finance the long-term operation and maintenance of the channel. It is in the best interest of the City of Seattle to negotiate with the State on methods which could reduce the expenditures from this trust account, so that in the future the fund is sufficient to cover inflationary costs as well as unanticipated costs.

I feel strongly that the decision-making process leading up to the construction of the spawning channel must recognize the relationship between the State and the Muckleshoot Tribe. The process must involve the Tribe in the planning, design, construction and operation of the spawning channel. This project can proceed only so long as consistent with the protection of treaty fishing rights. Finally, it should be noted that any decision made by the State pursuant to this legislation does not affect claims the Muckleshoot Tribe may have against the City of Seattle for damages to the Cedar River fisheries resources.

The expedition of permits in section 8 implies that state agencies are somehow above the permitting processes. This policy sends an inappropriate message that the review should be preferential or incomplete. The emergency clause in section 12 is not warranted by any exigent circumstances.

I believe this legislation, with the exception of sections 8 and 12, is an example of a process, that if successful, will enhance fishing opportunities in this state and will address a current impediment to increasing the Cedar River sockeye run.

Therefore, with the exception of sections 8 and 12, Senate Bill No. 5156 is approved.

Booth Gardner, Governor

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to section 3, Senate Bill No. 5172, entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to energy conservation."

Sections 1 and 2 of this bill will allow the implementation of the 1988 voter-approved Constitutional Amendment, HJR 4223 which extends the conservation authority to add equipment to the prior authorization for structures. Section 4 makes the bill effective immediately. This legislation was requested by the State Energy Office and was supported by my office.

Section 3 is an amendment which authorizes financial assistance for the planting of trees that will cast shade on residential structures in the summer. Shade trees are aesthetically pleasing and have some energy benefits. However, the inclusion of shade trees in this bill arguably goes beyond the public understanding of conservation under the constitutional amendment permitting loans for "... materials and equipment for conservation ...".

I would be favorably inclined to review this issue if, after further public discussion, shade trees or other energy conservation methods are shown to be and generally recognized as cost effective.

With the exception of section 3, Senate Bill No. 5172 is approved.

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to sections 4-105, 4-111, 4-114, 4-118, and 4-121, Substitute Senate Bill No. 5208 entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to Condominiums."

The Washington Condominium Act (WCA) sets forth in statute a single and comprehensive body of law governing the development, ownership and management of condominiums. In doing this, the interests of lenders, developers, builders, realtors and local governments have been adequately protected. The interests of purchasers have not fared as well.

For example, Substitute Senate Bill No. 5208 expands warranties of quality. However, section 4-111 is written in such a way that the "express" warranty of quality purports to give much more protection than it does. This provision is substantially less protective than the uniform act already in law. One limitation in this section takes away a purchaser's right to rely on the promoter's reservation of development rights, even though it is made in the public offering statement. Therefore, I have vetoed this section.

Although I support increased flexibility and certainty for developers, these changes must be accompanied by requirements for full disclosure and protection for consumers. Condominium purchasers have a right to rely on information they receive and to know if new buildings or subdivisions may be developed, or if certain portions of the development may be withdrawn from the project. For this reason, I am not approving section 4-105, which exempts condominium promoters from important disclosure requirements.

Section 4-114 specifies the statute of limitations for warranties regarding condominium quality. Under this section, purchasers would receive less time to seek relief for breach of warranty than under existing law. This section allows warranties to expire within four years of the original purchase, regardless of whether the defect is apparent. Under current law, the statute of limitations runs for warranties three years after discovery of the defect, rather than from the date of the first purchase.

Section 4-118 of the Act removes the requirement that a unit be "substantially completed" before the conveyance is completed. This allows the seller to have use of the funds before the purchaser is able to use the property, detracting from the rights of individual purchasers.

Section 4-121 recreates the 1987 statutory committee, which presented the first draft to the legislature. I am vetoing this section because there is no apparent need for a group such as this, and consumer representation is clearly inadequate. The state has far too many boards, commissions and committees already and creation of yet another one for such a questionable purpose is unnecessary.

Substitute Senate Bill No. 5208 clarifies Washington State law on condominiums. Recent changes in lifestyle have increased the prevalence of this type of real estate transaction, thereby increasing the need for more certainty in the law regarding these transactions. However, it is not in the public's interest to use this bill as a vehicle to reduce important consumer protection rights granted through existing law. For this reason I have vetoed the above mentioned sections of Substitute Senate Bill No. 5208.

With the exception of sections 4-105, 4-111, 4-114, 4-118, and 4-121, Substitute Senate Bill No. 5208 is approved.

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval, Substitute Senate Bill No. 5221 entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to the advance college payment program."

Substitute Senate Bill No. 5221 requires the Higher Education Coordinating Board to study the feasibility of instituting an advance college payment program in Washington state. The board was appropriated thirty thousand dollars to conduct the study and was to submit a report, including recommendations, to the Legislature by January 1, 1990.

It is clear that some of the elements to be considered in the study are very complex and go beyond the scope of higher education. In order for the critical elements of the study to be examined thoroughly and completely, the board would have to contract for the required expertise. Among the most significant questions to be answered are those that relate to the potential federal income tax consequences for investors and the state's potential liability in the event that the program is not actuarially sound. It is estimated that the cost of expertise would far exceed the thirty-thousand dollar appropriation and the study would require more time than allotted.

Although I am not opposed to studying the feasibility of such a program, I am certain that the Higher Education Coordinating Board cannot complete a complex study of this kind without sufficient time and resources. The potential risks for investors and the state in such programs need to be examined thoroughly. This legislation fails to provide the time and resources needed for the completion of a quality feasibility study.

For the reasons stated above, I have vetoed Substitute Senate Bill No. 5221 in its entirety.

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to section 3, Senate Bill No. 5233 entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to burglary."

This legislation creates a new crime of residential burglary for those incidents in which an individual enters a dwelling for the purposes of committing "a crime against persons or property therein". The existing crime of burglary in the second degree is retained for cases involving buildings other than dwellings.

Section 3 of this measure increases the seriousness level of second degree burglary from range II to range III and ranks the new crime of residential burglary at an even higher level, range IV. These rankings have significant fiscal impacts on both state and local governments that are not fully addressed. Although the Legislature included funds in the Omnibus Budget for the purposes of this act, they fall far short of meeting the Department of Correction's needs. In addition, no funds were provided to address the impacts on local jails.

I support the intent of this bill. Residential burglary is a particularly offensive crime that not only results in material loss, but shatters the sense of privacy people enjoy within their homes. Persons who invade homes in this manner must be punished.

However, attempting to address this issue has highlighted some of the inflexibility of the state's Sentencing Reform Act. Because of the sentencing structure created by the Act, little can be done in response to the problem of burglary other than to raise the seriousness level, as accomplished by section 3.

I am retaining the new definition of residential burglary created by this bill, and the instructions in section 1 requiring the Sentencing Guidelines Commission to consider residential burglary as a more serious offense than burglary in the second degree. Because the provisions of the bill do not take effect until July 1990, I believe this veto allows us to more fully consider the ramifications of this sentencing change.

The long-term financial impact on the state adult and juvenile systems will mandate significant additional commitment of both capital and operating funds. I am concerned that the full financial reality of passing this bill has not settled upon the Legislature. The Legislature should also consider the consistency of punishment level in this bill related to punishment for other criminal offenses.

Particular attention must also be paid to the effect these changes have on our local jail system. We can no longer continue to ignore the overcrowding and potentially dangerous conditions facing these facilities. At the same time the Legislature was enacting a measure extending eligibility for home detention programs to burglars, it was removing over fifty percent of the eligible inmates by the definition change included in this bill. The Sentencing Guidelines Commission is the proper place to consider these system-wide impacts.

I am asking the Sentencing Guidelines Commission to take up this issue for the purpose of recommending a resolution to the 1990 Legislature. The commission will review the relative rankings of these crimes, and will explore the possibility of reordering the sentencing grid in such a way as to allow courts greater flexibility in determining appropriate sanctions. In addition, the Commission will review the potential for changing sentencing practices associated with rank changes, and the relationship of deadly weapons enhancements to these two offenses.

With the exception of section 3, Senate Bill No. 5233 is approved.

Booth Gardner, Governor

LETTER OF TRANSMITTAL

May 20, 1989

The Honorable Ralph Munro
Secretary of State
State of Washington
Olympia, Washington

Dear Mr. Secretary:

I am transmitting herewith ENROLLED SENATE BILL NO. 5233 as vetoed (Section 3) by Governor Booth Gardner on May 17, 1989.

The 1989 Second Special Session of the Fifty-first Legislature passed the measure notwithstanding Governor Gardner's veto of Section 3. The Senate overrode the Governor's veto of Section 3 by a vote of 38 yeas and 9 nays on May 19, 1989. The House of Representatives overrode the Governor's veto of Section 3 by a vote of 71 yeas and 9 nays on May 20, 1989.

Sincerely yours,
GORDON A. GOLOB,
Secretary of the Senate

May 14, 1989

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to sections 2, 3, 5, 6, 7, and 8, Substitute Senate Bill No. 5289 entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to fisheries enhancement."

Our commitment to enhance salmon resources is an empty promise unless we are all willing to provide the financial resources necessary to fulfill it. I believe that the funding mechanism envisioned in this bill can work to supplement other state and federal funds if properly structured.

I am supportive of approaching fisheries enhancement by way of regional and volunteer cooperative groups. I believe, however, that the portions of this bill relating to the formation of these regional groups are so poorly drafted that they could lead to excessive administrative work and lack of accountability for the use of state funds.

As an alternative to sections 2 and 3, I am directing the Department of Fisheries to use its general rule-making authority to implement the intent of the bill in a manner that is workable and, more importantly, accountable. Criteria must be in place requiring recipients of funds to be incorporated as non-profit groups with the Secretary of State. Additionally, requirements for audits must be included.

Sections 5 and 6 fail to establish a clear relationship between the authority of the department and the regional groups. These sections could imply control by the groups. This interference with the decision-making prerogatives of the department is unacceptable to me.

Section 7 is vetoed because it requires legislative approval of each loan application. Decisions on applications for funding should be made by the Department of Fisheries without legislative approval. This veto does not mean that I am not supportive of loans for funding fisheries enhancement. In fact, the opposite is true. Because I am unable to partially veto this language, I must veto the entire section.

I am vetoing section 8 because it will require the department to tag smolt and compile data at great expense in order to document specific fish catch related to enhancement projects.

With the exception of sections 2, 3, 5, 6, 7, and 8, Substitute Senate Bill No. 5289 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,
Booth Gardner, Governor

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to sections 1 and 5, Substitute Senate Bill No. 5293 entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to higher education."

Section 1 reenacts RCW 28B.80.330, which requires the Higher Education Coordinating Board to perform planning duties including the preparation of a comprehensive master plan. The plan includes but is not limited to assessments of the state's higher education needs. These assessments may include "the needs of recent high school graduates and place-bound adults. The board should consider the needs of residents of all geographic areas, but its initial priorities should be applied to heavily populated areas underserved by public institutions." The board has already completed its assessment of upper division and graduate level courses and programs needed in heavily populated areas. It can now begin assessing the needs of place-bound students in those areas that are less populated, including Clallam and Jefferson counties.

Section 5 of this bill requires that the Superintendent of Public Instruction: (1) contract with the University of Washington's Early Entrance Program or Transition School; and, (2) allocate state and federal funds generated by the student directly to the University of Washington. Similar language achieving the same result is included in section 9 of Substitute House Bill No. 1444, which I have signed into law. To avoid confusion, I have vetoed section 5 of this bill.

With the exception of sections 1 and 5, Substitute Senate Bill No. 5293 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,
Booth Gardner, Governor

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval, Substitute Senate Bill No. 5315 entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to oil spills and the transfer and safety of petroleum products across the marine waters of the state of Washington."

Due to a problem in the transferring of the bill as amended by the House, the version to which the Senate concurred was not the version the House adopted. A new version of the bill was quickly introduced and passed by both Houses of the Legislature and is currently awaiting my signature.

To avoid potential challenge and to adopt the statutes as intended, I am vetoing Substitute Senate Bill No. 5315 in its entirety and in its place signing House Bill No. 2242.

Respectfully submitted,
Booth Gardner, Governor

June 2, 1989

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to sections 123(1),(3),(4),(5),(6), 125(4), 208(3), 209(1), 213(7),(8), 214(4), 218(6), 221(9),(12),(17),(18), 222(1),(2), 225(2), 230(2), 304(7), 313(4), 316(1), 503(10), 601(2), 602(2), 610(2), 709(3), 804, 805, 809, 810, and 813 of Substitute Senate Bill No. 5352, entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to fiscal matters; making appropriations and authorizing expenditures for the operations of state agencies for the fiscal biennium beginning July 1, 1989, and ending June 30, 1991."

My reasons for vetoing these sections are as follows:

Section 123(1), page 12, Motor Vehicle Savings

Subsection 1 requires that $3,200,000 General Fund-State be placed in reserve as a consequence of savings generated by implementation of the motor vehicle review team report. That report identifies potential savings once implementation of the recommendations occur; however, it does not estimate savings to the General Fund-State, separate from savings to other funds. It is premature to estimate and require reserving of General Fund-State monies until planning for the implementation has been completed and the specific sources of savings are identified along with the type of benefiting budget.

Section 123(3), page 13, Handicapped Program Enrollment

Subsection 3 requires forecasting of K-12 handicapped enrollment by the Office of Financial Management (OFM). OFM has normally provided forecasts of budget drivers deemed critical to budget analysis and development, including forecasting K-12 handicapped enrollment. The agency will continue to do this work within its available resources. Specific direction in the budget is unnecessary.

Section 123(4), page 13, Handicapped Education Study

Subsection 4 reduces flexibility in the Office of Financial Management by requiring it to spend $200,000 General Fund-State appropriation solely for a study of handicapped education. Removing this provision will allow the agency to more effectively perform a study of handicapped education, consistent with the goal of this provision and provide a report by December 1, 1989.

Section 123(5), page 13, Master License Center Transfer

Subsection 5 provides that if the Master License Center does not have sufficient funds for the 1989-91 biennium, then the Office of Financial Management shall transfer amounts associated with savings in benefiting agencies to Master License Center. This strategy was started in the current biennium and abandoned due to difficulties in estimating savings in the benefiting agencies. There is no reason to believe it would be successful for the 1989-91 biennium.

Section 123(6), page 13, Architectural Cost Specialist

Subsection 6 provides for $130,000 of the General Fund-State appropriation solely for an architectural or structural cost specialist in the Office of Financial Management for analysis related to the capital budget. While the agency does need this additional analysis, my veto provides the agency with the flexibility to obtain this assistance either by hiring staff or seeking consultation.

Section 125(4), page 14, Salary Survey Process

This subsection provides for legislative staff oversight of the Department of Personnel in the salary survey process. The procedures and methodology of the salary survey are clearly defined in statute. Legislative staff oversight would infringe upon the agency's performance of the salary survey process within these statutory requirements.

Section 208(3), page 32, Consolidated Emergency Assistance Program

This subsection directs the Department of Social and Health Services to eliminate the Consolidated Emergency Assistance Program. The program provides assistance to families and pregnant women in emergent circumstances who are not eligible for any other state programs. The proviso does not supersede existing statutory provisions establishing this program. Additionally, elimination of the program might violate federal requirements under the Federal Catastrophic Care Act of 1988.

Section 209(1), page 32, General Assistance-Unemployable

This subsection requires the Department of Social and Health Services to conserve the monies appropriated for the General Assistance-Unemployable (GA-U) program so that assistance is available throughout the biennium. The requirement has the effect of limiting expenditures to the current forecast.

Forecasts of demand for income assistance programs are revised during budget periods due to changes in predictive variables. An additional factor affecting the GA-U forecast is the revision to the Alcohol and Drug Abuse Treatment and Support Act (ADATSA) in section 212 of this act and in Reengrossed Substitute Senate Bill No. 5897. Clients who will be eligible for ADATSA shelter under the revised standards also will be eligible for GA-U. Although these clients will be eligible for either ADATSA or GA-U, all of the funding was appropriated to the ADATSA program.

If actual demand for assistance exceeds the current forecast during the biennium, then the Department of Social and Health Services would have to apply a ratable reduction to the grant standard. I do not support the imposition of a ratable reduction as the only appropriate method to manage unpredictable caseload growth.

Section 213(7), page 36, Chiropractic Services

Section 213(7) prohibits the Department of Social and Health Services from providing chiropractic services as an optional service under the Medical Assistance program. Since many eligible recipients rely on this type of treatment, to not allow for this service would be inconsistent with the overall objectives of the Medical Assistance program.

Section 213(8), page 35, Medicaid Disproportionate Share

Section 213(8) requires that the Department of Social and Health Services expend 57 percent of the medicaid disproportionate share appropriation in Fiscal Year 1990 and requires continuation of payment advances for Harborview. This language is unduly prescriptive and limits the Department's discretion in employing periodic payment advances.

Section 214(4), page 37, Allocation of Funds to Community Health Clinics

This subsection ensures that each clinic receives at least 95 percent of the amount received in the prior fiscal year. The Department of Social and Health Services is also required to promulgate rules to develop an allocation formula and eligibility criteria for distribution and receipt of program monies. It is my intent that community clinics have a reasonably predictable funding level from this appropriation. However, the Department needs administrative flexibility to contract with clinics which best provide required services, or with clinics in health care access problem areas. I will direct the Department of Social and Health Services to promulgate rules under RCW 34.05 to develop an allocation formula for distributing money to community health clinics and to develop eligibility criteria for receipt of program monies.

Section 218(6), page 41, Foster Care Financial Participation Schedule

This subsection sets a financial participation schedule for foster care support collections. This proviso, if enacted, would be inoperative, as it would not supersede existing statutes which require the use of the current child support schedule as the means test for foster care collections.

Section 221(9), page 44, Bordertowns

Subsection 9 requires the Department of Community Development to report to the Legislature on the distribution and the amount of grants to bordertowns. Funding for the grants is provided in RCW 66.08.195 as a set percentage of the Liquor Control Board excess funds for distribution. The requirement that the amount of the distribution be substantially equal to the current level of expenditure is technically unworkable. The Liquor Control Board cannot control factors such as liquor sales that generate the excess funds to that level of specificity. Neither does the Liquor Control Board have the option to distribute the excess funds in any manner other than that required by statute. I will ask the Department of Community Development to report to the Legislature the amount of excess funds generated by the three-tenths of one percent statutory requirement that are distributed to bordertowns.

Section 221(12), page 45, Lewis County Technological Demonstration Project

Subsection 12 provides $475,000 to continue the Lewis County Technological Demonstration project. Funding for this project, a mobile vocational training program unit operated in conjunction with the school district, was not included in the Department of Community Development's budget recommendation. Vetoing this subsection provides the agency the flexibility, subject to the Office of Financial Management's allotment control, to adapt its appropriations to address the agency's most serious needs. A portion of these funds will be used to complete the pilot project and address the intent of the original legislation.

Section 221(17), page 45, High Risk Youth

Subsection 17 provides $400,000 for a pilot demonstration project for high risk youth pursuant to Second Substitute Senate Bill No. 5624. Inasmuch as the bill did not pass, removal of the subsection will allow the agency the flexibility to better manage within financial constraints.

Section 221(18), page 45-46, Growth Strategies Commission

Subsection 18 establishes the Growth Strategies Commission in the Department of Community Development, consisting of 17 members appointed by legislative leadership, six of whom are legislative members. I applaud those legislators with the foresight to recognize that growth strategies planning is essential to the state. However, it is inappropriate to use appropriations to an executive agency to support what is essentially a legislative effort. I will, establish a Growth Strategies Commission by executive order that will include legislative representation among its members.

Section 222(1)(2), page 46, Human Rights Commission

Subsections 1 and 2 were included in my executive request budget, and would require the agency to manage federal cases and the use of Attorney General services within specific dollar constraints. These constraints were tied to the budget level that I recommended to the Legislature. The intent of the provisos was that the agency would use state dollars to requalify for the federal dollars in the next contract negotiations with the federal government. Since the Legislature did not provide appropriations for this purpose, the provisos are unduly restrictive to the agency trying to manage within severely limited resources.

Section 225(2), page 47, Family and Medical Leave Act

This subsection reduces flexibility in the Department of Labor and Industries' budget by requiring it to expend $300,000 of the General Fund-State appropriation solely for the Family and Medical Leave Act. Funding for this activity was not added to the Department's budget and must be absorbed in existing programs. The agency plans to support the program implemented in Reengrossed Substitute House Bill No. 1581.

Section 230(2), page 48, Hospital Data Collection

This subsection reduces flexibility in the Department of Health's budget by requiring expenditure of this appropriation solely for hospital data collection. While it is clear that hospital data collection is an important function of the new department, it may be possible to utilize some of the available resources for other essential health-related activities.

Section 304(7), page 55, Department of Ecology

This subsection provides $1,000,000 from the solid waste management account to assist local governments pursuant to section 7 of Substitute House Bill No. 1671. Section 7 of that bill was vetoed, which makes this subsection moot. The veto of this subsection is not intended to forsake its intent. Therefore, I am directing the Department of Ecology to make $1,000,000 available from the Solid Waste Management Account to local governments for the development of materials to promote waste reduction and recycling.

Section 313(4), page 64, Simpson Hatchery

Subsection 4 provides $276,000 solely for the maintenance of current operations at the Simpson Hatchery. Problems with water quality in the Chehalis River have greatly reduced the survival level of fry. Funding has previously been provided to assess the problem and, if possible, recommend a solution. The field work for that study will be completed this year and it is anticipated that the results should be complete in late spring of 1990. Until a solution to the problem is recommended, continued operation of the hatchery is not a prudent use of limited public funds. If the water quality problems can be corrected, a portion of this $276,000 shall be used to implement the solution. Funds not so utilized shall be held in reserve.

Additionally, subsection 5 provides $1,810,000 for recreational salmon enhancement projects. While I support expenditures for recreational salmon enhancement, restricting them solely for recreational projects is impractical. Due to the migratory nature of salmon, and the complex management activities of both commercial and recreational fisheries, it is not possible to ensure that recreational anglers are the sole beneficiaries of the enhancement projects.

While I am not vetoing the specific language in subsection 5, I want to assure the Legislature that this funding will be used for recreationally oriented salmon enhancement.

Section 316(1), page 68, Common School Construction

Section 316 allows lands and timber to be taken out of trust status and reserved for wildlife habitat, recreation or conservation. The trust funds would be compensated for the timber, and land of equal value would be traded for the land being removed from the trust.

Subsection 1 requires that the lands and timber purchased by the Department of Natural Resources for purposes of this section shall be based on a finding by the Board of Natural Resources in consultation with the House Appropriations Committee and the Senate Ways and Means Committee. The Board of Natural Resources is responsible for the management of the trusts. Requiring consultation with the legislative fiscal committees is an intrusion on the authority of the Board and hinders its ability to fulfill its trust responsibilities.

In addition, the requirement that the Board "find" that the timber "should not be harvested" may prove an impediment to accomplishing the intent of the section. The Board is charged with maximizing the return to the trust funds as trustees. No criteria is specified as a basis for determining which timber should not be harvested. For the Board to find that trust land timber should not be harvested would be in conflict with the Board's mission to maximize benefit to the trust funds.

Without subsection 1, the Board will be able to determine which timber would be desirable not to harvest at this time, for reasons consistent with its statutory trust obligations. Vetoing this subsection will permit the intent of the section to be accomplished without undue restrictions.

Section 503(10), page 84, School Administrator Salary Increases.

This subsection limits salary increases for school administrators next biennium to the percentage increase provided by the Legislature. This restriction would unduly limit the ability of local school directors to address the unique needs of their individual districts. The Legislature has given the school system less state funds for school administrator salary increases. This alone will act to limit salary increases. This subsection also requires annual justification of average salary increases in excess of the increase in state-funded salary increases provided by the Legislature. Currently, school districts report salaries for all staff annually. Repeating local debates to justify salary increases for school administrators would be a meaningless reporting requirement that has no relationship to assessing or improving the quality of education available to our children.

Section 601(2), page 102, Student Quality Standard

Section 601(2) of the bill provides for a target level of spending per full time equivalent student at each of the institutions for the entire biennium. A certain level of flexibility is provided in meeting the target, and penalties are stated for variances greater than 2 percent.

I concur with the established method of controlling amounts spent per student. I also agree with the philosophy of setting penalties to ensure compliance with legislative priorities. However, I cannot agree with the penalty clause, since it is too restrictive in that it applies after the first year of the biennium. The target level of spending is based on the biennial budget and any corresponding penalty should be based on an institution's ability to meet the target over a biennium.

Section 602(2), page 106, Community College Faculty

Section 602(2) of the bill places restrictions on the use of enhancement dollars to convert part-time faculty to full-time status at some of the community colleges. This restriction would unduly limit the flexibility of the colleges to manage faculty hiring practices to accomplish the colleges' goals and objectives.

Section 610(2), page 111, State Writing Project

Section 610(2) of the bill provides that $50,000 of the Higher Education Coordinating Board's (HECB) budget be used to establish a state writing project for public school teachers.

During a time of continued legislative demands of the HECB for centralized information, reporting, and program review involving our colleges and universities, the Legislature reduced the HECB base budget by $250,000. Veto of this proviso will help the HECB to continue high priority services to the Legislature and executives.

Section 709(3), page 119, For the Governor--Indian Claims

This subsection imposes a requirement on the Attorney General to appear for, and represent owners of, owner-occupied real estate in all cases in which a member of a tribe signatory to the agreement raises a claim of Indian title for land within the properties comprising the agreement. No precedent exists for Attorney General representation of private citizens related to property matters. Other recourse for legal assistance is available to private citizens, typically through their title insurance. Required involvement of the Attorney General in such matters would create unacceptable difficulty in the Attorney General's management of resources appropriated for the specific statutory responsibilities of the office.

Section 804, page 134, OFM Review of Compensation Plans

This section would require all agencies to route through the Office of Financial Management (OFM) any request to the Department of Personnel for reclassification or modifications of any compensation plans or schedules prior to submittal to the State Personnel Board for action. While I agree with the intent of this language, which is to strengthen the review process of actions before the State Personnel Board, as written, this section would be prohibitively difficult to administer. The Office of Financial Management currently review such actions of cabinet agencies based on specific criteria. The language of this section requires that all classification actions be reviewed by OFM regardless of their degree of significance. Lacking provisions to establish thresholds and limits under which to administer this review, the bureaucratic entanglements outweigh the benefits of this section.

Section 805, page 134, Personal Service Contracts

Section 805 requires the Office of Financial Management to approve in advance any General Fund-State personal service contract expenditures that exceed prior biennium percentages.

This provision is vague and unworkable. From a policy standpoint, it makes little sense to relate contract expenditures in two different biennia, because these types of expenditures are often project in nature. Administratively, the prior biennium's percentage of personal service contracts creates an arbitrary benchmark that would be difficult to calculate or impose. There are no legislative appropriations for 1989-91 person service contracts by fund source; and final 1987-89 percentages will not be available until biennial close-out of statewide accounting records, several months after the limitations are supposedly in place.

I am also concerned by the language that exempts appropriations in the judicial agencies. This implies that all other elected officials are covered by the restrictions contained in Section 805. Since the Office of Financial Management does not presently have any authority over allotments for all other elected officials, there is an apparent conflict between the appropriations act and the State Budget, Accounting and Reporting Act (RCW 43.88).

Section 809, page 135, Biennial Funding

The statement that new programs are funded for the entire biennium, unless otherwise provided in either the appropriations act or legislative notes, raises some disturbing questions about the legal status of legislative notes. Although I recognize that this language was intended to minimize "bow-wave" impacts, agencies are already required to allot expenditures in conformance with legislative intent. Legislative notes are the work of legislative staff, not elected representatives, and these documents are sometimes prepared months after appropriations are enacted. Legislative intent should be defined by legislators in the appropriations act and not subject to retroactive elaboration.

Section 810, page 135, Gambling Revolving Fund Transfer

This section transfers $2,000,000 from the Gambling Revolving Fund to the General Fund during the 1989-91 fiscal biennium. The Gambling Revolving Fund, established as an allotted but nonappropriated fund in the Gambling Commission's enabling statute (RCW 9.46), receives revenues from licensing, penalties, forfeitures, and other gambling-specific sources to support the regulation and enforcement of charitable and social gambling activities in this state. These statutes direct that gambling activities produce a revenue stream--at local government option--for local government, but they do not expressly provide for these funds as a source of revenue for the General Fund. The transfer of funds provided by this section is inappropriate.

Veto of this section preserves the financial reserve of the Gambling Commission's operations and the Gambling Revolving Fund, and allows the Commission to continue to manage its revenue stream and the working capital requirements of the agency. I ask that license, penalty, forfeiture, and other revenue source rates be retained at existing levels but not decreased, until such point as the working capital requirements of the agency warrant increases in one or more of the rates.

Section 813, page 137, Public Safety and Education Account Transfer

This section transfers $2,000,000 from the Public Safety and Education Account (PSEA) to the General Fund on July 1, 1989. The PSEA has a history of volatile revenue collections. After the decline in the most recent revenue forecast for PSEA, allowing this transfer would require agencies expending from this account to begin the biennium with pro rata expenditure allotment reductions. This budget, combined with other legislation, provides a General Fund reserve of less than $40,000,000. I do not believe that is an adequate reserve; however, I do not feel it is appropriate to force expenditure reductions in the PSEA to add to the General Fund reserve.

With the exceptions of sections 123(1),(3),(4),(5),(6), 125(4), 208(3), 209(1), 213(7),(8), 214(4), 218(6), 221(9),(12),(17),(18), 222(1),(2), 225(2), 230(2), 304(7), 313(4), 316(1), 503(10), 601(2), 602(2), 610(2), 709(3), 804, 805, 809, 810, and 813 of Substitute Senate Bill 5352 is approved.

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to sections 6(3), 9(3), 10(3) and (4), 12(1) and (2), 28(6), 38, and 67, Substitute Senate Bill No. 5373 entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to transportation appropriations."

I regret that I am not able to veto this entire bill. The transportation budget contained in this bill is inadequate. It fails to meet even the minimal standards of responsible public policy. But because the Legislature refused to approve an adequate financing package, I have no choice but to approve the major portions of this bill. Without it, the citizens of this state would have to face an unacceptable risk. Without a transportation budget, we ultimately would have to pull our troopers off our highways and close down critical state functions such as the Department of Licensing. I refuse to place the citizens of this state at such a risk.

Several sections of this bill must be vetoed, however.

Section 6, subsection 3 provides $464,300 solely for aircraft repair of the Washington state patrol aircraft. Additionally, it provides for any user to pay a pro rata share of the expenses. These costs have not been anticipated in user agency budgets and funding has not been provided. I believe that pro rata billing is a sound management concept and will ask the Office of Financial Management to look at this approach for the 1991-93 budget.

Section 9, subsection 3 provides that $100,000 of the total appropriation is solely for a budget/policy analyst for the vehicle services division. This subsection is unduly restrictive, given the limited resources provided to the Department of Licensing for operation during the 1989-91 biennium. I am removing this language to aid the Department in retaining more management flexibility to carry out the mandates established by the Legislature.

Section 10, subsection 3 provides that $432,888 is provided solely for a budget analyst for the driver services division and additional security procedures related to driver's license issuance. This subsection is unduly restrictive, given the limited resources provided to the Department of Licensing for operation during the 1989-91 biennium. I am removing the language to aid the Department in retaining more management flexibility to carry out the mandates established by the Legislature.

Section 10, subsection 4 provides that moneys accruing to the Public Safety and Education Account (PSEA) in excess of the 1989-91 appropriation authority in this act or Senate Bill No. 5352 or any other omnibus appropriation act, shall be transferred to the Highway Safety Fund to reimburse the fund. In recent years, the Legislature has expressed a desire for an open process in determining levels of appropriation to the various agencies from the PSEA. This transfer circumvents that process by dedicating an undetermined amount of revenue to the Highway Safety Fund. Additionally, the forecast for the PSEA has recently been revised downward, which may result in a negative fund balance occurring during the ensuing biennium. It is prudent to maintain a fund balance in the PSEA to cushion against further unanticipated adjustments to revenue.

Section 12, subsection 1 provides that $200,000 from two funds is solely for the development of a project management plan for integration of driver and motor vehicle systems. It further indicates that the plan shall be submitted to the Legislative Transportation Committee and the authority to expend this money is conditioned on the requirements of section 63 of this Act. This subsection is unduly restrictive, given the limited resources provided to the Department of Licensing for operation during the 1989-91 biennium. I am removing the language to aid the Department in retaining more management flexibility to carry out the mandates established by the Legislature.

Section 12, subsection 2 provides $275,136 solely for additional data processing storage capacity and for preparing to implement the federal odometer act. This subsection is unduly restrictive, given the limited resources provided to the Department of Licensing for operation during the 1989-91 biennium. I am removing the language to aid the Department in retaining more management flexibility to carry out the mandates established by the Legislature.

Section 28, subsection 6 provides that the appropriation $8,561,139 for high capacity transportation in this full section is eliminated if Substitute House Bill No. 1825 is not enacted by June 30, 1989. Hence, it would eliminate the appropriations for passenger rail programs, AMTRAK service improvements evaluation, and freight rail administration funding in subsection 28(5)(d). Funds provided for freight rail programs in Substitute Senate Bill 5521, section 607, (the Capital budget), are restricted to capital purchases and grants for capital improvements. Elimination of this appropriation leaves these programs without resources for management. If Substitute House Bill No. 1825 is not passed, the funds for passenger rail programs will be placed in reserve.

Section 38 states that the amounts assumed in this Act for all revolving funds for various essential support services to the Washington State Patrol and the Department of Licensing by other agencies, shall not be exceeded without the prior approval of the Legislative Transportation Committee. This section puts caps on revolving fund payments for these agencies which are inconsistent relative to other state agencies in matters relating to revolving fund charges. It also inappropriately delegates budgetary authority over executive agencies to a legislative committee.

Section 67 contains language almost identical to language which I previously vetoed in section 17 of Second Substitute Senate Bill No. 5658, which was related to risk management. This section would require the Attorney General to submit a yearly report to the Legislative Transportation Committee with information on each tort claim against the State. Much of the information that would be required would be useful to have on an annual basis, and I have no objection to most of this section. One of the subsections, however, is problematic, and in order to remove it from the bill I must veto the entire section. Subsection 6 would require the Attorney General to provide information on each and every settlement offer made on a tort claim and make this public information. This would provide a road map to the State's negotiating strategy to claimant's attorneys and be a serious disadvantage to the State. While those who have legitimate tort claims against the State are entitled to reasonable compensation, the State also has an obligation to settle claims without unnecessary and unjustified costs to the taxpayers of the state.

With the exception of sections 6(3), 9(3), 10(3) and (4), 12(1) and (2), 28(6), 38, and 67, Substitute Senate Bill No. 5373 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,
Booth Gardner, Governor

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to section 3, Second Substitute Senate Bill No. 5375 entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to DNA identification."

Subsection 1 of section 3 creates an oversight committee to recommend specific rules and procedures for the collection, analysis, storage, expungement, and use of DNA identification data. The committee of twelve persons would be comprised of the Chief of the Washington State Patrol, three experts (forensic evidence, biomedical ethics, and civil liberties) and eight legislators appointed by the Legislature. I strongly support the purpose of this committee; however, the makeup of the committee is unbalanced.

I will appoint a committee to perform the functions set forth in section 3, including the report to the Legislature due November 1, 1989. Membership of the committee will include a more balanced group, from the fields of forensic evidence, biomedical ethics, civil liberties, medicine, the criminal justice system, and the Legislature.

Subsection 2 of section 3 requires the Washington State Patrol, in cooperation with the University of Washington School of Medicine, to develop a program for the proper administration and collection of blood samples. Although I am forced to veto this entire section, I will ask the Washington State Patrol to include this program within their plan for establishing a DNA identification system, as required by section 2.

I should bring to your attention that with the exception of section 6, the Washington State Patrol does not have specific authority to adopt rules for the DNA Identification System. I suggest the Legislature pass legislation giving the Washington State Patrol rule-making authority before the bill takes effect on July 1, 1990.

With the exception of section 3, Second Substitute Senate Bill No. 5375 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,
Booth Gardner, Governor

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to sections 5, 14, and 21, Substitute Senate Bill No. 5443 entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to programs administered by the department of licensing."

This bill makes various policy changes in vehicle and driver laws. Section 5 grants the Department of Licensing the authority to furnish lists of registered and legal owners of motor vehicles to "business enterprises for commercial purposes...". Under the general policy set forth in the Public Disclosure Act, Initiative Measure No. 276, codified in RCW 42.17.260 (5), in order to protect the public's right to privacy and freedom from commercial intrusion, lists should not be provided for commercial purposes. This change in policy is not appropriate.

Section 14 grants the Director of the Department of Licensing, or the director's designee, the authority to issue criminal citations solely related to RCW 46.70.021 which requires dealers or manufacturers of vehicles to be licensed. Such specialized authority is inappropriate and unnecessary since criminal charges can be brought currently by taking the factual circumstances to a prosecutor. If the Legislature believes the grant of criminal citation authority is good policy for the Department of Licensing, it should consider a broad grant of authority for all its regulatory functions where criminal misdemeanor charges can be filed.

Section 21 establishes a study committee to develop recommendations regarding a system of driver's license issuance that provides increased security against fraud. It is not appropriate to delegate control over an executive department's contract decisions to a committee of the Legislature contingent on the committee's review of a study. I will direct the listed executive departments to cooperate in any legislative review of this issue.

With the exception of sections 5, 14, and 21, Substitute Senate Bill No. 5443 is approved.

Booth Gardner, Governor

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval, Substitute Senate Bill No. 5472, entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to Vessel Dealer Registration."

Current law was established to monitor and register vessels to protect consumers in transactions associated with vessel dealers and to verify the registration of vessels for excise tax purposes. This legislation was intended to correct some minor problems with the vessel dealer licensing process.

Instead of correcting those problems, this bill causes the registration process to be more complex. In addition, no funds have been provided for the additional administrative workload on the Department of Licensing.

Additionally, I do not believe exempting one-fourth of the registered dealers from vessel dealer requirements is good policy. This type of large scale exemption will make administration of statutory compliance more difficult.

For the reasons stated above, I have vetoed Substitute Senate Bill No. 5472 in its entirety.

Respectfully submitted,
Booth Gardner, Governor

May 12, 1989

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to section 9, Substitute Senate Bill No. 5474 entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to interpreters in legal proceedings."

Section 9 requires the Office of the Administrator for the Courts to create a new statutory advisory committee for certification of interpreters. The committee would advise the office regarding procedures and standards for certification of foreign language interpreters in legal proceedings. The recommendations of this committee would affect the use and availability of interpreters for state agencies, boards and commissions, courts, counties, cities, towns, and other political subdivisions covered by the act.

Section 9 limits the membership of the committee to representatives of county prosecutors, public defenders, the Bar Association, judges, and groups representing non-English-speaking persons. By precluding state agency and city and town participation on the advisory committee, the procedures and standards adopted for this new program may not adequately address the special needs of these entities.

I have asked the Administrator for the Courts to administratively create an advisory group to perform these tasks and to have representatives of all affected groups included. I believe it to be in the best interests of the program to veto section 9 and thereby allow creation of such a group under the authority of the Administrator for the Courts.

With the exception of section 9, Substitute Senate Bill No. 5474 is approved.

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to sections 213, 392, 539, 824, 884, 901(4), and 909(3), Substitute Senate Bill No. 5521, entitled:

"AN ACT Adopting the capital budget."

My reasons for vetoing these sections are as follows:

Section 213, page 20, Asian Counseling and Referral Service

This section provides $100,000 of state contribution toward the cost of a lease development project for the Asian Counseling and Referral Service, a local non-profit agency. This agency provides, among other services, counseling for the mentally ill within the local Asian community through contract with the Department of Social and Health Services. The state Constitution prohibits the gift of public funds to any individual, association, company, or corporation. This direct appropriation, which would provide improvements to a privately owned facility to be leased by the Asian Counseling and Referral Service, appears to violate this section of the Constitution. Also, this appropriation would, to a certain extent, duplicate the Department of Social and Health Services contract which currently provides funding for the cost of facilities. Finally, this appropriation lacks language requiring a payback of the appropriated amount through a reimbursement reduction. This is inconsistent with conditions placed on the funding of a mental health evaluation and treatment facility in Snohomish County in section 259.

Section 392, page 58, Ohme Gardens

This section provides $750,000 for the acquisition and improvement of a Japanese botanical garden in Wenatchee. The project was not requested by the Parks and Recreation Commission. Additionally, I have received no information to justify the project in terms of local economic development or as a destination recreational facility. The facility is presently operated under private ownership.

Section 539, page 81, Cedar River Delta

This section provides $800,000 for the dredging of a sand bar on the Cedar River delta. While the language directs the Department of Natural Resources to assist local government in acquiring additional funding for the project, there is no indication that the state will receive any assistance from non-state sources, nor does the project have any specific matching requirements. Additionally, there has been no information put forward on the environmental impact of dredging the sand bar, or where the dredge spoils will be deposited.

Section 824, page 107, Community College System

This section defines legislative intent regarding the level of capital funding for the community college system in the 1989-95, six-year state facilities and capital plan. Since the six-year plan is an executive policy document, this section unduly limits the planning processes ability to respond to changing circumstances.

Section 884, page 117, Community Colleges - Minor Improvements

This section, in addition to making an appropriation to the community college system for minor capital improvements, also restricts the funds from being expended for computer equipment, land acquisition, or other items normally funded in the operating budget. I agree that capital funds should not pay for operating expenses and that computer equipment may not be suitable in a minor works appropriation. It is preferable that land acquisition be displayed as a separate appropriation item, and OFM will instruct agencies to do so in future budget submittals. However, within this appropriation are several site acquisition projects which appear to be proper uses of state funds. This language would penalize the colleges for simply placing the projects under the wrong project title.

Section 901(4), page 119, Puyallup Tribal Settlement

Subsection 4 requires that Substitute Senate Bill 5648 be enacted without veto prior to the encumbrance or expenditure of the $9.4 million in capital funds for the Puyallup tribal settlement. SSB 5648, which dealt with cooperation among ports to enhance trade opportunities, was partially vetoed. The veto in no way affects the State's position relative to the settlement, and should not hinder its execution.

Section 909(3), page 122, Trust Lands

Subsection 3 prohibits the state from selling, giving, trading or encumbering by new or renewed agreement beyond June 30, 1991, land and other capital assets acquired or dedicated for the care of blind or deaf or otherwise disabled youth, for juvenile offenders, and for persons who are mentally ill or developmentally disabled. This places an unnecessary restriction on the State's ability to manage its resources and would prevent a number of worthwhile projects.

With the exception of sections 213, 392, 539, 824, 884, 901(4), and 909(3), Substitute Senate Bill No. 5521 is approved.

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to section 7, 9, 10, and 11, Substitute Senate Bill No. 5566 entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to safe drinking water."

Section 7 amends RCW 70.119A.040, which was also amended by House Bill 1358, the Administrative Procedure Act revision bill. The amendment in this bill has the same intent as the amendment in House Bill 1358, but the language is conflicting. Since I have already signed House Bill 1358 into law, I am vetoing Section 7.

Section 9 amends RCW 43.20.050, which was also amended by House Bill 1857. Both bills amend the rule-making authority of the Board of Health with respect to drinking water systems. The only difference between the two amendments is that House Bill 1857 gives additional authority to the Board for regulating the sizing of pipes and storage facilities. This language is more explicit than the language in section 9 of Reengrossed Substitute Senate Bill 5566. Since I have already signed House Bill 1857 into law, I am vetoing section 9.

Sections 10 and 11 amend the Public Water Supply Systems - Certification and Regulation of Operators Act, and the Public Water System Coordination Act of 1977, respectively. Both sections amend the definition of a public water supply system to exclude water systems serving fewer than five single-family residences. The current language, and the definition of public water supply system in the Safe Drinking Water Act, exclude only water systems that serve a single-family residence.

The exclusions in sections 10 and 11 would exempt over 4,000 small water systems from regulation, leaving these households without protection of their drinking water. People whose homes connect with small water systems deserve, and expect, the same quality of water as people whose homes are connected to larger systems. It is appropriate for the state, in its role of protecting public health, to assist small water systems in complying with safe drinking water regulations.

With the exception of sections 7, 9, 10, and 11, Substitute Senate Bill No. 5566 is approved.

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to section 10, Substitute Senate Bill No. 5648 entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to creation of a federation of Washington ports."

Substitute Senate Bill No. 5648 amends existing port district enabling legislation to authorize the creation of a federation of Washington ports by the Washington Public Ports Association. The legislation establishes a temporary task force to examine options for cooperation between port districts and local associate development organizations. The legislation also directs the temporary task force to identify international air cargo trends and state air cargo capabilities and facilities, and to identify alternative policies to ensure state competitiveness in air cargo facilities.

Our ports have been and remain critically important to the state's role in the international economy. Efforts to increase cooperation among the port districts and between port districts and associate development organizations to enhance state and local economic development activities are necessary and important. New air cargo transport technologies and increased volumes of international air cargo traffic may require the development of new types of facilities, which would have major implications to the state economy.

I am in agreement with the Legislature's identification of this latter issue as one deserving state involvement to identify problems and opportunities affecting the state's economy. However, the Legislature has not funded the study of air cargo trends provided for in section 10 of this bill. If the state is to anticipate the problems and opportunities we face in the international economy, the Legislature must adequately fund the associated state agency activities. I am also concerned about the practicability of examining air cargo trends through a temporary task force intended to examine cooperation between port districts and associate development organizations.

For these reasons, I am vetoing section 10 of Substitute Senate Bill No. 5648.

However, an examination of the issues identified is valuable and timely. I will explore methods of conducting such an examination on the part of the state and with the cooperation of local government and the private sector.

With the exception of section 10, Substitute Senate Bill No. 5648 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,
Booth Gardner, Governor

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington

Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to section 17, Second Substitute Senate Bill No. 5658 entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to risk management and the state liability account."

Second Substitute Senate Bill No. 5658 represents a significant advance in the way in which the state handles its risk management program. I am pleased to see this legislation pass the Legislature and I anticipate that it will result in a more modern and efficient risk management program, as well as an improvement in safety for state employees and the general public. One subsection of this bill, however, is not acceptable.

Section 17 would require the Attorney General to submit a yearly report to the Legislature with information on each tort claim against the state. Much of the information that would be required would be useful to have on an annual basis, and I have no objection to most of this section. One of the subsections, however, is problematic, and in order to remove it from the bill I must veto the entire section.

Subsection 6 of section 17 would require the Attorney General to provide information on each and every settlement offer made on a tort claim. This would provide a road map to the state's negotiating strategy to claimant's attorneys and be a serious disadvantage to the state. While those who have legitimate tort claims against the state are entitled to reasonable compensation, the state also has an obligation to settle claims without unnecessary and unjustified costs to the taxpayers of the state.

Tort claimants deserve straightforward and honest action from the state and its representatives. They do not deserve an opportunity to be privy to the state's confidential negotiating strategy relative to litigation. The confidentiality of this information is emphasized elsewhere in the bill, and appropriately so. Subsection 6 of section 17 clearly conflicts with those provisions, and the legislative intent.

The Attorney General has expressed willingness to provide much of the information requested in section 17, so most of the desired data will be available to the Legislature despite the removal of this section.

With the exception of section 17, Second Substitute Senate Bill No. 5658 is approved.

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington

Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval, Senate Bill No. 5676, entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to Scenic and Recreational Highways."

This bill would add State Route 901 to the scenic and recreational highways system.

In 1975, the Legislative Transportation Committee recommended legislation to more comprehensively implement the scenic highway system including a committee process for reviewing proposed changes. The result of this process was the last amendments to this statute in 1975. In the absence of such a process or criteria to select a highway for this designation, I am not convinced that the Legislature has evaluated the amendments in this bill with consideration to the system as a whole. At a minimum, any additions to this system should be reviewed for compatibility with other recreation, aesthetic and conservation objectives. I urge the Legislature, prior to adding any further segments to the scenic and recreational highway system, to take steps to develop specific selection criteria to prioritize and rank the various highways that may merit consideration.

For these reasons, I am vetoing Senate Bill No. 5676 in its entirety.

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to section 1, Substitute Senate Bill No. 5776 entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to law enforcement training."

Section 1 of this measure requires the Department of Community Development (DCD) to establish an advisory committee to study the issue of untrained and uncertified city and town law enforcement personnel. The advisory committee would be chaired by the director of DCD, while technical assistance and staff support would be provided by the Criminal Justice Training Commission (CJTC).

I believe it is important that we ensure our citizens that their law enforcement officers are properly trained. However, evidence has not been provided that this issue is of such compelling public interest that a study, conducted by a new advisory committee, should be statutorily authorized. Furthermore, it is inappropriate to have the resources of one executive agency subject to the authority of another agency director.

Section 2 of this measure requires law enforcement personnel hired after January 1, 1990, to commence training within six months of employment. Current law allows a much greater time before training must be completed. I support this change and believe it will serve to enhance the professionalism of our public safety officers.

With the exception of section 1, Substitute Senate Bill No. 5776 is approved.

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval, Senate Bill No. 5809, entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to shopping center directional signs."

This bill changes the criteria for erecting and maintaining directional signs on state highway rights of way and is inconsistent with the intent of the original legislation. The basic purpose of erecting directional signs on state highways is to provide the public with information necessary to make a decision whether to continue driving or to exit. The public typically assumes that food, gas, and lodging services designated by signs on the highway are to be found within a reasonable distance from the roadway. This bill has the potential to mislead the public into making a decision that becomes an inconvenience rather than a convenience. It allows signing for shopping centers within five miles of an exit while existing laws limits the distance to one mile.

The bill also has the effect of making the State an unwilling partner in the proliferation of signs on state highways and advertising for special interests. The size criterion is also decreased substantially. This change will result in a jungle of signs in metropolitan areas where shopping centers are typically found.

For this reason, I have vetoed Senate Bill No. 5809.

April 19, 1989

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to section 5, Senate Bill No. 5874, entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to maritime commemorative observance."

This bill transfers authority for planning celebrations of certain maritime historical events from the Centennial Commission to the Washington State Historical Society. Section 5 contains an emergency clause requiring the Act to take effect immediately.

The emergency clause eliminates the possibility of a smooth transition as planning authority shifts from one entity to another. I am advised that the Washington State Historical Society intends to work with all interested parties and to build on the planning activities begun by the Centennial Commission. Removal of the emergency clause facilitates this coordination.

With the exception of section 5, Senate Bill No. 5874 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,
Booth Gardner, Governor

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to section 2, Substitute Senate Bill No. 5889 entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to conservation of water."

This is an excellent program, modeled on successes in the area of energy conservation. I am not, however, convinced of the propriety of delegating a legislative function entirely to a committee. I am vetoing section 2 and recommending that the Joint Select Committee develop definitions of these terms for deliberation by the full Legislature. In the event the Legislature is unable to agree on definitions prior to the approval of the accompanying constitutional amendment, the common usage of these terms will be applied.

With the exception of section 2, Substitute Senate Bill No. 5889 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,
Booth Gardner, Governor

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval, Substitute Senate Bill No. 5891 entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to water resource policy."

The purposes delineated in the 1988 legislation establishing the Joint Select Committee on Water Resource Policy are of paramount importance to the State of Washington. However, I am not convinced that the provisions relating to the specific activities of the Joint Select Committee need to be in statute. The legislature has the inherent ability to develop its own process for receiving public input.

Should any new direction in the management and allocation of water resources be recommended in the future deliberations of the Joint Select Committee, it is essential that a partnership exist between the legislative branch and the executive branch. Without such cooperation, new policy directions are not likely to occur without judicial involvement or some type of a crisis in the availability of water resources.

For this reason, I am not willing to establish in statute a consultation process that could potentially hinder the administration of existing water laws without clear new statutory direction. The prospect of interrupting the separation of powers between the legislative and executive branches of government, while at the same time attempting to forge a cooperative policy development process, does not seem warranted.

The moratoria language contained in sections 3, 4, and 5 is slated to expire on June 30, 1989. Thus the need to take specific action to delete the reference is unnecessary.

As for the need for sections 6 and 7, these disclaimers currently exist in the chapter amended and, as such, are duplicative.

For these reasons, I am vetoing Substitute Senate Bill No. 5891 in its entirety.

Respectfully submitted,
Booth Gardner, Governor

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington

Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to sections 10 and 11, Substitute Senate Bill No. 5911 entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to public lands."

Sections 2 and 3 of the bill provide for a set aside of timber on State Forest Board Lands for timber firms which meet certain criteria. The proposal is intended to increase the amount of timber which is processed within the state and to create additional jobs. Criticism has been brought to my attention regarding the implementation of this set-aside program. I am inclined to sign this into law in spite of misgivings about its ability to address the problem. The success of this program relies on the Department of Natural Resources and counties to faithfully pursue implementation.

This bill creates a Joint Select Committee on Domestic Timber Processing. I urge that Committee to with my office over the interim to monitor implementation. I would also urge the Committee to review the possibility of providing compensation to school trusts and counties for setting aside land for jobs as well as for conservation. If I am not satisfied with the program, then I believe we will be forced to go to Congress and work toward a federal solution.

Section 10 of the bill requires the Governor and the Commissioner of Public Lands to jointly report to legislative committees on responses to federal or judicial decisions which affect timber supply. This section is redundant and needless, since we have always made any responses available to the Legislature on a timely basis in the past. When requested, we have always testified before committees to report on our activities.

Section 11 requires the Governor and the Commissioner of Public Lands to jointly develop an official state response to Forest Service plans by August 1, 1989. Such a response must supersede any previous state response. The intent of this section is unclear and redundant. The state has already officially responded to the individual forest service management plans and these responses were made within the official public comment periods for each of the forests. We have already agreed to work with the Department of Natural Resources as well as relevant federal agencies during the next few months on this issue.

While I am vetoing these sections, I want to assure you that my office will continue to work closely with all state and federal agencies to address the problems of timber supply and we will continue to be available to report on those activities at your request.

I applaud the Legislature for the other sections of this bill, as well as other items in the budget which will enhance our state's ability to respond to the problems of timber firms, communities and employees. I think we are going in the right direction and am looking forward to continuing to work with you during the next few months.

With the exception of sections 10 and 11, Substitute Senate Bill No. 5911 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,
Booth Gardner, Governor

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval, Senate Bill No. 5916, entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to the labeling of meat."

This bill allows retail meat dealers who repackage and/or regrind meat into smaller units from previously USDA inspected packages to use the label of the larger unit of meat.

At least one county has exercised its discretion to adopt a program which prohibits repackaging or regrinding where the label still shows the original cut of meat. The county policy was adopted because there is the possibility of consumer deception and no practical way to inspect the reground product to verify from which part of the animal it was originally ground or whether it was reground from a mixture of various cuts of meat.

I see no compelling reason to pre-empt the ability of local jurisdictions to regulate reground meat to protect the labeling of consumer's interest.

For the reasons stated above, I am vetoing Senate Bill No. 5916 in its entirety.

Respectfully submitted,
Booth Gardner, Governor

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to sections 1 and 3, Senate Bill No. 5926 entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to low-level radioactive waste."

Section 1 would send a confusing message regarding State policy on the disposal of low-level radioactive waste. State policy on this issue, which is the same as the policy stated in the federal Low-Level Radioactive Waste Amendments Act of 1985, states that the responsibility for disposal of radioactive waste is a national obligation, to be shared by all states across the nation. I am committed to the time frame established in the federal act, providing that all states must belong to a regional compact by December 31, 1992, which relieves the three states which now have sites from having to accommodate all of the nation's low-level radioactive wastes. I also want to make it clear that Washington State is not dependent on the revenue generated from fees for the disposal of radioactive waste.

Section 3 is inappropriate because Washington is a partner in the Northwest Interstate Compact. While I do not condone unnecessary or extravagant travel, the imposition of travel restrictions on the members would be contrary to establishing mutual cooperation and respect with other states.

With the exception of sections 1 and 3, Senate Bill No. 5926 is approved.

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to section 1, Senate Bill No. 6012, entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to the leasing of surplus school property."

Section 1 of this bill would remove the restriction requiring school districts to "include provisions which permit the recapture of the leased or rented surplus property of the district should such property be needed for school purposes in the future." The stated intent of this bill is to clarify the law so school districts can enter into long-term leases of surplus property to be used for condominiums or office buildings.

The restriction in existing law is good public policy. It should not be repealed. We should not be encouraging school districts to be in the real estate business when there are current demands for school district buildings and funding of school projects.

Each year the Legislature struggles with providing enough capital funding to school districts to keep up with demands for new construction. It seems inconsistent to allow districts to lock up buildings and property in long-term leases, when there is apparently no intent nor ability to ever reclaim these for school purposes. If there is no foreseeable school use, the district should surplus and sell the properties so the funds are available for other district uses.

The existing statute provides enough flexibility so school districts can rent or lease property when it is not needed immediately. However, the existing law wisely prohibits long-term commitments which bind future school boards and limit their ability to meet the changing needs of the community.

With the exception of section 1, Senate Bill No. 6012 is approved.

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to section 1, Senate Bill No. 6076, entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to motorcycle public awareness."

Section 2 of this bill increases the examination and endorsement fees which fund the motorcycle safety education account. Section 3 contains an emergency clause making the increase effective immediately. Note the appropriation is not contained in this bill. I am supportive of this program and its intent to increase public safety for motorcyclists.

In 1983, a motorcycle safety education advisory committee was statutorily created to assist the Director of Licensing in the development of a motorcycle operator training program. In 1987, these statutes were revised to rename the committee as a board and to provide for selection criteria for members and a list of priorities for an education training program. The new board created in section 1 of this bill appears to be duplicative of the existing board and incompatible in a number of areas. If the legislature desires a different composition of members or a different size board, then future legislation could make these changes in the existing board or abolish the existing board and create a new board.

Mandating new boards and commissions should be done only after careful consideration of their need. I have instructed the Director of Licensing to ensure the intent of Senate Bill No. 6076 is carried out by the department.

With the exception of section 1, Senate Bill No. 6076 is approved.

May 31, 1989

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to sections 105, 209, 302, 415, 512, 714, and 814, Senate Bill No. 6152 entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to health."

I am pleased that you have sent me a bill creating a Department of Health which encompasses the full range of health issues. You have done considerable and admirable work on this piece of legislation, and it is my pleasure to sign the majority of this bill into law.

While a great number of the programs and policies contained in this bill are sound public policy, I am very concerned for the viability of this Department. When I originally proposed a Department of Health, we carefully and conservatively estimated the costs of transition and of various new programs. However, both the funding provided for the transition in the budget bill and the appropriations for new programs in this bill are grossly inadequate, leaving an estimated shortfall of nearly $2 million. I cannot in good conscience allow this level of new unfunded programs in this Department.

Therefore, I am vetoing those sections of the bill which are not critical to the viability of the Department of Health. This message should not be construed as a statement in opposition to the policy of these sections, except where I have specifically noted. Although I have been forced to use my veto power, there remains a resource shortfall. Without vetoing the entire measure, there is no way I can eliminate the deficit. I am very disappointed that the Legislature did not fully fund this new Department and allow it to begin its duties with sufficient resources.

Section 105 requires that the State Health Officer hold the position of Deputy Secretary within the Department of Health and be subject to Senate confirmation. The requirement of Deputy Director confirmation by the Senate is unprecedented and inappropriate. The other requirements remove administrative flexibility from the executive branch. While I agree that there should be a person employed by the Department with the expertise as defined in this section, I do not agree that the position must be a Deputy Secretary. If I do not appoint a Secretary with the qualifications required by this section, I will ask the Secretary to hire such a person to fill an appropriate position.

Section 209 mandates an increase in staff to the Board of Health. The Board has been understaffed for years, but has been unsuccessful in obtaining the funding for staff support. Currently, the Board is allowed to hire an executive director and a confidential secretary, but does not have sufficient funds to fill either of those positions. While I strongly support providing the Board of Health with needed assistance, I cannot support signing this section without the appropriate funding accompanying this mandated increase.

Section 302 requires the Department of Health to study and report on health care professional licensure needs. This is a subject deserving a coordinated review; however, I cannot support signing this section without an accompanying appropriation.

Section 415 amends RCW 18.64.044 which is also amended by section 401. Since the language within section 401 reflects the statute as amended by section 1, chapter 352, Laws of 1989 (HB 1478), I am vetoing section 415.

Section 512 requires the Department of Health to perform a biennial study of the State's expenditures on health care services, and submit that report to the Legislature. Since this study was not funded and the Legislature currently has the ability to request this type of information from each of the affected state agencies, I am vetoing this section.

Section 714 requires the Higher Education Coordinating Board (HECB) to develop a plan for increasing rural training opportunities for students in medicine and nursing by December 1, 1989. I agree that the training needed for working in rural settings is different from that needed for urban settings; however, I cannot support yet another unfunded study requirement of the HECB. Note, I would have also vetoed section 713 of this bill but we have the opportunity, given the delayed due date of that study, to come back and seek funding to carry out its purpose.

Section 814 requires the Department of Social and Health Services to monitor alcohol and drug treatment programs, to collect data on addicted persons who receive general assistance, and to contract with the University of Washington Alcoholism and Drug Abuse Institute to evaluate treatment outcomes. Although the purposes of this section are of value, no funds have been provided for these purposes. In order to collect this data, the Department would have to use a substantial portion of funds provided for treatment services. This diversion of treatment funds would impair the State's commitment to assist as many addicted persons as we can to overcome their addictions.

I strongly urge the Legislature to consider the impact of legislation on the budget before passing legislation. The unfunded programs and studies which I am returning to you without my approval are programs of merit. I strongly encourage you to revisit these issues, and to pass them again with appropriate funding.

With the exception of sections 105, 209, 302, 415, 512, 714, and 814, Senate Bill No. 6152 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,
Booth Gardner, Governor
